

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. NOTES IN SEASON.

GINN & Co. will publish this summer a "New Fourth Music Reader," for boys' and mixed schools, by Luther Whiting Mason and George A. Veazie, Jr.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish at once a new novel by the author of "Thoth," entitled "Toxar." The hero, "Toxar," is one of the strangest characters in recent romance, a crafty British slave who serves a Greek tyrant to his inevitable death.

DE WOLFE, FISKE & Co. have just published "Mystery Evans," a novel describing the romantic life of three "Wellesley" girls, written in a graphic and entertaining manner; also, "What is the Matter, or, our tariff and its taxes," by N. H. Chamberlain, a discussion of the tariff laws from a free-trade point of view.

BENJ. R. TUCKER, Boston, has just published "The Ragpicker of Paris," a masterpiece of fiction, by Félix Pyat. The work was originally written as a play; but the author elaborated it into a novel, shortly before his death, which occurred last summer. In its new form it presents a complete panorama of the Paris of the present century.

HARPER & BROS. have just ready "The Aztec Treasure House," by Thomas Janvier, who, in the form of romance, gives the result of many years of unremitting labor, and furnishes reliable facts regarding Yucatan and Mexico, put together with his special knack at artistic color in word-painting; also a library edition of Walter Besant's new romance of to-day, entitled "Armored of Lyonesse," which was issued a week ago in the Franklin Square Library. The story opens in the Scilly Islands. Both volumes are fully illustrated.

FLEMING H. REVELL, of New York and Chicago, has arranged with the English publishers to issue at once an author's edition of Prof. Dawson's new work, "Modern Ideas of Evolution as Related to Revelation and Science." He also announces that "Greek Pictures Drawn with Pen and Pencil," by the Rev. J. P. Mahaffy, author of "Greek Life and Thought," etc., will be issued in the early autumn. This volume will sustain the high reputation already attained by the Pen and Pencil Series, of which this is the twenty-first volume, Prof. Mahaffy being the acknowledged authority on "Greece."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press for early publication "The Trees of Northeastern America," by Charles S. Newhall, with an introductory note by Prof. N. L. Britton, of Columbia College, which describes all the native trees of the Northern United States east of the Mississippi, as well as mentions the more important naturalized species, with illustrations made from tracings of the leaves of the various trees; "Gustavus Adolphus and the Struggle of Protestantism for Existence," by C. R. L. Fletcher, in the Heroes of the Nations Series; "The Jews under the Romans," by the Rev. M. Douglas Morrison, in the Story of the Nations Series; "Dust and Its Dangers," by Dr. T. M. Prudden, written with the purpose of informing people, in simple language, what the real danger is of acquiring serious disease, especially consumption, by means of dust-laden air, and how this danger may be avoided; "Among Moths and Butterflies," by Julia P. Ballard, a well-written book, on an interesting subject, for young people; and a new and popular edition of "Seven Thousand Words often Mispronounced," which has proved one of the most successful of Phyfe's books. They have also under way "Tabular Views of Universal History," a series of chronological tables presenting, in parallel columns, a record of the more noteworthy events in the history of the world from the earliest times down to 1890, compiled by G. P. Putnam and Lynds E. Jones. The tables are so arranged that the reader can see at a glance who were the contemporary rulers and what was going on in the different realms of the world at any given date, not only as to political changes, but in the progress of society. The earlier tables, prepared by the late G. P. Putnam, have been continued to date, on the same general plan, by Lynds E. Jones.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; in the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl. nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights

B., H. B., comp. Gems from the east: a birthday-book of precepts and axioms; il. by F. W. N. Y., W. Q. Judge, 132 Nassau St., 1890. no paging, il. Tt. bds., net, 75 c.

Bates, Katherine Lee. Hermit Island. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1890.] c. 5-345 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Life upon a desert island off the coast of Maine is the background to this tale for young people. Two sisters as like and as different as ever two sisters were are the central figures. Considerable analytic power is evinced by the author in tracing the play of motives in these little great souls, and in tracing their growth under the influence of the strange lives they came in contact with.

Besant, Walter. Armorel of Lyonesse: a romance of to-day. N. Y., Harper, 1890. 4+396 p. il. O. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 674.) pap., 50 c. Same, Library ed., 4+396 p. D. cl., $1.25.

One of the Scilly isles is the home of Armorel, a young girl of sixteen when the story opens. Her ancestors have been wreckers and smugglers, and have all met violent deaths, owing, it is supposed, to a curse which followed them after her great-great-grandfather had stolen the fortune—a bag of uncut rubies—from a shipwrecked man. Armorel lives alone with her great-great-grandmother and some ancient servitors. The island seems a land of enchantment, full of strange sights and wonderful bits of scenery. It is told how Armorel meets the hero, how she comes into the inheritance of her smuggler ancestors, finds the bag of rubies and hears the story concerning them, and then dedicates her life to finding the descendants of the wronged man.

A French story, in which the hero is seeking a wealthy bride to please his aunt; but he loves his aunt's poor companion, Beatrice, and asks for her hand. To save him from being disinherited the girl refuses him and marries his friend Fabrice, a famous artist; and the hero, Pierre, the Marquis de Pierrepont, finds his wealthy bride. The dramatic part of the story comes after these two marriages, when Pierre and Beatrice again meet, and confess they still love each other.

In this sketch, called by Korolenko "A psychological study," the author has attempted to analyze the inner life of the blind. He has undertaken to lay before the reader not only the psychological processes in the mind of the blind, but their suffering from the lack of sight as well uncomplicated by any untoward circumstances. The subjects for this study are a blind girl, whom the author had known as a child; a boy, a pupil of his, who was gradually losing his sight; and a professional musician, blind from his birth, intellectually gifted, scholarly, and refined.

The firm of North & Stackhouse was brought to an abrupt termination by a ghastly crime; a word written with the blood of the victim furnishes a clue; upon the detectives' way of following up this evidence the story depends, and when the mystery is finally elucidated, it is the unexpected that ends a sensational novel.

Parsons, Albert Ross. Parsifal: the finding of Christ through art; or, Richard Wagner as theologian. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1890. c. 3-113 p. O. cl., $1.

The main text of this work was delivered in the form of a lecture before the Lecture Chapter of the Guild of All Souls Church (Episcopal), New York City, Sunday, May 19, 1889, by invitation of the Guild, through the Rev. R. Heber Newton, rector of the parish. The question the writer seeks to answer is not what Wagner wrote in Parsifal, nor how he wrote it, musically and otherwise, but how he came to write the work at all. Or, in other words, what sort of a personal relation to, and what sort of an interest in Christianity it was which impelled him to the toil involved in the design and execution of such a work.

Pendleton, J. Newspaper reporting in olden time and to-day. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, 1890. 7+245 p. S. (The book-lovers' lib.) cl., $1.25.

A little book dealing simply with the English newspaper reporter and his toil, pointing out how and under what conditions he does his work as the daily historian of the time. There are chapters on reporting in olden time, on the reporter in Parliament, incidents and traditions of "the gallery," reporting to-day in "the house," a gossip about shorthand, and some experiences and adventures of reporters. A concluding chapter gives an interesting list of writings on newspapers and reporters.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 5, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

THE BRITANNICA COPYRIGHT DECISION.

THE dismissal of two demurrers and leave to amend on a third, in three "Encyclopædia Britannica" cases, by Judge Shipman, of the U. S. Circuit Court, though a negative act restating well-understood principles of copyright law, constitutes practically an important step forward in the protection of literary property. The issue was a simple one: whether a writing of an American author, constituting in the sense of the law a book, forfeited copyright by being joined with the writing of other, most of them foreign, authors, into a composite book or encyclopædia. It had been previously held that when American and foreign authors joined in producing a book, the claimant of copyright might be required on interrogatories to declare what part or parts were written by the American, and that these and these only could be held as copyright. The rest of the book any one might reprint. Judge Shipman's action is exactly in line with this. No one may reprint the parts written or, as to maps, prepared and copyrighted by Americans; any one, it is an easy corollary, may reprint the other parts. The logical and probably the actual result of this act, if supported by the decision therein foreshadowed, will be to stop entirely the publication and sale of the photographic reprints marketed by Messrs. Allen, Wanamaker, Funk & Wagnalls, and others, since publication or exposure for sale will entail forfeiture of all copies and civil damages in addition. Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls promptly announce, under date of July 1, that they will not attempt sales beyond completing deliveries to present subscribers. These editions can only be made legal by cutting out all the articles copyrighted by American writers, in which case the fac-simile editions could no longer boast completeness. The general copyright by Messrs. A. & C. Black is of course meaningless, and the illegal use of copyright notice by them may entail the $100 penalty.

Previous to this decision, the "Britannica" war had been raging merrily in the Evening Post, which has been giving pages of its space to attacks by itself and its correspondents on Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls in particular, and to Dr. Funk's replies. The Postifex Maximus has banged away with its usual infallibility and has loftily put aside its victim's tu quoque that it had been cribbing English stories weekly. All the same, the Post has been doing public service by using this instance to awaken public sentiment, and it is unfortunate that a house which has put itself forward as an advocate of international copyright should fall back on the shifts and evasions of Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls' position. The Post was of course promptly able to announce that the contribution of £100 to Messrs. Black by the American firm had been summarily rejected.

Judge Shipman unhesitatingly put aside the claim that Messrs. Black, by taking such advantage as they could of the American copyright law, had "set a trap" for innocent American publishers, who should be righteously resentful of such trickery. Of course, every American publisher who handles such material deliberately considers the risk. Nevertheless there is more in one part of Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls' plea in mitigation than the Post is willing to admit. The absence of an international copyright law puts every careful and upright American publisher at a serious disadvantage. He cannot conduct his business as though there were such a law, for if he pays a foreign author as he would pay an American author, he is in danger of losing his investment at any moment by the competition of a publisher who pays nothing. If he chooses the alternative of publishing only copyright books, he limits his field and his enterprise, and has not a fair show alongside his more "enterprising" competitors. He is therefore forced by the absence of law into the position of Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls, difficult as that is of defence. The Post is in exactly the same position. You, dear Post—to adopt your favorite mode of direct address—know perfectly well that you would not dare to reprint complete stories from Harper's or The Century as you reprint them from the English magazines, on the plea that the publishers like it and that it advertises the excellence of their wares. The absence of law is a premium on dishonesty, and it leads very good people into very bad ways. Let us have LAW.

The Britannica reprints show how an international copyright law would finally work down the price of books. There is no field where cheapness of supply so increases demand. This is what the French and Germans, and even our English brethren have learned, as we have not. The Britannica is an enormously expensive undertaking, well worth the $8 per volume of the original edition. But the number of people who can pay $1.98 for a work even of its intrinsic value, is limited. The number who can pay $2 or $3 a volume is practically unlimited. The true business policy of Messrs. Black, under international copyright, would have been, after a reasonable interval for marketing the original edition, to have provided a cheaper edition, which would meet the market reached by these reprints. They did this in a manner by their arrangement with Messrs. Scribner, but not to the extent they would have been justified in pushing the work, had the market been secured to them. This is exactly what Messrs. Macmillan did with Skeats' magnificent and invaluable Etymological Dictionary; the original edition costs $11, the special American edition, photographed down, only $2.50. In the interest of cheaper books, let us have an international copyright law.

A PROPOSED AUTHORS' PROTECTIVE UNION.

A MOVEMENT is afoot in Brooklyn, N. Y., to form an Authors' Protective Union, and already a meeting has been held to discuss ways and means to incorporate such a society. The principal agitators of this movement claim to have suffered at the hands of their publishers, and have therefore become determined that "the existing relations between authors and publishers, by which the former are almost entirely at the mercy of the latter, shall come to an end." The weaker sex seems to lead in the matter. One of these explained to a reporter of a daily newspaper that "the movement came into existence from the necessity for it. I think it is best there should be such a movement now so as to get ready for the fall. What has been arranged is that there shall be a second meeting in October, and in the meantime the working up of the thing has been given to me. Of course, you know there is a great deal of need for such a society as this."

We would not discourage such a movement—on the contrary, we believe it can be made useful; especially if the proposed "Union" can be shaped so as to protect the average female author from the insane bargain mania. We fear very much that many of the complications complained of by the adherents of the proposed Authors'

Protective Union had their beginning in the determination of making what they considered a "bargain" with a publisher. Now, invariably, no publisher of any standing whatever can afford to make with an unknown author, any more than with any one else, what may be regarded a "bargain" in the common acceptance of the word—that is, to give more for a thing than it is worth. Failing to make arrangements with a publisher of the better sort, these inexperienced authors as a rule fall into the hands of "philistines," who are anxious to concede everything, and who rarely live up to a single one of their promises—their only object being to get all the spare money possible out of their victims. These are "shysters," such as may be found in every walk of life, and any movement that will make their operations less profitable, and in the end drive them out of the field altogether, will be welcomed by every self-respecting man in the trade. But we would caution the promoters of this incipient protective union to be heedful of their tongues, and not to confound the honorable men of the profession with dishonorable interlopers, lest their cause be handicapped at the start.

vs. } No. 4719.
The Henry G. Allen Company. }

SHIPMAN, J.: These are demurrers to the respective bills in equity for injunctions against alleged infringements of copyrights.

The important facts which are alleged in No. 4718 are as follows:

Four of the plaintiffs are members of the firm of Adam and Charles Black, of Edinburgh, Scotland, are aliens, and subjects of the Queen of Great Britain. The fifth and remaining plaintiff is Francis A. Walker, a citizen of the State of Massachusetts and of the United States.

The said firm, whose members I shall hereafter call the Messrs. Black for the sake of brevity, are the publishers of the well-known work entitled "The Encyclopædia Britannica, Ninth Edition," which is made up of articles or books, each of which is, in a large number of instances, an independent book or treatise. Three of the articles contained in the twenty-third volume of the Encyclopædia, hereinafter referred to, have been copyrighted in the United States. One of these articles, entitled "United States, Part III., Political Geography and Statistics," was written by said Walker, who secured a copyright thereof, according to the provisions of the statutes of the United States, for the term of twenty-eight years from February 13, 1888. In the several copies of every edition published the following words were inserted on the title-page: "Copyright, 1888, by Francis A. Walker." On or about April 1, 1888, said Walker assigned and transferred to the Messrs. Black an interest in said copyright, that is to say, the said Walker did assign and transfer to your orators, constituting the firm of Adam and Charles Black, the sole and exclusive right and liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, copying, and reading during the whole term of the said copyright, the said book entitled "United States, Part III., Political Geography and Statistics," in connection with, and as part of, their said twenty-third volume of their said Encyclopædia, designated "Encyclopædia Britannica, Ninth Edition," and not otherwise, the said Walker retaining the right to print, publish, copy, and read the said copyrighted book in every form and manner, other than as a part of said "Encyclopædia Britannica."

The bill alleges that if said Walker did not, by said agreement, assign to the Messrs. Black an interest in said copyright, the said agreement was an exclusive and irrevocable license to them to print and sell, during the term of the copyright, the said book or article, in connection with and as part of said twenty-third volume.

The copyrighted book was printed and sold in connection with and as part of said volume. The whole of the copyright, except the right to use the subject thereof in the Encyclopædia, has always remained in said Walker.

The defendant has printed and sold, without the consent of the plaintiffs, said copyrighted article in and as a part of its reprint of said Encyclopædia, except that it has omitted the copyright notice upon the title-page, and threatens to continue to print and sell the same as part of its twenty-third volume.

The bill alleges that the acts of the defendant are a great and continuing injury to each of the plaintiffs, and prays for an injunction and an account of the profits arising to the defendant from the sale of said volume.

In No. 4750 the Messrs. Black and John McAlan, a citizen of the State of New York, and administrator of the estate of the late Alexander Johnston, who was, when in life, a citizen of the State of New Jersey and of the United States, are plaintiffs. Mr. McAlan was appointed administrator by the Surrogate of the County of Mercer, in the State of New Jersey.

Prof. Johnston was the author of a book entitled "United States, Part I., History and Constitution," and secured a copyright of the same according to the provisions of the Statutes of the United States relating to copyrights. The other facts which have been stated in regard to the assignment of Walker's copyright, his title and the acts of the defendant exist in regard to Prof. Johnston, and the two bills are substantially like each other, mutatis mutandis. The difference between the cases is that in No. 4750 a foreign administrator is the plaintiff.

The case stated in No. 4719 is as follows:

The two plaintiffs are citizens of the State of New York, and partners by the name of Charles Scribner's Sons.

Two other persons, Hewes and Gannett, both citizens of the United States, were the authors of a book entitled "Scribner's Statistical Atlas of the United States," and before depositing a printed title thereof with the Librarian of Congress and before publication, assigned and transferred to the plaintiffs all their right in said book, and the right to copyright it, and the plaintiffs became the proprietors of said book. The plaintiffs printed and published the book, and on December 29, 1883, secured a copyright thereof in accordance with the provisions of the Revised Statutes, and gave notice of such copyright by inserting on the page following the title-page in the several copies of every edition the words, "Copyright, 1883, by Charles Scribner's Sons."

Afterwards the plaintiffs printed and published, and licensed others to print and publish, certain maps and charts which constituted a part of said book, but gave notice of the copyright by causing to be inscribed upon the face of each copy of every map or chart thus printed by themselves or others, the words "Copyright, 1883, by Charles Scribner's Sons."

The defendant, since May 1, 1889, and without the plaintiffs' consent, published and sold a volume, entitled "The Encyclopædia Britannica, Ninth Edition, Popular Reprint, Vol. 23," in which it printed eight maps which were copied from said copyrighted book.

The bill prays for an injunction against selling copies of the book which shall contain in part said infringing maps, and for an accounting of profits.

The cause of demurrer in the two Black cases which goes to the substance of the bills, is, that they show no substantial right or equity in or on behalf of the plaintiffs and that the acts of the defendant are not contrary to law. The point is this:

Does the fact that the proprietor of a book, copyrighted in this country, has permitted an alien publisher of an encyclopædia to publish his book as a part of such encyclopædia, enable another person, without other authority, to publish in this country the copyrighted article as a part of his reprint of such encyclopædia, the remainder of what is publici juris?

It will not probably be seriously denied that a citizen of the United States, who is the owner of a copyright can assign the whole of such copyright to a foreigner. "A non-resident foreigner is not within our copyright law, but he may take and hold by assignment a copyright granted to one of our own citizens." (Carte v. Evans, 27 Fed. Rep., 861.)

It is, however, contended that while a copyright may be assigned, as a whole, by a written instrument, it cannot be subdivided, but is an entire thing, indivisible, and incapable of apportionment. The statute simply provides that the copyrights are assignable at law, by an instrument in writing, and obviously the whole or an undivided part thereof may be assigned, so that the copyright may become "the individual property of joint owners." (Drone on Copyright, 368.)

To what greater extent copyrights may be subdivided, at law, the statute does not declare, and in this case it is not necessary to inquire.

Under Section 4964, a license in writing by instrument duly witnessed may be given by the proprietor to any other person to the extent described in such license, and there is no restriction upon the power of the proprietor to assign, or transfer, in equity, an exclusive right to use the copyrighted book, in a particular manner or for particular purposes, upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon. In such case, the legal title remains in the proprietor, and a beneficial interest, to the extent which is agreed upon, rests in the other party, who has acquired an equitable right in the copyright, and who will be properly styled an assignee of an equitable interest. (Curtis on Copyright, 225.)

In these two cases, as the Messrs. Black and the proprietors of the legal title are all made parties, and properly so, whether the Blacks are licensees or are owners of an equitable interest in the copyrights (Goodyear v. New Jersey Central R. R. Co., 1 Fish, 626; Goodyear v. Allyn, 3 Fish, 374). I do not conceive it necessary to determine at this time by what name the publishers' interest in the copyrights may be more properly called.

The question is reduced to this: Does the fact that the copyrighted books were inserted by permission in an encyclopædia, as a part thereof, permit an unauthorized use of them in a reprint of such work?

If a poem or an essay for which a copyright had been secured in this country by the author, a citizen of the United States, should be permitted to be inserted in a volume of poems or essays, a part of which was publici juris, it could not reasonably be claimed that the author had thereby abandoned his copyright, and that his book could be reprinted by itself without his consent in this country.

It cannot be contended that the defendant would have a right to reprint Walker's or Johnston's treatises in separate volumes, without the consent of the respective proprietors. Can then the poem or essay be printed, without the consent of the author, as a part of an unauthorized reprint of the entire volume?

The defendant takes the affirmative in these cases, because, 1st, the work as a whole is a foreign work and the bulk of the volume is publici juris, and, 2d, because the insertion of Walker's and Johnston's articles in the twenty-third volume was for the manifest purpose of preventing citizens of the United States from reprinting that volume, which would have been, but for those articles, publici juris, and therefore was an attempt which will not receive the favor of a court of equity.

Upon the first point, there is no vital difference in regard to the infringement of an author's copyright, whether it is printed in a separate volume or in connection with authorized material. If the author has a valid copyright, it is valid against any unpermitted reprint of his book, and the fact that his book is bound up in a volume with fifty other books, each of which is open to the public, is immaterial.

The argument of the defendant upon this part of the case is mainly directed in support of the second point, and is this: The Encyclopædia Britannica, as a whole, was the production of aliens, who could obtain no copyright in this country, and is a work of great value to the whole people. Except for the introduction of a few articles which were copyrighted in the United States, it could have been reprinted here in cheap form, and the defendant, when he entered upon his undertaking, had good reason to suppose that it could be thus reprinted.

The employment of citizens of the United States to write articles which were to be used in some of its volumes and the purchase of an interest in the copyright of such articles, were an attempt to deprive the defendant and other like-minded persons of a privilege which they would otherwise have enjoyed and were for the purpose of giving the foreign owners of the encyclopædia an advantage in the sales of the work in this country; the attempt contained an element of unfairness, because the book, if written by foreigners, could be reproduced here, and the complainants have only a color of copyright interest, and therefore should not receive the sanction of the courts.

The statements in the preceding paragraph, with the exception that the effect of the plaintiff's interest in the Johnston and Walker's articles had an element of unfairness in it, are true, and present by themselves no adequate argument in favor of the defendant. The acts of Johnston and Walker were in accordance with the statutes of the United States, the acts of the Messrs. Black were for the purpose of making a use of the statutes which might assist them against pecuniary loss, and give them a more unobstructed field for their large commercial venture. The disputed point is whether there was an element of fraud or injustice in the scheme which would prevent a court from regarding it with favor.

There was no impropriety in soliciting competent citizens of the United States to write upon its history, and I can perceive no unfairness or injustice towards the defendant company in the plaintiffs' use of the copyright-laws for their pecuniary advantage, and as a weapon with which to repel a competition which is more enterprising than considerate. There was no trap set for the defendant, whose officers must have known that the Ninth Edition was, in great part, a new work, and that its contributors would not be confined to one country. It must be recollected that the question now to be considered does not relate to the extent of the decree, but whether the bills show a right to any decree; and it will be a subject for future consideration, whether the prayer of the bill should be granted to its full extent.

Several objections of a more technical character are made to the bills. They are demurred to for insufficiency of the affidavits. Bills, in certain cases, which are specified in the Chancery text-books, are required to be verified by the oath of the party, and the New York Chancery practice required that bills for injunctions should be thus verified. In the federal courts, whenever a bill for an injunction is to be used as evidence, either upon a motion for preliminary injunction or in any other way, it must be verified, but there is no imperative rule requiring verification of a bill, at the time it is signed, which prays only for a common injunction (Woodworth v. Edwards, 3 W. & M., 120; Hughes v. No. Pac. R. Co., 18 Fed. Rep., 106).

The next alleged cause of demurrer is that the bills are uncertain and contradictory, because it does not appear whether the alien plaintiffs claim as co-owners of the copyright or as licensees.

The bills allege the terms of the agreement of assignment, and then say that if, by such agreement, an interest in the copyright was not assigned and transferred to the Messrs. Black the agreement was an exclusive license. That is a correct form of equity pleading. The facts are stated and the conclusions therefrom are stated in an alternative form.

The next point is that it does not appear that the agreements or assignments between the authors and the Messrs. Black were in writing.

The bills declare in substance that the complainants are the only persons who have a legal or equitable title to the copyrights, and allege the nature and extent of the equitable title, and that it was acquired by assignment from the proprietors.

It is further averred that the complainants are well seized of said copyright, and are the owners thereof. It is not necessary, where all the legal and equitable owners are joined, to state the formalities or the mode of conveyance by which the equitable interests became vested in the co-complainants, and if the owner of the entire legal title is a complainant, it is immaterial whether the equitable owners became vested by an instrument in writing or by parol.

The eighth cause of demurrer is to the effect that the bill of complaint does not show that the ownership of the copyright is vested in any of the Messrs. Black. I have so fully remarked upon the theory of the bill and of the law in regard to legal and equitable ownership of copyright that it is not necessary to discuss this point further.

The seventh cause is that the charge of infringement is not made upon knowledge. It is made positively, as a fact, but the affidavit does not assert that the averment is within the knowledge of the affiant. The averment is sufficient and the necessity of an affidavit has heretofore been considered.

The ninth, tenth, and eleventh points do not seem to me to require extended remark.

The defendant has also demurred in No. 4750 upon a ground peculiar to that case, viz., that McAlan, being a foreign administrator, and never having taken out ancillary letters of administration in the State of New York, cannot sue in the courts of that State. [After examining this point and citing authorities the Court sustained the demurrer, with leave to the complainant to amend (if ancillary letters of administration shall be taken out in the State of New York) within thirty days after the date of the order upon the demurrer.]

In No. 4719, additional and different reasons of demurrer are relied upon.

The principal new causes are that the alleged assignment of the inchoate right is not averred by the bill to have been in writing, and that it is clear upon the face of the bill that the reprinted maps were never legally copyrighted by the complainants.

The position of the defendant is that an atlas is a bundle of maps; that there is no such thing as a manuscript of a map; and therefore the manuscript cannot be transferred to the assignee; and furthermore, that every assignment of an inchoate right before copyright is obtained must be in writing. The alleged invalidity of the copyright is upon the ground that the book or atlas was copyrighted, whereas it is said that each map should have been copyrighted.

A statistical atlas is a book of maps, tables, and printed text, and is not simply a bundle of maps, and is properly copyrighted as a whole. There was no necessity of copyrighting separately each map in the book. The unauthorized reprinting of eight maps from this volume, it being alleged that all of them were originated and prepared by the authors, is an infringement of the same character as the reprinting of original statistical tables or other printed matter. An inchoate right to a copyright may, prior to the taking of the copyright, be transferred by parol. (Lawrence v. Dana, 4 Cliff, 1; Callaghan v. Myers, 128 U. S., 625.)

The other additional points referred to the averments of the bill in regard to the plaintiffs' licensees and to the propriety of attaching to the bill the maps as exhibits. The pleader attached to the bill copies of the infringed and of the infringing maps as part thereof. His course in regard to these two particulars was proper.

The demurrers in Nos. 4718 and 4719 are overruled. The demurrer in No. 4750, is sustained, with leave to amend as hereinbefore stated.

FUNK & WAGNALLS WITHDRAW THEIR BRITANNICA REPRINT.

TO THE PUBLIC: The Messrs. Black, of Edinburgh, have just notified us of their unwillingness to accept a share of the profits of our sales of the "Britannica," declining the three hundred pounds sterling which we, up to date, had sent them as an individual courtesy, in the absence of the national courtesy of a recognition of the services of foreign publishers and authors. It has been our custom, in the handling of foreign books, to supply in what seemed to us a just and generous way this want of national courtesy. This we have done voluntarily, and, we think, the sober, second sense of the public will say generously. We believe it true that an examination of our royalty books by any intelligent committee of business-men will prove that we have paid to foreign holders of copyright three times as much as has been paid by any other leading American house, on an average, for each foreign book that we have placed upon the market. We will be glad to open our royalty books for an exhaustive investigation along this line.

We have decided to receive no further orders for the "Britannica," completing only unfilled contracts or orders. We take this step because we do not wish to be placed by our opponents (whose virulence seems to have overstepped all bounds of fairness) in the false position of opposing international copyright—a measure in which we heartily believe, and for which we have often spoken and labored. Some honest friends of this measure, on whose judgment we have long placed great reliance, assure us that the bitter controversy which is growing out of the sale of the "Britannica" by us will prove a serious stumbling-block to this measure before Congress. Out of deference to the judgment of these friends we will gladly forego what pecuniary advantages might result to us by a continuance of this sale.

We must, however, in this connection, call attention to what we are sure is a great mistake that some of the more noisy friends of copyright have made in the present controversy; that is, in claiming that property right exists in published ideas independent of statutory law. In selling the "Britannica," or in continuing its sale, we do not believe that we have violated, or would violate, any moral law—much less any statutory law. If the property right inheres, it is perpetual, and, hence, to the mind of the public, would make legally possible the formation of a kind of a hereditary literary aristocracy, based upon a monopoly descending from generation to generation. The American public is in no mood just now to grow enthusiastic over any measure that squints that way, and, hence, will defeat every time international copyright thus injudiciously agitated. The right theory, we are sure, in reference to copyright is that which controls in regard to patents—the reward theory; that is, that the nation, as a reward for the services rendered, gives for a number of years an exclusive control of the sales of the book or patent.

Will the friends of copyright permit us to urge in this connection that they re-read what Chancellor Kent, the great legal commentator (vol. 2, page 375), says of the copyright trials in England, which finally established, in 1774, the present common law rulings in reference to copyright? Also, it will not serve them amiss if, in connection with Judge Shipman's rulings, they re-read carefully the syllabus and opinion of Judge Butler in the application for an injunction by the Scribners against the Stoddart reprints, as found in The Reporter (9th vol., page 137).

SPURIOUS AUTOGRAPH LETTERS OF SCOTCH AUTHORS.

A LONDON newspaper some months ago warned collectors against the extensive fabrication of autograph letters of Burns, Scott, Carlyle, and others that was going on "at or near Edinburgh." A note of this warning was made at the time in the New York Times, and the note has since reached the eye of Mr. James Stillie, of Edinburgh. "As an old bookseller and dealer in manuscripts," says Mr. Stillie in a letter to the Times, "I beg most sincerely and also in the name of my brethren, to assure you that there is not a word of truth in that paragraph." Mr. Stillie is a venerable bookseller. Lord Rosebery, in his recent address at the opening of the Edinburgh Public Library, given by Mr. Carnegie, referred to Mr. Stillie as having "acted as printer's devil to Sir Walter Scott, and waited on the stairs reading the proof-sheets of the novels while the Great Unknown, as he still was then, was correcting other proof-sheets for him to take away."

IMMORAL LITERATURE IN BELGIUM.

THE scandal caused by the sale of immoral literature at the bookstalls of the railway stations in Belgium has reached such a height that M. Van den Peereboom, who is the Minister of Posts, Telegraphs, and Railroads, has, according to a correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, been forced to adopt the extraordinary course of suppressing the sale of books on all property belonging to the Railroad Department. All bookstalls at the various railway stations have been abolished. Although the remedy thus applied is of a singularly arbitrary nature, yet no objection has been publicly expressed against its enforcement. This is perhaps due to the fact that the newspapers believe that it will largely increase their circulation. For being now the only form of literature permitted to be sold at the railway stations, travellers will no longer be tempted into buying lighter forms of reading.

THE VATICAN'S HEBREW BIBLE.

A SYNDICATE of Jews has offered $200,000 for the Vatican copy of the Hebrew Bible. This is a report in Europe which the Pall Mall Gazette says is confirmed. The Gazette gives the following account of previous negotiations for the purchase of this book: "In 1512, when Pope Julius II. was desperately in need of funds in order to keep up the 'Holy League' against Louis XII. of France, he was approached by the Jews as his successor in the chair of St. Peter is now. They offered a comparatively small sum at first, but subsequently increased the amount, tendering at the same time a blank order on one of their number in Venice to be filled up in ducats according to the weight of the Bible, as against an equal weight of pure gold. The Pope got so far as to weigh the precious volume, and found that it scaled 325 pounds avoirdupois, or 433 pounds-odd troy, which at £4 the ounce, then about the value of gold, represented the enormous sum of £20,784 and a fraction. This amount in its equivalent the Jews pressed on the Pope, who, however, either because he found himself unable to part with property in which he would not seem to have more than a life interest, or on account of the pressure brought to bear on him, declined after much hesitation to part with the volume. Should the present negotiations be more successful the amount now offered will be the largest sum ever paid for a book, whether in manuscript or in print."

OBITUARY.

EDWARD J. McDONNELL.

EDWARD J. McDONNELL, whose death was briefly noted last week, met with his death on an express train bound from Chicago to New York, June 24. The train was derailed at Copetown, Canada, on the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway, and hurled down an embankment. Mr. McDonnell was killed outright. He and his wife were in the sleeper "Kinderhook." He was half way out of the window and was plinned under the heavy coach when it landed in the ravine. He was crushed to death. He was on his way, in company with his wife, to New York to take the steamer for Europe, where they intended to spend the summer. Mrs. McDonnell was also seriously injured about the head.

Mr. McDonnell was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1849. When nearly eighteen years old he came to New York City, where he entered the employ of Wm. R. Grace & Co., by whom he was sent to Lima, Peru. The southern climate did not agree with him, so he had to abandon very bright prospects and return to the United States. Shortly after the great fire he settled in Chicago and with his brother, Wm. M., established in 1881 the firm of McDonnell Bros., subscription booksellers in the Grannis Block. About that time he had obtained control of "Harper's History of the War," which made the basis of a successful business. They were burned out in the Grannis Block and in 1885 settled down at 185 Dearborn Street.

Mr. McDonnell was a pushing, energetic business man, and exceptionally popular, his sterling business character and many amiable personal qualities having made him very highly regarded in a wide circle of acquaintances. Ten years ago he married Miss O'Neill, of Port Huron, Mich., a member of a well-known family of that place, whose brother was a few years since Mayor of the city. Three little children survive the deceased.

The death is announced of Mr. F. A. Suttaby, formerly of the old-established publishing firm of Suttaby & Co., in which he relinquished his interest several months ago, when the house was turned into a limited company, and the result not being satisfactory, the business is, we understand, now wound up.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE London Athenaeum for July 5 contains articles on the continental literature of the past twelve months. They include Belgium by MM. E. de Laveleye and P. Fredericq, Bohemia by M. Cermák, Denmark by M. Petersen, France by M. J. Reinach, Germany by Hofrath Zimmermann, Greece by M. Lambros, Italy by Commendatore Bonghi, Norway by M. Jæger, and Russia by M. Milyoukov.

THE first number of the American Etcher has just been issued by George F. Kelly & Co., 31 Union Square, New York. In form it is a large quarto, giving eight pages of letterpress, and as a supplement enclosed, a fine etching on Japan paper, in a mat. The reading-matter is chiefly an article by Frederick Keppel on "What Etchings Are," notes on general art and an article on art in Chicago. The etching is a good piece of work, easily worth twice as much as the cost of a single number of the magazine.

THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH has resigned the editorship of The Atlantic Monthly and has been succeeded by Horace E. Scudder. Mr. Aldrich succeeded Mr. Howells in this important position in 1881, and has edited the magazine on the scholarly lines set by his predecessors. Mr. Horace E. Scudder has already contributed very largely to the Atlantic and is widely known as a successful author. Among his well-known books are "Seven Little People and Their Friends;" "The Dwellers in Five-Sisters Court;" "Noah Webster" in the American Men of Letters Series; and "Stories from My Attic." He is editor of the American Commonwealths Series.

PERRY MASON & Co., publishers of the Youth's Companion, will at once begin the erection of a building for its business on the corner of Columbus Avenue and Berkeley Street, Boston. The building will be a large one, having a frontage on Columbus Avenue of more than 200 feet and on Berkeley Street of 100 feet. It is intended to use the whole building for the purposes of the paper. Probably there are comparatively few people who realize to what size the Youth's Companion business has grown. The paper was the first weekly paper for young people published in the United States, and probably in the world. It began its existence in the year 1827, and its publisher was Nathaniel Willis, the father of N. P. Willis, the poet. At this time Boston had but a few thousand population, and the whole United States had probably less than $12,000,000 people. During all the history of the Companion it has had but two managements, and both have followed out the lines laid down by its founder in the prospectus of the first number, published April 16, 1827. He wrote:

"This is a day of peculiar care for youth. Patriots and philanthropists are making rapid improvements in every branch of education. Literature, science, liberty, and religion are extending in the earth. The human mind is becoming emancipated from the bondage of ignorance and superstition. Our children are born to higher destinies than their fathers, they will be actors in a far advanced period of the church and the world. Let their minds be formed, their hearts prepared, and their characters moulded for the scenes and the duties of a brighter day."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

GEN. LONGSTREET is understood to be engaged on a history of the civil war and especially of the campaigns in which he had a share.

MISS MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL (whose novel "Throckmorton" is about to be published by D. Appleton & Co.) is a young lady now living in Washington City. She is, says Murat Halstead, "a niece of ex-President Tyler, and her father was a lawyer of distinction in Virginia. Her first dash in literature was in Lippincott's Magazine, to which she contributed a number of Russian stories. In 1886 'Maid Marion' appeared in Lippincott's, and was a great success, necessitating an extra edition of the magazine. She was asked by the editor to write him a complete novel, and 'Hale-Weston' was the result. She soon completed a novel, 'The Berkeleys and Their Neighbors,' which was recognized as something remarkable for its force and naturalness, and the reviewers had many pleasant things to say. Miss Seawell's latest success is the taking of the five-hundred-dollar prize offered by the Youth's Companion, of Boston, with her story 'Little Jarvis' (which will be published in the autumn by D. Appleton & Co.). The merit most characteristic and highly prized in the writings of Miss Seawell is the truth to life of her pen-paintings of Virginia and the Virginians, especially those phases that are marked under the revolutionary changes of the war that broke up the old ways, and infused so much that was peculiar in current and pathetic in ancient association. Miss Seawell is a true Southern woman, tall, graceful and gracious, animated and handsome."

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

A COMPLETE catalogue of the late Dr. Döllinger's library is in course of preparation, and will be published at an early date. Copies of it may be procured by applying to Fräulein Döllinger, at No. 11 Von der Tannstrasse, Munich, Germany.

HENRY FROWDE, London, will publish in the fall a "Guide-Book to Books." This will contain lists of books that may be recommended as of value in every department of knowledge, and brief notes will be added, where necessary, explanatory of the scope and nature of the works mentioned in it.

THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS CO. have become the General Agents for America for the "Directory of Technical Literature," published by Fritz von Szczepanski, Leipsic. This claims to be a catalogue of all books, annuals, and journals published in America, England, France, and Germany, including their relations to legislation, hygiene, and daily life, aiming to give to the technologist the most recent and reliable information concerning publications dealing with the arts, and to the theorist an accurate index of general literature called for in his studies. The directory gives title, contents, list of illustrations, publisher, size, and price of the various publications and periodicals bearing upon technology throughout the civilized world.

Catalogue of New and Second-hand Books.—E. Dufossé, 27 Rue Guénégaud, Paris, Une importante collection de cartes, plans et vues relatifs à L'Afrique et aux îles africaines, (7th ser., No. 1, 34 p. 16°;) also, Une importante collection de cartes, plans et vues relatifs à l'Asie et à l'Archipel Indien. (7th ser., No. 2, 34 p. 16°.)—Miller's Old Bookstore, 2 Arcade Court, Chicago, Americana, local histories, etc. (June, 167 titles.)—David Nutt, 270 Strand, London, Miscellaneous with a collection of early printed books from the library of Sir Edward Sullivan. (No. 19, 450 titles.)—Henry Stevens & Son, 39 Great Russell St., London, Americana. (No. 20, 34 p. 16°.)—C. L. Van Langenhuysen, 434 Cingel, Amsterdam, Bibliothèque de Mgr. O. A. Spitzen, especially rich in works on Thomas à Kempis and editions of the Imitatione Christi. (1254 titles.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUBURN, ME.—Haskell & Reynolds, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

BRYAN, TEX.—Mayers & Haswell, booksellers and stationers, have succeeded the old firm of Connico & Haswell.

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA.—Mullin & Vorhes, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. Geo. A. Mullin will continue the business under his own name. Mr. Vorhes has become proprietor of the Bank of Maynard, Ia.

CINCINNATI, O.—Samuel C. Cox & Co., booksellers, have sold out.

CLYDE, KANSAS.—Isaac Kauffmann has succeeded E. De Bray, bookseller.

DELAWARE, WIS.—A. J. Woodbury, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Phoenix & Gates.

FT. SMITH, ARK.—Wright & Bradley booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—L. B. Brewer, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

GRAYVILLE, ILL.—T. J. Matthews, bookseller, has sold out to J. A. Shelton.

HARVARD, NEB.—George W. Martin, bookseller, has gone out of business.

LIGONIER, IND.—J. H. Hoffman, bookseller and stationer, having been appointed postmaster at that place, his business will be continued under the management of Grant Himes.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—The Baptist Book Concern has purchased the book-store of Charles T. Dearing for about $50,000 the transfer to take place July 1. Mr. Dearing, who will remain with the new establishment, is well known in the Southern book trade. He began when a boy with a little news-stand on Third Street, between Market and Jefferson, and by politeness to his customers and persistent attention to business he built up the best newspaper trade in the city. As he prospered in business he enlarged his stock, and finally moving to the corner of Third and Jefferson, renting the large store, where he did so well that the adjoining store was taken and both thrown into one. Next he bought the entire property and handsomely improved it. For several years he has kept one of the best general book-stores in Kentucky. This stock will soon be greatly enlarged to adapt it to the demands of a Baptist Book Concern for Southern Baptists, who number 1,200,000. By the terms of the agreement Mr. Dearing will shortly arrange to dispose of the Fourth Street branch house, so that his undivided attention will be given to the Baptist Book Concern.

LYONS, N. Y.—Mrs. H. B. (Carrie R.) Lent, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by M. M. & C. Young.

MARION, O.—C. G. Wiant, bookseller and stationer, has dropped wall-paper from his line, and with newly-papered store, new counters, shelves, and other improvements, is prepared to push the legitimate trade in books and stationery to the full extent.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—F. T. Jarman, bookseller, has disposed of his stationery stock to H. J. Augur, who will occupy half of Mr. Jarman's store at 123 Church St., with a fine stock of art goods. Mr. Jarman will continue his business in the same lines as for nearly forty years past.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Wm. Muhl, bookseller and stationer, is dead.

NEW YORK CITY.—The F. A. Stokes Co. and O. Wiegand the bookbinder had their premises damaged by smoke and water resulting from a fire in the building they occupy at the corner of University Place and 9th St. As the Stokes have only temporary offices their loss was not serious.

NEW YORK CITY.—Fletcher H. Bangs, assignee of the late firm of White & Allen, advertises that all creditors and persons having claims against Joel Parker White and Frank Allen, composing the firm of White & Allen, and of Joel Parker White individually, are required to present their claims, with the vouchers therefor duly verified, to him, the substituted assignee, for the benefit of the creditors, at his office, No. 739 Broadway, New York, on or before the tenth (10th) day of September, 1890.

PORTLAND, IND.—C. S. Wakenight, bookseller, has sold out.

ST. CLOUD, MINN.—W. C. Montgomery, bookseller, has sold out.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation a book of stories for girls by Nora Perry.

THE second edition of "Aryan Sun-Myths; the Origin of Religions," will be published by the author, Sarah E. Titcomb (author of "Early New England People," etc.), 83 Pinckney Street, Boston, Mass.

STREET & SMITH will publish at once in their Secret Service Series "Old Specie," by Dr. Alex. Robertson; and in their Select Series an interesting story by Amanda M. Douglass, entitled "A Midnight Marriage."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY announce a goodly list of books in press. In fiction they will issue "Pearl Powder," by Anna Edwards, and new novels by Mrs. H. Lovell-Cameron, Mrs. E. Kennard and Hawley Smart—for all of which they have made special contracts with the authors. Of literary value will be "Gleanings for the Curious from the Harvest Fields of Literature, a melange of excerpts" collated by C. C. Bombaugh; and the "Historic Note-Book," by the Rev. E. Cobham Brewer, compiler of "The Reader's Handbook," "Dictionary of Phrase and Fable," etc. Medicine will be represented in "Regional Anatomy: its relation to medicine and surgery," by Dr. George McClellan; a fifth edition of "A System of Oral Surgery," by Dr. James E. Garretson; a seventh edition of Dr. J. M. Da Costa's "Medical Diagnosis," and "Sewage Disposal Works," by W. Santo Crimp. The remaining announcements are: "Classical Picture Gallery," one hundred and forty-four plates of the choicest examples from European collections, edited by Prof. von Reber and Dr. Bayerdorfer; "European Days and Ways," by Alfred E. Lee; and "In and Out of Book and Journal," by A. Sydney Roberts, illustrated by Van Shaik.

GEORGE P. HUMPHREY, Rochester, N. Y., may be congratulated upon having issued a book that for daintiness of manufacture compares favorably with the work of some of our leading publishers. Alexander Smith's celebrated book of essays written in the country, entitled "Dreamthorpe," which raised endless discussion in literary London more than a generation ago, has been brought out in a neat 16mo volume, delicately printed and chastely bound in smooth green cloth. It contains a portrait of the author and other illustrations by Louis J. Rhead. Alexander Smith was born in Scotland in 1830. He was first destined for the ministry, but circumstances made him a designer of lace patterns in a Glasgow factory. From there he published his first book, which made a sensation among leading writers of his day and brought him the Secretaryship of the University of Edinburgh, which he retained through life. His style was the admiration of Charles Lamb. The essays included in this pretty volume are: "On the writing of essays;" "On death and the fear of dying;" "William Dunbar;" "A lark's flight;" "Christmas;" "Men of letters;" "On the importance of a man to himself;" "A shelf in my bookcase;" "Geoffrey Chaucer;" "Books and Gardens;" and "On Vagabonds."

WE regret to hear that Mr. Thomas Nelson, of the publishing house of Thomas Nelson & Sons, is seriously ill.

THE biography of Sarah Bernhardt, which is in preparation, will not be ready till September. Special interest will, it is understood, attach to numerous letters of the actress, which the work will contain.

WILLIAM ANDREWS, of Hull, proposes to publish in November an illustrated volume descriptive of "Obsolete Punishments." It will deal with the docking-stool, branks, pillory, etc., and will contain a number of quaint pictures from old prints and drawings.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, London, has just issued Archdeacon Farrar's impressions of the Passion Play at Ober-Ammergau. The book is daintily gotten up, and contains views of that small Bavarian village which is now attracting a weekly average of four thousand visitors from all parts of the globe.

THE Russian police have seized all the copies of the memoirs of the Princess Dolgorouki, which has just been published in St. Petersburg. The book is said to be exceedingly interesting in some parts, on account of the writer's knowledge of some inside facts concerning the Imperial family, and for a very graphic account of the occurrences which took place on the eve of the assassination of the late Czar.

BROCKHAUS & Co., of Leipzig, have secured the rights for the publication of the book Emin Pasha is writing about his life and discoveries in Africa. Emin, in accepting the publishers' offer, sent word that it would be some time before he could complete the book, particularly as the new expedition that has taken him into the interior again will, for the present, demand about all his time and activity.

CHARLES BOOTH, the author of "Life and Labor in East London," is well on his way with the second volume of his great survey of industrial London, which is to be completed in four volumes. The second instalment will probably be ready next March, and will be general, not local, in its scope, with special reference, however, to the southern and central districts. It will be illustrated by a "poverty-map for all London," carefully colored to show the various grades of social misery described in the work on the East End. Another special feature will be a minute and elaborate examination of the social problems which the work of the Board schools has brought to light. The publishers are Williams & Norgate, London.

THE long-sought source of the "Rules of Civility," contained in a boyish manuscript of George Washington, has, so says the London Athenaeum, been discovered. Mr. M. D. Conway was led to suspect a French origin by the discovery that Washington's pastor at the time (1745) was a Huguenot named Marye. On the suggestion of Dr. Garnett, of the British Museum, Mr. Conway examined an old work in Latin and French, "Communis Vitæ Inter Homines Scita," and has found in it nearly all of Washington's 110 rules. In 1888 Dr. Toner printed in Washington City a transcript of the "Rules," so far as they are now legible. An edition, with the omissions supplied within brackets, and a monograph on the whole subject, will be prepared by Mr. Conway.

THE SANDUSKY CRAYON CO.,

OF SANDUSKY, OHIO.

OF CLEVELAND, OHIO,

SOLE SELLING AGENTS.

THE above Crayon Co. has just completed its new Factory for the manufacture of Crayons, at Sandusky, Ohio, and in all its appointments, machinery, etc., it is FIRST-CLASS. We feel confident in recommending most highly the quality of its production, an extra price being paid for raw material, so as to absolutely assure a uniform and a fine grade of goods. Notwithstanding this, we shall at all times be prepared to quote its production at specially low rates.

All machinery being new and its operation being in charge of men of wide experience in this line, an A1 grade, both of white and enamelled Crayons, for school use, and of Carpenter's chalk as well, can be guaranteed.

We solicit the orders of JOBBERS, and are ready to quote rates for immediate delivery, also to make contracts for the season's supply.

As we are the SOLE SALES AGENTS FOR THE UNITED STATES AND EUROPE for this Company, all communications in shape of orders, requests for quotations, etc., should be addressed to ANOTHER BROWNIE BOOK, by PALMER COX, will be issued early in the fall by The Century Co., New York. The first Brownie book was issued three years ago, and proved to be one of the best selling books of the season. It is a book that "takes" well with children, and, although 25,000 copies have been sold, there is still a demand for it. The new book will be like the first in size and style of binding, but a new cover design, printed in colors, has been made for it, and the contents are entirely new. It will be bound in substantial board covers, and will contain 150 large pages, describing in verse more adventures of the amusing Brownies.* The illustrations—which are the first things a purchaser of books for children looks for—number between two and three hundred, and are just as comical as can be. "Another Brownie Book" (that is the name of it), will retail at $1.50; trade price, $1.00.

* Brownies, like fairies and goblins, are imaginary little sprites, who are supposed to delight in harmless pranks and helpful deeds. They work and sport, while weary households sleep, and never allow themselves to be seen by mortal eyes.

Sergel's International Library.

Under this general name Sergel & Co. will publish a series of popular novels by the best foreign and American authors. An effort will be made to issue the books in a style commensurate with their literary excellence. A royalty will be paid to the foreign authors, and nearly all of the books will be illustrated. The attention of dealers is called to two important features of Sergel's International Library, viz.: the liberal discount given to the trade, and the fact that the books will not be controlled by any one jobbing house. The first number of this series is

The Kreutzer Sonata.

By COUNT LEO TOLSTOÏ.

This is the author's boldest book and is the reigning sensation. It has already had an immense sale. Dealers are cautioned not to accept any imperfect or abridged edition. To obtain the only complete and unexpurgated book order SERGEL'S EDITION. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

In July we shall issue, as number two of SERGEL'S INTERNATIONAL LIBRARY, a handsome edition of a new novel by George Ohnet, entitled Peter's Soul.

This is destined to be one of the most popular books by this favorite author. The cover will show a handsome and unique design, and the book will be beautifully illustrated. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

ADVANCE ORDERS SOLICITED.

SERGEL'S INTERNATIONAL LIBRARY is mailable at second-class rates.

SERGEL & CO., Publishers, 79 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

LOVELL'S RECENT BOOKS.

THE GENTLE ART OF MAKING ENEMIES. By J. McNeill Whistler. Being a collection of his writings edited by himself. 12mo, cloth, gilt cover specially designed by Mr. Whistler. $2.00.

Cable message to N. Y. Times, Sunday, June 15, says: "The sumptuous Whistler Book makes its appearance to-day. It is delightfully unique throughout. Nobody can read the book without surprise at the astonishingly high average of brilliancy. The volume itself is a beautiful production."

LUX MUNDI. The great theological sensation of the day in England. Only edition authorized in America. A Series of Studies in the Religion of the Incarnation. Edited by Rev. Charles Gore, M.A., Principal of Pusey House, and Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.75.

"A volume of thoughtful and well-written essays. They are an attempt to show that between theology rightly interpreted and the best modes and results of modern philosophy there is no real discrepancy. The task is noble, and the writers are well qualified to essay it, and to all thoughtful readers the book will be one of deep interest. In the way of devout treatment and reverent handling of great themes, all these essays leave nothing to be desired."—Record.

"As a rare intellectual pleasure we can justly say that we have not often chanced upon a reading equal to that of 'Lux Mundi,' and as a defence and confirmation of the Faith nothing more acceptable has for a long time come in our way."—The Churchman.

"No one can lay down this volume without a feeling of respect for the authors and for the motive which has impelled them to undertake their task. They seem, at all events, to have traced the lines within which, if at all, the reconciliation of religion and science may be looked for."—New York Sun, June 29, 1890.

REINCARNATION. By E. D. Walker. Lovell's Occult Series, No. 6. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

"Reincarnation," by the late E. D. Walker, is an exhaustive treatise on the subject, tracing and quoting authorities in a comprehensive and lucid manner at once interesting and free from any detail and tiresome quotations in the text. An appendix carefully prepared gives reference to similar works in other languages, and the work is also carefully indexed. This edition is printed from plates which were revised and corrected at the author's solicitation but a few days before his unfortunate death.

IDYL OF THE WHITE LOTUS. By Mabel Collins. And Epitome of Theosophical Teachings and Esoteric Theosophy. Lovell's Occult Series, No. 7.

"The Idyl of the White Lotus," which has been so popular in both England and America, in expensive binding, has been issued in this series, together with an Epitome of Theosophical Teachings, by William Q. Judge. "The Idyl of the White Lotus" is a prose poem of wonderful strength, breathing an atmosphere of sublime philosophy at once entertaining, instructive, and elevating.

PAPA'S OWN GIRL. By Marie Howland. Lovell's American Novelists' Series, No. 45. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

A SCARLET SIN. By Florence Marryat. Lovell's International Series, No. 77. Cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MGR. BERNARD O'REILLY has in preparation a defence of the Roman Catholic Church in France which will be published in the French language by Firmin Didot & Co., Paris. He expects to have ready this fall the life of Archbishop McHale of Tuam, who was contemporary with the great O'Connell and who died some years ago at the age of ninety-one. As soon as Mgr. O'Reilly consented to undertake the work the family of the Archbishop placed at his disposal all his political and private letters and documents. The object of the work is to prove that Parnell and the Home Rulers are simply carrying out the plans of O'Connell and "John of Tuam."

A LARGE boulder has been planted at Coopers-town on the site of Cooper's old home, which was burned in '53. It is surrounded, says a correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, "by an iron fence, and on one polished face of the stone this inscription has been cut: 'On this site stood Otsego Hall, the home of James Fenimore Cooper, where he lived from 1834 to the day of his death, September, 1851. Built in 1798 by Judge William Cooper; destroyed by fire October, 1853.' There is no other monument to the novelist in the town which he made famous; but there is a movement in progress to erect one by public subscription."

MR. GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND, who is widely known by his pseudonym of "Gath," has just published a novel or romance based upon the political intrigue which was designed to ruin Alexander Hamilton while Secretary of the Treasury, and has included in the plot the interesting and hitherto mysterious relations of Mrs. Reynolds to him. The story is one of the most exciting and dramatic in American history, and in his romance Mr. Townsend relies largely upon his own investigations, which appear to have been most exhaustive. The book is likely to excite criticism because the intimation is plain that Jefferson aided if he did not conceive the conspiracy to ruin Hamilton. Mr. Townsend's ardent sympathy with the old Federalists is manifested throughout the book, and his great admiration for Hamilton he glories in making evident.

ABOUT a year ago Franz Hedrich, a Bohemian author, agitated German literary circles by claiming to be the author of the best of Alfred Meissner's novels. Hedrich quoted from Meissner's letters to him passages which proved beyond doubt his authorship of the tragedy "Warbeck, or, the pretender of York," and of the novels "Between Prince and People" and "Black Yellow," all of which works appeared with Meissner's name alone on the title-page. He also pointed out how he had interwoven with the text of important scenes of "Princess of Portugal," "Norbert Norson," and other novels given out by Meissner the proof of his authorship in the form of an acrostic, "Hedrich, Author." Although Meissner had been his bosom friend for twenty-five years. Hedrich did not hesitate to denounce him. To this Meissner's brother-in-law, Karl Bayer, better known by his pseudonym "Robert Byr," made reply which was generally considered inadequate. Hedrich retorted by libelling "Byr" and his family, which called out a challenge from "Byr" which was declined by Hedrich. Since that Hedrich has published a number of letters and a pamphlet blackening his dead friend's fame. The outcome of all seems not to have been the rehabilitation of the dead poet and novelist in the estimation of the German literary world. Hedrich's proofs of his authorship of the tragedy "Warbeck" and of "The Princess of Portugal" and "Norbert Norson" and "Black-Yellow" are said to be beyond rebuttal. In claiming "Samsara" and two or three other works published in Meissner's name, however, Hedrich is generally acknowledged to have overreached himself and to have rendered himself justly liable to "Byr's" accusations. "Hedrich has dragged Meissner in the mire," says a Vienna feuilletonist, "but he has degraded himself beneath the notice of respectable men in doing it."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; in the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade upon application.

Baker, Beth. Mystery Evans. Bost., De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., 1890. c. 256 p. D. cl., $1.

"The usual love-tale; the scene changes from a New England town to Montana. The hero is a rich young Englishman owning a ranch, who advertises his desire to correspond with some educated American girls, in order to study their peculiarities. A letter reaches him signed "Mystery Evans." The girl who writes it is the heroine, both she and the hero going through many adventures before they meet.

Chamberlain, N. H. What's the matter? or, our tariff and its taxes. Bost., De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., [1890.] 4-268 p. D. pap., 50 c.; cl., $1.

The scene is a grocery-store in a busy little New England town. A number of workmen have assembled here, and are congratulating each other upon the late Republican victory and the election of Harrison. While talking, one of their friends comes in and tells them there has been a lockout at the "big foundry." They apply to the squire, who is passing, for an explanation of this, whereupon ensue many conversations upon the tariff, taxes, protection and free trade, wages and the tariff, etc. The "squire" is a Democrat, and he argues from the standpoint of "a tariff for revenue only."

Drury, Rob. Madagascar; or, Robert Drury's journal, during fifteen years' captivity on that island, and a further description of Madagascar by the Abbé Alexis Rochon; ed., with an introd. and notes, by S. Pasfield Oliver. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 398 p. il. and map. O. (Adventure ser.) cl., $1.50.

"Robert Drury's journal" was first published about 1760. This edition gives an introduction by Captain S. Pasfield Oliver, who thinks that either Defoe or one of his disciples must have done much editorial work on the sailor-boy's manuscript. Drury is supposed to have been a captive for fifteen years on the island of Madagascar, during which he studied its geography and history and natural characteristics. All later writers on Madagascar acknowledge themselves indebted to this journal.

Fabian Dimitry, a young successful playwright, falls in love with a young English girl, but learning that insanity is hereditary in her family he does not ask her to marry him. His intimate friend, after first trying to combat Dimitry's scruples, marries the girl himself. After several months circumstances bring Dimitry to live with his former friend, a practicing physician in New York City. He there discovers that the hereditary curse has taken the form of kleptomania in his friend's wife. He once more sacrifices himself to shield his former love, and the measures he takes furnish a highly dramatic ending.

This, the latest history of exploration in Africa, is a terrible story of human suffering and endurance and self-sacrifice. Besides the interesting details of the inception of the expedition in London in 1886 to its arrival in Africa and its journey up the Congo to its confluence with the Aruwimi, where Stanley proposed to make his depot and base of supplies, there are a perfect wealth of adventures. Among the more important incidents are the horrible march through the great forest region along the course of the Aruwimi River, the pitiful experiences of Capt. Nelson in Starvation Camp, the joyous discovery of the grass lands, the arrival at Albert Nyanza, the return to the forest and the construction of Fort Bodo, the second journey to the lake and the meeting with Emin, and finally the march back to Banalya in search of the missing rear column, the story of whose unfortunate fate concludes the first volume. The second volume contains a study of Emin Pasha and additional researches and adventures.
- Stockton, Frank R. The Merry Chanter. N. Y., The Century Co., 1890. c. '89. 2+192 p. il. D. pap., 50 c.
"The Merry Chanter" is the name of a ship belonging to a young married couple in a small New England town. The wife "Doris" has inherited it, and the newly made husband and wife agree to put a cargo aboard her and sail to some "far-off seas." To get the cargo they have to go to Boston and embark with a captain and crew at Moosely, a little town on the sea-coast. One accident after another prevents them starting, while all the time their numbers are being increased—several passengers having applied for passage to Boston. The ship never does sail, but life aboard of her is made very amusing—many funny incidents being evolved, in which the owners, the passengers, and the crew take part.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 12, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SINCE the "pirating" reprinters have hauled down the black flag, at least to half mast, and entered the English market as buyers from English authors of advance sheets or such "rights" as they could sell, the tables have been turned in several cases, and houses having long-established relations with English writers have met "authorized editions" by reprisals of unauthorized reprints. Naturally, English authors rejoice in the advent of new competitors for advance sheets, who raise the price above the old honorarium, and as they have much less loyalty to their publisher than American writers and are indeed quite in the habit of scattering or alternating their books among several houses, the Lovell combination in particular has succeeded in divorcing several English writers from their old relations. The latest instance in point is that of Mr. Jas. Payn, whose letter to Messrs. Lovell is printed in a communication from them. The Harpers, who had been Mr. Payn's authorized publishers for thirty or forty of his novels, including those best known, sent him the usual honorarium for "The Burnt Million," and the check was not received back until after the appearance of the statement in The Critic as to its sending. Of the thirty-four books which this house had published by authorization of Mr. Payn, seven at least had been reprinted on them recently, hence the reprisal in the case of "The Burnt Million." Such reprisals are nevertheless unfortunate, to say the least, in the present advanced stage of copyright progress, and it would seem to be more just and dignified on the part of such eminent houses as those of Messrs. Harper and Holt to recognize "authorizations," so far as they go, rather than to continue the game of "tit for tat." So long as the foreign author is denied "rights," his desires should be fairly respected.

THE organization of the American Book Co. has evidently given suggestion for the reorganization of the Lovell combination into its final shape of the United States Book Co. The men who have really been backing this enterprise now come visibly to the front, with large capital and considerable brains. Its development will be watched by the trade with interest and anxiety.

THE UNITED STATES BOOK COMPANY.

ON the 8th inst. was consummated a movement that has been on foot for months—the capitalization of the Lovell Company on a new basis and its transformation into The United States Book Company. The new concern, which filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State of New Jersey at Trenton, will have a capital of three and a quarter million dollars, and have its headquarters in New York City. The Board of Directors will be Horace K. Thurber, Samuel Thomas, Chester W. Chapin, Edward Lange, and John W. Lovell, of New York City; Michael A. Donohue, of Chicago; James D. Safford, of Springfield, Mass.; James A. Taylor, of Plainfield, N. J., and Erastus Wiman. At a meeting to be held in Jersey City on the 12th, the organization will be completed and the officers elected. It is expected that H. K. Thurber will be President, John W. Lovell Vice-President, and Edward Lange Treasurer.

The company will carry on the business of the Lovell Company, as noted above, with increased capital, which, we understand, has all been paid in. Arrangements, it is claimed, have been made with Hurst & Co., Worthington Co., W. L. Allison, the Alden Book Co., G. W. Dillingham, Dodd, Mead & Co., the Empire Publishing Co., Estes & Lauriat, De Wolfe, Fiske & Co., the Aldine Book Publishing Co., J. B. Lyon of Albany, Donohue & Henneberry, Belford, Clarke Co., J. B. Lippincott Co., the National Publishing Co., and Frank A. Munsey & Co., to stop publishing certain lines of non-copy-right books for a certain time. In every other respect the business of publishing will be carried on on the lines laid down by Mr. Lovell during the last six months.

THE USE AND DEVELOPMENT OF SIGNATURES.

MR. WM. BLADES, previous to his death, commenced a series of "Bibliographical Miscellanies," * the first of which is devoted to "The use and development of Signatures in Books." Beginning with the definition: "Signatures are the sign or mark which printers place beneath certain pages for the convenience of binder, and to distinguish the sequence of the sections (sometimes styled quires or gatherings) which they print"—he refers to the origin of these indications: "The doctrine of development and the survival of the fittest has thrown floods of light upon many dark places in the natural history of plants and animals, and I believe the same doctrine may be made equally useful in the study of bibliography. The half-penny newspaper of to-day, with its rotten material and blurred impression, seems, at first, to have nothing in common with the beautiful vellum manuscripts of the middle ages; and yet the one is the true descendant of the other, and it was only by slow degrees that the printer's progeny parted with their family likeness to the aristocratic products of the professional scribe. The survival of the fittest is plainly shown in the development of signatures. The simple consecutive number which is used by modern printers to indicate the sequence of the sheet, is the true survivor of various ways of signing books from the 9th to the 19th century. The chief use of signatures was and is for the binder. Binding is certainly as old as books. Signatures are certainly as old as binders. It is conceivable that the early monastic scribe, who made his own parchment, concocted his own writing ink, copied leisurely, with his own hand, the Bible or Psalter, and, lastly, bound them propria manu, might complete his work without wanting any signature to help him; or, at any rate, might be satisfied with placing a catchword at the end of each section as a guide to the sequence. But when the manufacture of books passed from the monk's scriptorium into the hands of trade guilds, and the increased demand for books caused a great subdivision of labor; and when, instead of one, a manuscript would pass through a dozen workmen's hands before completion, then signatures became a necessity, as much for the scribe as for the binder, as necessary for the collation of the early MS. as for the steam-printed novel of to-day. When printing was invented, no new method of signatures was at first adopted. The Mazarin Bible, for instance, which is a large folio, was printed page by page and signed by the pen at the foot of the first four rectos of each signature, just as if it had been a manuscript. Printers could not, without difficulty, copy the custom of the scribes, and print their signatures at foot, because two or three types at a distance from the body of the page would certainly be broken off by the pressure; so finding the MS. signatures troublesome and often hard to read, they tried the plan of stamping them in with types by hand at the extreme edge, nearly always at foot, though sometimes at the fore-edge. This development was scarcely an improvement, and is only found in a few books from the Italian press of the years 1465-76. Then the printers, instead of hand-stamping, tried printing them at the very foot, and by the same pull of the press. This plan had no life in it, and it was then that the bright and bold idea struck a Cologne printer to ignore the ugliness and place his type signatures close up to the solid page. The custom soon spread and became general, and curious it is to notice how this slight development has given rise to numerous mistaken arguments on the so-called 'invention of signatures.'" Mr. Blades therefore "concludes that the idea of books without signatures is a bibliographical delusion." The pamphlet contains much interesting information as to the origin of the use of paper, of the sizes of books and their nomenclature, and the mediæval method of signing different forms. He shows that "all sizes being signed alike, the signatures cannot with early printed books be any guide as to size." With the Miscellany are given two fac-simile illustrations—one of a printed book with a written signature, and one with a signature from a type, stamped in by hand.

Mr. Blades had himself put into type, to form four more numbers of the series, an expansion of the paper on "Chained Libraries," which he read before the Library Association last October, and which was then printed in the Library (vol. 1, pp. 411-416). The first of these has just appeared, dealing with the well known chained library at Wimborne, which, indeed, suggested the subject to the author. It is illustrated with a woodcut of the library (from a photograph) and of the chains. The other parts, it is stated, will describe other chained libraries in the United Kingdom and elsewhere—particularly that at Hereford Cathedral and the Laurentian at Florence, and will be illustrated with seven photo-collotype plates. In this connection it may be noted that there is a small collection of some half-dozen chained books in the parish church at Minehead; and also a similar collection at Basingstoke, which the churchwardens' accounts show to have been chained as late as 1723. Mr. Blades' third paper in the Library, on "Paper and Paper-marks" (pp. 217-223), was also intended by him for independent publication in this series, and, it is to be hoped, will be added to it. G.

BOWDLERIZING.

THIS is a term used very frequently in contempt of a prudish attempt to "emasculate" a book. Many of our readers may not be aware of the origin of the expression, and the following from the Book-Lover may supply interesting information as to a term which has well been adopted into the technical vocabulary of the bibliophile. It is, however, somewhat unfair to connect with the word reproach on a man who, from the purest motives, rendered a great service to lovers of English literature and students of Shakespeare:

Thomas Bowdler was an Englishman, born in 1754 and dying in 1825. He has a well-deserved place in the history of English literature by reason of his "Letters from Holland," published in 1788, a biographical work ("Life of General Vilette") published in 1815, and essays on "Liberty, Civil and Religious," published the following year. All this was before the publication (in 1818) of "The Family Shakespeare," in which, to quote his own words, "nothing is added to the original text: but those words and expressions are omitted which cannot with propriety be read aloud in a family." Whatever may be said by book-lovers and Shakespearian critics regarding the "unnecessary prudery" of this edition, the fact is that this "Family Shakespeare," and the more recent editions following its example, has enabled Shakespeare to be made the subject of general study as could not otherwise have been done. For it is worthy to be noted that when the works of Shakespeare are taken up for study in schools, or in literary clubs, the edition used is more or less an expurgated one. The Shakespeare used in public readings, even the Shakespeare which we see represented upon the stage, omits all that Bowdler omitted.

And while our modern household editions retain much that we never quote in public, they omit much that was quite in the spirit of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, but is happily not colloquial in the nineteenth. To the bibliophile the "Family Shakespeare" is of little value. But the Shakespeare that is known, read, and quoted from by the great mass of true lovers of English literature, is the outgrowth of the first effort at "Bowdlerism."

The Edinburgh Review, edited at the time by Jeffrey, in commenting upon the "Family Shakespeare," stated that its expurgations included only "those gross indecencies which every one must have felt as blemishes." But this language needs to be qualified. The "gross indecencies" of the original Shakespeare are only felt to be "blemishes" as regards the public use of Shakespeare among us of the nineteenth century. It cannot be denied that as a higher literary study, such a study as is made by the few only, the unexpurgated Shakespeare is the best. For without its "gross indecencies" it does not reflect the age in which the "sweet bard of Avon" lived and produced his wonderful plays.

Bowdler made a similar effort with regard to Gibbon's "Decline and Fall," but it was less happy. In his "Family Gibbon" he attempted to purge the world-famous history of that great author "of all passages of an irreligious or immoral tendency," but the result failed to become popular in itself, or to inaugurate a system of expurgations of such a character, and the book is little known and never read. For a wide difference exists between language that is indecent and that which is of an irreligious tendency. The very use of the former carries with it harm. It demoralizes the user and society at large. We would not wish the "gross indecencies" common in the sixteenth century to become current in this century. But the effect of works of an irreligious tendency can be counteracted. To expurgate a passage of such a character from a book, is to send abroad the impression that it is far easier to deal thus with it than to answer it and correct it, and in this way error may be allowed to win a temporary victory over truth. Gibbon is an acknowledged standard, and no expurgated copy is ever used; and yet little harm has come to religion through his sneers at Christianity.

CEMENT AND GLUE TO STICK ON ANYTHING.

PROFESSOR ALEXANDER WINCHELL is credited with the invention of a cement that will stick on anything. Take 2 ounces of clear gum arabic, $1\frac{1}{2}$ ounce of fine starch, $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce of white sugar. Pulverize the gum arabic, and dissolve it in as much water as the laundress would use for the quantity of the starch indicated. Dissolve the starch and sugar in the gum solution. Then cook the mixture in a vessel suspended in boiling water until the starch becomes clear. The cement should be as thick as tar, and kept so. It can be kept from spoiling by dropping in a lump of gum camphor, or a little oil of cloves or sassafras. This cement is very strong, and will stick perfectly to glazed surfaces, and is good to repair broken rocks, minerals or fossils.—Patent Review.

A RECEIPT for a glue that will make leather adhere to iron.—Add about 5 per cent of glycerine to good glue, and just before using add 5 per cent. extract of oak bark or tannic acid. Use thick and hot.—Scientific American.

COMMUNICATIONS.

MR. JAMES PAYN'S EXPLANATION in re
"THE BURNT MILLION."

New York, July 8, 1890.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: Mr. James Payn, concerning whose novel, "The Burnt Million," there was some discussion a short time ago, writes as follows to our London representative:

"I see in the Critic that it is stated by Messrs. Harper Bros. that they sent me a check for 'The Burnt Million.' They have omitted to add that I returned it. The world is not yet so happily managed that an author can get paid twice over for the same work. JAMES PAYN."

This statement, from Mr. Payn himself, will doubtless remove whatever erroneous impression may have arisen in the minds of some as to our right in claiming the authorized edition of Mr. Payn's work. Yours very truly,

JOHN W. LOVELL CO.

OLD BOOK CHAT.

"IN the sale of valuable books and manuscripts held by Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge on June 14 and three following days we must be content," says the London Athenaeum, "with quoting the principal articles. "THE collecting of rare books," says Lord Rosebery, the owner of Mentmore and the Durdans and Dalmeny, with a collection of rare books in each, "is a virtue very nearly akin to vice. It is a virtue on which the closest watch must be kept lest it lapse into a moral disease."

THERE seems to be a marked decline of late years, says the London Athenaeum, "in the value of the well-known Abbotsford edition of the Waverley novels, of which a copy was sold for ten guineas in the recent dispersal of Sir Edward Sullivan's library. A few years ago booksellers readily paid from £12 to £14 for a copy. It is not generally known that in printing the book a number of copies were wrongly paginated, but as the sheets were correctly designated at the foot the error escaped detection both by the binder and the public."

THE manuscripts of Wilkie Collins' novels, which we mentioned some time ago, were brought to the hammer at the rooms of Messrs. Sotheby on June 11. They fetched over £1300. The ms. of "The Woman in White" sold for £320;

"The Moonstone," £125; "Armadale," £101; and "No Name," £85. The manuscript of "The Frozen Deep," in Collins' handwriting, with annotations by Dickens, the prompt-book, and the ms. of the story were put up as one lot on the same occasion, and brought £300; while the ms. of "The Perils of Certain English Prisoners" (the Christmas number of Household Words for 1857) sold for £200.

IN RE the "Hint to Byron Collectors" reprinted from the Publishers' Circular in your issue of June 28, Walter Jerrold writes to the former journal that he has a copy of the fourth edition of the "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers" bound in gray boards, lettered on the back "English Bards, 4th Edition, 6s.," and printed on very thick paper, the watermark of which is "J. Whatman, 1805." Mark Cann also writes that he has a copy of the third edition, Cawthorn, 1810, in which the watermarks vary. On the fly-leaf it is 1809, with no name; on page 5 it is E. & P., 1805; across pages 17-31 is J. Whatman, 1805; across pages 37-43 is Edmeads & P., 1807; across pages 53-59 is Edmeads & Pine, 1807; across pages 67-77 is Edmeads & Pine, 1807; page 81, E. & P., 1804. In another copy of the third edition Cawthorn, 1810, the watermark is Pine & Thomas, 1812, throughout.

A PRIVATE despatch by cable, says the N. Y. Times, "announces the death in Paris of Cuzin, the bookbinder, to whom was awarded the highest prize of the last Exposition Universelle. He was sixty years of age. His loss is irreparable for the classicists among the patrons of the art of bookbinding, to whom the anonymous artisans of the Renaissance were creators of perfect models. A contemporary of Trautz-Bauzonnet and Lortic, he was the last of the quatuor, with which, in the view of the bibliopagists of the old school, the great art of bookbinding comes to an end. Cuzin did all his work with his own hands, even to the stitching of his pages, esteeming it a duty as sacred as for a painter to let no collaborator intervene, having a high estimate of his art, and disregarding in his devotion to it all pecuniary considerations. He had no pupils, and his elder son is not out of college. Mr. Samuel P. Avery and Mr. C. Jolly Bavoillot have in their libraries admirable specimens of his work, but his masterpiece is his 'Swan's Song.' It is the binding in dark brown morocco, dotted with skulls and cross bones in blind-tooling, lined with white vellum framed in a border decorated with the emblems of death, entirely in the style of the sixteenth century, made for Holbein's 'Simulachra.' The book is of the first edition, printed at Lyons in 1538, an uncut copy, measuring 192½ millimetres, whereas the Rothschild copy measures only 180. Cuzin put his heart into his work. It was sent to him on the 16th of June, 1889, and was finished in time to reach its owner, Mr. W. L. Bennett, of New Haven, Conn., on the 16th of last month, day for day."

NOT THAT KIND OF A COOK-BOOK.—A gentleman stepped into one of the enterprising bookstores in New Jersey a week or so ago and asked for "The Autocrat at the Breakfast Table." The earnest clerk looked very carefully among the cook-books and returned to his customer and said: "We haven't 'The Autocrat at the Breakfast Table,' sir, but," he added persuasively, "many like this better," and he handed over the counter "Household Receipts."—N. Y. Tribune.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The W. J. C. Dulany Company, of Baltimore City, has purchased the stock, good-will, etc., belonging to the firm of Wm. J. C. Dulany & Co., 8 Baltimore Street, East. The officers of the new company are Wm. J. C. Dulany, President; John M. Dulany, Vice-President; and Adolph Lohmeyer, Secretary and Treasurer. The Dulanys have been established in the book business for nearly forty years and during that time have won the respect and confidence of their brethren in the book trade. The new organization will carry on the business with enlarged facilities and renewed energies. May it succeed beyond its expectations.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—Mr. Pollen, bookseller and stationer, has removed his stock to the new Ledy building.

DALLAS, TEX.—Kira, Mitchell & Co., booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. Alfred Holland continues the business in his own name.

DAYTON, O.—William C. Mayer will continue under his own name the book business formerly carried on under the firm-name of Mayer & Van Sant, Mr. M. W. Van Sant having retired.

GRANDBURG, TEX.—E. Mergert, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Mergert & Son.

KALAMAZOO, MICH.—Robert L. Parkin and John A. Gibb have purchased the stock of books and stationery of Geo. W. Young.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—W. R. Hogeott, who has been a partner since 1878 of the firm of M. H. Dickinson & Co., booksellers and stationers, 620 Main Street, has retired. He is succeeded by T. E. Bryant, long and favorably connected with the management of the retail department of the firm. The business will be conducted as heretofore under the firm-name of M. H. Dickinson & Co.

NEW YORK CITY.—The interest in the book business formerly belonging to W. J. Weedon has been purchased by his daughter (Miss Annie H. Weedon), who will carry on the business, adding blank-books and stationery.

NEW YORK CITY.—A. S. Barnes & Co. are removing their stock from their old corner at William Street to the building of the American Book Company, 751 Broadway.

ST. CLOUD, MINN.—W. C. Montgomery, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by T. C. Boorn.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS add to their Yellow Paper Series this month Marion Harland's "With the Best Intentions" and Edward Everett Hale's "Philip Nolan's Friends."

D. APPLETON & Co. call attention to the fact that the price of Sara Jeanette Duncan's book, "A Social Departure," is $1.75, not $1.50, as it appeared in their advertisement in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, July 5.

FREDERICK KEPPEL & Co., N. Y., have published a useful little pamphlet entitled "Suggestions on Framing," advice and hints in regard to the framing and hanging of pictures, written by Frederick Keppel.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR CO., New York, have bought the book jobbing stock and the good-will of that part of the business lately controlled by A. S. Barnes & Co. The stock has been delivered and the Baker & Taylor Co. are now ready to fill any order that may be sent to them.

DONOHUE & HENNEBERRY, Chicago, have just issued a volume by Judge John P. Altgeld entitled "Live Questions," in which he discusses in a forceful and readable manner many subjects of interest to the general reader, including protection to non-combatants, compulsory arbitration of strikes, divorces, moral training, etc.

J. S. OGILVIE has in preparation sets of the complete works of Dickens, Scott, Eliot, and Cooper, and of Irving's select works. He also has in preparation an edition of Doré's Bible Gallery, and calls attention to a full line of twelvemos, embracing two hundred and ten titles, and a long line of paper novels at low figures.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. have added to their twenty-five cent series of popular fiction "Fair Play," by Mrs. Southworth; "Worth the Wooing," by Lady Gladys Hamilton; "Britomarte, the Man-Hater," by Mrs. Southworth; "Sifting Matrimony," by the author of "Society Rapids;" "How He Won Her," by Mrs. Southworth; "India, Pearl of Pearl River," by Mrs. Southworth; "The Captive Bride," by Mrs. Southworth; and "Society Rapids, High Life in Washington, Saratoga, Bar Harbor."

THIS month will witness a great gathering of the Eastern book men in Chicago. The Palmer House will be the headquarters for representatives from all the leading publishing houses in the East, including Harper & Bros., Dodd, Mead & Co., Porter & Coates, E. P. Dutton & Co., Roberts Bros., Lee & Shepard, Geo. Routledge & Sons, Estes & Lauriat, Lippincott Co., and a number of others. This will afford dealers in the West an opportunity to transact business as well as at the houses themselves at a considerable saving of travelling expenses and time. We hear that the display made is quite attractive and fine

MUDIE, it is reported, took 3000 copies of Mr. Stanley's "In Darkest Africa."

THE BÖRSENVEREIN OF GERMAN BOOKSELLERS appointed, at its general meeting on May 4, a committee to work out a set of official publishing regulations for the German publishing trade.

MR. HENRY MARCH GILBERT, "Ye Olde Boke Shoppe," Southampton, announces a work of considerable literary and artistic interest, entitled "Vestiges of Old Southampton," which will consist of etchings of Henry the Eighth's Palace, Bar Gate, St. Michael's Church, Arundel Tower, South Castle, and other historical buildings in the quaint and picturesque streets of the beautiful town. These etchings are the work of Mr. Frank McFadden, a local artist of considerable renown. The descriptive letterpress has been written by Mr. T. W. Shore, F.G.S. The work will be published in parts and by subscription.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

CAN any one give us the address of the purchaser of the plates of "Goldsmith" sold at the sale of Rand, Avery Co., Boston, about two years ago?

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

NEW ILLUSTRATED ENGLISH EDITION.

Taine's History of English Literature. Translated from the French by HENRY VAN LAUN. Best English library edition. Illustrated with 25 fine photogravure portraits reproduced from original and rare prints by the Gebbie & Husson Photogravure Co., Limited. 4 vols., 8vo, cloth extra, gilt top, in box, $10.00; half calf, gilt extra, in box, $20.00; without the illustrations, 4 vols., 8vo, cloth, in box, $7.50; half calf extra, in box, $15.00.

Touchstone. Race Horses and Thoroughbred Stallions, English and French, which appeared on the turf from 1764 to 1887. Their pedigree, description, and history. Translated from the French by C. B. PITMAN, and preceded with a preface by the Duke of Beaufort. Profusely illustrated with sixty colored plates by V. Cotlison, L. Pénicaut, and Le Nail, and also one hundred and thirty-four vignettes in the text, all colored by hand. In one handsome volume. Oblong 4to, half mor., cloth sides, gilt top, $30.00.

A NEW SPORTING BOOK.

Blue Ribbon of the Turf (The). Being an account of all the famous horses that have won, the English Derby, with a description of the races from the commencement to the present time from Diomed, 1780, to Sainfoin, 1890, and a particular narrative of all the celebrated jockeys and betting men of the time, and also the owners of the horses, and other magnates of the turf, by LOUIS HENRY CURZON. Crown 8vo, cloth extra, gilt, $1.75.

Reid (Captain Mayne). The Naturalist in Siluria. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, gilt, $1.00.

This new book by Mayne Reid was left in ms. at his death in 1883, and not until 1889 did his widow place it in the hands of a publisher. Any careful reader of Captain Mayne Reid's tales of adventure will have discovered that one of his strongest points is his accurate description of natural scenery, and it was therefore to be expected that after retiring from his wanderings to his home in Wales he should keep up his taste for natural history—the result of which is the present volume of personal observations of what he saw and heard around him.

Advice to Young Men and Boys. A series of addresses delivered to the pupils of Girard College, by B. B. COMEGYS. Illustrated with six photogravure portraits. 8vo, cloth extra, $1.75.

This is a handsomely printed volume, with photogravure illustrations of the eminent men mentioned. The author finds in the lives of the eminent men he introduces, the principles and the characteristics that he desires to impress upon them, and he illustrates his points so simply and clearly and earnestly as to make them more than usually impressive.

When Mother Was Little. By S. P. YORKE. With thirteen full-page illustrations by Henry J. Ford. Small square 8vo, cloth extra, $1.00.

"It is just such a warm, living picture of the past which children can understand and with which they can sympathize. This is a very nice book, and is prettily illustrated."—Glasgow Herald.

LONGMANS, GREEN, & COMPANY'S NEW BOOKS.

Longmans' School Geography for North America.

By GEORGE G. CHISHOLM, M.A., and C. H. LEETE, A.M., Ph.D., Fellow of the American Geographical Society. Large 12mo, 384 pages, with 70 illustrations, $1.25. [Just ready.]

In Longmans' School Geography an attempt is made at a new departure in the teaching of geography by providing a text-book which is founded on the results and methods following from the great advance which has taken place in geographical science and teaching on the continent, and especially in Germany. The aim of the author has been to exclude from the book almost all details which pupils cannot be expected to keep permanently in mind, but to take care that what the book does contain should consist of what is most effective as discipline, and of most importance to know. In the American edition, prepared by Mr. Leete, the portions on America in general, North America, and the United States have been newly written. The other parts have been changed but little, though alterations and adaptations have been made wherever they seemed called for by the fact that American instead of English or Australian pupils were to be the readers.

* * * Prospectus and specimen page sent on application.

Longmans' Elementary School Algebra. By WILLIAM S. BEARD, F.R.G.S. Crown 8vo, 163 pages, 50 cents. With answers, 60 cents. [Just ready.]

* * * Suitable for use in all schools where an elementary but thorough knowledge of Algebra is required.

Longmans' School Trigonometry. By the Rev. FREDERICK SPARKS, B.A., Instructor in Mathematics. Crown 8vo, 172 pages, 80 cents. [Just ready.]

* * * Intended for use in Preparatory Schools, High Schools, Private Schools, and Colleges. It covers the whole of the subject as far as the end of the "Solution of Triangles," and contains geometrical and analytical proofs of the usual propositions treated in a way comprehensible to the beginner.

Advanced Physiography. By JOHN THORNTON, M.A. With 180 illustrations, 6 maps, and a colored plate of Spectra. Crown 8vo, pp. 350, $1.40. (Longmans' Advanced Science Manuals.) [Just ready.]

NEW ENGLISH BOOKS.

Longmans' School Grammar. By DAVID SALMON. Part 1. Parts of Speech. Part 2. Classification and Inflection. Part 3. Analysis of Sentences. Part 4. History and Derivation. With Notes for Teachers and Index. 272 pages, 12mo, 75 cents.

An interesting, practical, and sensible school-book. The method is modern, proceeding from study of examples to formation of rules and definitions. It is found by teachers an extremely satisfactory book to teach.

"One of the best working grammars we have ever seen, excellently arranged and perfectly graded."—New York Teacher.

Longmans' Junior School Grammar. By DAVID SALMON. 124 pp., 12mo, 30 cents.

The Junior School Grammar is an adaptation of the first half of the author's School Grammar, with some of the explanations simplified, with many of the exercises amplified, and with a few of the difficulties omitted.

Longmans' School Composition. By DAVID SALMON. Crown 8vo, 310 pp., 80 cents.

"... its direct sensible method is to be praised almost without reserve. The notes for teachers at the end of the book are excellent in conception and as practical instructions."—N. Y. Nation.

Longmans' Junior School Composition. By DAVID SALMON. A First Book on English Composition for Junior Classes. Crown 8vo, 110 pp., 30 cents.

Identical with Part 1 of Longmans' School Composition with "Notes for Teachers" added.

Longmans' Handbook of English Literature. By R. MCWILLIAM, B.A., Inspector of the London School Board. In Five Parts, each part sold separately, viz. :

Part I. From the Earliest Times to Chaucer. 30 cents.

Part II. From Chaucer to Shakespeare. 30 cents.

Part III. From Ben Jonson to Locke. 30 cents.

Part IV. From Swift to Cowper. 30 cents.

Part V. The Nineteenth Century. [Preparing.]

It is intended in this work to trace the story of English Literature in a manner simple enough to interest beginners, and at the same time to afford information full enough to satisfy those who have made some little progress in the subject.

* * * Messrs. Longmans' Classified List of School and College Text-Books will be sent free to any applicant.

REMARKS The attention of teachers is invited to the classic literature which we are now publishing in a cheap form for school use. During the next school year valuable additions will be made to the Riverside Literature Series, and several books will be published of the First, Second, and Third Reader grades. We shall be glad to supply teachers with descriptive circulars of our books, and we will send free, to any teacher who applies for it, a portrait catalogue of all our publications, containing portraits of more than forty of our famous authors.

Every School Library Should Include

HEROES OF THE NATIONS.

A series of biographical studies of the lives and work of certain representative historical characters, about whom have gathered the great traditions of the Nations to which they belonged, and who have been accepted, in many instances, as types of the several National ideals. With the life of each typical character will be presented a picture of the National conditions surrounding him during his career.

The narratives are the work of writers who are recognized authorities on their several subjects, and, while thoroughly trustworthy as history, will present picturesque and dramatic "stories" of the men and the events connected with them.

The series will be under the editorial supervision of EVELYN ABBOTT, M.A., of Balliol College, and the volumes will be issued by Messrs. PUTNAM'S simultaneously in New York and London. The volumes are beautifully printed in large 12mo and are fully illustrated, selling, in different styles, for $1.50, $1.75, and $3.50 per volume. A full prospectus sent upon application.

RAND, McNALLY & CO.'S

SERIES OF EDUCATIONAL MAPS.

ESPECIALLY DESIGNED AND ENGRAVED FOR USE IN SCHOOLS.

Most Complete, Handsome, and Substantial School Maps Ever Published.

ENDORSED BY THE LEADING EDUCATORS OF THE AMERICAN CONTINENT.

The Maps of these series are distinguished by several new and useful features, being beautifully bold in outline, free from unimportant names, and so distinct that no difficulty is experienced in reading any name. They show the latest geographical discoveries and political changes in every part of the world. They are handsomely and artistically colored, so that the political boundaries can be readily distinguished at a distance.

The Names of Towns are Engraved in Clear, Bold Type, and are also indicated by Large Black Dots, so that the Series can, if preferred, be used for "OUTLINE" MAPS.

The lengths of the principal rivers and the altitudes of the highest mountains are engraved on the maps. The Maps are Oil colored and Finished, and Mounted on Heavy Oilcloth, with Rollers. They are designed to be used in connection with any text-book on geography. No "key" is required.

INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION SERIES.

Edited by WILLIAM T. HARRIS, A.M., LL.D., Commissioner of Education.

Vol. XV.—School Supervision. By J. L. PICARD, LL.D. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

In this work is embodied the results of more than twenty years' successful experience in town, State, and city supervision of schools. The author outlines the history of school supervision in the United States; he discusses the work of the State, county, and city superintendent; the relation of the superintendent to teachers, pupils, parents, Boards of Education, etc.; he has included valuable chapters on examinations and promotions, on physical and moral education, on government and discipline; and has added appendices on the relation of public schools to morality and religion, and "What shall we do with our boys?"—In all it is a work of great practical value to normal students, teachers, and to all engaged in the active work of supervision.

BOOKS OF THE YEAR.

One-Book Course in English. By RUSSELL and KELLOGG. 321 pages, 16mo, cloth. Price for introduction, 60 cents.

This is a course designed for schools that have not time to complete the authors' Two-Book Series.

It is a carefully graded and complete series of lessons in English grammar and composition, based on the natural development of the sentence.

The Working Principles of Political Economy. By Prof. S. M. MACVANE, Harvard College. 300 pages, attractively bound. Price for introduction, $1.00.

It is believed that all teachers of political economy will welcome this clear, interesting, and unbiased exposition of an attractive subject.

Historical Classic Readings. Mailing price, 12 cents per copy, $1.50 per dozen, 50 per hundred.

With a view of meeting the large and increasing demand for supplemental reading adapted to schools, the publishers beg to announce the publication of the Historical Classic Readings (the title of which may be found below), in the confident expectation that the series will at once commend itself to the favor of progressive teachers.

Each number gives the writings of but one author, and comprises from 30 to 64 16mo pages, printed in large type and bound with a strong paper cover.

- No. 1. Irving's Discovery of America by Columbus.
- No. 2. Capt. John Smith's Settlement of Virginia.

Midsummer-Night's Dream. Winter's Tale.

Light Gymnastics. By WILLIAM G. ANDERSON, M.D. 234 pages, 16mo, cloth. Teachers' price, $1.50.

It is the purpose of "Light Gymnastics" to afford teachers who may lack the necessary knowledge, a simple method of systematic instruction. Any teacher can easily understand and apply the directions.

The value of the text has been greatly enhanced by over two hundred illustrations taken from actual models.

A School History of England. Revised edition.

By JOHN J. ANDERSON, Ph.D. 436 pages, 16mo, cloth.

Price for introduction, $1.25.

In addition to the many attractive features of the old book the changes made in revision include nearly one hundred and fifty new portraits, maps, and other illustrations, taken from only the most trustworthy sources.

The publishers would be pleased to send specimen pages and circulars of information regarding any of their publications.

WEBSTER

THE BEST INVESTMENT

for the Family, School, or Professional Library.

The Latest Edition has 118,000 words in its vocabulary, and over 2,000 pages, with illustrations on nearly every page. Besides many other valuable supplemental features it comprises a Biographical Dictionary, a New Gazetteer of the World, and a Dictionary of Fiction.

THE WEBSTER OF TO-DAY is The Standard Authority in the Government Printing Office, and with the U. S. Supreme Court. It is recommended by the State Superintendents of Schools in 39 States, and by the leading College Presidents of the U. S. and Canada.

DON'T BE DUPED

by buying the cheap phototype reprints of an obsolete "Webster" now being foisted upon the market. From A to Z they are all alike, being poor reproductions of the Dictionary of over 40 years ago. Announcements concerning them are very misleading; for instance, the supplement of 10,000 so-called "new words" was compiled by a gentleman who has been dead over thirty years, and was published before his death. Other so-called additions are reprints of a like nature. These books are all comparatively valueless. The Latest and Genuine Edition of bears on its title page the imprint of

G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Springfield, Mass.

Sold by all Booksellers. Illustrated pamphlet free.

Translation of Cæsar.	Translation of Vergil.
The first four books of Cæsar's commentaries of the Gallic War. 12mo, cloth. Mailing price, $1.00.	The first six books of Vergil's Æneid . 12mo, cloth. Mailing price, $1.00. Ready in April.

These two books are arranged with the original Latin on the left hand page, and an elegant, correct translation on the right hand page opposite. The convenience of this arrangement cannot be over-estimated. The method illustrated in these two books is the best that could be imagined for learning quickly to read and comprehend a Latin author.

THE ANNUAL FALL TRADE SALE will take place during September. Consignments should be sent at once.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish this week Marion Harland's latest book, "With the Best Intentions: a midsummer episode." The scene of the novel is the island of Mackinac, on Lake Huron, and the central figures are a young couple on their wedding tour.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have just published in their Riverside Paper Series Ellen Olney Kirk's "A Lesson in Love." On August 2, "El Furridis," by Maria S. Cummins, and on August 16, "The Faith of Mansfield Humphreys," by Richard Grant White, will be published in the same series.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish shortly, by arrangement with the authors, "Paul Nugent, Materialist," by Helen F. Hetherington and Rev. H. Darwin Baron, a reply to "Robert Elsmere," written in a thoroughly orthodox spirit, and quite abreast of the latest theories of physical science and German anti-Christian criticism.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation a new edition of "Epictetus," in two volumes, edited and revised by Thomas Wentworth Higginson. It will be printed from good, clear type and neatly bound, making a handsome edition for the library. They have also under way "Biography of Antoine Rubinstein," by Aline Delano, in a twelvemo volume with a fine etched portrait.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co. will issue shortly a memoir of Alexander Heriot Mackonochie, the late rector of the well-known ritualistic church of St. Alban's, in London. The compiler of the memoir is the Rev. E. F. Russell, who was one of the curates of St. Alban's under Father Mackonochie. They have also in preparation "The Christian Home," by Rev. W. J. Knox-Little.

HARPER & BROS. will publish shortly "Following the Guidon," a new volume of army and frontier reminiscences, by Mrs. Elizabeth Custer. In response to a very general demand for a popular edition of Walter Besant's well-known novel, "All Sorts and Conditions of Men," Messrs. Harper & Brothers have just published that work in their Franklin Square Library.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY have just issued "Hermit Island," by Katherine Lee Bates; "The Crown of Life," selections taken from the writings of Henry Ward Beecher, by Mary Storrs Haynes; and "The Golden Key," one of George MacDonald's short stories. They have just issued new editions of "Poets' Homes," compiled by R. H. Stoddard and others; "Uncle Titus" and "Swiss Stories," by Madame Spyri; and "A Half Year at Bronckton," by Margaret Sidney.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR Co. have just issued "Talks with Ralph Waldo Emerson," by Charles J. Woodbury, who had exceptional opportunities for access to and intercourse with Mr. Emerson. The book is at once an epitome of his philosophy and a commentary upon the time and society in which he lived. It is largely addressed to the youth of our country who aspire to that true cultivation which was never better exemplified than in Emerson's thought, work, and life. A hitherto unpublished portrait of the Concord philosopher is printed with the volume.

JOHN W. LOVELL COMPANY announce that the sale of Whistler's book, "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies," has been unprecedented for a high-priced book, the first edition being nearly exhausted in advance of publication. "Sunset Pass," by Capt. Chas. King, which has been unavoidably delayed, will be published next week. Among the books which the Lovells will issue within the next few days in their International Series are "The Blind Musician," by Stepniak and Wm. Westall, "The Keeper of the Keys," by F. W. Robinson, and "A True Friend," by Adeline Sargeant; "The Story of the Gadsbys," by Rudyard Kipling, in their Westminster Series; and the "Chief Justice," by Karl Franzos, in the Foreign Literature Series. This latter series, edited by Edmund Gosse, is rapidly growing in popularity on both sides of the Atlantic.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price indicates that the publisher makes no price, either at or below retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A code after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (quarto: under 30 cm.); O. (octavo: 25 cm.); D. (duodecimo: 20 cm.); S. (small: 17 1/2 cm.); T. (tenth: 15 cm.); Th. (thimo: 12 1/2 cm.); Ps. (psimo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl. nov., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Allen, F. M. The voyage of the ark. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie & Co., [1890.] 2-160 p. D. (Fireside ser., no. 113.) pap., 25 c.

The author of "Thorough green glasses" has made a farcical Irish story of the tradition of Noah. Irish peculiarities, ignorance, and prejudices are held up to ridicule in the family of Noah, who in Mr. Allen's fun becomes an Irishman, finally rescued by his friend Pat Sheehan, to whom he gives as a free gift of thanks "ould Ireland."

*Altgeld, J. P. Live questions, including our penal machinery and its victims. Chk., Donohue, Henneberry & Co., 407 Dearborn St., 1890. c. 320 p. 12", cl., $1.

Babcock, W. H. Cypress Beach. Wash., D. C., W. H. Babcock, 1890. c. 84. 7+178 p. O. pap., 40 c.

Cypress Beach is supposed to be a lonely, romantic region in some Southern State, which at one time was a colonial possession of England, and during the reign of Charles the Second was the home of a mysterious woman who hid a ring and some papers behind a panel in the old manor house. The Civil War era, and the "labor riots" of 1877 are worked into the plot. The author wrote the complete novel, "An invention of the enemy," for Lippincott's Magazine, August, 1889. The story is dedicated to Dr. Holmes.

Badt, F. B., and Carhart, H. S. Derivation of practical electrical units. Chk., Electrician Publishing Co., 6 Lakeside Building, 1890. 5+56 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Contains portraits and biographies of Ohm, Watt, Faraday, Joule, Gauss, Weber, Sir William Siemens, Dr. Werner von Siemens, Volta, Ampere, Daniell, Von Jacob, together with a carefully prepared table of the practical electrical units, with their relative values.

Baker, Arthur L. Elliptic functions: an elementary text-book for students of mathematics. N. Y., J. Wiley & Sons, 1890. c. 5+118 p. O. cl., $1.50.

The author is Professor of Mathematics in the Stevens School of the Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., and was formerly professor in the Purdue Scientific Department, Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

*Bartley, Elian H., M.D. Text-book of medical chemistry. 2d ed. Phil., P. Blakiston, Son & Co., 1890. 423 p. li. 12", cl., $2.50.

*Birkings, J. S., M.D., [and others.] The national medical dictionary: including English, French, German, Italian, and Latin technical terms used in medicine and the collateral sciences, and a series of useful data. Phil., Lea Bros. & Co., 1890. 2 v., 1574 p. li. 8", cl., mbr., $12; leath., $14; hf. mor., $17.

Brentford, Burke. Rocky Mountain Sam. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1890.] c. 4-228 p. D. (Sea and shore ser., no. 21.) pap., 25 c.

A tale of wild adventure of which the scene is the upper Missouri of many years back. The complicated plot brings about five weddings.

*Brown, I. H. Brown's popular speaker, no. 1. St. Louis, I. H. Brown & Co., 1890. 16", pap., 25 c.

Brown, Jessie H. The iron-clad pledge: a story of Christian endeavor. Cin., O., Standard Pub. Co., 1890. c. 3+187 p. D. cl., $1. The "iron-clad pledge" is the pledge of the Society of Christian Endeavor which two young men sign in early life and through many difficulties keep in the spirit as well as in the letter. Their love-stories make the light and shade of a helpful narrative.

*Chambers, G. F. Handbook of descriptive and practical astronomy. V. 3: The starry heavens. 4th ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 76+384 p. 8", cl., $3.50.

Childs, G. W. Recollections of General Grant; with an account of the presentation of the portraits of Generals Grant, Sherman, and Sheridan at the Military Academy, West Point. Phil., Collins Pr. House, 1890. 3-104 p. T. pap., 25 c.

Church (The) in the British Isles: sketches of its continuous history from the earliest times to the Restoration; lectures delivered in 1889 under the auspices of the Church Club of New York. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1890. 10+258 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The Church Club was organized soon after the General Convention of 1886, in which the Bishops decided to invite all Christians to return to the unity of the Catholic Church on the basis of the Scriptures, the Creeds, the Sacraments, and the Historic Episcopate. The subjects and lectures are as follows: The Celtic Church, by Bishop Doane of Albany; The Anglo-Saxon Church, by Rev. Dr. Samuel Hart, of Hartford; The Norman Period, by Rev. Dr. W. G. Allen, of Cambridge; The Reformation Period, by the Rt. Rev. H. T. Kington, Am't Bishop of Fredericton, New Brunswick; and the Puritan Reaction, by Rev. Thomas F. Gallor, of the University of the South.

Clark, Willis G. History of education in Alabama 1702-1889. Wash., D. C., Government Pr. Office, 1889. 2-281 p. O. (Circular of information, no. 3, 1889.) pap.

Current discussions in theology, by the professors of Chicago Theological Seminary, v. 7. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., 1890. c. 11+410 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The usual careful summary of the theological literature of a year, divided under the headings of exegetical, historic, systematic, and practical theology. All works of note issued during the past twelve months are reviewed with fairness and good judgment. The book is a valuable report of the progress of a year in religious thought. Full index.

*Davenport, F. H., M.D. Diseases of women: a manual of non-surgical gynecology. Phil., Lea Bros. & Co., 1889. 317 p. li. 12", cl., $1.50.

Davis, Ellery W. An introduction to the logic of algebra; with illustrative exercises. N. Y., J. Wiley & Sons, 1890. c. 14+119 p. O. cl., $1.50.

The author is Professor of Mathematics in the University of South Carolina, and a graduate of Johns Hopkins University. The book is the outgrowth of the conviction that the logic of algebra is a much neglected study. The student of this volume is supposed to have a knowledge of geometry and elementary algebra. In part second some knowledge of trigonometry and analytical geometry will be a help.

*De Quincey, T. Complete works. New ed., ed. by D. Masson. In 14 v. V. 8: Speculative and theological essays. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 451 p. 12", cl., $1.25.

*In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk, and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

Duncan, Sara Jeannette. A social departure: how Orthodocia and I went round the world by ourselves; ill. by F. H. Townsend. N. Y., Appleton, 1890. 7+417 p. ill. D. cl., $1.75.

A humorous description of the adventures of an enterprising English girl of twenty-two and her Canadian chaperone. Incidentally much information is given of many sights throughout the world. The writer has great command of language and a quick eye for national and individual peculiarities. Some scathing truths are brought out under cover of imperturbable good humor. Profusely and sympathetically illustrated.

Exell, Rev. Jos. S. The Biblical illustrator; or, anecdotes, similes, emblems, illustrations, expository, scientific, geographical, historical, and homiletic; gathered from a wide range of home and foreign literature in the verses of the Bible. In 3 v. V. 3. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., 1890. 8°, cl., $2.

Farrar, F. W. The life of Christ; with an American appendix giving over 500 translations of non-English matter; an introd. by Tayler Lewis. Bost., Bradley & Woodruff, 1890. 744 p. 8°, cl., $3.50.

Flinding (The) of the gnosis; or, apotheosis of an ideal: an interior life drama. Bost., Occult Pub. Co., 1890. c. 2-74 p. sq. S. cl., 50 c.

A poem "wherein is brought to light the inmost secret of all veritable religion, the mystery of the divine self." It is divided into five parts, the evocation, the seeking, the finding, the epitome, and the apotrophe. Written by an earnest student of occult science whose name is withheld.

Flint, Rev. J. F. In Potiphar's house; or, the young man in peculiar peril; with introd. by H. S. Pomeroy, M.D. N. Y., J. B. Alden, 1890. 12°, cl., 75 c.

Foster, Frank B., M.D. An illustrated encyclopædic medical dictionary; being a dictionary of the technical terms used by writers on medicine and the collateral sciences in the Latin, English, French, and German languages. In 4 v. V. 1, 2. N. Y., Appleton, 1890. 8°. subrs., ea. leath., $10; hf. mor., $11.

Harland, H. ["Sidney Luska," pseud.] Two women or one? From the MS. of Dr. Leonard Benary. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., 1890. c. 8+199 p. Tt. bds., 75 c.

An amusing, rather extravagant story of a wonderful operation performed on a woman's brain, by which she lost her memory and her whole mental and moral condition was changed. Under new, favorable circumstances the ex-convict became a good and true woman. The question is, were the two women identical, is it in our memory that our identity consists?

Harland, Marion, (pseud. for Mrs. Ma V. H. Terhune.) With the best intentions: a midsummer episode. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1890. c. 303 p. D. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

A bright, cheerful bridegroom and his beautiful, highly educated, and rather formal bride in the course of an almost successful honeymoon reach Fort Mackinac, Mich. Here the plot thickens and "with the best intentions" the bride shows most unreasonable jealousy and is aided by her very unscrupulous mother in making her husband very uncomfortable. Incidentally Miss Woolson's "Anne" is mentioned, criticised, and freely quoted. The historical associations of Mackinac are also worked into this tale of conjugal misunderstanding.

Harris, J. Andrews. Bible study; the Calvinistic doctrine of election and reproduction no part of St. Paul's teachings. Phil., Porter & Coates, 1890. 3-101 p. D. pap., net, 50 c.

Hatch, Mary R. P. The bank tragedy: a novel. N. Y., Welch, Fracker Co., 1890. c. 2+427 p. ill. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 50 c.

On Decoration Day, 1888, the patriotic little town of Derby is startled by the disappearance of the bank cashier, a prominent and much liked citizen. He is found in the vault of the bank gagged and shot, and the story deals with the many theories of his death, ranging from suspicion of suicide to suspicion of his murder by an old school-mate. A mysterious family relationship and a peculiar will are found to be at the bottom of the "bank tragedy."

Hatton, Jos. By order of the Czar: a novel. N. Y., G. Munro, [J. W. Lovell Co., 1890.] 2-392 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1429.) pap., 20 c.

Heimbürg, W., [pseud. for Bertha Behrens.] Cloister Wendhausen; from the German by Mary E. Almy. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1890. 4-253 p. D. (Globe lib., v. 1, no. 127.) pap., 25 c.

A translation of this novel by Mrs. J. W. Davis was published under the title of "Magdalen's fortunes" by R. Worthington Co. See notice in "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 14, '89, [933].

Help from the hills: thoughts on the mountains of the Bible. N. Y., F. H. Revell, 1890. 96 p. 12°, cl., 40 c.

James, Edmund J. The canal and the railway; with a note on the development of railway passenger traffic. [Also] Canals and their economic relation to transportation, by Lewis M. Haupt. N. Y., American Economic Assoc., [G. E. Stechert,] 1890. 4-85 p. O. (Publications of the American Economic Assoc., v. 5, nos. 3, 4.) pap., $1.

James, Herbert. The country clergyman and his work: six lectures on pastoral theology, delivered in the Divinity School, Cambridge, May Term, 1889. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 196 p. 12°, cl., $1.75.

Johnson, J. The defence of Charleston Harbor, including Fort Sumter and the adjacent islands, 1863-1865; with appendix cont. many original papers from both sides heretofore unpublished. Charleston, S. C., Daniel Ravenel, 12 Broad St., 1890. 8°. cl. subrs., $4. hf. rus., $5.

Johnson, S. Theodore Parker: a lecture; ed. by J. H. Clifford and Horace L. Traubel. Chic., C. H. Kerr & Co., 1890. c. 31-78 p. D. cl., $1.

This lecture was delivered by the author of "Oriental religions" in 1863, shortly after the death of Theodore Parker. Since his own death in 1882 this lecture has been found among his papers and it is thought a timely contribution to the literature now being issued by religious liberals of various schools. The lecture does not give detailed biographical data, but is a profound spiritual estimate of the character and services of Theodore Parker, who in his day stood alone "as the popularizer of thought, as the reducer of all wisdom to that simplicity and clearness which is the seizing of it with the whole soul and the giving of it with the whole heart for practical and universal good."

Kellett, F. W. Pope Gregory the Great, and his relations with Gaul. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 120 p. 12°, cl., 90 c.

Kesteven, W. B., M.D. Home doctoring: a guide to domestic medicine and surgery. N. Y., F: Warne & Co., 1889. 3+156 p. il. D. cl., 50 c.

The aim of this little book is to advise briefly and clearly what to do in case of accidents and ailments that may occur beyond the reach of professional aid. It is divided into five sections. 1, Introductory observations on disease and sickness; 2, Accidents, diseases, and symptoms, alphabetically arranged; 3, Poisoning and its treatment; 4, On the management of the sick-room, nursing, diet, etc.; 5, Medicines and their doses. Index.

Lothrop, Ht. M. ["Margaret Sidney," pseud.] Five little Peppers midway: a sequel to "Five little Peppers and how they grew;" il. by W. L. Taylor. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1890.] c. 2-512 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

A sequel to "Five little Peppers and how they grew," published in 1881 and reissued in cheap form in 1889. Polly, Ben, Davie, Joel, and Phronsie all reappear, so do their friends the Kings and the Whitneys, and the dear "little brown house" is as happy a home as ever. The Peppers are a little richer and more fashionable, but not at all spoiled. The excitements of this part of their lives include Dick's broken arm, a real burglar, Phronsie getting lost, and a wedding which gives the "Peppers" a new father. The book is full of sunshine and all the old-time laughings, scamperings, story-tellings, coastings, strawrides, baking-frolics, etc.

Dr. Granville Moody was born in Portland, Me., Jan. 2, 1812. He entered the ministry at a time when it was necessary for Methodists "to contend for the faith." He was active in all the controversies of his day, being a proficient speaker and writer. During the Civil War he held a commission in a Western regiment. His autobiography gives a good picture of the pioneer life of the West. He was an earnest and gifted preacher, religious without bigotry, and always ready to speak for freedom in all things.

- Prindle, H. B. A popular treatise on the electric railway. Bost., E. B. Stillings & Co., [1890.] 2-58 p. il. D. pap., 50 c.
- It has been the aim of the author to describe the electric railway system in such language that the reader who is unfamiliar with technical terms can readily understand the construction of the apparatus, and the functions of various appliances used in the electrical propulsion of street-cars. — Preface
- Pyat, Félix. The rag-picker of Paris, from the French, by B. R. Tucker. Bost., B. R. Tucker, 1890. 5-317 p. por. O. cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
- Pyat has made a novel of his successful drama of the same name, and Benj. R. Tucker has faithfully translated its most "salient" phrases. The contrast between the lives of the rich and poor of Paris, the power of the priests, the injustice of civil functionaries were all brought home to the poor rag-picker, who saved a rich man from suicide and learned a lesson he never forgot of the duty of every created being to do his best just where he has been placed. The author speaks with French freedom of many things generally left unmentioned.
- Richards, J. The law of wages, the rate and amount. San Francisco, The Industrial Pub. Co., [40 California St., N. Y., E. & F. N. Spon.] [1890.] c. 54 p. S. pap., 25 c.
- Prepared mainly with a view of contributing something to a better understanding and consequently to allaying what is called "labor disturbance" between workmen and their employers. It is not written in the interest of capital, labor, free trade, protection, or a class, but in the interest of economic truth and in support of facts and principles that in no way depend upon mere opinions. — Preface

- Ross, Albert. In Stella's shadow. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1890. c. 4-350 p. D. (Albatross novels) pap., 50 c.
- It is claimed that the purpose of this novel, and of its predecessors by the same author, is to elevate the morals of mankind. He depicts humanness in its bald reality and thus hopes to rob vice of its allurements. He endows Stella with a few good traits and all the vices of her class, he gives Ray Tremaine and General Vallance sterling virtues but makes them powerless to resist the forces of vice. They struggle through their various encounters with Stella, one making no effort at resistance, the other sometimes succumbing to her toils, able only to triumph by fleeing from revolting scenes and personages.
- Ruskin, J. Precious thoughts. N. Y., J. Wiley & Sons, 1890. 490 p. 16°. (Ruskin lib.) cl., $1.
- Seawell, Molly Elliot. Throckmorton: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1890. c. 304 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 55.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.
- A story of a lowland Virginia neighborhood "cut off from the rest of the world and wrapped in profound stillness." The events occur immediately after the Civil War. Throckmorton has been a Colonel in the Northern army, a fact that makes his coming back to his ancient Southern estates not quite so joyous as he had hoped. His courtship of a charming girl, the mischievous interference of his grown son, his disappointment and final settling down are told with many touches of humor and pathos. The author is said to be a niece of ex-President Tyler.
- Shakespeare, W. Julius Caesar; with introduction and notes, by K. Deighton. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 31+184 p. 12°. cl., 40 c.

- "Gath" is an expert in American history. In this romance he takes the relationship of Mrs. Reynolds, a famous American woman of her day, and Alexander Hamilton, her acquaintance with Aaron Burr and the Priestleys, and weaves a story showing how the fortunes of our great land almost depended upon the wish and whim of a vain ignorant woman. She is said to have been the real cause of the duel between Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton, in which the ostensible cause was political revenge. All the famous men of the American Revolution are brought in.
- Trevert, E. Everybody's handbook of electricity; with glossary of electrical terms and tables for incandescent wiring. 4th ed. Lynn, Mass., Bubier Pub. Co., 1890. c. '89. 2-120 p. il. D. pap., 25 c.
- The writer invites the reader to follow him in a brief outline of the rapid advancement that practical application of electricity to motive power, etc., has taken in the last few years, and to accept the facts which he has obtained from some of the best electricians in the country. He avoids technicalities as far as possible.
- Trevert, E. How to make electric batteries at home. Lynn, Mass., Bubier Pub. Co., 1890. c. '89. 2-42 p. il. S. pap., 25 c.
- Contains the necessary information for making simple, substantial, and practical electric batteries, both closed and open circuit, which can be used for experimental purposes, ringing electric bells, operating telegraph lines, or running small electric motors, incandescent lamps, etc.
- Victor, Mrs. M. V. Guilty or not guilty? or, Dora Elmyr's worst enemy. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1890.] c. 4-253 p. D. (Select ser., no. 49.) pap., 25 c.
- A young girl disappears from her home on the borders of the Hudson River. Her brother and lover set out to find her. They have many adventures, and the brother's mind is affected by sorrow until he believes himself guilty of his sister's murder. Covetousness and family feuds are the causes of much hardship, crime, and even bloodshed.
- Vincent, Frank. In and out of Central America, and other sketches and studies of travel. N. Y., Appleton, 1890. c. 5+246 p. por. map and il. D. cl., $2.
- "Around and about South America" showed the author's special knack of picking up information on interesting peculiarities of new scenes and putting it into brisk narrative form. This book is the result of extensive travel through Central America, whose wealth the author says is decidedly more in vegetable than mineral resources. The latter part of the book is given to sketches of Farther India and the Antilles. An interesting chapter treats of the white elephant, an object of worship in the East.

In this volume Mr. Whistler has collected the records of his controversies with various eminent persons with whom during an eventful life he has come in collision. For the last twenty years there has been contention in the realms of art, and in certain domains of literature contiguous thereto between the old order and the new, and Mr. Whistler has been foremost on the side of the new artistic departures. Mr. Whistler is a fighter and a brilliant wit and may claim rare merit as a writer on art and a critic of contemporary artists. He lacks tolerance and charity, but has the courage of his opinions. His famous "Ten o'clock" lecture included in this volume is a calmer utterance proving him a man of artistic genius and strong enthusiasm. The publication is a gem of dainty book-making, printed on fine paper with wide margins and decorations consisting chiefly of Mr. Whistler's sign-manual, the butterfly.

Williams, J. L. & Son, comp. 1890 manual of investments: important facts and figures regarding Southern investment securities. Richmond, Va., J. L. Williams & Son, [1890.] 344 p. O. cl., limited ed., $2.

The railroad reports are worthy of special attention, bringing information down to March, April, and May, 1890, and giving a clear idea of the general physical and financial condition of the roads. Through this manual the public gets this information some six months in advance of its publication by other leading railroad authorities.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 26, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SECOND-CLASS POSTAGE ON BOOKS.

THE Postmaster-General has written, under date of July 9, an elaborate letter, the essential portions of which we print elsewhere, favoring the bill now pending in Congress, raising the rate of postage on paper-covered books now classed as "periodicals" to one cent for each two ounces, by classifying them as third-class matter instead of as second-class at the bulk rate of one cent per pound.

This letter, which is intended to review the whole subject, finds its occasion and text in the argument of Mr. Patrick Farrelly, of the American News Company, before the House Committee, against the proposed change. The Postmaster-General speaks of Mr. Farrelly as the representative of the publishing interests, but it has never been clear that the interests of the publishing trade and of the book trade at large were the same as those of the American News Company in this matter.

The Postmaster-General, not being fully acquainted with the history of his Department, is clearly wrong in his contention that there is no evidence to show that it was intended, at the time of the passage of the Act of 1879, under which current postal decisions are made, to include the so-called "libraries" under the designation of "periodicals." The Act of 1879 was originally prepared by the Post-Office Department, and practically by Judge A. H. Bissell, whose death some years since was a serious loss both to the Department and to the business public.

This draft included a clause excepting from second-class or bulk rates, "publications which, although issued in regular series or successive numbers, are but books or reprints of books."

The act was originally drafted in or before 1878, and was the subject of an important Postal Conference, which, at the suggestion of the Department and by the courtesy of Postmaster James, was held in the Postmaster's room of the New York Post-Office, October 9, 1878, and succeeding days. This included publishers and other business-men having large postal relations, from other cities as well as from New York, as well as representatives of the Department and of the New York Post-Office. At that Conference the publishing trade was represented by Mr. J. W. Harper, who acted as temporary Chairman, H. O. Houghton, A. C. Barnes, H. E. Simmons, Chas. Hutchins, and others. The permanent Chairman was Mr. Elwood E. Thorn, of the New York Board of Trade, and Mr. H. E. Simmons, then Business Manager of the American Tract Society, was the permanent Secretary.

At this Conference, of which full details will be found in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for October 5, 12, and 19, 1878, the proposed act was submitted by the Post-Office Department through Judge Bissell, and the sections were considered in detail. The question whether the cheap quartos in so-called "libraries" should be admitted to the bulk rate was one of the points most discussed, and Mr. Farrelly, who was a member of the Conference, took strong ground in favor of their inclusion, in which position he was not, however, generally supported by the representatives of the publishing trade. The Messrs. Harper had, however, started the Franklin Square Library about the middle of that year, and their representative acquiesced in rather than supported Mr. Farrelly's contention. When the Conference adjourned, after passing resolutions summing up its conclusions in general, it left the final details to the care of an Executive Committee, which afterward reported certain modifications of the bill, which modifications dropped the clause quoted above. The bill was carried as amended, and the evidence is therefore perfectly good that it was the intent of the bill to include these publications under second-class rates. The Postmaster-General to the contrary notwithstanding, it is not infrequently the custom to construe a bill by its history, where the text is silent or gives only negative information.

Since this law was passed, the cheap quartos have been succeeded by "libraries" of complete books, in the ordinary book form, so that the semblance of newspaper shape which these series originally had has altogether disappeared. It is doubtless true that the cheap-rate postage has assisted in the wide distribution of the cheap quartos, and very probably they have done more or less educating work. They have, however, had their day, and it is fair matter of doubt whether their educative influence has more than offset the demoralization of the publishing trade and its distributing machinery which they have helped to bring about.

The present law has enabled the American News Company, in particular, to distribute a large proportion of its sales very economically to itself, and it has been of similar service to the publishers of cheap "libraries." On the other hand, every eleemosynary institution which does business at less than cost interferes more or less seriously with the ordinary machinery of business. It is almost impossible to build up a retail book trade, which is, in itself, an educating influence, at remote centres where the government delivers books by mail at less than cost, and, of course, at much less than the cost of expressage to the dealer on his bound books. This was the view of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY when this bill was originally under discussion, as will be seen by the following extracts :

This omission is supported by the American News Co. in the interest of the cheap libraries. It is difficult to see why they should be admitted at bulk rates, when the paper-covered octavo novels, as Harper's Select Library, containing exactly the same matter but on a different size page, are excluded.—October 5, 1878.

The committee will doubtless strongly favor registration, and it is not unlikely that it will accept the admission to bulk rates, urged by Mr. Harper and Mr. Farrelly, of the "cheap libraries," which are scarcely periodicals in any fair use of the word. They are entitled to respect as a means of popular education, but have the same rights as other books, and no more, to postal privileges.—October 19, 1878.

The pending bill omits altogether not only the detailed proviso against merely advertising sheets, but also the proviso excluding "publications which are but books or reprints of books" from bulk rates. By this omission, not only are the cheap libraries given a privilege above the identical matter in other shape (as the Harper brown paper octavo), but there is nothing to prevent the admission at bulk rates of subscription-books issued in parts—another blow at the regular trade, which surely suffers enough already. It is somewhat extraordinary that the publishers represented in the Executive Committee of the Postal Conference endorsed this omission, which is not in the interests of "justice, simplicity, uniformity" at all, but the explanation is that they did not desire to take ground which should seem to be in selfish advocacy of their own immediate interests. The result is a decided injustice, against which also the book trade should enter protest. The provisos ought to be restored.—Jan. 11, 1879.

It is an open question to-day, whether this allowance of cheap postage on certain forms of books, contrasting extremely with the postal or express rates on more permanent forms of books, does more good than harm. The chief beneficiaries to-day would be not so much the people as the American News Company and the new United States Book Company. The bill urged by the Postmaster-General might have the effect, by taking off the below-cost competition of the government, of strengthening the distributing machinery of the book trade and by increasing the number of retail stores at small centres doing vastly more for the education and culture of the people than is accomplished by the low rate of the present law. On this point, however, it is difficult to form an absolute opinion.

THE Philadelphia Ledger, in a recent issue, prints the following remarkable statement from Julian Hawthorne: "I have no doubt that you have been cheated by a publisher. I know I often have been. There are few or no authors that have not; but I became convinced many years ago that it is vain to attempt to remedy the abuse or get back what you have been robbed of." We wonder it did not occur to Mr. Hawthorne to specify who it was that "cheated" him. It must have been one of the few firms that published his books. Who is it, Mr. Hawthorne? Let us have the names.

POSTAGE ON PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS CONTAINING THE PRINT OR REPRINT OF BOOKS.

THE Postmaster-General, under date of July 9, 1890, addressed a letter to the chairman of the Committee on the Post-Office and Post-Roads in advocacy of bill H. R. 7558, which proposes to make the rate of postage on paper-covered books issued periodically one cent for every two ounces or fraction thereof, the rate now prescribed by law for all other paper-covered books, as well as for books having a more substantial form of binding. His letter is chiefly directed against the argument of Mr. P. Farrelly, of the American News Company, to which frequent references are made. With unimportant omissions we give the letter below almost in full:

OFFICE OF THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL, }
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9, 1890. }

Hon. Henry H. Bingham, Chairman Committee on the Post Office and Post-Roads:

SIR: I respectfully present, for the information of yourself and your committee, the following statement in advocacy of bill H. R. 7558, which proposes to make the rate of postage on paper-covered books issued periodically one cent for every two ounces or fraction thereof—the rate now prescribed by law for all other paper-covered books, as well as for books having a more substantial form of binding. . . .

Mr. Farrelly, the spokesman of the publishers who, on two recent occasions, appeared before your committee in opposition to the bill, has to some extent gone into the history of these things, whether with entire accuracy or with sufficient fulness it is hardly worth while to inquire. It is enough for me to say concerning them that from the time when printed matter of all kinds began to be admitted into the mails until now, Congress has thought it proper to make a marked distinction between newspapers and magazines on the one hand (including what are somewhat indefi-nately designated as periodicals), and books on the other; the former being encouraged by the allowance of postage rates very considerably less than those granted to the latter; and this distinction, due, no doubt, to the powerful influence which the newspaper press has always exerted upon legislation, and not to the idea that a newspaper or a magazine, in either a moral or an educational sense, is of any greater value than a book, has given rise to considerable dissatisfaction among book publishers—a dissatisfaction that has manifested itself through nearly half a century of postal history, by a constant struggle to have certain classes of paper-covered books recognized as periodicals, and that has undoubtedly done much to induce publishers, with the view of reducing postage charges, to give the character of periodicity to that large and increasing mass of cheap books, now going through the mails as second-class matter, which it is the intention of the bill under consideration to relegate to its legitimate place in postal classification. . . .

Here follows a lengthy discussion as to what was the intention of Congress in enacting the law of March 3, 1879, so far as concerns the rate of postage on serial books.

Partly to show what a periodical is, Mr. Farrelly, in his argument, refers in the following terms to an opinion which he says was given to the Post-Office Department in 1878 by the Attorney-General of the United States relative to certain serial publications then going through the mails:

"I have a document here, which I received from the Postmaster at New York, dated the 27th day of November, 1878, excluding certain publications, and the Attorney-General was then appealed to to interpret the law, and he decided that in each case these periodicals that it is now proposed to exclude were admissible under the law."

There are now before me volumes 15 and 16 of the Opinions of the Attorney-General, covering the period from the beginning of 1875 to the close of 1880, and after careful examination thereof I have been unable to find any opinion at all with reference to serial publications given at the time Mr. Farrelly mentions. But I do find that on July 28, 1877, the Attorney-General gave an opinion, in which he held that the Lakeside Library—no other publication being in question—was a periodical, and entitled to the low rate of postage prescribed for newspapers under the act of June 23, 1874. This is probably the opinion that Mr. Farrelly refers to. Whether it be so or not, let us see what weight it should have in determining the present question:

In the first place, it was given nearly two years prior to the passage of the act which now governs the classification of mail matter, and decides the question merely as to the rights of one publication under a law—the act of June 23, 1874—which does not attempt to define what a periodical is. If then accepted by the Postmaster-General as a guide for his action, the principle embodied in it might have been applied to other cases; but it is absurd to say that it should have any weight in determining the character of a publication under the present law, which not only repeals the old one, but prescribes conditions relative to second-class matter which had never before been the subject of any United States statute.

In the next place, I do not know, and have no present means of ascertaining, that the Lakeside

Library is identical in character with the serials now in question. But I am inclined to hazard the assertion that it is not quite the same; for the Attorney-General several times refers to it as a literary "paper," and once as a "magazine," having regular subscribers, and occasionally not complete in itself—certain "articles" he says, being continued from one number to another. In fact, the idea of its being a book, rather than a paper or magazine, does not seem to have entered into his mind in deciding the question. It must have been somewhat different from the serials now current; for the fact that these are books, each of them complete in itself, it seems to me, must be the first thought that would present itself to any one called upon to define their character.

Finally, the opinion of Attorney-General Devens would not determine the question now at issue, even though it related to the classification of the Lakeside Library under the law at present in force. I do not mean, of course, by this to question the value of any opinion given by so eminent a lawyer as Mr. Devens, or to intimate that he was any more likely to give a wrong opinion than other men. But he was fallible, as we all are, and his opinion, far from being a guide to us now, was not binding, beyond perhaps the requirements of official etiquette and good taste, even upon the officer to whom he gave it. The question, moreover, as he himself said, was one of fact, or of mixed law and fact, which enables even a layman to give his judgment on it without presumption; and as such I venture to say that if his opinion could be construed to hold that any publication, such as the law-books of the Blackstone Publishing Company, for example, which are among those now under consideration, are periodicals within the meaning of the law, the opinion is incorrect, and I should not feel bound, apart from other considerations, to respect it.

WHAT IS THE REAL MEANING OF THE PRESENT LAW?

Having disposed of the principal points made by the opponents of the bill, let us see, if possible, what is the real meaning of the act of March 3, 1879, so far as it applies to the rates of postage on books and periodicals:

Section 16 of this act provides that third-class matter shall embrace books, transient newspapers and periodicals, etc., and that the rate of postage thereon shall be one cent for every two ounces or fraction thereof. Here, it will be noticed, there is no qualification as to books: they are all—bound or unbound, large or small, numbered or not numbered, regularly or irregularly issued—placed in the third class of mail matter, and required to pay postage at the rate of a cent for every two ounces. Unless, therefore, it can be shown that elsewhere in the act a paper-covered book with a number or date on it is regarded as something else than a book, it seems to me that this single section is conclusive of the question; and after a close examination of the statute I fail to find anything in it that gives the least foundation to the idea that a book is under any circumstances to be regarded as a periodical.

With the view, however, of otherwise ascertaining whether the publications under consideration are books or not, let us examine a few authorities, including those quoted by Mr. Farrelly:

Webster says that a book is "a collection of sheets of paper or similar material, blank, written, or printed, bound together."

Worcester says that a book is "a printed literary composition, consisting of several sheets of paper stitched together or bound; a work; a volume."

Appletons' Encyclopædia says: "By the law of England a book is construed to mean and indicate every part or division of a volume."

Bouvier, in his Law Dictionary, gives the following definition of book: "A general name given to every literary composition which is printed, but appropriately to a printed composition bound in a volume."

These definitions, which in substance declare a book to be a distinct literary composition—something complete in itself—just as are the serial books now under consideration, would seem also to be decisive of the case, although Mr. Farrelly insists that three of the definitions apply equally to periodicals—a claim which I shall presently show to be unfounded.

But let us go further; let us, in spite of the pertinacity with which Mr. Farrelly, all through his argument, calls these publications periodicals, see what the publishers themselves call them. The following statements made up from their own utterances, and which, if desirable, might be greatly extended, will indicate what is an indisputable fact, that there are but few instances where these publishers do not, in their advertisements, prospectuses, prefaces, or other forms of public announcement of the issue or merits of these works, refer to them as books—not inadvertently or thoughtlessly, but as if there were no other fit designation for them.

The Postmaster-General then quotes from the circulars and announcements of eighteen publishing houses to show that they in all cases speak of their libraries and serial publications as books, concluding as follows:

Robert Bonner's Sons, speaking of "A Mad Betrothal," which is No. 1 of their Choice Series, say: "Miss Libbey's new novel is one of the most fascinating books of the year." The same publishers, speaking of "Her Double Life" (which, although No. 3 of their Choice Series, is also No. 1 of the New York Ledger Library), say: "The issuing of this beautiful story—"Her Double Life"—in book form inaugurates the New York Ledger Library, which will comprise a series of the choicest and most popular stories that have been published in the Ledger during the last quarter of a century."

I make this the last quotation from the utterances of publishers of this class of works, because it very happily illustrates, though unintentionally, the exact difference between a periodical and a book. The New York Ledger, in which "Her Double Life" was originally printed—a publication appearing every week with unfailing regularity, being sent largely to actual bona fide subscribers, having a genuine subscription price, and being made up by editorial care and management—is and always has been, a periodical. "Her Double Life," appearing now, as the publishers say, in book form, without any real regard to regularity of issue (because sold whenever it may be called for, and to anybody who may want it), not having perhaps any subscribers unless chance purchasers be so called—being, in a word, different in no respect from the cloth-bound edition, advertised side by side with it, except as to price and binding, and not made up with the care or in the manner with which the periodical was issued—is a book, and nothing more nor less.

But, not confining ourselves to what the lexicons and the publishers say about this matter, let us see what the press, which represents the common sense of the people, thinks of it. I regret that I have not had an opportunity of gathering more than the following quotations from this source, which, however, have all been reproduced by the publishers of the works alluded to in them, and which take in only the paper-covered or serial editions now going through the mails as matter of the second class.

Here twenty prominent newspapers are quoted from the publishers' announcements to prove the Postmaster-General's point that the press in reviewing these publications treat them as books, not as periodicals.

WHAT IS MEANT BY THE TERM "PERIODICAL."

By the act of March 3, 1879—the law now in force—second-class matter is made to embrace "newspapers and other periodical publications," the following conditions being prescribed as the rule upon which any such publications shall be admitted:

"First. It must regularly be issued at stated intervals as frequently as four times a year, and bear a date of issue, and be numbered consecutively.

"Second. It must be issued from a known office of publication.

"Third. It must be formed of printed paper sheets, without board, cloth, leather, or other substantial binding, such as distinguish printed books for preservation from periodical publications.

"Fourth. It must be originated and published for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, arts, or some special industry, and having a legitimate list of subscribers. Provided that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to admit to the second-class rate regular publications designed primarily for advertising purposes or for circulation at nominal rates."

An analysis of these provisions of law—taking not merely their strict literal signification, but their evident intent—will, I think, show that under them a book, whether in paper covers or not, is inadmissible as second class mail matter under any circumstances.

In the first place, let it be borne in mind that the four conditions prescribed do not constitute the test of what a periodical is, but merely the test of admissibility to the second-class of mail matter. The following example will illustrate the distinction. The North American Review, issued twelve times a year, is not a periodical simply because it conforms to the above conditions; it would be none the less a periodical if it were issued only three times a year, provided its character were otherwise unchanged. So, likewise, the New York Herald, a daily newspaper, would, retaining all its other existing features, still be a newspaper if, instead of having a subscription price, it were given away by the publishers. The effect of the change in either of these cases would be simply to deprive the publishers of the privilege of sending their periodicals through the mails at the second-class rate of postage.

Bearing this obvious fact in mind, and, further, that the law fails to define a periodical publication, we must assume that Congress, in using this term, meant to include what were and are popularly known as periodicals, and not what are known as books. For why, it may not be unreasonably asked, did Congress, in prescribing what should constitute second-class matter, use the expression "newspapers and other periodical publications," instead of the word "periodicals"? Was it not to indicate that the newspaper, which is, by the expression quoted, a "periodical publication," is to be regarded as a representative, a criterion, of the whole class, or, in other words, that the term "other periodical publications" shall be understood as embodying somewhat the general characteristics of a newspaper? And as a newspaper requires editorial care and management—as it is made up generally of current literature, or news, or editorials, or other matter, original and selected, according to its class or general purpose—as it has a being, voice, a character, an individuality, which nothing in it, separately taken, can possibly have—as it is, in short, a production, and not a mere name, consisting of things which people invariably look for at stated times, and therefore subscribe for and demand—so any "other periodical" must be of the same general nature. If we examine the entire field of what is commonly termed periodical literature, we will find that this description universally applies, and is, therefore, a just one. Even in the opinion of the Attorney-General of the United States, heretofore discussed, which Mr. Farrelly so confidently relies upon, a definition of a periodical is given which seems to exclude serial books. Says this officer: A periodical publication is "a printed, literary paper, printed and published periodically, in numbers or parts, at definite intervals." This, assuredly, does not take in books.

If we look closely at the character of the conditions prescribed for the admission of these periodical publications, we will find that this view of the matter is verified. Why, for example, should the law require that a publication, to be entitled to admission to the second class, shall be published "as frequently as four times a year, and bear a date of issue, and be numbered consecutively"? Evidently because these are among the almost invariable indications of a genuine periodical; because they constitute, either wholly or singly, something necessary to either the publication or its subscribers; because they serve, legitimately used, to distinguish a periodical from a book. But are these things of the least consequence as conditions governing the publication of such books as those we are now considering? Can any one suppose that a date of issue or a consecutive numbering makes these books in any wise different from other books? Can regularity of issue be of any value in the case of the book? Who is to complain of the failure to issue at the stated time? Who is to care, indeed? So far as these things are concerned, a bound book might just as appropriately be called second-class matter as the paper-covered one.

The second condition of the law is that the periodical "must be issued from a known office of publication." This, as applied to periodicals, is a requirement of considerable value. As a rule, a real periodical must have a known office of publication, to which advertisements, articles of publication, subscriptions, inquiries, etc., must be sent. In this way its genuineness may at any time be investigated. By this its value to subscribers, to advertisers, to seekers after special information, is to some extent not infrequently determined. But of what significance is this in the case of serial books? What does it matter whether these have any local habitation or not? It is absurd to suppose that in their case a known office of publication is of the least moment, so far as concerns the question as to whether they are books or periodicals.

It is not necessary to refer to the third condition of the law, except to say that its unmistakable purpose is simply to prohibit the admission of bound books to the second class.

The fourth condition is one of special importance, because it includes certain general principles governing the publication of all genuine periodicals which are not possessed by probably a single one of all the numerous libraries and series which Mr. Farrelly represents. To be admitted to the second class, a periodical must, under this condition, be published "for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, arts, or some special industry, and having a legitimate list of subscribers." Harper's Magazine, for example, is admissible under this rule, because it has a legitimate list of subscribers, and is devoted to one or more of the several things detailed. So is the New York Tribune for the same reasons; so is Lippincott's Magazine, notwithstanding Mr. Farrelly appears to think, because it usually contains an entire story, that under the pending bill it would be excluded; so, to be brief, are all of the thousands of legitimate newspapers and other periodicals which every day and week and month regularly appear throughout the cities and villages of our country, and which, possessing the life, and character, and voice of periodicals, do so much to elevate and instruct and help their subscribers and readers.

But in what respect can any of the serials represented by Mr. Farrelly be said to comply with the above-stated conditions? They have no legitimate list of subscribers, unless newsdealers and chance purchasers be claimed as such; and this is incontestably not what the law regards as subscribers. They are not published for the dissemination of news, and they are devoted to nothing which the law mentions. In fact, these serials have no individuality whatever as periodicals. Take any single issue of any of them, and what is it but a book? There is nothing in it which devotes it to any particular thing—nothing in the way of editorial or comment upon things or passing events, art, science, or literature, nothing to indicate its purpose, no utterance and no existence, except as a book. In that respect its entity is undeniable and complete; but as a periodical it is a myth. Even its serial title shows it to be so, for that is put down in a majority of cases, together with the number, date, and seeming terms of subscription, in inconspicuous types and in a position that sometimes requires a search to find it—almost as if the publisher were ashamed to have them appear upon the work—while the title of the book is always prominent and runs entirely through it. In the pagination, the indexing, the tables of contents, the prefaces, dedications, advertisements, and prices, the book invariably appears, while the alleged periodical fails to give any real evidence of existence. To say that any series of these books bears the least resemblance to such magazines as Harper's, Scribner's, The Century, Outing, etc., as Mr. Farrelly pertinaciously insists, is almost farcical. They are totally different, and their serial names, their professed objects, and their other nominal characteristics are beyond doubt given them solely to have them mailed at the low rate of postage.

To sum up, the law governing this matter was intended by Congress to admit to the second class, not books of any kind (for they are, as hereinbefore shown, included in the third class), but generally newspapers and periodicals properly so called, and of these only such as are published as often as four times a year, and which, being issued thus frequently under forms legitimately and customarily employed by genuine publications of this kind, have a character such as to require the publishers to obtain and in a measure to depend upon subscriptions, and such as naturally to induce people to subscribe for them, and to demand their regular issue.

SHOULD THE BOOK RATE OF POSTAGE ON SERIALS BE EXACTED?

I have endeavored in the foregoing part of this argument to show that serial publications, such as Mr. Farrelly represents, are not periodicals, and that the law, properly understood, does not warrant their admission into the mails as such. And I do not hesitate to say, so firm is my conviction of this, that if the introduction of these serials were now involved—that is to say, if they were offered for the first time for mailing as second-class matter—I should, as the executive officer of the government having such things in charge, rule them to be of the third class. But as they seem to have been admitted, though I cannot find out exactly how or when, by some one of my predecessors, and are now in a measure put on an equality with real newspapers and other periodicals, the question to be decided is, after all, whether they shall continue to enjoy this privilege. My opinion is, that they should not, and I submit the following facts as the basis of this opinion:

(1) The carriage in the mails of these books at a cent a pound is very much below the cost to the government. I cannot state exactly what the loss is, but it probably aggregates four or five times as much as the postage on the books amounts to. There seems to me to be no necessity for this heavy tax on the postal service, and nothing in the character of the literature in question that renders it reasonable even. For some reason, good or not, Congress has always thought it proper to give exceptional privileges to newspapers, and for many years to magazines and other similar periodicals also. But there is no instance of its ever having deemed it expedient to so favor books, and I can see no cause for it now—certainly no reason for favoring this particular class. Furthermore, the number of these paper-covered books going through the mails under the guise of periodicals is now so very great, and, by reason of new additions constantly being made to the list of the publishers of them, the number is being so enormously increased that it seems almost a necessity, both as a measure of finance and of convenience to the postal service, to bring about a change.

(2) The privilege given to the publishers of these serial books creates a distinction between them and the publishers of other books which I regard as unfair. There can be no good reason why the publishers of paper-covered books that appear once in six months or once a year, or of a single book, should be required to pay a higher rate of postage than the publisher of those that come out every month or every quarter. So far as the postal revenue is affected, the books being carried at a heavy loss, it would be infinitely better to reverse the rule.

(3) The privilege in question is also a discrimination against the publishers of books in other than paper bindings. Why should this be? Is there any good reason why a book that is temporal and flimsy in its construction should be favored over one that is suitable for preservation? If any reason for discrimination at all existed, would it not appear to be in favor of the book which, being strongly made and therefore apparently more worthy of preservation, will last for the good of others than the purchaser rather than of the book which is thrown aside after it has served the purpose of its purchase?

(4) The privilege given to serial books is not merely discriminative, it is subject to constant abuse. If regularity of issue, for example, be essential in determining whether these books are entitled to admission to the second class or not the Department has no means, without the exercise of costly and continued watchfulness, of enforcing the requirement. Unlike the case of a genuine periodical, where the wants and expectations of hundreds or thousands of subscribers demand and secure regularity of issue, there is nobody in the case of the book to care about or complain of irregularity; it is a thing of no importance. And so it has come about that many of the books in question are issued without any regard to regularity, the publisher's convenience alone determining that matter. Some of them appear without even any statement as to the frequency of its issue. So also as to the legitimate list of subscribers, which the law imposes as a condition precedent to the entry of periodicals as second-class matter; there is very little opportunity of knowing that the law is really complied with. The probability always is that there are either no subscribers at all, or none to speak of. In some cases, indeed, the advertised cost of single issues is much less than the purchaser would pay if he really subscribed for the books by the month or year—affording almost absolute proof that no subscriptions exist.

Again, in the case of genuine periodicals, comparatively few back numbers are mailed. When such a publication is issued its mailings are known, and the publications can be scrutinized by the proper officials if found necessary and identified; but in the matter of books, having no connection one with another, little can be told from the mailing of them; back numbers are constantly being sent out, and in the case of a very popular book these back numbers often exceed the mailings of entirely new books. Postal officials can thus never be sure, especially where newsdealers are the mailing parties, whether the books really belong to the second or to the third class of mail matter. Furthermore, it is practically impossible for the postmaster at any other than the post-office where a serial book is published to be certain that it has been admitted to the second class or not, there being nothing to distinguish the book from any other paper-covered book; so that there is little doubt that third-class matter is not infrequently received and mailed as matter of the second class.

Still, again, when a real periodical is projected, and its publishers claim admission for it to the second class, its legitimacy is nearly always, in one way or another, determinable; in other words, it can be ascertained whether the thing is got up for some special purpose, which will be accomplished in one issue, or is intended for continuous and regular publication to paying subscribers. But in the case of the book, it is impossible to tell whether one book or more than one is to appear—whether the publisher, in a word, means to issue but a single volume (which no one denies would be third-class matter) and has simply resorted to the claim of periodicity to get it into the mails at a low rate of postage. I am the more disposed to look upon this as a matter of importance from the fact that I have before me several books belonging to three distinct series, issued by their authors, and comprehending in each case only the works of the author, where the character of periodicity is manifestly claimed only to secure cheap postage. In one of them, indeed, the author plainly states that he is not sure of issuing more than the one volume.

RESULT IF BOOK RATE ON SERIALS BE CHARGED.

One of the effects of an increase of rate on serial books will be an increase of postal revenue, which is mainly desirable as a means of increasing the general improvement and efficiency of the postal service.

Another effect will be to reduce somewhat the volume of matter of this kind sent by mail. Mr. Farrelly, as the manager of the American News Company, states that he now transmits about 80 per cent. of all publications handled by him by other means than by post; if the pending bill becomes a law, this percentage would no doubt be increased. But that is not undesirable, from a postal point of view, because it will relieve overworked postal employes now in the service, or will tend to reduce the ratio of their increase and the ratio of expenditure in this and other branches of the postal service.

It will also, by putting these books into their appropriate class of mail matter, give more definiteness to the class they are now admitted to, and will thus enable the Department to give greater security to its revenues.

It will not seriously affect the business of the publishers of this class of books, for, as before said, it will simply divert some of the matter to other methods of transportation, leaving but a trifling addition to present cost, which should be ungrudgingly borne by the publishers or shared between them and their patrons.

Neither will it tend to reduce the number of these books now being issued. Wherever there is a market for such literature there will be a supply, and the matter of postage rates will hardly be considered. And just here it is not inappropriate to say that a good deal of false sentiment has been indulged in by publishers and their advocates as to the beneficence of the government in fostering the issue of cheap books. In the first place, postage rates are not based on sentiment; and secondly, other influences have had immeasurably greater control over these things than statutes. The lightning press, the folding machine, the roll instead of the sheet of paper for printing purposes, the more economical packing and freighting of materials, the introduction of wood paper, the absence of an international copyright law, enabling publishers to reprint books without authorial expense, the increasing wealth of the country, bringing about increasing demands—all these have brought cheap literature into existence, and these, with further and perhaps more potent influences yet to come, no matter what may be the rates of postage, will encourage it more and more, until the poorest man in the land can have his library, even if it be in ungilded covers, at a price which will not seriously trench upon his other and less intellectual wants.

Yours, very respectfully,

JNO. WANAMAKER, Postmaster-General.

AN ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF A UNIFORM RATE OF POSTAGE.

THE following was addressed to the editor of The Newsman under date of June 4, 1890:

"DEAR SIR: Now that the bill relating to postage on the second-class mail matter is before Congress for consideration, it appears to us proper that the book publishers of the country should throw light on a certain feature which has for a long time operated to the serious damage of legitimate trade. Books are mailable as third-class matter at one cent for two ounces, but certain publishers who issue what are known as the cheap 'libraries,' have managed to obtain for their publications a second-class rate of one cent per pound. In nearly every case their books are merely reprints of those for which the legitimate publishers are compelled to pay the full rate as provided by law. The claim is made that their publications are serials because they are dated, numbered, and purport to be issued at stated periods, and this claim has been allowed, though in what way a complete book becomes a serial, even if dated, numbered, and issued at a stated period, is not clear, for a serial is composed of parts, and its very name indicates that it cannot be complete in itself. A newspaper or a magazine is properly a serial, but that a complete book can be so considered is absurd. The publishers of the cheap 'libraries' put a subscription rate on their issues, but that anomaly, a subscriber to a cheap library, cannot be found, and as the publishers sell their individual issues exclusively through the news companies to the retail dealers, it is fair to presume that the subscription rate is merely a blind to preserve the low rate of postage, and that they do not desire to be burdened with a subscription list. The natural result of sending complete books through the mails under the pretext that they are serials at one-eighth of what the legitimate publishers, who do not stoop to subterfuge, have to pay for precisely the same books, which are issued without a date, a number, or a subscription rate, is to unduly favor a few persons and enable them to largely undersell the legitimate publishing trade of the country. While it is clearly advisable in this enlightened age to place books at such low rates as to be within the reach of all, it is as clearly inadvisable and unjust to discriminate in postal charges between publishers who issue books squarely as books and those who issue books under the flimsy pretext that they are serials, to the serious disadvantage of the former. Books, no matter whether stamped as serials or not, if complete should be made mailable at a uniform rate of postage, WHETHER THAT RATE BE ONE OR EIGHT CENTS PER POUND. This would place all publishers on an equal footing and would attain the end of justice for which all laws are framed. The postal laws in regard to the mailing of books should be so altered and amended as to do away with the abuse we have mentioned, and their provisions made so clear and distinct that for the future it will be impossible for any one to distort technicalities for their own benefit and the injury of others. This is not a matter to be passed over lightly, as it involves the prosperity if not the very existence of the whole legitimate publishing trade of the country. We publish a '25c. series' of books, but have never entered them as second-class matter because we consider them books and not serials; this has operated to our great detriment, as we cannot send them to small dealers throughout the country at the same rate as the publishers of the so-called serials send their publications. The newspapers should spread this matter before the people, and Congress give it due consideration and the benefit of impartial legislation. Yours respectfully,

"T. B. PETERSON & BROS."

END OF THE "EVENING POST"-FUNK & WAGNALLS CONTROVERSY.

FUNK & WAGNALLS in The Voice for July 17 print the following letter sent by them to the New York Evening Post, in re their reprint of the "Encyclopædia Britannica," which, they state, the Post refused to print:

To the Editor of the Evening Post

We are sure that you and your readers will be interested in the following letter from Edinburgh, Scotland, which has just been shown us:

"... All our stories are regularly pirated by dozens of newspapers in all parts of the United States. We have never yet received one penny of compensation from any American newspaper or publisher, and the source from which our stories are taken is seldom or never acknowledged. We have contributors in Boston, New York, Chicago, etc., who give us the first offer of all their work, and have afterwards the pleasure of seeing their stories reprinted wholesale in the newspapers of their own cities! These men are naturally ashamed of their countrymen. Yours faithfully,

"THE EDITORS OF CHAMBERS' JOURNAL, EDINBURGH, SCOTLAND."

In running back over the volumes of the Evening Post, we find that your paper has been one of the most persistent of the "dozens" of American newspapers in "pirating" the stories of Chambers' Journal, an act which the editors of that journal says should make American authors "ashamed of their countrymen." We are deeply anxious to know your answer to this direct charge. You cannot this time belittle it. It comes from one of the most prominent of the Edinburgh publishers, a neighbor to the Messrs. Black. You must not set up the defence that all newspapers do it. You hooted at the defence that all book publishers, from "time out of mind," reprinted and handled foreign books "without explicit consent previously obtained." No honest man will give that excuse, you told us. Hence, you are stopped from giving it in reply to this Edinburgh charge against you of a "piracy" for which an American should be "ashamed." Nor can you again say in your defence that magazine publishers like to have their complete stories or other articles "stolen," if credit is given, as this serves to advertise their periodicals. You know better. The North American Review, The Arena, The Forum, have all served notice on the newspapers to stop this kind of "stealing," and have threatened recourse to law. The English and Scottish magazine publishers have done the same in Great Britain. Extracts they are willing to have you use, but complete articles and complete stories, never; and this is just your offence, and you have been guilty of it literally hundreds of times. Your attention is being directed to this point, you are glad to see, by your brother newspaper editors. The following friendly words we quote from the last issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

"You, dear Post, to adopt your favorite method of direct address, know perfectly well that you would not dare to reprint complete stories from Harper's or The Century as you reprint from the English magazines, on the plea that the publishers like it and that it advertises the excellence of their wares. The absence of law is a premium on dishonesty, and it leads very good people into very bad ways. Let us have LAW."

We say Amen to that whole paragraph. Do you?

Dare you say, in your justification against this charge of piracy by the Edinburgh Chambers' Journal, that it is a little thing "to steal" stories from foreign magazines in comparison with the taking of a book? Is the right or wrong of dishonesty to be measured that way? Are there degrees in stealing, ethically considered? Is it a defence for a thief to say, "I stole only $100; you stole $1000." But your theft is not a little one. The aggregate of your story "piracy" during the past two-score years foots up enormously. These stories of 4000 to 12,000 words each cost, at low average, $200. If you "steal" one a week, that would amount to $10,000 a year, which, in forty years, would aggregate the enormous sum of $400,000 worth of stories "stolen" by you "for profit" from the Chambers' Journal and other European magazines! But, say, your "theft" has averaged only one story in four weeks (it has been far more than that), the aggregate value of your stolen property would be $100,000. Remember your standpoint: Literary expression is property; to take it without consent, law or no law, is stealing just exactly as it would be to steal a man's pocket-book. Believing that, how will you escape the charge of the editors of Chambers' Journal, that you are a "pirate," a thief of enormous proportions?

Now, we beg that you do not fly off at a tangent, and call names, and say that we are seeking to justify ourselves by the acts of others. Not so, we are simply testing your sincerity by your own acts, striving to see if your principles are unprincipled, that is, unbacked by principles. Remember, we have called no names, we have avoided the "indelicacies of newspaper warfare;" nor have we violated (a fault so common, we are sorry to see, in your replies) that canon of logic which requires that not anything shall appear in the conclusion for which no foundation was laid in the premise. Our point is clear cut. It is the charge of Chambers' Journal, that you are guilty of a "piracy" of which your "countrymen" should naturally feel ashamed.

You say we have "backed-down," "surrendered." Very well, if you prefer so to put it; then, from your standpoint, we did an honorable thing. Now, will you do an equally honorable thing, by backing down, surrendering, and thus illustrate your principles by a worthy example?

FUNK & WAGNALLS,

18 & 20 ASTOR PLACE, July 10, 1890.

In reply to the foregoing Funk & Wagnalls received the following letter:

"THE EVENING POST," 208 BROADWAY, {

Messrs. Funk & Wagnalls:

We are in receipt of your letter of July 10, charging us with having, on various occasions for some years back, reprinted short stories from English magazines without paying its authors or publishers any compensation. The charge is true; our excuse is to be found in the old legal maxim: "De minimis non curat lex." We have made inquiries ourselves as to whether the publishers of English magazines object to it. We assumed they did not, as long as the source was acknowledged, as none of the magazines are reprinted in this country, and none have more than a trifling sale here. Finding that the publishers do object, we have stopped the practice. Please print this in The Voice and Homiletic Review.

Yours truly,

THE EDITOR OF "THE EVENING POST."

FREE ENTRY OF BOOKS.

THE Secretary of the Treasury on July 21 issued the following regulations for the free entry of books, or pamphlets issued as successive parts of volumes, under the provisions of Section 4 of the Customs Administrative bill:

"On the entry of the first of such parts or volumes imported on or after Aug. 1 next, a declaration in the form prescribed in department's instructions of June 8, 1889, substituting therein the words 'declare' and 'declaration' for the words 'swear' and 'oath' and 'affidavit' wherever they occur, will be required when such publications are imported by dealers for institutions entitled to the privilege of free entry, which publications are imported by the institution or its agent, except that the form of declaration to be required will be modelled on the oath prescribed in Article 407, regulations of 1884.

"These instructions may also be applied to books included in one order, but imported in different vessels at different times, if the declaration filed with the first entry specifies all the books included in such order."

FACTS CONCERNING THE PRODUCTION OF STANLEY'S "IN DARKEST AFRICA."

AT the dinner given in honor of Mr. H. M. Stanley by Messrs. E. Marston, S. W. Searle, W. J. Rivington, and R. B. Marston, at the Holborn, London, June 26, Mr. E. Marston in the opening speech gave the following interesting information respecting the bringing into being Mr. Stanley's new book:

"You will all admit that Mr. Stanley's recent passage through Darkest Africa was a grand feat. Well, I am inclined to think that the way he wrote his account of that grand feat was not much less remarkable. The work contains, roughly speaking, a thousand pages of forty lines each. On January 25 of this year, not a line of it had been written. Then it was that Mr. Stanley sat down at the Villa Victoria in Cairo with a firm determination that nothing earthly should stop him till he had finished it. In fifty days he completed his self-imposed task, or rather the task which he says I imposed upon him. This means that he not merely wrote out, but he had to think out, twenty pages, say, 8000 words, a day. Gentlemen, if you wish to know what an amount of endurance and perseverance that means, I recommend you to try the experiment yourselves. It is easy enough to write twenty very long pages a day, for one, two, or three days, but to keep on doing so for fifty days consecutively, without any break or relaxation whatever to speak of, is quite another matter. Now let me glance at the manufacture of these volumes. In view of the enormous amount of public interest felt in this book I see no objection for once to depart from our usual reticence in such matters, and to say that we have orders in the house for, and on Saturday morning we shall despatch, over 16,000 copies besides 6000 of a colonial edition, and other issues.* You know the whole thing had to be rushed through the press, and I assure you it has taxed the resources of Messrs. Clowes' vast establishment for many weeks. To produce this book in the way it has been produced required something more than mere routine work. It required a thoughtful guiding spirit—one who would devote heart and soul to the work, and we cannot feel too grateful to Captain Clowes for the extraordinary devotion and personal attention he has given to the accomplishment of this task. In the printing department the work has found employment for many weeks for 60 compositors, 17 readers, 12 reading boys, and about 200 machine-pressmen and warehousemen. The paper consumed in printing the édition de luxe, the colonial edition, the canvassing edition, and the trade edition weighs 65½ tons. This paper, if it had been laid out in single sheets, would have formed a white carpet for Mr. Stanley to have walked upon from the Congo to Zanzibar, or if laid sheets upon sheets it would have formed a tower something like the Tour Eiffel. The type and material used weighed 7½ tons, and there were 2,500,000 types used in each of the above editions. Eighteen steam printing machines and ten hand presses consumed 1½ tons of printing ink. Then as to the binding, we had to get bound in a fortnight, in all, about 40,000 volumes. These have given employment to over 500 men and 600 women. About 4500 yards or nearly 2½ miles of binders' cloth were consumed on these editions. Now, as there have been produced simultaneously in America and on the Continent about ten other editions, I think I should not be far out in stating that it would be quite within the mark to multiply all the figures I have mentioned by 7 or 8. Taking the latter estimate, Mr. Stanley may comfort himself with the reflection that during the last four months his fifty days' labor of brain and pen have given employment to an army of probably seven thousand men and at least as many women and girls, and probably the aggregate weight of all the editions which will be issued simultaneously on Saturday will exceed three hundred tons."

Mr. L. W. Bangs, who represents Scribner & Welford abroad, in reply to a call for a speech made the following remarks: "I thank you for associating my name with this toast, as it gives me an opportunity to add my humble congratulations to the many which have preceded them to Mr. Stanley and his companions. I congratulate them upon their heroic journey, their safe return; and, now that they are with us again and willing to communicate their experiences, I congratulate them upon their publishers. I felt a special sympathy with a sentiment expressed by Mr. Stanley in his speech at the Guildhall, where he said that 'he felt aged, and urged some substantial present recognition of the services of his companions while they were filled with useful enthusiasm, which should not be allowed to weaken through neglect, etc.' In a similar though somewhat different sense I feel a particular pleasure in responding to what seems to be a species of contemporary recognition of the pluck and enterprise of the young gentlemen comprising the firm of Chas. Scribner's Sons, in the herculean task they have undertaken to supply all the copies of Mr. Stanley's book which the appreciative and intelligent reading public of America may desire. That they will do this to the satisfaction of all, and the interest of the author and themselves, I have every confidence."

* [The first edition of Charles Scribner's Sons' edition was 65,000 copies, which is followed by another large edition—E. L. P. W.]

BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

At the last monthly meeting of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association, the following new members were elected:

Charles E. Savage, New York City.
Wm. A. Edwards, New York City.
Samuel E. Bowman, New York City.
L. N. Woodruff, Montgomery, Ala.
Walter J. Ford, New York City.
Jos. Engelhard, New York City.
Jno. Thos. Scott, Brooklyn.
R. F. Albrecht, Tompkinsville, L. I.

The Association is now paying one thousand dollars ($1000) to the heirs of its deceased members, at a cost of one-quarter what a like amount would call for in any of the large insurance companies.

Full particulars in regard to Association can be obtained of WILBUR B. KETCHAM, Sec.,
13 Cooper Union, New York City.

THE LONDON BOOKSELLERS' SOCIETY.

NEARLY a hundred representative booksellers of London last month formed the London Booksellers' Society with Frederick Miles as President, Mr. Arthur E. Miles, as Vice-President, F. Cakier Turner as Treasurer, and T. Burleigh as Honorary Secretary. The governing spirit is "neither reactionary, nor is it revolutionary." It recognizes the march of events, and the impossibility of returning to a state of things which economic progress has banished forever. On the other hand, it is not given to optimism. Improvements in the method of conducting business are possible only in proportion as they are moderate and gradual, and it is by moderate and conciliatory steps that the Society hopes to gain its ends.

Every previous organism of the trade has been for the accomplishment of a definite purpose, and when that has been attained, or, more probably, lost, the organization has at once fallen to pieces. This has been the inherent weakness in every previous effort to establish a trade society. Taking counsel of adversity, the new Booksellers' Society avoid binding themselves to any set programme. They do not announce that they are going to reform this or that, but they do say that if London booksellers will definitely form themselves into an organized society, the members will be the better enabled to take counsel with each other as to what action may be prudent and expedient for their mutual welfare.

"It may, perhaps, seem to some of our readers," says the London Bookseller, "that they are not very much interested in this movement. Second-hand booksellers, for instance, may not think that Mr. Stott's 'burning question' is of the least consequence to them. They are not affected by underselling. But have second-hand booksellers no grievances to complain of, towards the relief of which an organized trade society might be useful? From several letters we have received during the month, we have the assurance that it is otherwise. Although the interests of the new and second-hand branches of the trade are not identical, they are closely interwoven, and, even if second-hand booksellers were in the happy condition of perfect contentment, they at least owe it to the fraternity of which they are members, to help their less fortunate brethren. It will be seen, however, that for the council of the Society several second-hand booksellers have been nominated, which may be taken as evidence that the interests of their branch of the trade will not be neglected.

"The London Booksellers' Society, however, by no means proposes to exclusively devote itself to the question of underselling. That is only one of many problems to which the attention of the council will be directed. Its main object is the general well-being of the London trade, collectively and individually, and any circumstance or condition, great or small, which threatens its members will receive the consideration it demands. It is not to be taken as a 'society for the abolition of underselling,' nor for the accomplishment of any other miraculous regeneration of the trade. It demands no pledges from its members, and prescribes no creed for their general adoption. Its chief purpose is to invite the co-operation of the London trade in forming a permanent and organized society, having for its aim to maintain and improve the position of the retail bookseller, to promote social intercourse, and thereby to soften the asperities incident to commercial rivalry."

Such an organization could become a power for good in the United States among booksellers as well as publishers.

A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE G. E. BRETT.

From the London Bookseller.

MR. GEORGE EDWARD BRETT was a native of Halling, near Rochester. Whilst quite a youth, he entered the employment of Messrs. Simpkin, Marshall & Co., and rose gradually to a position of trust in the counting-house of that firm. He left there about the end of 1865 to join the staff of Macmillan & Co., and in the year following opened in New York Messrs. Macmillan's branch house, which, under his prudent and energetic management, has thriven very greatly. . . . Mr. Brett was a most worthy man, conscientious to an almost painful degree in the performance of whatever work fell to him, without regard to the time or trouble it cost. In addition to other engagements, he for many years compiled the list of new publications given in the [London] Bookseller, and we can testify to the ungrudging care he bestowed on their preparation. In the larger sphere of action which he found in New York, his methodical industry and intelligence were manifested in the steady progress of the business under his charge, and we have reason to know that Messrs. Macmillan entertained the very highest opinion of his character and services.

THE ALDINE CLUB.

THIS club of authors, artists, publishers, and others interested in literature, art, and kindred matters, is now in its second year, and looks forward to a successful and important future. Officers of the club for the ensuing year have just been elected, as follows: Thomas W. Wood, President; Frank R. Stockton, Vice-President; Frank H. Scott, Treasurer; Frederick A. Stokes, Secretary.

"PERMIT me, my dear Miss Coldstream, to make you a trifling present."

"No, no; I really cannot receive gifts, Mr. Rhythmus."

"But—ah—this is a copy of my own poems."

"Oh, that is different. Thank you, I meant, of course, valuable gifts."—Life.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM ALLING.

WILLIAM ALLING, one of the pioneer booksellers of western New York, died at his residence in Rochester, N. Y., July 13. He was born March 3, 1811, at Ballston, N. Y., and four years later his parents removed to Sodus, N. Y., where he lived until 1826. In that year he went to Rochester with an elder brother and found his first employment in a restaurant kept by Mr. Matthews. In 1831 he entered the bookstore of Marshall & Dean as clerk, and four years later, in company with Samuel D. Porter and David Hoyt, he assumed the proprietorship of the business at the same stand, 10 and 12 Exchange Street. In 1837 Messrs. Porter and Hoyt retired, and Mr. Alling carried on the business alone until 1859. In that year his oldest son, William S. Alling, and David Cory were admitted to partnership. The former died in 1872. Nine years afterward a younger son, Joseph T. Alling, was taken into the firm. During this time the character of the business was considerably changed. At the first a great deal of work in the book publishing line was done. The first history of Rochester ever published was turned out by this firm. By degrees the publishing department of the business was dropped and the firm gave its whole attention to the wholesale paper trade. The building now occupied by the firm of Williamson & Higbie was erected by the deceased in 1871, and 12 years later he built the large brick structure at present occupied by the firm of Alling & Cory.

Mr. Alling was twice married. His first wife was Miss Martha Sparhawk, whom he married in 1836 at Rochester, Vermont. In 1853 he married Miss Clementine Tilden, who survives him. Two sons and two daughters—Mrs. John W. Goss, of Spokane Falls, Washington, and Miss Louise, Fred. D., and Joseph T. Alling, of Rochester, also survive him.

A well-attended meeting of the booksellers, stationers and paper-dealers was held on the afternoon of the 14th inst. at the Chamber of Commerce. Ezra R. Andrews was selected to preside and Charles E. Morris Secretary. After a general expression of regret from those present a Committee on Resolutions was appointed consisting of George W. Fisher, Erastus Darrow, Samuel C. Steele, Sidney S. Avery, William A. Williamson, and R. M. Meyers. This committee presented the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we learn with unfeigned sorrow of the death of our venerable member and associate, William Alling, who for nearly sixty years had been at the head of his firm as one of the leading booksellers and stationers of this city, and one with whom we had intimate relations of business and friendship. We keenly feel our loss as the older members depart.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family of the deceased and join with them in lamenting the death of him whose memory we shall ever cherish. We will attend in a body the funeral of our departed friend.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be presented to the family of the deceased and that they be published in the daily papers of the city.

The booksellers and paper-dealers met at the store of E. Darrow to attend the funeral. A general invitation was extended to all connected with the trade.

GOTTFRIED KELLER, the Swiss poet, died at Zurich, Switzerland, July 16. Gottfried Keller was born in Zurich in July, 1819, and studied the art of landscape painting for two years in Munich. On his return to Switzerland he devoted himself to literary work. From 1861 to 1876 he was the official historian of Zurich. Among his principal works are the historical romances, "Les Gens de Seldwyla" and "Les Sept Légendes," several novels, and a number of poems and essays. There was a false report of his death in 1860.

JOHN WHITTAKER WATSON, author of "Beautiful Snow," who died in New York July 20, was born in that city in 1824. He was educated at the University of the City of New York and studied medicine, but became a journalist and engraver. He wrote many serial stories for weekly papers, some of which have been dramatized—notably the story of "Thirty Millions," which was put on the stage under the title of "The World." His volume, "Beautiful Snow and Other Poems," was published in 1869.

EUGENE SCHUYLER, Consul-General of the United States, at Cairo, Egypt, died in that city July 18. He was a descendant of Peter Schuyler, Mayor of Albany in the eighteenth century, and was born in Ithaca, N. Y., on Feb. 26, 1840. He graduated at Yale in 1859, and at Columbia Law School in 1863, and began the practice of law. His life was spent in the diplomatic service of the United States, chiefly in Russia and Asia. In 1873 he made an eight months' trip through the Russian provinces, and three years later published his "Notes of a Journey in Russian Turkestan, Khokand, Bokhara, and Kuldia." Besides this he wrote "Peter the Great, Emperor of Russia," and "American Diplomacy," and translated Turgeneff's "Fathers and Sons" and Tolstol's "The Cossacks."

THE REV. DR. JACOB KREHBIEL, for many years at the head of the German department of the Western Methodist Book Concern, died at Cincinnati on the 19th inst., aged sixty-four years. One of his sons, Charles J., is one of the proprietors of the Aldine Printing Works, and another, Henry E., is the musical critic of the New York Tribune.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Cordage Trade Journal is the title of a new fortnightly journal devoted to the interests of the cordage trade in particular and the hemp industry in general, issued from 130 Water Street, New York.

MR. J. A. STEUART, author of "Letters to Living Authors," has been appointed editor of the London Publishers' Circular, to succeed Mr. S. J. Reid, who has filled the position temporarily since the resignation of Mr. William Stephen some fifteen months ago. We extend a cordial greeting to Mr. Steuart.

MARION HARLAND and her daughter, Mrs. Christine Terhune Herrick, who have been respectively editor and associate editor of the Home Maker since the magazine was started, about two years ago, have, with Mrs. Mary C. Hungerford, the other associate editor, resigned, and will sever their connection with the publication Sept. 1.

FLEMING H. REVELL, who has become sole agent for the London Religious Tract Society's publications, calls special attention to the four magazines issued by the Society. The current issues of The Sunday at Home, The Leisure Hour, The Boy's Own Paper, and The Girl's Own Paper are full of excellent original matter and are all profusely illustrated.

The Illustrated American has wisely reduced the size of its pages and increased their number. The current issue contains sixty-four pages of convenient and comfortable dimensions, and has much matter of an uncommonly interesting and entertaining character. Some of the illustrations, however, are not up to the high standard of the first issues of the journal.

At the time of General Frémont's death he was engaged upon the manuscript of a paper for The Century's forthcoming series on the California Gold Hunters. It was to be entitled "Finding Paths to California," and was not only to deal with the several exploring expeditions, but to narrate the writer's intimate connection with the events which led to the conquest and occupation of the territory. The work will be promptly continued by Mrs. Frémont. A fine portrait of General Frémont from a daguerreotype of '49 or '50 will appear in the September number of The Century, along with portraits of Commodores Sloat and Stockton, "Duke" Gwin, and Governor Burnett, in an article giving account of "How California Came into the Union."

BUSINESS NOTES.

ARKANSAS CITY, ARK.—Frank J. Ruth, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

BARRE, MASS.—F. J. Haven, bookseller, has sold out.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—S. D. Siler, of Montgomery, has just opened at the corner of Twenty-first Street and Third Avenue "Siler's Old Bookstore," where he will keep a full line of old and new books in every department of literature. Not the least attractive feature of the business is a circulating library.

CHICAGO, ILL.—According to the Western Stationer, "A. P. T. Elder, President of the Elder Publishing Company, No. 415 Dearborn St., Chicago, was arrested July 4, charged with having $600 belonging to one Charles Clark. Clark claims that he gave Elder this sum as security, he having been engaged by Elder to represent the house at St. Paul. Clark says the St. Paul house existed only in Elder's eye, and when he demanded his money was informed he could not get it. A warrant was sworn out and Elder was arrested."

CHICAGO, ILL.—It is reported that The R. S. King Pub. Co., dealers in subscription-books and school supplies, have made an assignment.

DENVER, COL.—The old firm of Chain, Hardy & Co., booksellers and stationers, passed into a stock company on July 7, and incorporation papers were filed on the 9th. The new company will be known as The Chain & Hardy Book, Stationery, and Art Co. The officers are J. A. Chain, President; S. B. Hardy, Vice-President; B. C. Bancroft, Treasurer; I. M. Low, Secretary; J. W. Bowman, General Manager, and J. R. Hicks and G. W. Bailey in the Board of Directors. With increased capital and help the new firm are in a position to meet all the demands of the trade, and satisfactorily fill the orders of their customers.

KALAMAZOO, MICH.—G. W. Young, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by Parkin & Young.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—George Ellis, bookseller, has suffered loss by fire. Insured for $12,000.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles Collins, publisher of school-books, has removed to 740-742 Broadway (Baker & Taylor Co.'s).

ST. LOUIS, ILL.—S. A. Friess has just opened a handsome bookstore at 330 East Broadway, in East St. Louis. He carries a full stock of blank-books, periodicals, and stationery.

WA-KEENEY, KAN.—O. A. Cortright will soon remove his stock of books and stationery into his new store, which is being completed.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

W. S. GOTTSBERGER has just published "Rahau, or, the marriage of Loti," by Pierre Loti; translated from the French by Mrs. Clara Bell.

DERBY & MILLER, 149 Church St., N. Y., have in press "Seward at Washington as Senator and Secretary of State," a memoir of his life, with selections from his letters, by Frederick W. Seward.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press "The Diary and Letters of Madame D'Arblay," edited, with notes, by W. C. Ward, and with the essay by Macaulay; also, "English Prose: its elements, history, and usage," by John Earle, Professor of Anglo-Saxon in the University of Oxford.

CHARLES AND ARTHUR SCRIBNER have brought suit against Solomon Zickel to prevent him from selling or offering for sale the book, "In Darkest Africa," by Henry M. Stanley, the copyright of which is held by plaintiffs. Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court, granted a temporary injunction, pending a hearing.

BRADLEY & WOODRUFF, 162 Washington St., Boston, offer $900 in prizes for manuscripts of "moral stories" adapted for Sunday-school and home reading. Only American authors are allowed to compete; the stories must make a book of at least 400 pages of about 300 words to a page, and the manuscripts must be sent in before January 1, 1891.

G. W. DILLINGHAM, New York, issues the following notice to the trade and public: "I have noticed in several newspapers, that the United States Book Co. is reported to have purchased the business of many of the publishing houses in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, etc., etc., mine among the number. I desire to state that I have sold them one set of stereotype plates and one only."

MR. WARD MACALLISTER'S "Four Hundred" are said to be well represented in the new novel, "Expatriation," a study of Anglomania, by the author of "Aristocracy," which was also published by D. Appleton & Company. The author is evidently familiar with society in New York as well as in London, and the witty sketches of life in and out of the "Four Hundred" will be read with considerable interest.

A LIFE in the mountains during many summer vacations has borne fruit in the book, "The White Mountains," by Rev. Julius H. Ward, to be published by D. Appleton & Company. All the principal sections of the White Hills are included in the work, and it will be illustrated by some characteristic bits of scenery. Mr. Ward is a well-known Episcopal clergyman, who has held for many years the position of a clergyman journalist in New York and Boston.

DE WOLFE FISKE & Co. have just ready "Vignettes from Life," edited by Frederic Edward McKay, who has written society and dramatic letters for the New Haven Palladium. Among the contributors of the fifteen stories which make up the volume may be mentioned Clinton Scolard, Emma V. Sheridan, Case Bull, Mabel Louise Fuller, Matthew White, Jr., Oscar Fay Adams, Wm. Murray Graydon, Edward Irenæus Stevenson, Jane G. Austin, Frederic McKay, William D. Moffat, and Clyde Fitch.

STREET & SMITH have just published another one of their detective stories, entitled "Detective Bob Bridger," by R. M. Taylor, which is No. 34 of their Secret Service Series; "Married in Mask," by Mansfield Tracy Walworth, a love-story, which is No. 50 of their Select Series; and "Amateurs' Manual of Photography," by Prof. Wm. Cushing, which is No. 6 of their Manual Library. This last is very timely and will claim the interest of the many amateurs all over the country who are interested in working their photographic outfits.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish several volumes of Charles Kingsley's sermons as parts of their cheap edition of Kingsley's writings. They will appear at the rate of one volume a month. In all the Kingsley set will consist of twenty-nine volumes. They will bring out early in the fall in book-form the late Miss Elizabeth Balch's "Glimpses of Old English Homes," several chapters of which appeared in the English Illustrated Magazine. Miss Balch is now generally accepted as the author of "An Author's Love." She died in this city a few months ago.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co., Cincinnati, have in preparation an important contribution to American archæology entitled "The Antiquities of Tennessee," by Gates P. Thruston. The author describes the recent excavations among the mounds and stone grave cemeteries of Tennessee, which have brought to light a large number of new objects, illustrating the arts and industries of the Mound-Builders of the Mississippi Valley. Many of them have been discovered by the author, or under his supervision. More than five hundred of these objects will be illustrated in the engravings in this work—a number of them unique and of great interest. They have also in press "Abraham Lincoln's Pen and Voice," a complete compilation of Mr. Lincoln's letters—civil, political, and military—and his public addresses, messages to Congress, inaugurals, etc., as well as proclamations on various important public occasions, arranged in convenient form, and indexed, by C. M. Van Buren.

JUDGE WALLACE, in the United States Circuit Court on the 14th inst., handed down a decision refusing to grant Julia M. Hayden a preliminary injunction restraining the Official Hotel Red Book Company from publishing "The Hotel Red Book." Mrs. Hayden is the widow of Henry A. Hayden, who, with Edward F. Phillips, owned the copyright of "The Hotel Red Book," which they turned over to the Travellers' Publishing Company. This company at a meeting of its stockholders not long ago wound up its affairs and ordered the assets sold. The property was bought in by Secretary W. L. Jacques, who, a few hours afterward, turned it over to the Official Hotel Red Book Company for a much larger sum than he paid for it. Mrs. Hayden claimed that the winding up of the Travellers' Publishing Company was a conspiracy on the part of some of the trustees and others, and brought suit for an injunction and accounting against W. L. Jacques, A. L. Ashman, James H. Breslin, W. D. Garrison, D. S. Hammond, H. H. Brockway, J. H. Rodgers, Simeon Ford, Edward S. Stokes, and Charles Reed.

RADICAL changes having taken place in the constitution of the firm, Messrs. Remington, of London, are going to alter their style to Eden, Remington & Co.

It is now definitely announced that Calman Lévy, of Paris, will publish this fall the first two volumes of Talleyrand's long-deferred memoir. The three remaining volumes will be published before 1892.

SAMPSON LOW & Co. have in preparation Moun-teney Jephson's account of his adventures while imprisoned with Emin Pasha by the rebels of the Equatorial province. Mr. Jephson was a member of Stanley's expedition. The book will be gotten up uniform with "In Darkest Africa."

MR. WALTER BESANT in a pamphlet entitled "The Literary Handmaid of the 'Church'" scourges severely the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge for the "merciless sweating of authors" employed by that corporation. Many shameful practices are charged against the Society which it cannot afford to let go unanswered.

SIR WALTER SCOTT'S "Journal" is to appear in the autumn, reproduced from the original, which is preserved at Abbotsford. Mr. David Douglas will edit it, and add, besides elaborate explanatory notes, illustrative extracts from unpublished sources, chief among them being the reminiscences in manuscript of James Skene, one of Scott's oldest and most intimate friends. There are also letters from Carlyle and Lockhart. The whole work, says the London Athenæum, "will form two octavo volumes, and they are said to contain nearly double the amount of matter given by Lockhart, while the sentences and paragraphs will appear as they were written by Scott. Many passages were truncated by Lockhart, many entries were omitted, and for five months not a line was reproduced."

THE OBERAMMERGAU LIBRARY AND ART REPOSITORY, Munich, has begun the publication of an illustrated weekly periodical in the English, French, and German languages to be issued during the season of the Oberammergau Passion Play. It is edited by R. Calwer. Each number will have sixteen pages and cover. The firm of Fuller, Buchmüller & Stockmann, who are authorized to make photographs of actors and scenes from the Passion Play, will permit the journal to print reproductions of two or three of these groups in each issue. Specimen copies will be sent to dealers free of charge. Booksellers having customers visiting Oberammergau should call their attention to this periodical, which will probably run to twenty numbers and will be a most valuable keepsake of their outing, as well as a really artistic and critical review of the Passion Play for the season of 1890. Dealers might also stir up a little business during the hot months by calling attention to the photographs of the Passion Play published by the Verlagsanstalt für Kunst und Wissenschaft, Munich, whose advertisement appeared in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of June 7.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Charles Scribner's Sons' NEW BOOKS.

With the Best Intentions.

A Midsummer Episode. By MARION HARLAND.
12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

The scene of this novel is the island of Mackinac, on Lake Huron, and the central figures are a young couple on their wedding journey. It is an absorbing story of love and jealousy, and has many pages of charming description of a country rich in historical associations.

Views and Reviews:

Essays in Appreciation—Literature. By W. E. HENLEY. Elzevir, 16mo, gilt top, $1 00.

Mr. Henley is the well-known author of "A Book of Verses," and is recognized as a singularly accomplished critic of literature and art. These brief essays relate to some of the great figures of the French and English literary world, and reveal a style at once light, graceful, and trenchant.

Famous Women of the French Court.

MARIE ANTOINETTE AND THE END OF THE OLD REGIME. Translated from the French of IMBERT DE SAINT-AMAND, by T. S. PERRY. With portrait. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The culmination of the gay and brilliant life of the French court and of the French nobility, of which Marie Antoinette was the central figure, during the last years before the revolutionary storm broke, is described in this volume with a fascinating vivacity and picturesqueness.

ALREADY ISSUED:

THE HAPPY DAYS OF THE EMPRESS MARIE LOUISE. With portrait. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

THE WIFE OF THE FIRST CONSUL. With portrait. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"He writes con amore of the splendor and glitter of the First Empire. He brings before the reader a gay and changing series of social sketches, vivacious and animated on every page."—Christian Union.

The Oberammergau Library and Art Repository,

Authorized by the Community, has begun to publish the OBERAMMERGAUER BLÄTTER.

Oberammergau Weekly News.

Revue d'Oberammergau.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY PERIODICAL

For the Passion Play Season,

In the German, English, and French Languages.

Edited by R. CALWER.

Quarto. Each Number 16 pages, with Cover.

THE OBERAMMERGAU WEEKLY NEWS will be published during the Passion Play season in a series of at least twenty numbers, in the German, English, and French languages.

The firm of Faller, Buchmüller & Stockmann, booksellers and picture dealers, which has acquired the sole right of making photographs of actors and scenes from the Passion Play of 1890, has placed several original groups at the disposal of the Editors for each issue of this journal. The engravings will be the work of the well-known firm of Meisenbach.

Our journal will also contain views of the village and its surroundings, genre-pictures of Oberammergau life, etc. As regards literary contents, our chief aim is to furnish just, critical sketches of the Passion Play. Poems, tales, sketches, and feuilletons will also appear in pleasing variety in our columns. Contributions have already been promised by numerous authors and scholars.

We shall take occasion in each issue to discuss the merits of the principal scenes and actors, to be illustrated with reproductions of the celebrated portraits of Stockmann. The text and engravings will be executed in as artistic a style as possible, and our readers will have the benefit of enlarged and supplementary numbers, so that on the completion of the entire series they will have in their possession a valuable, varied, and artistic souvenir of their stay at Oberammergau.

The price of the whole series of twenty numbers, delivered in Germany, 9 marks net, 12 marks retail; delivered in other countries, 11 marks net, 14 marks retail.

Specimen copies sent gratis. Orders (which must be prepaid) may be addressed to

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED

The American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular.

[ESTABLISHED 1852].

PUBLICATION OFFICE, FRANKLIN SQUARE (330 PEARL STREET), NEW YORK.

VOL. XXXVIII., No. 5. NEW YORK, August 2, 1890. WHOLE No. 966.

D. Appleton & Co.'s Publications.

THE WHITE MOUNTAINS. A Guide to Their Interpretation. With a map of the mountains and ten illustrations. By Julius H. Ward. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

Mr. Ward has spent his summer vacations in the White Mountains for several years, and has entered deeply into their life and meaning. This book is both a guide to a better knowledge of the White Hills and a souvenir of what one finds in them.

AN UNCONVENTIONAL TRAVEL-BOOK.

A SOCIAL DEPARTURE: How Orthodocia and I Went Round the World by Ourselves. By Sara Jeannette Duncan. With 12 illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

The New York Herald says: "This is one of the brightest stories of travel that ever came from a feminine pen. . . . It is a cheery, witty, decorous, charming book—one which should amuse some men and delight many women."

The Detroit Free Press says: "One of the most charming books of travel of the year. . . . It tells how two girls made the journey around the world without escort or chaperon, and does this in a most charmingly graceful way, the story being full of the picturesque, very vivid in its descriptions, having many dashes of wit, and, strange as it may seem, coming from a woman, being full of humor."

RECENT ISSUES.

TOWN AND COUNTRY LIBRARY.

Paper Cover, Price, 50 Cents.

EXPATRIATION. A Tale of Anglomaniacs. By the author of "Aristocracy." 12mo, paper 50 cents; special cloth binding, $1.00.

"The plot of the story is excellent—full of quick turns and surprises. . . . The way in which Judith falls in love with the hero, notwithstanding the uncanny barrier that lies between the two, and the way that barrier disintegrates and fades away, in the end, is well worked out, and in a fashion to charm all who believe that the course of true love ought, at least, to run smooth."—Commercial Advertiser.

"Taken as a whole, it is an entertaining picture of Southern family life, and as such recommends itself to lovers of romance, and is an excellent addition to Appletons' Town and Country Library."—Springfield Republican.

JOOST AVELINGH. By Maarten Maartens.

"No novel superior to this has appeared in the Town and Country Library, of which it is No. 53. . . . The story surprises the fiction-readers of the world. . . . The story at times rises into the intense, and descends at last into the 'vale of peace.' . . . The story is realistic in a very high degree, and is beautiful as a picture of Holland with its life and politics. . . . To read the story is like passing through all kinds of dangerous roads, with storms, precipices, and raging streams, to come out at last upon a high, central table-land where the sun shines in beauty, the air is full of charm, and the soul dwells in safety and high endeavor forevermore."—Public Opinion.

J. B. Lippincott Company

WILL PUBLISH IN AUGUST:

IN AND OUT OF BOOK AND JOURNAL.

Selected and arranged by A. SYDNEY ROBERTS, M.D., with fifty spirited illustrations by S. W. Van Schalck. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

Dr. Roberts is evidently a wide and judicious reader, and has the knack of selecting the best, brightest and most pithy sayings wherever he happens to find them, whether in classic authors or the current literature of the day. The illustrations, likewise, are not to be relegated to the background, as all know who are acquainted with the artist's peculiar genius. He has brightened the pages with gleams of pictorial humor, of which he is so perfect a master, interspersed here and there with more serious drawings all in perfect unison with the text.

A DIPLOMAT'S DIARY.

A Novel. By JULIEN GORDON. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

The author of this entertaining volume shows that familiarity with the subject only attainable by personal observation. Until recently a resident at the Court of St. Petersburg, where the scene of the story is laid, the writer has found material of keen interest to Americans, and has interwoven a romantic plot with choice handling of character drawings and crisp comment. As the author is equally prominent in society at home, the book will undoubtedly receive more than ordinary attention.

O THOU, MY AUSTRIA!

From the German of OSSIP SCHUBIN, author of "Erlach Court." Translated by Mrs. A. L. Wister. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

As the title indicates, the plot of the present work, like "Erlach Court," is laid in Austria, and in it we have a striking and vivid picture of social and political life and conditions in that country. Like Thackeray, Ossip Schubin introduces us into good society, and has the secret of imparting to her characters, whether from real life or fictitious, so much of genuine humanity as to leave with us the impression of living personalities.

DISENCHANTMENT.

An Every-Day Story. By F. MABEL ROBINSON, author of "Mr. Butler's Ward," etc. No. 112, Lippincott's Series of Select Novels. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, 75 cents.

The previous efforts of this popular author have won for her a wide circle of admirers. Her stories are pure in tone and full of interest.

GLEANINGS FOR THE CURIOUS FROM THE HARVEST-FIELDS OF LITERATURE. A Melange of Excerpta, collated by C. C. BOMBAUGH, A.M., M.D. 12mo, hf. morocco, gilt top, $3.50.

This volume is an expedient for grouping together a variety which will be found in no other compilation. From the nonsense of literary trifling to the highest expression of intellectual force; from selections for the child to extracts for the philosopher; it will accommodate the widest diversity of taste, and furnish entertainment for all ages, sexes and conditions.

EUROPEAN DAYS AND WAYS.

By ALFRED E. LEE, Late Consul-General U. S. A. With 12 illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

TWO MODERN WOMEN.

A Novel. By KATE GANNETT WELLS. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

AN ELEMENTARY HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES.

By CHARLES MORRIS, author of "Half-Hours with American History," "The Aryan Race," etc. Illustrated, 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

THE PROMISED KING.

The Story of the Children's Saviour. By ANNIE R. BUTLER, author of "Stories from Genesis," etc., Stepping-Stones to Bible History. With numerous illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL WORKS.

A Guide to the Construction of Works for the Prevention of the Pollution by Sewage of Rivers and Estuaries. By W. SANTO CRIMP, Assistant Engineer to the London County Council. With tables, illustrations in the text and thirty-three lithographic plates. Royal 8vo, cloth, $7.50.

EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE.—CORRECTION.—

By oversight the price of "Ganot's Physics," published by Wm. Wood & Co., was entered in the American Educational Catalogue as $2. It should be $5, and we ask booksellers to make note of this correction in their copies of the catalogue.

NOTES IN SEASON.

AFTER August 1, the trade price of the Red Letter Series of popular fiction published by the National Publishing Co., will be changed from 10 cents to 8 cents, making this one of the cheapest series in the market.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD announce that with a view of meeting unauthorized reprints of G. A. Henty's "With Clive in India," "One of the 28th," and "In the Reign of Terror," they will publish neat and cheap editions of these books.

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish at once a reprint from the collected works of Edward Fitzgerald (1889) of his famous version of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. The author, as is well known, never put his own name on the title-page of any of the four editions which appeared during his lifetime; and the show of anonymity is still preserved. In accordance with their admirable custom, the publishers have given on the verso of the title-page a brief bibliography. They will also publish immediately the first volume of Prof. Alfred Marshall's long-expected treatise on the "Principles of Economics." It is an attempt to present a modern version of old doctrines with the aid of the new work, and with reference to the new problems of the age.

THE J. W. LOVELL COMPANY will issue shortly, in their International Series, "A Smuggler's Secret," by Frank Barrett; "A Reverend Gentleman," by MacLaren Cobban, and "Quite Another Story," by Jean Ingelow. They have also in press another book by Rudyard Kipling, entitled "The Book of the Forty Mornings." In their Westminster Series they will issue two books by George Meredith; "The Tale of Chloe" and "The Case of Juel Ople and Lady Comper;" and "An Old Courtyard," by Katherine Macquoid. In their Foreign Series they will have "Two Brothers, Pierre and Jean," by Guy de Maupassant, illustrated with copies of the engravings in the original French edition. The Lovells have also nearly ready "The Life, Personal Reminiscences and Musical Career of Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore."

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. will publish immediately "In and Out of Book and Journal," selected and arranged by Dr. A. Sydney Roberts, who is a wide and judicious reader, and illustrated by S. W. Van Shaick, whose appropriate pictures are brightened by a keen sense of humor; and a new edition of "Gleanings for the Curious from the Harvest Fields of Literature," collated by C. C. Wombagh with discerning taste, and including excerpts from the lightest and most scholarly writings. In fiction they have ready "O Thou, My Austria," an adaptation by Mrs. Wister from the German of Ossip Schubin; "A Diplomat's Diary," by Julien Gordon, and "Disenchantment," by F. Mabel Robinson. The new Library Edition of the works of William H. Prescott is now completed by the publication of the twelfth volume. A valuable work is W. Santo Crimp's "Sewage Disposal Works," with tables, illustrations and plates; and a pretty children's story, by Annie R. Butler, is entitled the "Promised King." Early in September the house will have ready a fifth edition of "Garretson's System of Oral Surgery," a seventh edition of Da Costa's "Medical Diagnosis," and "European Days and Ways," by Alfred E. Lee.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Stems are designated as follows. F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (same: 20 cm.); S. (same: 17½ cm.); T. (same: 15 cm.); TV. (same: 12½ cm.); Ps. (same: 10 cm.). Sq., obli., mm., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abel, Mrs. Mary Homan. Practical sanitary and economic cooking; adapted to persons of moderate and small means. (The Lamb prize essay.) Rochester, N. Y., Essay Dep. American Pub. Health Assoc., P. O. Drawer 289, 1890. c. '89. 10+190 p. D. cl., 40 c.; pap., 35 c.; Same, German text, cl., 60 c.; pap., 55 c.

In 1888 Henry Lamb, of Rochester, offered through the American Public Health Association, two prizes for the best essay on, Practical sanitary and economic cooking adapted to persons of moderate and small means. Mrs. Abel fulfilled the conditions, and to her was awarded the first prize. Her essay has now been issued in its present form by the Health Association.

Argles, Mrs. Mary. ["The Duchess," pseud.] Her last throw: a novel. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 2-156 p. D. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 1.) pap., 25 c.

A woman who has led a wild life comes to a little English borough to settle quietly and live an innocent life. Her story has preceded her and the virtuous women of the neighborhood make peace impossible. The end is tragic.

Atherton, Gertrude Franklin. Hermin Suydam. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] c. '89. 5-207 p. D. (American authors' ser., no. 13.) pap., 50 c.

Formerly published by the Current Literature Pub. Co. See Notice in "Weekly Record," P. W., January 26, '89, [89.]

Barnett, Edith A. The cookery instructor, [for teachers of cookery, mistresses of households and cooks.] 3d ed. N. Y., Ward, Locke & Co., 1890. 192 p. 12", flex. cl., 40 c.

Barnum, P. T., Sullivan, J. L., Nye, Bill, and others. His fleeting ideal: a romance of baffled hypnotism. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie, [1890.] c. 4-187 p. D. (Red cover ser., no. 87.) pap., 25 c. The "great composite novel" which was one of the sensations of the New York Evening World, supposed to be the joint work of P. T. Barnum, John L. Sullivan, Bill Nye, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Howe & Hummel, Inspector Rynea, Pauline Hall and several others.

Bessant, Walter. All sorts and conditions of men: an impossible story. [New issue.] N. Y., Harper, 1890. 8+412 p. il. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 675.) pap., 50 c.

Bishop, Julia Truitt. Kathleen Douglas: a novel. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1890.] c. 5-532 p. pur. D. (Primrose ed., no. 4.) pap., 50 c.

The scenes are Southern; they nearly all occur in New Orleans. The incidents are sensational and cover almost everything in the gamut of crime. The characters are well delineated, and the interest depends upon the solving of a plot that involves the good name of Kathleen Douglas and the happiness of Paul Kingsley.

Booth, Mrs. Otto. ["Rita," pseud.] The doctor's secret. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., 1890. 4-182 p. D. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 5.) pap., 25 c.

Damaris Weimar is a female Jekyll whose dual personality fascinates and mystifies at every point. Psychological powers aid her to produce startling effects and command deeds as revolting as those of Edw. Hyde. She uses magnetic force to subjugate Dr. Marchmont, and the result is "the doctor's secret." Damaris is a study in which Mrs. Booth attempts to solve the questions: Are we powerless to resist evil forces when we have warped natures? Are we responsible or irresponsible when we commit a crime under these circumstances? Does fatality ever overwhelm us?

Buchanan, Rob. The moment after. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 158 p. D. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 2.) pap., 25 c.

Maurizio Modena, a dealer in ship's stores in a rough neighborhood, is condemned to die after murdering his wife. Twice the rope breaks, and he is reprieved and the executioner severely censured. He describes his sensations to his physician, who in the cause of science writes them down. He feels that he was dead, and tries to tell what he felt "the moment after." An ingenious epilogue also pictures the after-consciousness of a dead man.

Caldwell, Rev. S. Lant. Cities of our faith, and other discourses; with biog. sketch by Oakman S. Stearns. Bos., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1890. c. 6+422 p. 8", cl., $2.

Ohlsholm, G. C., and Leete, C. H. Longmans' school geography for North America. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1890. c. 2+384 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Aims to present those facts of geography that are really foundational. All countries and regions are not treated on a uniform plan, but the most characteristic features are presented in due relief, prominence being given to the relation of cause and effect. This is especially developed in paragraphs on towns in which are shown the reasons of town-growth in particular places. The book is calculated to awaken the thinking and reasoning powers of students by a bright, attractive method.

Crocker, J. G. The duties of sheriffs, coroners and constables, with practical forms. 3d ed., rev. and enl. by Ja. M. Kerr. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., 1890. c. 27+834 p. O. shp., $6.

Crowley, Mrs. R. Echoes from Niagara: historical, political, personal. Buffalo, N. Y., C. Wells Moulton, 1890. c. 9+413 p. D. cl., $2.

Begins with a sentimental reminiscence of Niagara. This is followed by a desultory account of the political career of Richard Crowley, during which, from his start as lawyer in Lockport, New York, to his advance to the United States House of Representatives, he met almost all the well-known people of his day. His wife's head seems to have been a little turned by the greatness thrust upon her, and many of her descriptions are almost spasmodic in their enthusiasm.

Edwards, Annie. Pearl-powder: a novel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1890. 3+414 p. D. (Lippincott's ser. of select novels.) pap., 50 c.

The time of the story is the early part of the nineteenth century. One of the principal characters, Lady Joan Carr, was born in the eighteenth century, and calls the time of her youth the "pearl-powder" age; the scenes are English. After Philip Harkness is the promised wife of Oliver Arden, she falls in love with Henri Germaine, alias Lenton. Aided and abetted by Lady Joan Carr, she does battle with opposition, and her actions decide her fate. Philippa's quaint wisdoms and Lady Joan's peculiar temper are well brought out.

Edwards, Mrs. Matilda Betham. A romance of the wire. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 192 p. D. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 11.) pap., 25 c.

The pet plan of Ludovic Lanier was to establish a telegraph station in his native town. This had scarcely been done when he foresaw the possibility of its removal. Mr. Lanier strove to prevent this by using the wire on every pretext. The result was both complicated and amusing, and finally he was indebted to his hobby for a red ribbon, a seat in the Chamber and for his wife.

Farley's reference directory of the booksellers, stationers and printers in the United States and Canada: supplement for 1889-90. N. Y., G. M. S. Horton, Tribune Bldg., [1890.] 4-25 p. O. pap. [Price for whole work, $15.]

A classified directory of the book, stationery, printing, publishing and kindred trades, with the addresses of the leading manufacturers of the materials, machinery, etc., used in these trades.

Fleming, Geraldine. Wild Margaret. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] c. 385 p. D. (American novelist ser., no. 43.) pap., 25 c.

Wild Margaret goes on a visit to her grandmother, who is housekeeper on an old English estate. She is studying art in London and wanders about looking at pictures in the art gallery, and conversing with her "betters." She meets her fate in the upper world, and after a stormy time with people who have claims upon the man she wishes to marry, all ends happily.

Garden (The): its preparation and management, showing how gardens are laid out, the tools wanted, [etc.] N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1890. 642 p. il. 12°. cl., $1.

Gibson, J. Monroe. The Gospel of St. Matthew. N. Y., A. C. Armstrong & Son, [1890.] 5+450 p. D. (Expositor's Bible.) cl., $1.50.

Series was first noticed in P. W. "Weekly Record," Feb. 25, '88, [1890.] under MacLaren, Alexander. It is published at the rate of six volumes a year. Almost all the volumes are absolutely new. John Monroe Gibson is author of "The ages before Moses," "The Mosiac era," etc.

Gilchrist, R. Murray. Passion the plaything: a novel. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 4+207 p. D. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 9.) pap., 25 c.

There is no scenic effect. The interest centres in the dramatic incident that leads the worldly Anne Mompesson to make a plaything of her passion for Gabriel Colver.

Gurney, E. H. Reference handbook for readers, students and teachers of English history. Boston, Ginn & Co., 1890. c. 2-114 p. D. cl., 25 c.

Genealogies of the kings of England from William the Conqueror, and also of the nobility of England; counselors and statesmen from 1066-1889; table of principal British writers born before 1831; dates of principal events from 1066 to 1889. Alphabetical index.

Malpina, Mary Grace. Discarded; or, thrown on the world. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] c. 2+279 p. D. (American novelist ser., no. 51.) pap., 25 c.

A highly sensational story of mysterious parentage and cruel revenge. The author claims that the description of the baby farming establishment and its inhuman cruelties is founded on fact, and that the several schemes practised to discard illegitimate children "are becoming common in our midst."

Mayers, Theodora. ["Theo. Gift." pseud.] Dishonored. N. Y., G. Munro, [J. W. Lovell Co., 1890.] 8-427 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1435.) pap., 20 c.

While suffering from a deep injustice, Rolf Danecourt committed the act that has branded him "dishonored." The story deals with the consequences of this forgotten crime, and tells how an allusion to it incites Olive Benison to choose her odd mode of life at Stoneham. The idea of the innocent suffering for the guilty is well carried out.

Hubbard, Rev. S. S. Wisconsin under French dominion. Madison, Wis., Midland Pub. Co., 1890. c. 178 p. 16°. cl., $1.

Hector, Mrs. Annie F. ["Mrs. Alexander." pseud.] A woman's heart: a novel. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 1+394 p. D. (Lovell's International ser., no. 82.) pap., 50 c.

English scenes and characters surround that inexpressible theme, "A woman's heart." The incidents are sensational and the plot involves one man's honor and another's happiness, one woman's falsity and another's love.

Herman, H. Scarlet fortune. N. Y., G. Munro, [J. W. Lovell Co., 1890.] 10-164 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1419.) pap., no retail price.

The father and cousin of a young beauty of the Rocky Mountain region commit murder, and come into possession of millions. A young nobleman, almost assassinated, falls in love with the girl and takes her to England where she quite suddenly becomes a lady. The scarlet fortune is at last divided among charities.

Holland, Rev. H. S., Moore, Rev. Aubrey, Hillingworth, Rev. J. R., and others. Lux mundi: a series of studies in the religion of the Incarnation; ed. by C. Gore. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 20+441 p. D. cl., $1.75.

Published in England in 1889, this book has been widely discussed. Its authors all hold high positions in the Church of England. Their essays are written with the conviction "that the epoch in which we live is one of profound transformation, intellectual and social, abounding in new needs, new points of view, new questions, and certain to involve great changes in the outlying departments of theology where it is linked on to other sciences, and to necessitate some general restatement of its claim and meaning." They believe that "the Church, standing firm in her old truths," must "enter into the new social and intellectual movements of each age," that it "is able to assimilate all new material, to welcome and give its place to all new knowledge," and to show "again and again its power of witnessing under changed conditions to the catholic capacity of her faith and life." The faith is still Lux Mundi, the light of the world, the incarnate God in the world.

Hyde, F. W. The directional calculus, based upon the methods of Hermann Grassmann. Boston, Ginn & Co., 1890. c. 12+247 p. O. cl., $2.15.

Founded on Hermann Grassmann's "Ausdehnungslehre" (Theory of extensions), long neglected by mathematicians, but now more and more studied and appreciated. The author has added original matter, the results of eight or nine years of lecturing to university classes, and has made a text-book for English-speaking mathematicians that he claims will be found suitable for colleges and universities. He explains the fundamental ideas and principles of Grassmann's system and inserts a large number of exercises to test the grasp and knowledge of the student. The author is Prof. of Mathematics in the University of Cincinnati.

See notice in "Weekly Record," P. W., July 5, [96a.]
- Ladd, W. J., comp. Ladd's discount-book. N. Y., [David Williams, 66 Duane St., 1890.] c. '85. no paging. Q. cl., net, $3; double indexed ed., net, $4.
Especially designed for the hardware trade, but valuable for all who deal with percentage. It claims to be a "practical means of rapidly reaching absolutely accurate results without the mental wear of computing." It contains about 120,000 computations indexed for ready reference. The tables give the net of any sum at a wide range of discounts, both simple and complex. Mr. Ladd was connected with Sargent & Co. for more than thirty years and thoroughly understands the needs of the hardware trade. He is a practical business-man, with rare mathematical insight. The book represents a stupendous amount of brain-work. By a proper dispensation of full-face and roman type the multitude of figures is not confusing. The author has had much practical experience in making printed lists. The index is a little work of art which reflects credit upon those who planned and executed it. Formerly published by Sargent & Co.

Loti is the name given by the South Sea Islanders to an officer in the English navy, stationed at Tahiti. He marries a savage maiden of the Maori race and after some years leaves her. The descriptions of Polynesia and its inhabitants form the interest of a poetical story.
- Lubomirski, Prince Josef. The Ace of Clubs, tr. by Meta De Vere. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 1+396 p. D. (Lovell's ser. of foreign literature, no. 7.) pap., 50 c.
Tale of Russian intrigue during the reign of Nicholas I., 1825-1855. The Ace of Clubs is the name given the President of a secret society in which every member bore the name of a card. The beautiful heroine, Jana, defeats the plans of the conspirators and makes long journeys into Siberia to do so. The chief incidents of the plot take place at St. Petersburg.

- Sargeant, Adeline. A true friend: a novel. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 292 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 68.) pap., 50 c.
Janetta, the daughter of a struggling physician in an English country town, is left when quite young girl to provide for her shiftless stepmother and a household of children. She is thrown in with many people who have histories and heart-aches, and she always proves a true friend, with courage to speak the truth and energy to carry out her advice. The importance of keeping clear even of a shadow of suspicion in a gossiping neighborhood is a leading thought in the story.

- An improbable incident gives a clue to how Maud St. Uster, alias Almetta Bell, came by the physical disfigurement which she used to prove her identity and establish a claim to the Leicester millions. After this she takes possession of her family inheritances and betrays herself. This incident is the motive for a hideous crime, which precedes the unexpected denouement of a sensational novel.

- A man whose fate it seems to be "to be madly loved at first sight by every woman" lives a selfish life, devoting himself to literature. He writes a novel, which is given by the publisher to a young girl for illustration, and the consequences are far reaching. The writer seems to wish to prove the beauty and inconsistency of women, the selfishness and fickleness of men. Rather clumsily managed spiritualism decides the fate of several characters.

- During the author's search for data for an archaeological volume he was admitted to the private section of a famous Imperial library, and there came upon a manuscript in a lady's hand labelled "The confession of crimes committed by the Princess Alexandrina Demetresna." The first story gives a record of these crimes. The second is a weird tale of visitations of unruly spirits.

- In 1862 an advertisement appeared in the New York Herald offering $500 reward for a Toltec cup of unique design which had been lost or stolen. A New York detective begins a search for this cup which takes him into almost every spot in New York City and enables the author to describe every phase of life, especially among the lower classes. A special feature is made of the New York draft riots of 1863. The chapters devoted to O'Reardon's Terrace and its surroundings accurately paint out life in the metropolis. An element of romance neatly strings together this collection of facts about New York City.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 2, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

THE DISCOUNT QUESTION IN GERMANY.

THE German book trade has just entered upon the third year of its crusade against underselling. Inaugurated in a sanguinary, uncompromising spirit, it is now carried on in a no less earnest but in a decidedly more conciliatory manner. At the last annual meeting of the Börsenverein, held during the Ostermesse, the situation appears to be as follows:

Thirty district committees have been formed throughout Germany; each of these committees decides upon the rate of discount to be given in its jurisdiction, and no bookseller, in whatever part of Germany he may reside, is allowed to offer a larger discount to any bookbuyer within the jurisdiction than that fixed by the committee. For instance, if the booksellers' union of Silesia fixes upon five per cent. as the discount for its territory no bookseller, whether he be a resident of Silesia or an outsider, is allowed to give more than five per cent. discount to a customer within its boundaries. Most of the committees have decided upon five per cent. as the maximum discount to bookbuyers. Leipzig and Berlin booksellers, however, insist upon being allowed to give ten per cent., in which action they are supported by a number of the members of the Börsenverein. Up to this point the reform movement works smoothly. But now the Berlin dealers, almost as a unit, and a number of booksellers in other cities say: "We cannot refuse to give old customers, to whom we have been selling for years at ten per cent. discount, the old rates, even though they live beyond the limits of our jurisdiction." The less revolutionary members of the Börsenverein are inclined to sympathize with this demand. They hold that it would be unreasonable and unbusinesslike to expect a reduction of discount from twenty and fifteen per cent. to five without compromise, and by such radical measures to compel firms whose customers are scattered throughout Germany to give them up and thereby run the risk of ruining their business.

Already a number of houses, especially Berlin firms, have declared their intention to adhere to the ten per cent. rule. The Börsenverein, notwithstanding its splendid organization, recognizes its powerlessness to control such insubordination. Violent measures, such as were resorted to a year or two ago, did not meet with much favor, and were operative only in a limited degree. And so the question is left generally to the discretion of the publishing houses. These are largely in favor of restricting the discount, many of the smaller houses insisting upon the strict enforcing of the discount rulings made by the Börsenverein. Some of the larger houses in many cases reserve their decision for individual cases, saying that they are not willing, under certain circumstances, to burden the retailer who sells most of their publications for the sake of a retailer who insists upon the low rate of discount and does not take the same trouble to secure trade.

One thing, however, has been gained. A lower rate of discount has become the general rule and thereby an increase in profit secured to the dealer. Where formerly the discount allowed the book-buyer ranged from fifteen to twenty per cent., the maximum is now ten per cent. in the cities. Whether this can eventually be brought down to a uniform scale of five per cent. is, at present, doubtful, especially as the public and state institutions and libraries (the largest contingent of bookbuyers) have refused to concede to the petition of the book trade and still demand ten per cent.

THE COPYRIGHT BILL IN THE HOUSE.

HON. W. E. SIMONDS has tried faithfully to get his copyright bill up in the House, but without success. Under the "morning-hour" rule, which permits the calling up of bills by the committees in their alphabetical order, the roll of committees had proceeded, a few weeks ago, almost to the very name of the Committee on Patents, when the Committee on Rules began to steer the House, day after day, into another order of business immediately to follow the reading of the journal. Why the suspension of the morning hour should have been made just at this juncture it is hard to understand. However, if the bill does not come up in this session, Mr. Simonds is determined to carry his measure through after December.

CONCIO AD CLERUM.

From the N. Y. Evening Post.

Now that the popular conscience is in a way to be aroused upon the subject of copyright, it is of the greatest importance that there should be no misunderstanding of the nature of the proprietary right involved. Fortunately, it happens that this right, far from being mysterious and questionable, is one of the clearest and simplest with which jurisprudence can deal, and is moreover exactly defined by the term in common use, "copyright." It is the right to copy, to imitate, to consciously repeat what has already been done, and negatives the idea of originality in labor, in thought, or in discovery. The expression "property in ideas" is a peculiarly unfortunate one to apply to this right. It implies either that the holder of copyright and his assigns are the only persons entitled to think certain thoughts, to entertain certain ideas, or that they alone may practically apply the thoughts or make use of the ideas. Neither of these implications has the slightest support in the facts of the case.

This expression is not improperly applied to the right conferred by letters-patent, which is of an entirely different character from copyright. Nothing but confusion can result from attempting to consider the two rights together. The holder of a patent cannot, it is true, prevent others from thinking his thoughts and having his ideas, but he can prevent them from making any practical use of these thoughts and ideas. He can prevent them from moving portions of matter in a particular manner—that is, in conformity to certain ideas; and as all labor consists in moving matter, he has a legal monopoly of certain modes of labor. Property in material things exists when one person may move certain portions of matter in such ways as he chooses, to the exclusion of other persons, but this right, though called absolute, is subordinate to patent right. The owner of a patent, it is true, would not be able to use it unless he were at the same time the owner of matter; but the owner of matter may not use it in any novel manner if this novel use has been patented. There may have been a hundred men working independently, to each of whom the same idea would have occurred at almost the same time, but the one that patents it may forbid the rest of mankind from applying it in the use of their property. The idea may have come to the discoverer by accident, and without labor on his part, while accident has prevented those who sought for it from finding it; that makes no difference with his legal right. The invention may have been one that every one would have thought of when a certain stage of invention was reached, but the man that gets a patent on it holds it against the world. The application of the idea might relieve hundreds of thousands of men from burdensome toil; it might save many from suffering, some from death; but the law gives to one man absolute power to forbid every human being from enjoying the fruits of this knowledge.

If we turn to copyright, we see at once that it confers no such monopoly. The ideas contained in a copyrighted book are no one's property. They may be every one expressed in other words, which may be printed and published; they may be memorized; they may be applied to any use by any person, and the right of the author is not infringed. By this right no human being is prevented from making any use of his mind or of his property that he pleases, while it may suggest to him novel uses of both. By it no man is hindered from doing what he would have done did it not exist. No man can say that by it he is deprived of the use of any of the advantages that Nature has to offer to her children, or restrained in the use of any of the faculties that God has given him. As to property in ideas, in themselves, it is plain that they are not limited in quantity and not susceptible of appropriation; and as to property in the application or use of ideas, it is plain that copyright does not confer it.

Every objection that has ever been raised in any quarter to the right of property rests ultimately upon the ground that the subject of property—matter—is in relation to the possible owner—the present or future generations of men—limited in quantity. Hence, the possession of one may necessitate the exclusion of another, who, on the assumption of the equal rights of mankind, is entitled to his share of the common heritage. In short, the whole pother arises from the fear that there may not be enough matter to go around. No such objection can be raised against copyright. That right simply means that if a man has arranged words in a certain order, no other man shall arrange the same words in the same order. Now, although the number of words is limited, the number of possible combinations of words is, compared with the numbers of mankind, practically infinite. If all the writers of English since the language was written had been steadily writing down to the present day, not one of them would have written the words of one of Shakespeare's sonnets in the order that Shakespeare wrote them, unless he copied from Shakespeare. If all the human beings that ever existed were to write from the creation of the world to the crack of doom, the probability that any one of them would, without copying, produce "In Memoriam," or even a single stanza of it, is about as great as that of the earth's presently colliding with one of the other planets. But if there is no possibility of the right of one excluding the equal right of another, copyright involves no interference with natural liberty.

Why, then, is copyright not acknowledged without question? Because of the natural rapacity of mankind. Covetousness will not suffer it. Property in material things became established in illiterate days by the might of its possessors. The conception of right in an arrangement of words would have seemed absurd when our fundamental laws were formed, and authors have never had the physical power to enforce their claims to a species of property that is peculiarly difficult to protect. As a result, those men whose glory is imperishable, whose services to mankind are perennial, who have added to our poor human life an ideal counterpart that has been a refuge for all that are overcome by the miserable reality, have been compelled to beg from their rulers some temporary shelter from the baseness of human ingratitude. They have enriched the world, and have been robbed for doing it. They have labored for the delight of others, and have been told with a malignant irony that on that account they should ask nothing for themselves. They claim a monopoly. They do not, like the laborer upon matter, appropriate what may be needed by others. They do not, like the inventor, prevent others from making use of the common gifts of nature. Their material—language—is not exhausted, but strengthened by their use of it; it is enriched and not impoverished for posterity. Their appropriation of words is as harmless to others as the appropriation of light by their eyes or music by their ears. They ask for no property in ideas, they write that others may share them; but they do ask that sneaking curs, without pretence of excuse except their greed, may not purloin the product of their labors. It is not very much to ask, for it is even doubtful if it would cost the public anything to grant it. It would, perhaps, amount only to the payment of the price of a book to the man whose labor produced it, instead of to the rascal who stole it from him.

DECLINE OF "FLASHY" LITERATURE.

It has long been an open secret that the sale of "off-colored" books has been practically nil for months, and that publishers who were once reckless in putting out that sort of stuff are becoming more cautious or abandoning it altogether. One who has been considered the largest outputter of decidedly flash books having been interviewed on the subject is reported as having said:

"No, things are not going this summer as they were last. The only kind there is a call for at all are what we call 'the danger-line books'—those that just touch the line—and they're mighty risky stock to handle. You never know when some literary saint will get a law bead on you. Why, for last summer's trade we sold over 200,000 of our books. This year I don't believe we've printed 75,000, leave alone selling that number. Guess the public is getting good." "It was a pleasure for me," says the reporter, "to get these valuable points of information—valuable because they come from a source which places the fact beyond all doubt that the tide of dabby literature has reached its ebb, with the current about to turn against it."

OLD BOOK CHAT.

A TYPICAL collection of Cruikshankiana, owned by the late Mr. Crawford J. Pocock, of Brighton, was sold at Sotheby's lately. Typical prices too were realized, among them the following: A Becket's "Comic England," £5 7s. 6d., Thackeray's "Comic Tales and Sketches," first edition, £21 10s., the "Book of Snobs" realizing £5 2s. 6d., not by any means a high price, if it was a nice copy. A drop is to be noticed in the first edition of "Ingoldsby" in 3 vols., for which but £20 10s. was obtained. Thirty-nine pounds and even more has been the usual price at auction lately. Cruikshank's "Falstaff," too, cannot be called dear, if an uncut copy, at £4 10s., or, indeed a set of the "Comic Almanacks" at £14 5s. Fifteen pounds and ten shillings, however, seems pretty stiff for the "Omnibus," also illustrated by Cruikshank, as does nine pounds for a copy of the 1839 "Lord Bateman" lacking a plate. Grimm's stories, both series, still keep up, in spite of the number of copies recently sold, £50 being the latest quotation in the present sale. The Humorist in boards uncut brought £32 10s., and the "Life of Napoleon" £10. Reid's Catalogue, for which so many Cruikshank collectors sigh, and which is always an object of fierce competition, brought £18 15s. An interesting drawing by Cruikshank in water-colors of "Thomas Ingoldsby" surrounded by the characters in the legends, and which is familiar from the engraving of it, went for £40. It was purchased by Mr. Pocock direct from the artist and must be looked upon as a bargain. A genuine Groller binding, which had not been rebaked, or repaired, or revarnished, or generally "faked up," brought £107. In all respects the sale was an interesting one, and is very instructive as showing the trend of prices.

THE withdrawal of Lord Acton's books from sale is understood to be due to the intervention of the lawyers. Such intervention does not seem to have occurred before, and it is quite on the cards that the sale is merely postponed, and not withdrawn altogether. Such a disappointment is vexatious, but collectors and booksellers may console themselves with the reflection that the ultimate destination of the famous library will surely be the auction-room. As it is, the catalogue will be esteemed as a rarity.

WHAT a triumph must it be considered for the poetical fame of Shelley, that his centenary is to be celebrated by the publication of a Lexical-Concordance to his poems, which from the complete and exhaustive mode of compilation will equal in bulk Dr. Schmidt's "Shakespeare Lexicon" or Mrs. Clarke's "Concordance to Shakespeare." By a sort of strange irony, moreover, this tribute to the greatness of the expelled Oxford student of 1811 is to be printed at the University Press, with a type specially cast and a paper made expressly for the book. Strange, too, will it be esteemed that so laborious and costly a work should be undertaken by two publishers, yet so it is, for while Mr. Ellis is content to spend six of the last years of his life in the close and arduous application necessary for the preparation of such a book, which involves not only the arrangement but the careful and anxious consideration of 125,000 references to the poet's writings, without any hope of reward, or benefit to himself beyond the pleasure he finds in the study of the author, his whilom business antagonist, Mr. Quaritch, has undertaken to invest his capital in the production of the volume which is assuredly a speculation from which many a great publishing house would shrink. It is probable that few other publishers have so extensive a connection with English-speaking people in all parts of the world, and this gives Mr. Quaritch a special advantage in undertaking a publication of the kind. It is intended the book shall be published on the hundredth anniversary of the poet's birth, Aug. 4, 1892.

I took down a copy of Percy Fitzgerald's "The Book Collector" the other day, from the shelves of a Broadway store, and spent an idle ten minutes glancing through the book. Mr. Fitzgerald has some very strong ideas as to old books and old book collecting, and moreover is a trifle superficial on occasions. For instance, speaking of the original editions of Dickens' works he says: "Perhaps the rarest of these little trifles is 'The Dance Round a Christmas Tree.'" He means probably the "Curious Dance Round a Curious Tree," a paper which appeared in Household Words, and which was afterwards reprinted in pamphlet form. But was not Mr. Wills the author? My memory on this point is not over-clear, but that is my impression. "Relicure" for relicure is another of Mr. Fitzgerald's frequent lapses. The opinion of Chap-books is amusing—our author considers them "poor starved things, uninviting, on rough villainous paper"—"wrapping" apparently—and "wholly undesirable." Shelley's "Adonais," we are told, was first "printed on rude paper and with ruder type."

MR. FITZGERALD claims also that the first book bound in cloth was a copy of Byron's works. Now, was it not first used on an edition of Shakespeare's works published by Pickering? Speaking of bindings, he lightly says that "very little experience enables one to recognize a Roger Payne." The general impression among collectors and dealers is rather a different one, I think. Mr. Fitzgerald prattles softly about Elzevirs, and says he once had "a very respectable collection," but in a foot-note quotes Mr. Quaritch as saying, "If I hear any one talk about Elzevirs and Aldines I know he is an ignorant ass." Mr. Fitzgerald talks a good deal about Aldines and Elzevirs—but we'll drop the "book fancier" for a while.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

CHARLES L. WOODWARD, 78 Nassau Street, N. Y., we regret to notice, thinks seriously of giving up the issue of catalogues, because his experience and that of some other dealers with whom he has compared notes has convinced him "that there are a good many buyers—particularly librarians—who will never pay [him] a dollar for a book they can buy at auction for two." As he would not be entirely forgotten by bookbuyers, he will occasionally offer a book or two by circular, and accordingly he has sent out such an one. It is original and we would advise all concerned to send for it. It will entertain them even if it does not lead to a "trade." We shall take the loss of Mr. Woodward's catalogues more kindly if he will send out such circulars say once a month or oftener.

OTTO HARRASSOWITZ, 14 Querstrasse, Leipzig, has just issued another of his excellent Catalogues (No. 166), devoted to Geographical literature. The catalogue, which contains 1576 titles, is divided into four parts: (1) Geographical journals, collected works and bibliography; (2) Physical geography; (3) Historical geography; (4) The Divisions of the Earth: Europe, Asia, Africa, America, the Polar regions; and (5) Appendices to the foregoing divisions. What we have said of former catalogues prepared by Mr. Harrassowitz holds good also of this—it is a liberal education in the branch that it covers. We commend it to the careful study of all book-sellers as well as bookbuyers.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

JOHN MACKINTOSH, a learned shoemaker and bibliophile of Aberdeen, is writing a history of Scotland for the Story of the Nations series.

It is now announced that the author of "Thoth," "A Dreamer of Dreams," and "Toxar" is Mr. J. Shields Nicholson, Professor of Political Economy in the University of Edinburgh.

MONCURE D. CONWAY has written a "Life of Hawthorne" for the Great Writers series, which has just been published in the United States by A. Lovell & Co., and in England by Walter Scott.

EDWARD W. BOK, editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, sailed for Europe last week in company with Mr. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the Journal's proprietor. The trip is one of pleasure and business, and will be extended through Great Britain and on the Continent.

MADAME MARY (ROBINSON) DARMESTETER is said to be contemplating the preparation of a serious historical work on "The French in Italy"—a book which will tell the story of the French wars in Italy between the battle of Poitiers and the battle of Agincourt.

FRIEDRICH SPIELHAGEN's autobiography, published by L. Staackmann, of Leipzig, under the title of "Finder und Erfinder: erinnerungen aus meinem leben," has just been completed. The author, we are sorry to hear, is lying dangerously ill of typhoid fever in Berlin.

PRESIDENT CHARLES KENDALL ADAMS, of Cornell University, was married to Mrs. Mary Mathews Barnes, widow of the late A. S. Barnes, at Paddington Chapel, London, on July 7. Prof. Adams is the author of "A Manual of Historical Literature," and other works of historical character.

"Few persons know," says the Sun, "that Hamilton Gibson began his artistic career in the American Agriculturist. Nearly twenty years ago he was a young man in the employment of that paper, and one of his earliest accepted sketches was a branch of trailing arbutus, which appeared as an illustration in the early '70s."

MR. ROBERT LOUIS STEPHENSON will probably return to London in October. About that time he will completely wind up his affairs in Scotland. He intends to sell off his house furniture, carry his books with him, and fix his home permanently in Samoa. His island estate is said to be very lovely, with no less than six waterfalls on it.

HENRY M. STANLEY will make his first public appearance in America in the New York Metropolitan Opera House on November 11, when he will deliver a lecture in aid of the Fresh Air and Convalescent Home, at Summit, N. J. On November 20, George Kennan will begin a series of lectures at the Broadway Tabernacle, New York, in support of the Home.

"THE British Government has never granted amnesty to John Boyle O'Reilly," says Harper's Weekly, "his escape from a convict's doom in western Australia having apparently placed him outside the pale of forgiveness. Meanwhile Mr. O'Reilly, who is forty-six years old, pursues the even tenor of his way, displaying in his poems and lectures a sympathy for humanity which prejudice of party, race, or creed cannot narrow."

MR. WARD McALLISTER called at the office of the Cassell Publishing Company, New York, the day before he left New York for his farm at Newport and delivered the manuscript of his book, "Society as I Have Found It," into the hands of the President of the Company. Since he decided to write the book Mr. McAllister has worked on it every day and only completed it in time to leave town for the Fourth of July. A glance at the manuscript shows that it will more than fulfil the expectations of the public. No more interesting volume of its kind has been written since Lord Chesterfield's letters, which it strongly resembles, for it combines reminiscence with instruction, precept and anecdote running side by side through its pages. A portrait of Mr. McAllister taken recently, expressly for the purpose, will form the frontispiece of the book.

OBITUARY.

ARCHIBALD WILSON.

ARCHIBALD WILSON, who twenty years ago was the leading bookseller of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., died at his residence in that town on July 27 aged 65 years. Mr. Wilson was born in Dundee, Scotland, 1824, but came to this country in early childhood. His father, William Wilson, settled in Poughkeepsie and became first clerk and then partner of Paraclete Potter (who was established in the book business about eighty-five years ago), the firm becoming Potter & Wilson. After leaving school Archibald Wilson became clerk in his father's business, Potter & Wilson (afterwards William Wilson). In 1848 he became the junior member of the firm of Arnold & Wilson in Milwaukee, Wis., of which concern he became sole proprietor about seven years after. His father's failing health recalled him to Poughkeepsie where he continued the business at the original stand on Main Street (on the site of the Pardee Building), until the burning of the store, when he removed to Liberty Street with the saved stock. His modest Liberty Street establishment was headquarters for the old friends of the house for a number of years, until that too was given up, on account of the ill-health of its proprietor. He has since resided quietly at his home, with leisure for reading, and with business in real estate brokerage that engaged moments not otherwise employed. Mr. Wilson was a gentle, lovable man, earnest and honorable to the last degree in all his business dealings, which characteristic won for him the esteem and respect of his townsmen, as well as of those elsewhere with whom he had intercourse. Mr. Wilson's conscientious pursuit of a vocation which in these later days is beset with temptations, and his many acts of filial regard and consideration will be recalled by those with whom he was brought into business relations. It is believed by one intimately familiar with his life that he never, as a bookseller, handled books of whose moral tone he entertained serious doubts, though for differences in religious belief he had the utmost respect. This is a record worth preserving. Mr. Wilson issued two editions of his father's poems, edited and accompanied by a memoir by Dr. B. J. Lossing. He was treasurer of St. Paul's Episcopal Church for years. A grown-up family survive him. A son, George S. Wilson, is connected with the West Book and Stationery Co. of Milwaukee.

WALTER G. HEGEMAN died on the night of July 28, at 11 o'clock, at his father's house, 485 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, N. Y. He was employed at Harper & Brothers' as head stock clerk. Last October a number of books fell from a shelf, and Mr. Hegeman and a fellow-clerk stooped to pick them up. In arising the back of the clerk's head struck Mr. Hegeman a sharp blow on the side of the face. Nothing serious was thought of the matter, but during the holidays he began to complain of pains in the head. They grew so acute that his mind became affected, and a close examination disclosed the fact that a tumor had formed at the base of the skull. Later this was found to be a cancer, and its growth caused Mr. Hegeman's head to swell to almost twice its size. He was taken to the Seney Hospital in Brooklyn, where several painful operations were performed. The location of the disease made a cure an impossibility, and he was taken to his father's house to die. Here he was taken care of by his brother, Dr. Thos. B. Hegeman, who made it the duty of his life to alleviate his elder brother's sufferings. Mr. Hegeman was well known to the entire athletic world as a sprinter, and as the official handicapper of the old National Association of Amateur Athletics. He was born July 24, 1856, and entered Harper & Bros.' employ when a lad but thirteen years old, and remained with them until his fatal illness. He leaves a widow and three children.

ROBERT LAIRD COLLIER, a well-known Unitarian minister, lecturer and author, of Davenport, Ia., died July 26, at his country home near Salisbury, Md., aged fifty-three years. His principal published works are "Every-Day Subjects in Sunday Sermons" (1869), "Meditations on the Essence of Christianity" (1876), and "English Home Life" (1885). He was sometimes mistaken for the Rev. Robert Collyer, of the Unitarian Church of the Messiah of New York, because both began life as tradesmen, then became Methodist ministers, and finally, not many years apart, embraced the Unitarian faith.

MRS. MARGARET COCKBURN CONKLING STEELE, daughter of the late Judge A. Conkling, and sister of the late Roscoe Conkling, died at her home in Jersey City, July 28, aged seventy-six years. She published the "Memoirs of the Mother and Wife of Washington" in 1851-3, a translation of Florian's "History of the Moors of Spain," a novel entitled "Isabel, or, trials of the heart," and contributed often to current literature.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD has promised to write for Scribner's three articles upon Japan and Japanese life. Mr. Robert Blum, who was sent out by the magazine, has arrived in Japan, and is making the drawings to illustrate these articles, under the guidance and suggestion of the author himself.

MRS. LYMAN ABBOTT, wife of the successor to Henry Ward Beecher as pastor of Plymouth Church, is to become one of the editors of The Ladies' Home Journal, on September 1 next. An English edition of this journal is to be brought out in London on a colossal scale, and Mr. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, proprietor of the Journal, and Mr. Edward W. Bok, the editor, called for Europe last week to perfect arrangements.

AL J. BICKNELL, 115 Broadway, N. Y., whose name is familiar to most of our readers, has just begun the publication of The Architectural and Building Monthly, a journal of practical designs and details. This enterprise is the result of Mr. Bicknell's wide knowledge of and experience with journals devoted to this particular field, and promises to be a useful guide to all interested in the subject. Each issue will contain from eight to twelve 9 x 12 plates of designs and details. The subscription is $5 a year, 50 cents single numbers. Librarians interested in architectural journalism will receive a sample copy free on application.

WITH the current number (July to December) The Crafts will complete its tenth year. The bound volume just issued (January-June, 1890) contains 328 pages of good reading-matter, including notices of 633 new books, and all the current news of the English-speaking literary world. A new and strong department—that of "Shakespeariana," conducted by the distinguished Shakespearian scholar, Dr. W. J. Rolfe, of Cambridge, Mass.—has been added since the previous volume was issued, and its effect has been felt already in the increased and increasing popularity of the paper. Browning, Ibsen, and International Copyright—these have been the "burning questions" of the past six months, and they have received exhaustive treatment in these columns. For the rest, the fortnightly London Letter of the popular English novelist, Mrs. L. B. Walford; Mr. Alexander Young's weekly budget of interesting notes from Boston; and the department headed "The Lounger," have been maintained on the plane reached in previous volumes. We are pleased to learn that The Critic is successful. It fully deserves it, and we are gratified to think that we were among the first to predict this.

BUSINESS NOTES.

KANSAS CITY, KANSAS.—H. E. Hampton has succeeded to the book and stationery business of E. Homuth, 548 Minnesota Avenue. Mr. Homuth, we regret to hear, is obliged to retire from business on account of the invalid condition of his wife, who met with an accident last fall, up to which time she had ably assisted him in carrying on the business. Mr. Hampton brings with him an excellent reputation as a business man, and he certainly takes hold of a concern which has a well-established trade.

NANTUCKET, MASS.—The New York World says that the retail book business is largely controlled by women. Among the dealers are Ellen H. Coffin, Harriet H. Macy, Mary F. Coleman, Mary A. Jones and Phoebe W. Clisby. If directories may be relied upon, Nantucket must be a wide-awake town; 4000 inhabitants supporting eleven establishments where books are sold.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Samuel Carson & Co., under date of July 1, have published a statement of facts which led up to their failure, which in the main confirms the report made in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY June 28. The liabilities are estimated at $36,000, and the assets at about $26,000 to $27,000, a good deal of which will be difficult to realize upon. Mr. Carson hopes to be able to effect some arrangement to resuscitate the business and continue the same at the old stand, under a corporation to be entitled "The S. Carson Co.," and that a sufficient amount of new capital can be obtained to buy the remnant of the business from the receiver.

THE ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA CASE.

In the suit of James T. Black et al., against the Henry G. Allen Company, an amendment to the bill of complaint was filed July 20, in the United States Circuit Court. The amendment has been made in conformity with the recent order of the court requiring John McAlin, administrator of the estate of Alexander Johnston, to secure ancillary letters of administration in this county, and set forth that fact in the papers. This has been done. No date for the trial has yet been fixed.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

ROBERT BONNER'S SONS have decided to hold back till October Herbert Ward's "Five Years With the Congo Cannibals."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have in preparation "Lyrics for a Lute," a new volume of poetry by Frank Dempster Sherman.

THE HOME PUBLISHING CO., of New York (A. C. Gunter, manager), announce "Small Boys in Big Boots," by Archibald Claverling Gunter, author of "Mr. Barnes of New York," etc.

HARPER & BROS. will add to their series of translations from foreign authors Giovanni Verga's "The House by the Medlar-Tree" translated by Mary A. Craig, with an introduction by W. D. Howells.

THE Secretary of the Treasury has decided that the blocks of Mr. Cole's woodcuts for the Century are not works of art, and are therefore subject to a duty of 35 per cent. ad valorem, which amounts to nearly $100 on each block. What next?

V. M. CORYELL, for many years the buyer for the Western News Company, has entered an engagement with the Belford-Clarke Company of Chicago. Mr. Coryell is one of the best-known men in the book trade, and will prove a valuable assistant to his new employers.

STREET & SMITH, New York, have just published a new story by Mrs. J. H. Walworth, entitled "True to Herself," which is well written and contains some clever character drawing. It forms No. 55 of their Select Series. They have also just ready, in their Sea and Shore Series (No. 22), "Struggle for Maverick," a good sensational story by James Franklin Fitts.

THERE is a chance for some publisher to become the godfather of native Indian literature. A Territorial Indian has written a romance, and he is out with letters to prominent publishers asking them to publish the work. It is an Indian romance, and the author himself is the authority for the fact that it is "realistic, strong and devoid of wishy-washy love scenes."

DODD, MEAD & Co. are contemplating the issue of a series to include modern classics of English authorship, or in English translation. Four books have already been decided on—Austin Dobson's "Four French Women," Charles Reade's "Christie Johnstone" and his "Peg Woffington," and the "Journal of Maurice de Guérin." The title of the series is to be Grantha [pronounced Zoonta], the name of the great family of printers of classics, whose presses were established in Florence, Venice and Geneva in the early part of the sixteenth century.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co. have in preparation "The Choir Office Book of the Daily and Occasional Offices, and the Order of Holy Communion of the Protestant Episcopal Church, as used in Trinity Church, New York," edited by A. H. Messiter, organist of Trinity. The book will contain the Canticles of the morning and evening prayer, and those for other occasions, set to both Anglican and Gregorian music; the Choral Service, with plain song and Tallis' responses; the Office of the Holy Eucharist in anthem music, as well as a complete rendering of this office in plain song with organ harmonies; the Burial Service complete, with Anglican and Gregorian music; the Canticles as anthems in a few carefully selected and simple settings; and hymns for unison singing with varied accompaniments.

D. C. HEATH & Co., Boston, have just added to their series of German Texts, "Selections from Heine's Poems," edited, with an introduction and notes, by Horatio S. White, Professor of the German Language and Literature in Cornell University. This volume embraces selections, not only from the more familiar "Buch der Lieder," but also from Heine's later and posthumous poems, an examination of which is essential to complete the picture of his matured genius. The notes deal with the metrical and linguistic peculiarities of the verse, and trace the connection between Heine's life and times and his poetical productions. A short bibliography of works relating to Heine is appended. They will issue shortly Anatole France's "Abeille," edited by Charles P. Lebon, of the English High School, Boston; De Vigny's "Laurette, ou Le Cachet Rouge," edited by Prof. Alcée Fortier, of Tulane University, New Orleans; and "Selections for German Composition," with notes and vocabulary, by Prof. Charles Harris, of Oberlin. These selections are progressive, and each complete in itself.

JAMES J. CHAPMAN, 915 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C., will publish August 15 McPherson's "Handbook of Politics for 1890." It will cover the proceedings of the second session of the last Congress (50th), and the first session of the present Congress (51st); and will give the final facts as to every pending public measure passed upon since the publication of the "Handbook of Politics for 1888." In that record will be found the votes on the adoption of the Rules of the House of Representatives; the legislation on trusts; on pensions; increase of naval establishment; the silver question; the Chinese question; the admission of the States of North and South Dakota, Montana, Washington, Idaho and Wyoming; the national elections bill; on anti-Mormon legislation; on alcoholic liquor questions; forfeiture of land grants; the civil service question; the tariff question in both the fiftieth and fifty-first Congresses; the copyright bill; the Nicaragua Canal bill; direct tax bill; the common school bill; also the various treaties and conventions made within the past two years; Constitutional amendments made and pending in states and nation; the President's proclamations, orders, and messages; tables of popular votes, debts, appropriations, revenues, expenditures, etc., etc. There will also be given, as of special historical interest at present, the full legislative history of the silver demonetizing act of 1873. This record has never before been printed.

MR. FIELD has retired from the firm of Field & Tuer, and Mr. Andrew Tuer will continue the publishing and printing business, under the firm-name of the Leadenhall Press.

MR. ZAEHNSDORF, bookbinder, of Catherine Street, Strand, London (where the business was established and has been carried on during the past half century), has removed to Cambridge Circus, Shaftesbury Avenue, W. C., where extensive premises have been erected to meet the increasing necessities of his business.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

TO THE TRADE.

In view of an unauthorized reprint of the three following books of Mr. G. A. HENTY, viz.:

"WITH CLIVE IN INDIA."

"ONE OF THE 28th,"

"IN THE REIGN OF TERROR,"

we announce that we have in preparation cheaper editions of these books at prices which we guarantee will meet any competition.

As the unauthorized publication of these books is an attempt to supply a demand which has to a very great extent been created by our efforts, we bespeak for our editions the support of the trade.

Samples will be shown at once.

RED LINE POETS.

WE take great pleasure in announcing to the Trade that we have made an arrangement with Messrs. T. Y. Crowell & Company by which they have purchased from us all the stock on hand of our various editions of the Poets, and that all such editions will be published by them hereafter.

In consequence of this, the cheap editions of Red Line Poets and the cheap editions of Irving and Victor Hugo's Works, recently announced, are withdrawn.

We have also arranged with Messrs. T. Y. Crowell & Company to publish hereafter what is known as our Cambridge Edition of 12mos—that is, those bound in half morocco binding only—and have transferred all our stock of these to them.

Unprofitable competition is thus removed and an important advance made in our plan looking to uniform prices to all dealers.

JOHN W. LOVELL COMPANY.

New York, August 6, 1890.

We avail ourselves of this opportunity to call the attention of the trade to our standard and popular editions in cloth and fine bindings, as follows:

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

For 1890 (Eighteenth Year).

Large 8vo, about 3000 pages. With Duplex Index. Cloth, $2.00.

The Trade List Annual for 1890 will contain:

1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume.
2. A complete list by author, title, and subject of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY from January to June, 1890, supplementing the ANNUAL CATALOGUE, 1889.
3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1890, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we are now applying it to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

 Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for 80 cents per copy extra.

 Orders received now with cash are entitled to subscription rate of $1.50. After publication day, and on orders which we have to collect after that date, the regular price will be $2.00, net.

NOTES IN SEASON.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have the exclusive agency for America of the library edition of Moncure D. Conway's "Life of Hawthorne" published in England in the Great Writers series. This is printed on larger paper, and, in general, is gotten up more sumptuously than the twelvemo edition already referred to in these columns.

C. N. CASPAR, Milwaukee, Wis., has recently published a City and County Map of Milwaukee, giving complete reference up to date of the streets, roads, rivers, parks, section lines, etc., and stating the names of the owners and the number of acres of every farm, the platted property in the county, etc., drawn by Wm. R. Knell. The map is 37 x 60 inches, mounted on rollers, and sells at $10.

ROBERTS BROS. have in preparation a new volume by Dr. William Everett, entitled "Thine, not Mine," in which the author tells in an earnest and impressive manner the many experiences with boys during his career as a teacher. New editions of his other books, "Changing Base" and "Double Play," are also being prepared, as is also an edition of the poems of Emily Dickinson, H. H.'s true friend, which will be edited by Col. T. W. Higginson and contain a preface by him.

THE WORTHINGTON CO. will publish on the 11th inst. a translation by Hugh Craig of "The Flirt," by Paul Hervieu, which has been the literary sensation of Paris for months. The volume is handsomely illustrated with designs by Madeleine Lemaire. "The Flirt" is a delightful novel of the Paris of to-day, presenting exact types of the highest circles of society. The book has had an enormous sale in France in various editions ranging in price from 60 to 1200 francs per copy. On the 15th they will issue "Catherine's Coquetries," by Camille Debans, translated by Leon Mead, the first volume in the Rose Library.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ADRIAN, MICH.—It is advertised that C. L. Morrow & Co., booksellers, will sell out.

MISHAWAKA, IND.—William Barker, bookseller and stationer, has moved from Sand Lake to this town.

NEW YORK CITY.—The business of the late Wm. R. Jenkins will be continued as heretofore at Nos. 851 and 853 Sixth Ave., the estate having secured as manager Mr. E. W. Dayton, who has been for a number of years connected with the publishing house of D. Appleton & Co. Mr. Dayton will adhere closely to the methods which so rapidly brought Mr. Jenkins into prominence both as publisher and bookseller.

NORWALK, WIS.—It is reported that Aug. Romanowski has sold his bookstore.

PARIS, FRANCE.—E. Lancelin & Co., 50 Rue de Chateaudun, in connection with their commission business, have opened a book department, of which their Mr. Cuvillier will have charge, who is not unknown to the book trade in this country. Mr. Cuvillier will be in this country shortly, to call on the trade in person.

SAN FRANCISCO CAL.—The assignee of Coleman & Gruninger will apply August 18, to the Superior Court for the declaration of a dividend of the balance of the estate remaining undistributed, and for his discharge.

TAWAS CITY, MICH.—Jos. W. Miner has sold his stock of books and stationery.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MRS. LEONOWENS, the famous traveller, contributes to the September Wide Awake an article about "The Little Hohenzollerns," accompanied by an engraving of Lübke's recent painting of Emperor William and the royal family.

The Western Journalist, published monthly by Burrell & Welsh, Chicago, has developed an amount of talent and enterprise that gives great promise for its future. As it is, it now contains more real news concerning journalistic life in this country than any of its competitors—we are tempted to say, than all of them put together. We congratulate our Western brother.

The American Catalogue

The new volume of the American Catalogue will cover the period July 1, 1884, to June 30, 1890.

The edition will be 1250 copies only, and there will be no reissue. Subscriptions will be received at $10 in parts ($2.50 extra for A. L. A. half leather binding), payable one-half in advance, balance on delivery.

This work is indispensable to the bookstore or library.

About 100 copies each remain of the Subject Catalogue of 1876 (of which 250 more than of the Author Catalogue were printed) and of the Catalogue of 1876-84. Price, $12.50, sheets; $15, half leather, each.

FRANKLIN SQUARE (330 PEARL ST.), N. Y.

- *De Quincey, T. Complete works. New ed., ed. by D. Masson. In 14 v. V. 9, Political economy and politics. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 7+444 p. 12°, cl., $1.35.
- *Elliott, Eug. S. Charter of the city of Milwaukee; being chapter 184, laws of 1874, as amended by subsequent acts of the legislature to and including the acts of 1889. Milwaukee, Wis., C. N. Caspar, 1890. 248 p. O. shp., $3. pap., 50 c.
- Expatriation: a novel; by the author of "Aristocracy." N. Y., Appleton, 1890. c. 2-307 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 56.) pap., 50 c.
- Another clever satire, from the pen that gave us "Aristocracy," upon the American weakness for all things English. The characters are two American families—one refined and well educated and living within the charmed circle of the "400," the other rich and vulgar, and seeking in vain to get within it. They both come to England animated by the same hope—to renew the acquaintance of Lord Piccadilly, the eldest son of the Earl of Mayfair, who had once made a flying visit to "the States." Lord Piccadilly has no desire to know them in England, perpetrates a cruel joke at their expense, and otherwise treats them rudely. The English and American characters are all capably drawn, and there is an abundance of witty dialogue.
- Fairfield, Abbie H., ed. Starting-points: how to make a good beginning. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1890.] c. 3-205 p. sq. S. cl., $1; $1.25. A diary of quotations from well-known American and European authors, intended especially for boys just growing into manhood.
- *Franco, L. B. Mr. Dide: his vacation in Colorado, and other sketches. N. Y., Bromfield & Co., 658 Broadway, 1890. c. 259 p. 8°, cl., $1; pap., 50 c.
- Galiavardin, Dr. The homeopathic treatment of alcoholism; from the French, by Irenæus D. Foulon, M.D. Phil., Hahnemann Pub. House, 1890. c. 2-138 p. D. cl., $1.
- A translation of the practical and therapeutic portions of Dr. Galiavardin's work, which is supposed to be the first ever written from a homeopathic standpoint on the subject of which it treats. Experiment is all he asks for his system. He follows the two precepts of his master Hahnemann: 1st. In the choice of remedies, note the intellectual and moral symptoms presented by the patient and produced by the drug proved upon the healthy subject. 2d. In chronic diseases, give in one dose the remedy selected, and let it act for weeks and months. The remedies are administered without knowledge of the patients. The author claims he has cured half of his cases.
- *Grova, ed. Dictionary of music and musicians, 1450-1889; Index vol., and catalogue of articles contributed by each writer, comp. by Mrs. Edmond R. Wodehouse. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 8°, cl., $2.50.
- *Hackländer, F. W. Der augenblick d. glücks: a. d. memoiren eines fürstl. hauses; II. von Fritz Berger. Milwaukee, Wis., C. N. Caspar, 1890. 427 p. S. cl., 50 c.
- *Hackländer, F. W. Handel und Wandel, II. von A. Langhammer. Milwaukee, Wis., C. N. Caspar, 1890. 468 p. S. cl., 50 c.
- Hagood, Rev. L. M. The colored man in the Methodist Episcopal church. Cin. O., Cranston & Stowe, 1890. c. 327 p. por. D. cl., $1.25.
- Theoretically and ecclesiastically the utterances of the Methodist Episcopal Church in regard to the colored man have been fair and just, but thus far her practice has not been brought up to her theory. She has organized colored churches and given them colored ministers, but she has not encouraged the full equality of the colored portion of her membership. Dr. Hagood, of the Lexington Conference, believes that if all the facts are fairly stated many Methodists may be influenced to work to the end that every negro shall feel free to enter any Methodist church, certain of a welcome from every member.
- Haskins, C. W. The Argonauts of California: being the reminiscences of scenes and incidents that occurred in California in early mining days, by a pioneer. N. Y., Ford, Howard & Hurlbert, 1890. c. 89. 1+501 p. il. O. cl., $3.25.
- This account of scenes and incidents that occurred in California in early days in the mining regions, was written from memory while confined by snow and cold in the silver mining regions of Idaho during the winter of 1887-'88. Gives the names of the chief "Forty-niners" (to the number of 35,000) and a description of their deeds of daring and self-denial while laying the foundation of the great State of California. The author believes this collection of reminiscences will in time be of great historical value.
- *Haviland, C. Tappan. A concise treatise on the law of corporations having capital stock: including manufacturing and business corporations, insurance, guaranty companies, banks, safe deposit, trust, railroad, plankroad, gas-light, bridge, telegraph (etc.) companies, and the rights and liabilities of stockholders and officers. New York cases and statutes. N. Y., Drossy & Co., 1890. c. 28+435 p. O. shp., $4.
- *Hawley, J. G. Law of arrest on criminal charges, as it has been adjudged by the Federal and State courts of the U. S. Chic., T. H. Flood & Co., 1890. c. 70 p. 16°, flex. leath., 75 c.
- Heine, Heinrich. Die Harzreise: ed. by Alphonse N. Van Daell. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1890. c. 89. 3+80 p. D. (Heath's German ser.) pap., 25 c.
- Formerly published by C. N. Kilborn. See notice in "Weekly Record," P. W., Dec. 15, '88, [88.]
- Holmes, R. S. Ten lessons in Sunday-school science: a manual for the use of normal classes. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1890. c. 2-73 p. D. pap., 20 c.
- These lessons treat of the Sunday-school as an institution, of the scholar as an immortal being with a destiny dependent on character, of the teacher as circumscribed and limited by the nature both of the school and of the scholar, and of the work itself as conditioned upon certain fixed laws and aided by certain necessary surroundings. The chapter on teachers is full of good suggestions.
- *Hovey, Alvah, ed. American Commentary on the New Testament. Phil., American Baptist Pub. Soc., 1890. 7 v., 8°, cl.
- Contents: Matthew, by J. A. Broadus, $2.25.—Mark, by W. N. Clarke; Luke, by G. R. Bliss, 1 v., $2.75.—John, by Alvah Hovey, $2.25.—Acts, by H. B. Hackett; Romans, by A. N. Arnold and Rev. D. B. Ford, 1 v., $2.25.—Corinthians, by E. P. Gould; Galatians, by Alvah Hovey; Ephesians, by J. A. Smith; Philippians, by I. B. G. Pidge; Colossians, by E. C. Dargan; Thessalonians, by W. A. Stevens, 1 v., $2.50.—Timothy, Titus, Philemon, by H. H. Harvey; Hebrews, by A. C. Kendrick; James, by E. T. Winkler; Peter, by N. M. Williams, 1 v., $2.75.—Epistles of John, by H. A. Sawtelle; Jude, by N. M. Williams; Revelation, by J. A. Smith, 1 v., $2.25.
- Hughes, Hugh Price. The atheist shoemaker: a page in the history of the West London mission. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1890. 4-87 p. S. cl., 40 c.
- A real character under a fictitious name and the work done for him by the West London Mission are briefly described. After John Herbert has abandoned atheism, he is much troubled by the wrangling of sects before he finds peace in being simply a Christian.
- *Illinois. Supreme court. Reports of cases at law and in chancery; Norman L. Freeman, rep. V. 129, cont. cases in which opinions were filed in Ap., May, June, Oct. and Nov., 1889, and some cases in which applications for rehearing were denied at the Oct. term, 1889. Pr. for the rep. Springfield, Norman L. Freeman, 1890. c. 787 p. O. shp., $2.25.

- *Johnson, J. Defence of Charleston harbor, including Fort Sumter and the adjacent islands, 1863-'65. Charleston, S. C., Walker, Evans & Cogswell Co., 3 Broad St., 1890. c. '89. 186+276 p. 8°, cl., $4; ht. rus., $5.
- Joy, Ja. R. An outline history of England. [C. L. S. C. course, 1890-'91.] N. Y., Chautauqua Press, 150 5th Ave., [Hunt & Eaton,] 1890. c. 3-311 p. O. cl., $1.
Compiled specially for the Chautauqua reading course of 1890-'91. Compressed within narrow limits. In the same course is included Henry A. Beers' "Sketch of English literature" which so fully covers the writers of England that the author of this history has not devoted much of his valuable and restricted space to that part of the nation's history. Index.
- *Lawson, J. D. Rights, remedies and practice at law, in equity and under the codes. a treatise on American law in civil causes; with a digest of illustrative cases. In 7 v. V. 6. San Francisco, Bancroft-Whitney Co., 1890. c. 25+26+2677-3403+24 p. O. shp., $6.
- *Linderfelt, Klas August. Eclectic card catalog rules, based on the [Instruction] of Dilatzko, compared with the rules of the British Museum, Cutter, Dewey, Perkins and other authorities. Bost., C. A. Cutter, lib'n Athenæum, 1890. 8°. (Corr. title.)
- *Macray, William Dunn. Annals of the Bodleian Library, Oxford, with a notice of the earlier library of the university. 2d ed. enl. and continued from 1868 to 1880. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 10+545 p. 8°, cl., $6.25.
- Magee, J. C., D.D. Apostolic organism; with introd. by J. C. W. Coxe, D.D. 2-263 p. D. cl., $1.
The Holy Scriptures liken the body of believers to a structure, with organs capable of a special function that is essential to the life or well-being of the whole. The Church of the Lord Jesus Christ is, therefore, herein called an organism. The body of believers now ruled by the doctrines, institution and practices, etc., found in the apostolic writings is considered as the apostolic organism. Divided into two parts, and intended specially for the laity.
- *Milton, J. Poetical works; ed. with memoir, introd. notes, and an essay on Milton's English and versification, by D. Masson. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 3 v. 8°, cl., $15.
- Montgomery, D. H. The leading facts of American history. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1890. c. 6+359+53 p. il. D. (Leading facts of history ser.) cl., $1.10.
The author's statements are accurate, his style simple and his attitude impartial. Divided into paragraphs with head-lines that will assist in asking questions. Includes the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, a list of Presidents with the most important events in their administrations grouped under every name, a list of books to be read on American history, and a full index.
- *New York. The block indexing law. The law for short forms of deeds and mortgages. The act to provide for recording and indexing instruments affecting land in the city of N. Y. according to city blocks or other limited areas. Passed June 3, 1889, amended Ap. 23, 1890. Also the act to provide for short forms of deeds and mortgages, passed June 2, 1890. Pr. from the off. copies. N. Y., Baker, Voorhis & Co., 1890. c. 26 p. O. pap., 40 c.
- *New York. The New York code of civil procedure, carefully annot. to June 1, 1890, and fully indexed, complete in 1 v., chapters 1-23, as enacted and amended to June 1, 1890; together with the repealing acts, table of corresponding sections and a supplement cont. notes and references to all decisions down to June 1, 1890. 15th ed. Alb., H. B. Parsons, 1890. c. 50+540+931 p. T. (Parsons' complete annotated pocket code.) roan, $3.50.
- *Northwestern (The) reporter, v. 44; cont. all the decisions of the supreme courts of Minn., Wis., Iowa, Mich., Neb., No. Dak., So. Dak. Permanent ed., Jan. 25-Apr. 26, 1890; with tables of Northwestern cases published in v. 77, 78, Ia. reports; 68-70 and 76, Mich. reports; 41, Minn. reports; 74, Wis. reports. St. Paul, West Pub. Co., 1890. c. 15+1258 p. O. (National reporter system, state ser.) shp., $3.50.
- Ohnet, Georges. The soul of Pierre; from the French, by Mary J. Serrano; il. by Emile Bayard. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1890.] 3+291 p. D. (Cassell's sunshine ser., no. 52.) pap., 50 c.
A Russian doctor, after a great dinner at Monte Carlo, expounds his favorite theories that a thought can influence your moral condition to such a degree as to alter your physical condition; that the soul of a dying person may be willed into the soul of a living person and work a transformation in that person's health, character and mode of life, etc. One of the guests determines to sacrifice his life for the future happiness of a friend. The story is worked up with the lightness of touch and knowledge of human character with which the name of the author of the "Master of the forge" is synonymous.
- *Palgrave, Francis T., comp. The treasury of sacred song, sel. from the English lyrical poetry of four centuries, with notes, explanatory and biographical. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 9+374 p. 16°, hf. vellum, $2.
- Price, Jacob Embury. Epworth league workers. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1890. c. 3-217 p. il. D. cl., 75 c.
Practical suggestions as to the management of young people's societies in the Methodist Church. The hints as to methods, topics of essays, programmes, night-schools, reading-rooms, libraries, etc., have been tested by the busy pastor who has prepared this helpful book. He specially dwells upon the advantages of the Epworth League, a new denominational society in the Methodist Church. Appendix contains a course of reading and study, the constitution of the Epworth League and a description of Wesley's old home, from which the League takes its name.
- *Ptolemy, G. W. Bar. The origin of priesthood; or, religion the curse of the world. N. Y., Free Thought Pub. Co., [Truth Seeker Co.,] 1890. c. 128 p. 12°, pap., 25 c.
- Saltus, Francis S. Shadows and Ideals: Poems. Buffalo, N. Y., C. Wells Moulton, 1890. c. 10+369 p. por. sq. O. hf. mor., net, $2.50.
Revised by the author for the press, before his death. The collection contains many of his best known and most admired poems. It also includes a number of powerful poems never before published, remarkable for originality and vivid coloring. A number of French, Spanish and Italian poems in the original text are also given. The book was printed under the supervision of a friend of the author. Edition limited to one thousand copies for America and England combined.
- *Scudder, Horace E. Short history of the United States for beginners. N. Y., Taintor Bros. & Co., 1890. c. 288 p. il. and maps, 16°, cl., net, 60 c.
- Shillaber, B. P. ["Mrs. Partington," pseud.] Mrs. Partington's new gripsack, filled with fresh things. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie, [1890.] 4-240 p. il. D. (The red cover ser., no. 85.) pap., 25 c.
- *Shipp, J. Memoirs of the extraordinary military career of J. Shipp, late a lieutenant in his majesty's 87th regiment, written by himself; with an introduction by H. Manners Chichester. New il. ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 386 p. 12°, $1.50.

Townsend, Malcolm, comp. U. S.: an index to the United States of America, historical, geographical and political: a handbook of references combining the curious in U. S. history. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1890.] c. 3+482 p. map,
il. D. cl., $1.50.

Of all the wonders of the world none is greater, more inspiring or more surprising than the development and progress of these United States of America. The mass of curious facts, coincidences and information items from which this book is evolved is the accumulation of years of research, study and scrap-book making by the author, who is local freight agent of the P. R. R. It is a most valuable collection of facts and statistics made get-at-able by an excellent index. Bibliography of books consulted.

Ward, Julius H. The White Mountains: a guide to their interpretation. N. Y., Appleton, 1890.
c. 7+258 p. map and il. D. cl., $1.25.

This is not a guide-book nor an itinerary, and yet at times it ventures into the region of both. The object is not only to point out the way into the White Mountains, so that one can use his days among them to the best advantage, "but to try to interpret their language in separate localities and as a whole to our intellectual and sensitive life"

Westbrook, Mary. Rachel Du Mont; a brave little maid of the revolution: a true story of the burning of Kingston, N. Y., by the British in 1777; for girls and boys and older people.

Woodbury, C. J. Talks with Ralph Waldo
Emerson. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1890.]
c. 3+177 p. por. S. cl., $1.25.

In the autumn of 1865 Emerson came to lecture in the Methodist meeting-house in Williamstown, Mass., and there the compiler of these talks began a friendship which lasted through the seer's life. The thoughts of Emerson here given are classified under the general headings, Meeting, Counsel, Criticism, Concord, Transcendentalism, Presence, Method, and Manhood. The pretty book is dedicated "to the youth of the land who aspire, and who, it is hoped, will take the words spoken to another as if spoken to them."

Young, Egerton Ryerson. By canoe and dog-train among the Cree and Salteaux Indians; with an introd. by Mark Guy Pearse. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1890. 13+267 p. por. il. D.
cl., $1.25.

This hard-working missionary has made a book of the material given in his lectures on his work in the Northwestern portion of the United States. Incidentally the United States policy in governing the Indians is described and criticised. These lectures were last year printed as a series of papers in the New York Ledger.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

M. RENAN'S third volume of the "Histoire du Peuple d'Israël" will appear at the beginning of October.

"THE Mark of the Beast" is the title of a story, clearly socialistic, which has just been completed by Katherine Woods, author of "Metzerott, Shoemaker."

M. WILSON, the son-in-law of ex-President Grévy, is said to be writing his memoirs, in which he will endeavor to set himself right in the eyes of the public.

MALCOLM TOWNSEND, the compiler of "U. S.," is the local freight agent of the P. R. R., managing the great North River offices in New York. He is an ardent student of statistics, and has a great variety of scrap-books full of quaint and valuable clippings.

GEN. DWIGHT H. BRUCE, of Syracuse, has editorial supervision of a promised history of that town, to which a number of other eminent citizens will contribute. Gen. Bruce was for many years one of the owners and editors of the Syracuse Journal, and at one time was Postmaster of Syracuse.

It was announced in June that Edwin Arnold had sold his American rights in his new poem, "The Light of the World," to Harry Deakin, and the question arose as to who this purchaser was. Mr. Deakin is a member of the firm of Deakin Brothers & Co., prominent art dealers of Yokohama. The original manuscript has been forwarded to this country, and the book will appear in October.

THE copy of Mr. Aldrich's poems which lies on a table in the parlor of his Boston home has on a fly-leaf an inscription "To my wife, Lillian, after seventeen happy years with her. Nov. 28, 1882." On the next blank sheet he has written the following lines:

"Two things there are with memory will abide—Whatever else befall—while life flows by:
That soft, cold hand-touch at the altar side;
The thrill that shook you at your child's first cry."

ELBRIDGE S. BROOKS, whose Biblical novel, "The Son of Issachar," is just now attracting a great deal of attention, has been editing for D. Lothrop Company two attractive volumes, "Out of Doors with Tennyson" and "The Great Cities of the World." Mr. Brooks is summering at Cape Porpoise, Me., where he is busy upon another important work, the character of which will soon be announced.

FRANK VINCENT, the well-known traveller and author, "in recognition of his distinguished services to the literature of travel," received from the Emperor of Austria the great gold medal for art, literature and science. The medal is of pure gold, two inches in diameter and a quarter of an inch in thickness. It is engraved and embossed in the highest style of art. The obverse presents a fine medallion of the Emperor, crowned with laurel, around which are inscribed His Majesty's official titles. The reverse bears, in a circlet of oak and laurel, the imperial crown and motto of "Viribus Unitus," referring to the political association of empire and kingdom. This is the second honor Mr. Vincent has received from Vienna, having, a few years ago, been elected a corresponding member of the Austria Geographical Society.

M. HALÉVY, author of "Abbé Constantin," announces that he is about to cease writing, having become tired of literary work. He has a novel in hand, but has some doubts if he will ever complete it, as composition has become very fatiguing to him. Apropos of this author's "Abbé Constantin," that charming idyl, which during the last two Christmas seasons had such an enormous sale, the following story is told, which does not seem to have gotten itself into print: An elderly lady who takes an intense interest in her young friends bought a copy of "Abbé Constantin." A few weeks later she ordered fifty copies. A short time after she wrote her bookseller, "Am charmed with M. Constantin's style. Please send me a copy of all the stories the dear man has written." She evidently hadn't the faintest idea what a giddy fellow Ludovic had been in his youth, and that there was the widest kind of a gulf between the little story he had written for his boy, because he couldn't find anything pure enough for his perusal, and his "Un Mariage d'Amour," "Madame et Monsieur Cardinal," or "Princesse."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 9, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

A PLEA FOR THE LOCAL BOOKSTORE.

MR. EDWIN GINN in his open letter to Dr. John Hancock, Secretary of the School-Book Board, Columbus, O. (printed elsewhere in this issue), makes a telling point in favor of supporting the local bookstore. In no direction has the publishing trade been more short-sighted than in disregarding the interests of the local bookseller. Especially is this true of the publishers of text-books. Under the pretext of a number of plausible and a few valid reasons, such as that the methods of supplying text-books had changed, that other machinery was necessary to introduce school-books, etc., many a bookstore in the country was wiped out. For whose benefit? Has the publishing trade profited by the crippling of the local bookseller? Or has the public been the gainer? A paltry gain there must have been; but where has it gone? Nevertheless it is a fact that the village or town which loses a tolerably good bookstore—or one even that has been only half kept—suffers for the want of opportunities for intellectual development considerably more than could ever be made up by all the money gained in a supply of cheaper text-books—taking it for granted that the community really enjoyed the benefit of such a gain. At the most, according to Mr. Ginn, this would amount to 20 cent., or an average of fifteen cents per year for each child. And if the absence of a bookstore is a loss to the community, it is still more one to the publishing trade. The publisher may do fairly well with his new books by advertising and other more or less expensive methods of distribution; but who will "nurse" his back stock, which it no longer pays him to advertise, but which still has enough life left were it pushed properly. It must lie fallow, or wander through "devious and shady ways" till it finds a market.

Wise indeed, therefore, would it be for us to "tax ourselves fifteen cents a year for each child, to keep open one bookstore in each town," if not, as Mr. Ginn puts it "to compete for the stray pennies with the dozen liquor and tobacco stores," at least to maintain healthy and enterprising distributing centres for the book trade, as well as to preserve it from degenerating into a mere side show for haberdasher's and Yankee notions shops.

THE MANUFACTURE OF-TEXT BOOKS.

An Open Letter to Dr. John Hancock, Secretary School-Book Board, Columbus, O.

SIR: It is natural for every man to magnify his office, so I may be pardoned if I think that a publisher holds the most responsible place in the educational world. While the teacher and the preacher reach a limited number of people, the good or bad book reaches the millions, and its influence for good or evil cannot be calculated. It is within the province of the publisher to multiply the former and restrict the latter. Some people seem to have an impression that to become a publisher it is only necessary to hire a shop and paint a sign, and that then one will be deluged with manuscripts, which, being sent to the printer, soon appear as books, and these in turn are coined into money at ten times their cost. A part of this is true. One will be deluged with manuscripts, but not one in fifty of them will ever pay for printing, and the other forty-nine must be read and three or four published, at great expense, before one gets the good book, and many thousands of this must be sold before the debts incurred by the others will have been paid. It is just here that a deal of hard work must be done before one can earn the right to the name of publisher. If he publishes everything that comes along, he is simply a printer, and a printer's only duty is to print well just what is given him. There is a goodly number of printers, few publishers. A list that contains more poor books than good ones is a printer's list; one in which the good far outnumbers the poor may lay claim to the name of a publisher's list. The more rigid the examination and rejection of manuscripts the greater will be the relative cost of the books accepted. No one has done his duty as a publisher who has not spent, in time and criticism, on an average more than twice as much on each book as the cost of the manufacture of the same. To be a publisher of school-books, one should know the wants of the schools. Then he must find the person who can make the needed book. In fact, he must not only find one person, he must find several. One knows his subject, but lacks the power of expression; another can write in good form, but is not original; a third is bright and suggestive, but careless. To get three such persons to work together in harmony to the completion of a book, supplementing each other, is a very difficult task.

When the good book has been secured, may the publisher rest from responsible labor? No, he must send out many thousand copies of the work for examination and employ many traveling agents before any considerable market can be made for even the best book. It is hard to find men who can introduce these books purely on their merits, obtaining fair prices for them, when inferior works are offered in competition at much lower rates. Men qualified for this work must combine in a high degree the elements of a successful scholar, missionary, and the tact of a politician, and must possess a character that will inspire confidence and command the respect of those they come in contact with.

May not much of this labor and expense be saved by county or State adoptions, and at the same time the best book become more generally used? One might think so, but, alas for poor human nature! it isn't yet quite perfect. County and State boards have tried it many times, and, as a general rule, the books selected have proved much inferior to those bought in the open market. Indiana fixed a low price on the books for the whole State, and she got less for her money than before, and has now a set of books that no other community wants at any price, if free to choose. Minnesota has cheaper, but poorer, books than before the State established the book monopoly. Virginia and Washington have just decided what book shall be used for five years, not, however, without exciting considerable remark as to the results and the way they have been reached. California has gone into the publishing business on her own account, and the interest on what she has spent at 7 per cent. would probably supply every pupil in the State with books for all time. Notwithstanding this vast expenditure, the children are obliged to pay as much for these inferior books as they would have to pay for the best in the open market. The California experiment may prove a good object-lesson to other States desiring to go into the publishing business. I doubt if in any occupation there is a greater call for sound judgment in regard to the employment of labor and the economical management of capital than in the publishing business. It does not lend itself naturally to political management where men are selected, not for any fitness for the work, but as a recompense for services already rendered to the party in power. It is not easy to secure as high an order of talent on salary for any work as can be enlisted by private enterprise.

So far as my experience goes, the best condition of affairs, as regards text-books, exists in those States where each town is allowed the entire control over its books, selecting what it wishes and changing when it thinks best. The books are a mere trifle compared with the other expenses of educating a child. It costs for clothes, food, value of time and tuition not less than $150 per year, on an average, for each pupil in the State, and for books seventy-five cents, and most teachers depend very largely for the value of their work upon the text-books in use. Would it be wise economy to save 20 per cent. of this cost, or fifteen cents, and run the risk of losing one-half the value of the $150?

If your Ohio law had secured the lowest wholesale rate to every town, it would have saved only fifteen cents to each pupil per year, and for that trifle you put it in the power of a commission to say what changes, if any, shall be made all over the State. No town can introduce any book unless recommended by said commis- sion. You offer a very heavy inducement to publishers to have their books recommended, or if their books are in, to prevent any changes. Is it wise to create the most favorable conditions for the worst form of political influences? If the publishers of to-day and this commission do not abuse the power, is it safe to hold out a lasting temptation for other publishers and other commissions? Do you really save the 20 per cent. to the people? Some one must handle these books. If the State officials do it, some one must pay for the time it takes. The expense will be added to the tax bill, and will not be less than the bookstores will charge. This law will also close up all the bookstores in the State, an item worth considering by a reading public. The small income from the sale of school-books enables most towns to keep a general assortment of books. It has generally been considered wise to encourage reading by offering every facility for the purchase of books. Would it not be wise to tax ourselves 15 cents a year to each child to keep open one bookstore in each town to compete for the stray pennies with the dozen liquor and tobacco stores? Massachusetts goes a little farther than Ohio. Not only has she suppressed all sale of school-books by compelling the towns to own them, but she has robbed the homes as well. She says to the child: "Books are necessary while in school, but not worthing spending money for." Perhaps this is a wholesome way to encourage the formation of private libraries! It may be a striking way to teach that "all men are created equal" to compel the children to use each other's dirty books. The black's as free as the white." It may be well also to consider the lesson this law teaches in political economy. Already a good many people are asking that the State should do more for them. We compel children to attend school; we furnish books. Ought we not also to furnish clothes? There is much talk about the unequal distribution of property, and many are looking forward to a more equitable division.

Legislation on school-books invites lobby work, always a bad element in education. I suppose Ohio wants the best in the market, and wishes to encourage the production of good books by giving a living profit. The best condition for the development of this business, like any other, is an open market for free competition, where the honor and profit shall be sufficient to induce men of ability to engage in it. This tinkering of the legislators is having a bad effect upon the business, and the public will suffer equally with the publishers. I am free to confess, though, that the publishers themselves are responsible for a very large portion of the legislative action on school-books. If they had given their attention mainly to improving the quality of their books, there would have been no excuse for the States to take it up. There have been too much money and time spent in "setting up" towns and States to introduce certain books and in holding them in the schools. If the publishers are wise, they will keep away from the lobby. Every dollar there will injure them a hundredfold. Let them spend no money to prevent legislation or to guide it into the right channels. The people cannot afford to have a publisher shape the laws, for his selfishness unfits him for dealing broadly with questions affecting his own trade, and legislators lack the experience necessary to the handling of the subject intelligently. One party is trying to see how much money it can make, the other to see how sharp a trade it can drive, and neither is trying to frame such laws as will secure the best books to the children.

While without doubt the combination of five houses into one company will excite grave fears as to the ability of the outside houses to stand up against such odds, I can frankly say I see no ground for apprehension. The people can be trusted to keep open the lines of free competition and they have the power in their own hands. There is a very strong undercurrent against large corporations in this country which will more than balance the difference in money between the parties, and the houses outside the combination have a decided advantage in the merit of their books. The contest will be settled on this line more and more as time goes on. Not the cheapest but the best books will be demanded. Those publishers who put their main energy and money into securing the best books will hold the future market. The adroit politicians and the men who attempt to set up State legislation in their own interest will not be able to lay their wires deep enough to guide safely the course of events.

It may be well for us to study the educational effect of the laws before making too many sweeping changes. Would it not be just as well to let each town decide what books it would like, buy them as it wishes, and change them when it sees fit? Before changing, would it not be well to examine carefully the workings of the laws in other States where all sorts of experiments are being tried?

Very truly yours,

EDWIN GINN.

A BIT OF SHAKESPEARIAN BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Sidney S. Rider in "Book Notes."

IN doing some bibliographical work recently on the Shakespearian Library collected in this city by Marsden J. Perry, Esq., a bit of bibliographical knowledge came to me, which was not only new (to me), but quite extraordinary. I think it must interest collectors of Shakespeariana everywhere. There is in this collection a copy of the "Rape of Lucrece," London, printed for R. B., by John Harrison, 1632. It is in excellent condition, every leaf cleaned and stiffened and bound by Lortic Freres in crimson turkey morocco, for Mr. J. O. Halliwell-Phillips, from whose library it was purchased for its present owner, at a cost of upwards of $375. This diminutive book has but thirty leaves, and its size, outside of the binding, is but 3 13-16 x 5 13-16 inches. This book is of such excessive rarity that the existence of but one other copy is known. It is an octavo, without pagination, and without signature marks. Each sheet is folded in eight leaves, and the first four leaves marked A, A 2, A 3, A 4, the remaining four leaves of that sheet being unmarked. If the binder makes the four marked leaves come in consecutive order, the unmarked leaves must perforce be correct. In the Perry copy, the second sheet B, I found to be not in consecutive order; it ran thus: B, B 4, B 3, B 2, etc. This I supposed to be a binder's error, but on a closer inspection, I found it to be an error of the printer in imposing, followed by an error of Lortic Freres, the binder, in folding. The binder could have folded the sheet so that the guiding letters would have been in the proper connection, and he should have done so; but had he done so, it would not have corrected the printer's error. That cannot be corrected. If this error exists only in the Perry copy of the edition, then the book is unique. If it exists in the other copy, then it is generic, and should have been discovered and described in the bibliographies. It was owned by Halliwell, who failed to detect it. It was described by Mr. Bohn in his Bibliography (p. 2306) in two lines, as a 12mo, which it was not. Mr. Bohn gives no collation and failed to find the error. It was owned by George Steevens, one of the keenest of modern Shakespearian scholars, but he failed to see it. It has apparently escaped everybody.

Lest it might be supposed that I might be in error in ascribing the error in this "Rape of Lucrece," 1632, to an error in imposing, I give the "catchwords": For B is "as," the next word is "imagine."

B 4 is "so," the next word is "O."

B 3 is "Imagine," the next word is "as."

B 2 is "O," the next word is "so."

1st unmarked leaf, "all," next word "Euen."

2d unmarked leaf, "O," next word "so."

3d unmarked leaf, "Euen," next word "all."

4th unmarked leaf, "so," next word "O."

I will give one more test. Supposing the verses of the poem to be numbered, the page B would have in regular order verses 40, 41, 42, 43, 44. The reverse of B would then, if correctly printed, inevitably have verses 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, but instead it has 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, and this same transposition has taken place all through the leaf B. Those familiar with such things will see that there is no remedy for such printing. Possibly this error, if running through the edition, may account for the extreme rarity of copies. This little experience led me to examine a little more carefully the Bibliography of Shakespeare which Mr. Bohn introduced into his edition of Lowndes' "Manual," vol. 4, part 2, pages 2252-2366. The list, extensive as it is, is honeycombed with omissions; this may be pardonable occasionally; one cannot be blamed for not describing that which, in spite of due diligence, he failed to find. But there are unpardonable errors in Mr. Bohn's Bibliography, errors such as no bibliographer should make. Here is an instance: On page 2263 there is described "An additional series of engravings intended to accompany this (Boydell) edition (of Shakespeare), 1802-3." Mr. Bohn says this work should consist of 100 plates, and if the small plate of "Shakespeare Nursed by Tragedy and Comedy" is added, which it sometimes is, there should be 101. This is error. First, this date is wrong, it should be 1803; and second, the "small plate" belongs in the book; if it is absent, the book is not perfect. See list of plates for second volume, where it is expressly stated that with it there should be 100. Again Mr. Bohn says "only 98 etchings are said to have been taken." This is error. There are but 96 engravings in all to be etched; the portraits of the King (George) and the Queen (Caroline) and the two vignettes on the title-pages not being etched. Mr. Bohn having stated that there were 100 engravings, and but 98 etchings of these, explains the difference by saying that Cymbeline III. 2, and Othello V. 2, were not etched, all of which is incorrect, for they were etched, and are in the copy in Mr. Perry's collection. Those who have been vexed by such bibliography as that need no further illustration, while to those who have no knowledge upon the subject, illustration would be useless. Shakespearian collectors have now existed for nearly two centuries; they are increasing in numbers and in strength; they will not grow less. Under such circumstances a really good bibliography is one of the needs of the bookbuyer of to-day. The statement by Mr. Bohn concerning the Demon face, in the etching of the picture by Sir Joshua Reynolds of the death-bed scene of Cardinal Beaufort, second part of Henry VI. 3, is correct. The terrible object is removed in the printed plate. Both are in the Perry set.

AUTOGRAPH CATALOGUES.

AT times one comes across very funny things in the price-lists issued by autograph dealers. The dealers seem to possess a rule-of-thumb knowledge sufficient to fix a monetary value upon their goods, and a faculty of knowing all the great names in literature, history or science. But of the history from a literary standpoint of all these people, they (judging from attempts at descriptive accounts sometimes appearing in the catalogues) are wofully and ludicrously ignorant. Here are a few gems taken from a recent catalogue:

Mulock (Dinah Maria). Distinguished Author. Wrote "Adam Bede," "Silas Marner," etc. Fine A. L. Mentioning her tale, "His First Wife."

Of course Bacon may have written Shakespeare's plays; Mr. Gladstone may be a mountebank, and the Man in the Iron Mask may have been a lineal descendant of the Piper Who Played Before Moses; and so Miss Mulock may have written "Adam Bede." However, like the supposititious cases set forth above, corroborative proof is lacking, and so we must for the present at least decline to upset popular notions upon the subject by endorsing the Illustrious Autograph Dealer's assertion. Here is another piece of news.

Novello (Clara). Pianist. And with the same of her husband, J. Alfred Novello.

Now it has long been a cherished opinion of ours that Clara Novello was an actress, and indeed that J. A. was her brother. The Illustrious Autograph Dealer says she was a "pianist," and that settles it. "'Twas ever thus from childhood's hour;" but no matter; let our solitary tear fall unheeded. Indeed, on reflection, we do not assert that the lady was no pianist, as that would appear rude. While on the stage it would be unkind to pass such a distinguished character as Rachel (Elizabeth Felix). Famous Prima Donna.

But "Prima Donna"!

Here is a "curious note" how many of us have not written? It would have been more interesting had the Company's explanation been attached to it. But after all, don't we know the reply but too well?

Stowe (Harriet Beecher). Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," etc. Curious note to a gas company. "We left No. 1 Forest St. Dec. 6, 1879, and did not return until May 11, 1880. No gas was consumed in that interval, the gas being turned off till May 11. In view of these facts I do not understand the gas bill enclosed. Please explain."

Dear old John Leech!

Leech (John). Eminent English Caricaturist, distinguished for his connection with "Punch."

We prefer to think that Leech distinguished "Punch" by his connection with it, but bow to the Illustrious Autograph Dealer once more.

Here are are a couple of other nuggets of information which will hardly prove a surprise:

Pope (Alexander). Popular English Poet.

Ruskin (John). Famous English Artist.

Macready (Wm. C.). Famous Actor. Distinguished as to the Astor Place riot.

Macready's reputation is generally thought to rest upon a wider basis, excepting always The Illustrious Autograph Dealer. Shelley is labelled "a popular English Poet;" Pope, in another catalogue, is described as a "celebrated English Poet who needs no description." We may be truly thankful.

Walter Savage Landor is a "Poet and miscellaneous writer." Byron is an "Eminent English Poet," while Campbell is bracketed a step higher as "celebrated." Robert Browning is allowed the latter honor as well, and an extract from an interesting letter is given, by which it is shown that even if not of Jewish descent the poet was by no means insensible to Jewish charms. He says, in a postscript, "A Jewish girl is often the most exquisite thing in creation;" which is a truly sensible and understandable opinion. But this sort of thing is tiresome at best, and the above extracts from a mass of equally strange and naïve descriptions are enough to inflict upon the suffering reader at one time.

MORE HINTS TO BYRON COLLECTORS.

From the London Publishers' Circular.

THE following notes of "variants" may be useful. I have a copy of a Cawthorn issue of the "English Bards" with "1810" on the title, "Third Edition," but the water-mark all through is "Pine and Thomas 1812."

I have two copies of the Fourth Edition; one of them has the water-mark "G. & R. T." on pages 17-18, 49-50, and 65-66, but no date. The second copy seems to be identical with the first, except that the water-mark is on pages 1-2, 27-28, 49-50, and 75-76.

SAM TIMMINS.

I have also a copy of Byron's "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers," 3d edition, Cawthorn, 1810.

On page 1 the water-mark is E. & P. 1804.

Across pp. 17-31 J. Whatman, 1805.

" " 37-43 Edmeads & Pine, 1807.

" " 55-57 " " "

" " 67-77 " " "

" " 81 to end " " "

(inclusive of two pages of advertisements).

G. H. B.

On referring to my books on Byron, I find I have a copy of "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers," which has a title-page, "Fourth Edition, London, printed for James Cawthorn, British Library, No. 24 Cockspur Street, 1810;" printer's imprint on bastard title, "Printed by T. Collins, Harvey's Buildings, Strand, London;" and bears the water-mark G. & R. T. on each of the four sheets it is printed on. There is a curious misprint on page 49, line 610, bea instead of bare.

A. J. LAWRENCE.

"I DON'T think that we will keep you writing book reviews any longer," said the managing editor to the latest addition to the force.

"Why, sir?"

"Well, I don't think you have the right idea of your work. Your reviews aren't any more immoral than the stories themselves.—Washington Post.

THE "KREUTZER SONATA" UNDER BAN.

ON August 1 an article was issued from the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster-General (presumably by Mr. M. Davis, the chief clerk), directing that Tolstoi's "Kreutzer Sonata" be excluded from the mails. It does not appear that this was due to any crusade against the book, but seems to have been purely accidental. According to Assistant Postmaster Gayler, of the New York Post-Office, the question arose from the request for the admission as second-class matter of Pollara's Popular Publications, and Sergel's Columbian Library, a proposed series of books. The custom is to send a sample copy of the publication in such cases to Washington, and the volume left by the publishers in this case at the New York office to be transmitted to the Postmaster-General was a copy of the "Kreutzer Sonata." Strangely enough, the first volume of Sergel's library was the same book. The publishers submitted the volume to the Post-Office Department simply to ascertain whether it would be admitted at second-class rates, and without any apparent expectation that the morality of the book would be questioned. Owing to the agitation against the admission of "periodical libraries," the subordinates of the Third Assistant Postmaster-General's office, who would ordinarily dispose of such a question without further consideration, to be on the safe side, submitted the books to Assistant Attorney-General Tyner for a legal opinion, who gave one in the following brief language: "After a careful examination of this publication, I am of the opinion that it is of an indecent character. Hence it is forbidden circulation in the mails by act of Congress approved Sept. 26, 1888." This rules the book out not only from the second-class mail, but from the third-class also. The only way in which it can be conveyed by mail is when put up in a sealed package and stamped with letter postage. A great commotion has been caused at the Department by this order. Protests are coming in from various quarters, and the Postmaster-General has sent for all the papers in the case and will give them a thorough perusal, including the printed passages especially marked by Judge Tyner as unfit to be read by decent people. The case is likely to be brought up at once for final decision. In the meantime the agitation has boomed the book afresh.

A RAID ON ALLEGED IMMORAL LITERATURE.

ON the 5th inst., Joseph A. Britton, formerly Anthony Comstock's right-hand man but now the special agent of the Society for the Enforcement of the Criminal Laws—a rival of Comstock's Society—with a number of agents and policemen, visited the American News Company Building, armed with a warrant, and seized the stock of the following books: "Thou Shalt Not," "Speaking of Ellen," "In Stella's Shadow," "An Actor's Wife," and the "Devil's Daughter," all of which he claimed were immoral:

Manager Patrick Farrelly, of the News Company, was rather astonished when the warrants arrived, but said he was quite ready to turn over all the books that Britton considered immoral. Mr. Farrelly was escorted around to the Tombs Police Court with Edward Everiss and John Flannigan, two clerks. Justice Murray paroled the prisoners.

A half dozen employes of the News Company, by Manager Farrelly's orders, brought out all the copies of the books mentioned which were to be found in stock, and stacked them in a big pile on one of the counters. An inventory was made which showed that 1244 books were in the pile. A few copies of "Kreutzer Sonata" and 100 copies of "The Clemenceau Case" were added to the others. The books were removed to the Tombs, where they were stored.

On the next day Mr. Farrelly and his two clerks, Everiss and Flannigan, were arraigned at the Tombs Court, charged with selling alleged obscene literature. Copies of the alleged obscene books seized at the office of the company were handed to Justice Murray for his inspection. The defendants' counsel said that Robert A. Gunn, President of the Society, had agreed that the prisoners should be discharged upon their promise not to sell any more of the objectionable books. This promise they were ready to make. Justice Murray said he didn't believe he had a right to discharge the defendants until the District Attorney had acted in the premises. S. W. Johnson, of Brooklyn, became bondsman for each of the defendants in $1000. Mr. Britton said he would notify the Manhattan News Company not to sell these books.

OLD BOOK CHAT.

POE was often "declined with thanks" by various editors—the common experience of every one who treads the "flowery paths" of literature. In 1829 he sent a poem, which was called "Heaven," to the Yankee and Boston Literary Gazette. The editor was John Neal, and this is the reception he gave poor Poe:

"If E. A. P., of Baltimore—whose lines about 'Heaven,' though he professes to regard them as altogether superior to anything in the whole range of American poetry, save two or three trifles referred to, are, though nonsense, rather exquisite nonsense—would but do himself justice, he might make a beautiful and perhaps a magnificent poem. There is a good deal here to justify such a hope—

'Dim vales and shadowy floods,
And cloudy looking woods,
Whose forms we can't discover,
For the tears that—drip all over.' "

A further extract is given, which varies a little from the poem as now printed. In conclusion, the editor says: "He should have signed it Bah!" By the way, the title of the poem has changed, and it is now called "Fairyland." One wonders what were the "two or three trifles" which Poe mentioned.

"LEMPRIERE'S Classical Dictionary" does not strike one as a promising field to write poetry in. But Edmund Kean seized upon the fly-leaf of the above-named book to write some verses, which commence:

"How charming then a woman can appear,
When temper leaves her love and reason clear."

Possibly Kean had been looking up Xantippe in the book, and might have felt a fellow-sympathy with that erratic female's hen-pecked husband. This interesting copy of Lempriere was sold in the library of Sir Edward Sullivan, at Sotheby's lately, and should have brought a good price.

BIBLIOPHILUS.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CASE, LOCKWOOD & BRAINERD, Hartford, Conn., have in press an elaborate history of the Mather family of New England, by Horace E. Mather, of Hartford. He has found and arranged the names of nearly five thousand descendants of the Rev. Richard Mather, who was born in 1596, and whose journal of his voyage to America will be given in the work. The volume will contain between five hundred and six hundred pages, and will be ready in September.

GINN & Co. have in preparation "A Synopsis of English and American Literature," by G. J. Smith, of the Washington (D. C.) High School. This work will contain in small compass the most important facts connected with English and American writers from the days of the Celtic bards to the present time. The first part of the book is devoted to English, the last part to American literature, each carefully divided into periods and logically outlined. A list of books suggested as desirable for a course of reading is an additional feature of much value.

THE Forest and Stream Publishing Company had an experience this week with a swindler, whose apparent mode of operation is the obtaining of books by means of forged orders. On the 5th inst. a man called at the office of the Company and presented an order purporting to be signed by H. C. Squires, the gun-dealer in Broadway, calling for three copies of a recently issued book. The handwriting on the order form was not recognized, and subsequent investigation showed that the order was forged. The swindler is apparently a German Hebrew, 5 feet 8 inches in height, slender, with dark complexion, prominent nose, high cheek-bones and black mustache. The handwriting of the order was German in character.

NORMAN L. MUNRO on the 5th inst. moved in the Supreme Court before Judge Bartlett that Edgar L. Pierson, who is suing Munro for $75,000 for selling his property to an English syndicate, be compelled to make his complaint more definite. Pierson says that in October, 1889, he went to London to sell the defendant's printing business and his property in Vandewater St., under representations that it was worth $2,000,000, and it was agreed that Pierson should have $75,000 for selling. He made an agreement with the London Contract Corporation, limited, at the figure named. The terms were agreed upon, but it is said when the agent of the syndicate examined Mr. Munro's books he found that the income of the business, instead of being $372,888 a year, was $240,000, and the agreement was broken. The plaintiff insists that he was not to blame for that and asks for his $75,000. Judge Bartlett denied the motion for a more definite complaint.

B. QUARITCH will publish in October "Smokiana," by R. T. Pritchett, consisting of fifty sketches, printed in colors, of the pipe and styles of smoking of all civilized and barbarous nations.

JOHN BRILL, of Leyden, proposes to publish a selection of "Old Saxon Texts," edited by Prof. Gallée, of Utrecht. It is also intended to issue an edition with English notes, if sufficient subscribers can be obtained.

"THE History of Pickwick" is the title of a book now in course of preparation by Percy Fitzgerald. It will present various interesting notes on the topography, old illustrations, bibliography, etc., of the novel.

THE Authors' Co-operative Publishing Co., limited, 20 St. Bride Street, London, E. C., Eng., have just published "The Girdle of the Globe," a poem by Ralph. The volume is handsomely gotten up, and reflects creditably on the taste and discrimination of the bookmaker of the Authors' Publishing Co.

W. J. LINTON's forthcoming "Masters of Wood Engraving" will have nearly 200 cuts interspersed in its text, with forty-eight unbacked page-subjects. An edition of only 500 copies is printed, signed and numbered. As certain cuts (such as Harvey's celebrated "Dentatus," and the cuts from Dürer's "Apocalypse" and "Greater Passion") can only be given in part in the edition of 500, it is also proposed to issue an edition according to orders received, but not to exceed 100 copies, on paper large enough to print the whole of such cuts. In further addition will be given that rarest and most important of Dürer's work in wood—the "Triumphal Car of Maximilian"—measuring 7 feet 4 inches, with a height of 18 inches.

IN October the two final volumes of Mr. Lecky's "History of England in the Eighteenth Century" will be ready for publication. As Mr. Lecky announced in his sixth volume, he has devoted the concluding portion of his work to a careful examination of one of the most critical and contested periods of Irish history. The recall of Lord Fitzwilliam, the extension of Irish conspiracy and its relations with France, the rise and influence of the Orange Association, the rebellion of 1798, the Legislative Union and the failure of the measures of Catholic relief which Pitt intended to be the immediate sequel of the Union, are the chief subjects dealt with in these volumes. Mr. Lecky has had, it is said, access to important manuscript materials—often of a most confidential character—which no previous historian has used, and which throw much new light on some portions of his subject.

A LARGE mass of De Quincey's correspondence has been lately unearthed, says the London Athenaeum, which throws new light, it is said, on his character and career, and Mr. Heinemann, the publisher, is preparing to bring it out in two volumes before long, edited by Dr. Japp. There are letters from Coleridge and Wordsworth and many others of his contemporaries, and some from Charlotte Brontë, the first signed "Carrer Bell," accompanying a presentation copy of the poems of the three sisters, of which the publishers tell her, she says, only two copies have been sold. The correspondence, it is declared, redounds to De Quincey's credit, showing that his claims to be on familiar terms with more than one man of rank of his time were not fictions of a vain imagination. Even the "De," for which he was quizzed, was not of his manufacture. Its use appears to have been his mother's doing. A number of papers have also turned up which contain the manuscripts of "The Dark Interpreter" and "The Spectre of the Brocken," mentioned in the first part, and supposed to have been burnt. In all, five of the lost papers have been recovered, and will be published in course of time by Mr. Heinemann, along with a list now discovered of the intended thirty-two papers that were to have formed the complete work.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

READY AUGUST 11.

The Sensation of the Day in Paris.

(Worthington's International Library, No. 12.)

FLIRT.

By PAUL HERVIEU.

Translated by HUGH CRAIG.

With Designs by MADELEINE LEMAIRE, the foremost artist of France, and illustrator of "L'Abbé Constantin."

1 vol., 12mo, cloth extra, $1.25; or in paper, 75 cents.

A delightful novel of to-day, presenting exact types of the highest circles of society. The story is pure in deeds; the language pure and limpid; the conversations sparkling with wit. The women—real women of the nineteenth century—clever, refined, quick-witted; the men, natural, bright and always ready to serve womankind.

EARLY ORDERS SOLICITED.

READY AUGUST 15.

CATHERINE'S COQUETRIES.

By CAMILLE DEBANS. Translated by LEON MEAD.

Illustrated with Photogravures. In handsome illuminated paper cover, 12mo size, 50 cents.

This is a strong, dramatic story of French country life. Its interest increases in every chapter, and no one who commences to read it will leave it unfinished. The translation has been skilfully and sympathetically performed by Leon Mead, the well-known poet, author and journalist. Several admirable illustrations accompany the text.

ATTRACTIVE BOOKS FOR The Summer Season.

A POWERFUL AND WEIGHTY REJOINDER TO "ROBERT ELSMERE."

PAUL NUGENT, MATERIALIST. By HELEN F. HETHERINGTON and Rev. H. DARWIN BURTON. A reply to "Robert Elsmere," written in a thoroughly orthodox spirit, and quite abreast of the latest theories of physical science and German anti-Christian criticism. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.25.

WHOSE FAULT? A novel. By JENNIE HARRISON. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

This is a love-story pure, sweet and ennobling, told with marvellous ease, grace and freshness, and it leaves a deep and excellent impression on the reader's mind. But it is more than a love-story. This feature of it is really subordinate to a higher purpose, and that is to illustrate the evils and sad effects in social life of religious bigotry. The author contrives to weave into the story in a natural, easy and most effective way, the legitimate effects of undue zeal for one's own creed and church, and of a narrow, bigoted sectarian spirit and policy among Christians.

FRIDAY'S CHILD. By FRANCES. 12mo, hf. white, 75 cents.

"After Mrs. Ewing's lovely and unforgettable 'Leonard' in 'The Story of a Short Life,' one is conscious of resentment at the tax upon the lachrymal glands entailed by any other boy hero dying on the threshold of a career shaped for him into most gracious aspect by fortune and heredity. But in 'Friday's Child,' by Frances, there appears in the fictional procession a little personage, who, although depicted in the too familiar velveteens and love-locks of Lord Fauntleroy, and inclined to read aloud to old Zachary, the gardener, from tomes hardly suggesting the literary aliment of an infant of his years, will be found sweet, tender and individual withal. Almost as much to our taste as Friday is Crusoe, his curly black puppy, with 'a perpetual grin and a woolly back,' who shares his little master's days and nights, and whose death, preceding Friday's, is told with some dramatic power. Altogether, if 'Friday's Child' may not quite enter upon the niche attained by 'Leonard' and 'Jackanapes,' he may rank with 'Daddy's Boy' by T. L. Meade, and that is saying much."—Critic, July 19, 1890.

WIKKEY, A SCRAP. By Y. A. M. 12mo, hf. bound, 60 cents.

The book is nicely written and beautifully illustrated. The story is one full of interest for the little ones, and will be a welcome addition to school and home libraries. The main part of the story is divided between Lawrence Canby, a young man possessing considerable personal magnetism, and a little crossing-sweeper, Wikkey. The boy has been raised in the slums of London without any religious training. He is taken sick with consumption, and, through pity, Lawrence takes him home, cares for him, and with the assistance of his cousin Reg, a clergyman, teaches him the story of Christ, and, while doing so, Lawrence is led to believe in those doctrines which he sought to instil into the mind of the child. The boy dies, and Lawrence promises him to so live as to be able to meet him in the life to come.

BONNIE LITTLE BONIBEL. By MARY D. BRINE. Illustrated by Miss. A. G. Plympton. 12mo, hf. bound, 75 cents.

"An interesting book for children this. The illustrations are of a high order, and cannot fail to please. The story deals with Bonibel, a little girl, and her big Newfoundland dog, Hero. They have numerous adventures, in which Hero generally divides the honors with its little mistress. The story is written in language that children can readily understand, and the author has displayed intimate knowledge of the ways of the little folks. Instructive and pleasing, and put out in so attractive a form, the book must be a big success."—The Item, Philadelphia.

The attention of all dealers is called to these attractive books, that are selling rapidly wherever shown.

NOTES IN SEASON.

ON account of the large number of advance orders received for Mrs. Custer's new book, "Following the Guidon," the publishers—Messrs. Harper & Brothers—have been compelled to postpone its publication until August 22.

MACMILLAN & Co. have in press for immediate publication a new volume of stories by Rudyard Kipling, uniform in size with "Plain Tales from the Hills." The stories included in the volume are quite new, and this edition, issued by arrangement with the author, will be offered at a low price to the American public.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just issued "Paul Nugent, Materialist," by Helen F. Hetherington, Mr Gullifer, and Rev. H. Darwin Burton, which has been announced as a powerful and weighty rejoinder to "Robert Elsmere." It is written in an orthodox spirit, and gives many theological arguments introducing the latest theories of physical science and of German and anti-Christian criticism.

D. APPLETON & Co. have ready a volume rich in valuable scientific and popular information entitled "Dragon-Flies versus Mosquitoes." It is a collection of essays called forth by a circular-letter issued in the early summer of 1889 to "The Working Entomologists of the Country," offering prizes for essays containing original investigations regarding methods of destroying the mosquito and the house-fly. The voracious and harmless dragon fly was generally suggested as the most powerful enemy of these small pests—hence the title.

THE JOHN W. LOVELL Co. have secured, through their English agent, the American book rights in the recently discovered unpublished writings of Thomas De Quincey. It is stated that while rummaging through some old trunks in an attic, a gentleman named Dr. Japp came upon material for at least two volumes of correspondence between De Quincey and members of his family. It is said that the writings are of great beauty and brilliancy, and will add greatly to his fame. The John W. Lovell Co. have joined hands with Mr. Heinemann, the English publisher, in the expense incident upon the production of this valuable work. The Lovells announce that they will shortly issue "The Bishop's Bible," by David Christie Murray and Henry Herman; "The Vicomte's Bride," by Esme Stuart; "For One and the World," by M. Betham Edwards; "The Chief Justice," by Karl Emil Franzos; and "The Havoc of a Smile," by L. B. Walford.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Harper's Weekly for August 16 contains an illustrated supplement on "The Fishing Craft of the World," by Captain J. W. Collins, of the United States Fisheries Commission.

THE October number of the English Illustrated Magazine, beginning the eighth volume, will contain the opening chapters of a new novel by F. Marion Crawford entitled "The Witch of Prague."

Lippincott's Magazine for September will contain a new novel entitled "The Mark of the Beast," by Miss Katharine Pearson Woods, the acknowledged author of "Metzerott, Shoemaker." Some of the leading articles will be a history of the inception of the Nicaragua Canal scheme by Rear-Admiral Daniel Ammen, one of its chief promoters; an article on "Trusts," by Henry Clews; one on "Superstitions About Birds," from the pen of Charles McIlvaine ("Tobe Hoge"), and one of the last articles, penned by the late John Eliot Bowen, of The Independent, embodying a correspondence with the poet, Paul Hamilton Hayne.

The Century is rich in promises for the coming numbers. The authors of the "Life of Lincoln," Messrs. Nicolay and Hay, are to write several papers on Lincoln's personal traits. Frank R. Stockton has written a novelette to be called "The Squirrel Inn." Mr. A. B. Frost, whose successful designs for Mr. Stockton's "Rudder Grange" will be remembered, is to illustrate it. The series on the "Gold-Hunters of California," with articles by General Frémont and others, is to begin in the November number. A preliminary article, "How California Came into the Union," will be published in September, as in that month occurs the fortieth anniversary of the admission of California.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Three lectures, delivered at the invitation of the Board of Trustees before the Society of Ethical Culture of Chicago, in June, 1890, namely, 1, Ethics, a science; 2, The data of ethics; 3, The theories of ethics.

Cobban, J. Maclaren. A reverend gentleman. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1890.] c. 3-320 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 107.) pap., 50 c.

The Rev. William Merrydew began life as a scholar and a gentleman. When the story opens his downward career has almost ended. He is the vicar of a poor Welsh parish, which he finally loses by reading for a bet a portion of "Tristram Shandy" in the pulpit. He has two daughters, Kate and Ethel, who suffer bitterly through his selfishness and recklessness. Ethel makes an imprudent marriage and Kate goes on the stage. The "reverend gentleman" ekes out an existence through many unprincipled acts, of which the daughters are the chief victims.

Complete digest; a digest of all the reported Am. cases and selected Eng. cases, with synopses of statutes of general interest, references to articles and essays in current law periodicals, and to text-books (etc.), 1888. Supp. bring also a supp. to v. 19, U. S. digest, new ser. (annual digest for 1888). Eds. E. A. Jacob, J. A. Malloy, P: Kemper, F. B. Walrath. N. Y., Digest Pub. Dead man's (A) diary; written after his decease; with a preface, by G. T. Bettany. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1890. 4-218 p. D. cl., $1.

The anonymous writer is said to be well known by his essays and stories on both sides of the Atlantic. During a period when he was supposed to be dead his soul was alive to many experiences which gave him a sight of heaven and hell, and convinced him that there is no plan by which sin can be forgiven and the pangs of remorse deadened but by faith in a personal Saviour. The book is poetically written and has a serious moral purpose.

Dodgson, C: L., ["Lewis Carroll," pseud.] The nursery "Alice:" containing twenty colored enlargements from Tenniel's illustrations to "Alice's adventures in Wonderland," with text adapted to nursery readers; the cover designed and colored by E. Gertrude Thomson. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. no paging, Q. bds., $1.50.

It has been the desire of "Lewis Carroll" in preparing this edition of his famous story to have it read "by children aged from nought to five." The beautifully colored plates and the delightful text in brown ink place it among the choice holiday books of the coming season.

Firth, J. C. Nation making: a story of New Zealand; savagism vs. civilization. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1890. 8+402 p. 12°, cl., $2.

*In this list, the titles generally are verbatim transcriptions (according to the rule of the American Library Association) from books received. Books not received are indicated by a prefixed asterisk and this office cannot be held responsible for the correctness of their record.

- Fitts, Ja. Franklin. The struggle for Maverick: a dramatic story in three parts. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1890.] c. 4-221 p. 1 il. D. (Sea and shore ser., no. 22.) pap., 25 c.
- Fletcher, Coyne. Me and Chummy. Wash., D. C., Sterling Pub. Co., P. O. Box 338, 1890. c. 3-267 p. D. pap., 25 c.
A young girl and her dog give the title to the story. The scene is laid in the South.
- Ginisty, —. A prankish pair [Un petit ménage]: a fantasy; [from the French, by R. B. Davenport.] N. Y., Belford Co., [1890.] c. tr. 4-208 p. il. O. (Belford American novel ser., no. 31.) pap., 75 c.; cl., $1.50; hf. mor., $2.25. Not recommended for sale.

- Hammond, S. H. In the Adirondacks; or, sport in the North woods. Phil., Columbian Pub. Co., 1890. c. 3-340 p. D. (Columbian lib., no. 9.) pap., 25 c.
- Hardy, Arthur Sherburne. Elements of the differential and integral calculus: method of rates. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1890. c. 2-239 p. O. cl., $1.65.
This text-book is based on the method of rates, which, in the experience of the author, has proved most satisfactory in a first presentation of the object and scope of the calculus. The author is Professor of Mathematics in Dartmouth College, and has also written several successful novels, "But yet a woman," "The wind of destiny" and "Passe Rose."
- *Headley, Russel. The New York criminal justice: a complete manual of the manner of conducting all criminal proceedings by justices of the peace acting as magistrates or courts of special sessions, as prescribed by the code of criminal procedure and the statutes of the state of N. Y., with a full set of revised forms and an ample index. N. Y. and Alb., Banks & Bros., [1890.] c. 7+640 p. O. shp., $5.
- Hetherington, Helen F., [formerly H. F. Gullifer,] and Burton, Rev. H. Darwin. Paul Nugent—materialist. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., [1890.] 5+344 p. D. pap., 50 c.
Intended as a reply to "Robert Elsmere," and devoting a chapter to criticism of that book. Paul Nugent is represented as an unusually handsome English gentleman, who, following his inclinations, has kept clear of church and dogma, but has lived a correct life with high ideals and warm love of his fellow-men. His first wife, a professed Christian, has no influence with him, since her life is not in harmony with her creed. After her death Paul is thrown with earnest Christians and his intellectual skepticism is finally conquered by theological arguments and a study of earnest Christian lives.
- Hill, A. F. Humorous adventures of John Smith, Esq.: a treasure-house of fun. Phil., Columbian Pub. Co., 1890. 4-374 p. D. (Columbia lib., no. 13.) pap., 25 c.

- Jarvis, T. Stinson. Geoffrey Hampstead: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1890. c. 378 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 57.) pap., 50 c.
The author is a Canadian. Geoffrey Hampstead is paying teller at the Toronto Bank, a handsome, popular fellow, equally attractive to men and women. The plot includes detective work, and Geoffrey's story is a study in heredity. Incidentally graphic descriptions are given of games at Toronto and yachting adventures on Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River.
- Kipling, Rudyard. Soldiers three; and other stories. N. Y., G. Munro, [J. W. Lovell Co., 1890.] 4-409 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1443.) pap., 20 c.
Continues the adventures of Privates Mulvaney, Ortheris and Learoyd, first introduced to the public in "Plain tales from the hills." The scene is India and the principal characters English army men and their wives, sweethearts, sisters or daughters.
- Kipling, Rudyard. The story of the Gadsbys: a tale without a plot. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 1+173 p. D. (Lovell's Westminster lib., no. 4.) pap., 25 c.
An Anglo-Indian tale dealing with the loves of Miss Minnie Threegan and Captain Gadsby of the Pink Hussars; the moral being that a soldier married is a soldier spoiled.
- Lee, Sidney. Stratford-on-Avon; from the earliest times to the death of Shakespeare; il. by E. Hull. New ed. N. Y., Macmillan & Co., 1890. 5+304 p. map, il. D. cl., $2.
All that the most careful research could discover about the old town of Stratford, made forever famous as the birthplace of Shakespeare, is contained in this volume. Its origin, agricultural life, markets, fairs, trades, plagues, fires, floods and famines; its amusements, notable buildings, rural sports, christenings and marriages, with an account of Shakespeare's ancestors and his own life, form the subjects of many chapters.
- Ludlum, Jean Kate. That girl of Johnson's. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1890.] c. 2-204 p. il. D. (Select ser., no. 53.) pap., 25 c.
- *McLeod, H. Dunning. The theory of credit. In 2 v. V. 2, pt. 1. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1890. 12+180 p. 8°, cl., $1.50.
- Macquoid, Katherine. The old courtyard. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] 2+131 p. D. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 7.) pap., 25 c.
The old courtyard of the Golden Bear, a snug inn in a quaint old town of Flanders, is the scene of some of the leading events in this pretty story. It tells of love and self-sacrifice, and the influence of a good woman's life.
- *Malthus, T. Rob. An essay on the principle of population: reprinted from the last ed. rev. by the author; with a biography of author, full analysis, and critical introd. by G. T. Bettany. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Co., 1890. 614 p. 8°, cl., $2.
- Maupassant, Guy de. Bel-Ami: a novel; from the French, by Abram Mills Fanning, M.D. N. Y., Belford Co., [1890.] c. tr. 2-311 p. il. O. pap., $1.50; cl., $2.25; hf. mor., $3.
Not recommended for sale.
- Maupassant, Guy de. A coquette's love [Notre Cœur]: a novel; tr. from the French. N. Y., Belford Co., [1890.] 232 p. il. O. (Belford American novel ser., v. 2, no. 8.) pap., 75 c.; cl., $1.25; hf. mor., $2.50.
Not recommended for sale.
- Maupassant, Guy de. The two brothers (Pierre et Jean). tr. by Clara Bell. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] c. 1+333 p. D. (Lovell's ser. of foreign literature, no. 4.) pap., 50 c.
See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Ap. 19, '90, [951.]
- Meredith, G. The case of General Ople and Lady Camper. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] c. 2-126 p. D. (Lovell's Westminster ser., no. 3.) pap., 25 c.
Lady Camper and General Ople are two elderly people—the one is a widow, the other a widower. The scene is an English country town; here a funny comedy is played between this odd pair, which ends in matrimony.
- Michaelis, R. Looking further forward: an answer to "Looking backward," by E. Bellamy. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1890. c. 123 p. D. (Globe lib., v. 1, no. 129.) pap., 25 c.
Mr. Michaelis accords to Bellamy the recognition which he thinks due to all reformers, whether correct or incorrect of theory, but he refutes the arguments advanced in "Looking backward." He begins in the twentieth century, where Bellamy left off. Julian West awakes after a sleep of 113 years, 3 months and 11 days, and is appointed professor of nineteenth century history in a twentieth century college. Through Julian the author applies his test to Mr. Bellamy's system. Upon the result the interest depends. A clever defence for the principles of American institutions, and an argument against communism and anarchism. The title has been changed from "Looking forward," as first issued.

Miller, Joaquin. [Cincinnatus Hiner Miller.] My own story. Chic., Belford-Clarke Co., 1890. c. 3-253 p. por. il. D. (Household lib., v. 7, no. 4.) cl., $1, pap., 50 c.

The story of Joaquin Miller's own early life among the Shasta Indians. The book reads like a romance, being rich in adventure of every sort, and having a most picturesque heroine in the character of Paquita, a California Indian girl.

Molloy, J. Fitzgerald. How came he dead? N. Y., G. Munro, [J. W. Lovell Co., 1890.] 2-213 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 145.) pap., 20 c.

Muller, F. Max. Three lectures on the science of language and its place in general education, delivered at the Oxford University extension meeting, 1889. Chic., The Open Court Pub. Co., 1890. 2-112 p. D. cl., 75 c.

The subjects are: Difference between man and animal; Analysis of language; Thought thicker than blood. A supplement contains "My predecessors," an essay on the genesis of the idea of the identity of thought and language in the history of philosophy.

Murfree, W. L. A treatise on the law of sheriffs and other ministerial officers. 2d ed., rev. by Eugene McQuillin. St. Louis, The Gilbert Book Co., 1890. c. 9+1064 p. O. shp., $6.

Musset, Alfred de. Pierre et Camille, ed., with English notes, by O. B. Super. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1890. c. 3+57 p. S. (Heath's modern language ser.) pap., 25 c.

My mother-in-law, by her son-in-law. Phil., Columbian Pub. Co., 1890. c. 3-159 p. D. (Columbian lib., no. 7.) pap., 25 c.

Nancrede, C. B., M.D. Essentials of anatomy and manual of practical dissection, together with the anatomy of the viscera, prepared especially for students of medicine. 3d ed., rev. and enl., based upon the last ed. of Gray's Anatomy. Phil., W. B. Saunders, 913 Walnut St., 1890. c. '58, '89, '90. 388 p. 12", cl., net, $2.

Nicholson, J. Shields. Toxar: a romance. [Anon.] N. Y., Harper, 1890. 3+171 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new series, no. 676.) pap., 30 c.

Xenophanes, the Greek philosopher, supposed to have lived nearly 200 years, finds his pupils weary of his teachings, and to rest them tells them the story of Toxar. Toxar is a slave, "a man of means," who makes the peculiarities of his different masters his study and teaches (telling lessons of human nature. The marvellous plays a large part in the story, which is written in the delightful style of "Thoth" and "The dreamer of dreams." The author is now known to be Mr. J. Shields Nicholson, Professor of Political Economy in the University of Edinburgh.

Northup, Solomon. A freeman in bondage; or, twelve years a slave: a true tale of slavery days. Phil., Columbian Pub. Co., 1890. c. 3-336 p. D. (Columbian lib., no. 6.) pap., 25 c.

Ohnet, G. Peter's soul, from the French, by Ja. F. Alvord. Chic., Sergel & Co., [1890.] c. tr. 5-164 p. D. (Sergel's international lib., v. 1, no. 2.) pap., 50 c.

Same as "The soul of Pierre," noticed in "Weekly Record," P. W., Aug. 3, '90, [967].

Another translation of Ohnet's L'Ami de Pierre. See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Aug. 9, '90, [967].

Out-door sports: a compendium of instructions for playing many of the most popular games for out-of-doors. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1890.] 2-55 p. S. (S. and S. Manual lib., no. 7.) pap., 10 c.

For boys describes a number of familiar out-door games to be played without toys, and also with toys; also archery, foot-ball, croquet.

Paradise of wit and humor: a choice collection of side-splitting anecdotes, by a drummer. Phil., Columbian Pub. Co., 1890. c. 2-350 p. D. (Columbian lib., no. 11.) pap., 25 c.

Peacocks, Ja. S. Two white slaves; or, the creole orphans: a tale. Phil., Columbian Pub. Co., 1890. c. 365 p. D. (Columbian lib., no. 3.) pap., 25 c.

Peck, H. Thurston. Latin pronunciation: a short exposition of the Roman method. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1890. c. 2-38 p. D. (Teachers' handbooks.) cl., net, 50 c.

For the benefit of those who wish to inform themselves more fully on the subject of the Roman pronunciation of Latin now officially adopted in our older universities. Contains a sketch of the history of the Roman alphabet; a summary of the sources of information regarding ancient pronunciation of Latin; gives the accepted sound of each letter, and appends a clear statement of the reasons why scholars have arrived at each particular conclusion. A short explanation of Latin accent follows, and a complete bibliography of the whole subject.

Peep (A) at New York society: a startling exposition of facts, by one of the victims. Phil., Columbian Pub. Co., 1890. c. 367 p. D. (Columbian lib., no. 5.) pap., 25 c.

Philips, F. C. Margaret Byng. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [1890.] c. 2+300 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 114.) pap., 50 c.

Margaret Byng is a curious mixture of good and bad. She leaves her husband when his affairs are hopelessly involved and takes a start in life for herself. Possessing a little money she goes to Monte Carlo, believing she can win a fortune at cards. She is, however, unfortunate, but makes the acquaintance of a man who has just won ten thousand pounds. This man is murdered for his money, and Margaret is almost a witness of the deed. Her silence is bought by the murderer giving her half of his plunder. Her guilty secret and ill-gotten money finally wreck her life completely. By the author of "As in a looking-glass."

Phineas, [pseud.] The blind men and the Devil. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1891 [1890.] c. 4-219 p. D. (Good company ser., no. 1.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

In the guise of an allegory some of the weaknesses of our present social system are shown. John Curtis and wife disappear from Woodwardtown, to reappear in the midst of an unknown people, who claim John as their captive, because of his attempt to force an entrance into the Devil's temple. They explain that this building is a treasury so called by them, because the money that is secreted here was formerly called developed wealth, which later is contracted to devil, or devil. These queer people, who are blind, claim to work for the good of the community in their ways and means of fulfilling their purpose, the author has demonstrated his views.

Pickard, J. L. School supervision. N. Y., Appleton, 1890. c. 12+175 p. D. (International education ser., no. 15.) cl., $1.

Contents: Historical sketch of supervision of schools in the U. S., the character of school supervision; state supervision, county superintendency, city supervision; city superintendent of schools—his relation to pupils and teachers, gradation and course of study, promotions and examinations, relation of superintendent to parents and patrons, to the physical training of pupils, to moral training, to government and discipline of pupils, etc., etc.

Pierce, Etta W. Prince Lucifer. N. Y., Mrs. Frank Leslie, publisher, 110 5th Ave., 1890. c. 286 p. S. pap., 25 c.

The imperious manner of Basil Hawkstone, when a child, secured him the sobriquet "Prince Lucifer." The scene is laid at Tempest Island, a small sea-girt isle on the New England coast. To this barren retreat Philip Hawkstone brings his bride, at the same time telling her the legends of his family and forecasting his own future. His presentiments are realized. From this time the interest of the novel depends upon the fate of his son Basil.

Preachers (The); by a monk. N. Y., Minerva Publishing Co., 1890. c. 246 p. D. (Minerva ser., no. 25.) pap., 50 c.

A general condemnation of all religions and creeds.

A story of humble life in an Italian fishing village, dealing with phases of existence to which most American readers are strangers. The air of simplicity and sincerity which seems entirely to permeate the story—to enter into the character of its actors, and even to influence the diction and style of the narrative—helps to make of this work a charming piece of literature which will be welcomed and admired by all lovers of the better forms of fiction.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 16, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

"BOOKS WANTED."

The Book-Finder, a new English journal devoted largely to booksellers' "want" advertisements, has adopted a system which may be worthy the consideration of those who make use of the "Books Wanted" column of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. Recognizing the fact that booksellers in a small way, who would often be glad to report a book at a price under the market value when they would be sure of receiving cash on delivery, are apt to keep their books back for other customers, the Book-Finder publishes a list of such houses as will promise to send cash immediately on receipt of any books reported through its medium. It is notorious that many firms of the highest repute are remiss in settling these small accounts. Through this they lose many opportunities of getting what they want as well as for making money. We know of several booksellers who always pass over the lists of certain houses which they have found slow pay. Indeed they do not even care to quote books at the "highest notch" to such houses because, as they argue that "the wear and tear on one's mind in keeping track of their accounts amounts to more than the margin realized in the sale." This is decidedly wrong, and we therefore suggest that hereafter such houses as are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

We would drop a further hint to such as may be unaware of the fact that a number of regular readers of the "Books Wanted" column keep "black lists" of such as misuse this department—such, for instance, as resort to the method of running in a title to draw out from experienced booksellers the market value of a book concerning which they may have no knowledge themselves, and of those "fishing" for other information. Such will find to their grief some day that their calls will go unheeded. This department of the WEEKLY offers great possibilities for developing trade, and it is therefore in the interest of all to see to it that it is not abused.

One of the advantages of this "Books Wanted" department of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is that it helps to make and to keep trade. No bookseller need feel obliged to turn off a customer by bluntly informing him that he hasn't got a certain book, that it is out of print and can't be gotten. Let his address be taken and the assurance given that there is one way by which the book may possibly be obtained. Never admit, until every stone has been turned over, that you are unable to supply a book called for. It is only by following this course that you will be able to build up a reputation for enterprise and obliging service. And to assist you in this there is not a better help than a judicious use of our "Books Wanted" columns.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1890 shows its usual yearly growth, and more life and vigor than we had looked for in the present quiet state of business. The publishing and retail trade alike have learned the great use of this trade-help, and are gradually being taught that they must go at it early and get their little quota towards the bulky whole into shape, if we are to come up to our plan of having the Annual ready early enough to be of telling service in the fall business. We have covered the field very satisfactorily this year. Very few catalogues of live houses are missing. As we have often said, the dealer can help more than any one concerned to make this publication what it ought to be. If he will persistently keep the delinquent publisher informed that the omission of his catalogue is a constant source of irritation to him, it will tell in the end. Mr. J. F. Tapley, who has year after year the courage to undertake the gigantic task of uniformly binding all these lists, has his work well under way, and we can promise subscribers that we shall begin to deliver copies during the present month. We remind those whose orders are still missing, that for a few days more they can save 50 cents on their subscriptions. On and after September 1, the net price of the Annual is $2.

HUBERT HOWE BANCROFT, THE BOOK-SELLER HISTORIAN, AND HIS WORK.

THIRTY-EIGHT years ago a youth hardly turned twenty, with limited resources but indomitable pluck and intelligent enterprise, was sent to California to try his fortunes. The new State was aflame with thirst after the yellow metal but recently discovered, and the inhabitants, for the larger part rough men and lawless, were spending their lives in an almost ceaseless search for gold. Their brief moments of leisure were spent largely at the gambling-tables, and in riot and drink. Those who had aught to offer beyond the necessities of life and tools, or that which furnished distraction for the lowest desires of men, had indeed but a sorry outlook. Yet this young man had the temerity to appeal to the best in the natures of those with whom he had cast his lot. He had settled in their midst as an educational factor—in short, his stock in trade was books. To a man of a less hardy constitution, the field would indeed have been barren of all prospects. But young Hubert Howe Bancroft, the descendant of a stalwart Puritan race, inured to hard work on the paternal farm, far from being dispirited with the outlook, seemed to gather strength in the thought of overcoming the obstacles in his way. Slowly but surely, in the face of subsequent fierce competition of men of large capital, he established his business upon a secure basis.

His connection with his brother-in-law, George H. Derby, one of the family of well-known booksellers then of Buffalo, with whom he served four years as apprentice, had given Bancroft a strong taste for publishing, in which he began gradually to indulge himself. He issued a number of local manuals, and in the preparation of these he was led to separate from his large collection of books in the store those volumes which dealt with California, Oregon, and the Pacific Coast territories. He soon had a library of several thousand volumes, which he added to by purchase of everything that he could secure in this field. It then occurred to him to prepare a sort of bibliography of coast history. This scheme revealed the defects of his collection. He fondly imagined he had everything that had been written about the coast, but he found that he had only fairly begun. As his business prospered, he applied himself to the task of completing his collection in good earnest. He purchased every book, manuscript and map, printed or written, within his territory or elsewhere, relating to it, that could be found in California or Oregon, in Mexico and Central America, and in the eastern United States. He visited Europe several times, searching thoroughly the chief cities in person, and appointing agents there. Six years thus passed, during which time were secured 10,000 volumes, among which were most of the standard chronicles, such as Oviedo, Peter Martyr, Las Casas and Gomara, with all the later standard histories, a large collection of printed documents and many original manuscripts. Next, and while still continuing the work of general collecting, Mr. Bancroft began taking the dictations of pioneers, settlers and statesmen; going out himself and sending his assistants, until the leading men—those who had helped to make the history of their country—throughout the length and breadth of his vast territory had been invited to contribute their experience. This labor resulted in thousands of manuscripts containing the deeds and reminiscences of as many living witnesses, all of course absolutely original and nowhere else existing. To these were added copies of county, State and national archives, made at a great expenditure of money; while huge piles of original documents, public and private, were secured from other collectors and from the descendants of old and patriotic Spanish families, whose members had some time played an important part in history. These were collected and bound in thick folio volumes, and constituted most invaluable material for history.

The field thus covered is equal in area to one-twelfth of the earth's surface; and it is probable that never since the earliest recollections of man have the early annals of any nation been so thoroughly, so conscientiously and so intelligently gathered. For the greater safety of the collection Mr. Bancroft, in 1881, erected a two-story fire-proof building on Valencia Street, in San Francisco, where his literary labors were conducted. Thus was consummated the work of collecting, or rather of creating, this library; for large portions of it were called into existence by Mr. Bancroft, and other considerable portions, but for him, would ere this have dropped into oblivion. At an almost infinite outlay of labor and pains, of time and money, by one man, unaided by any individual society or government, innumerable human experiences have been gathered, which cannot fail to be of great benefit to mankind for generations to come; and if this were all, one might safely say that Mr. Bancroft had successfully accomplished one of the most important labors possible for man to engage in.

But this is not all. Very far from it. All that had been accomplished thus far was but preliminary to yet greater undertakings. In its wide and original form, the knowledge Mr. Bancroft had gathered could be of but little practical value to the people at large; it must first be threshed and winnowed, and the precious grain separated. To this end Mr. Bancroft determined to write a series of historical works in thirty-nine volumes, which should embody such historical information as was worth preserving, and which was originally contained in the entire library. Something, however, besides time and money must be forthcoming properly to write history. Had Mr. Bancroft the ability? This remained to be proven. He himself did not know; he had an almost overwhelming desire, for he regarded the writing of history as one of the highest occupations of man; but he could make the endeavor.

The grand central figure of Mr. Bancroft's literary undertaking is the "History of the Pacific States of North America." Introductory to the history is "The Native Races of the Pacific States," in five volumes, vol. 1 being devoted to the wild tribes of the entire territory; vol. 2, the civilized nations of Mexico and Central America; vol. 3, Myths and Languages; vol. 4, Antiquities; vol. 5, Primitive History. Then comes the history proper, subdivided as follows: Central America, 3 vols.; Mexico, 6 vols.; North American States and Texas, 2 vols.; Arizona and New Mexico, 1 vol.; California, 7 vols.; Nevada, Colorado and Wyoming, 1 vol.; Utah, 1 vol.; Northwest Coast, 2 vols.; Oregon, 2 vols.; Washington, Idaho and Montana, 1 vol.; British Columbia, 1 vol.; Alaska, 1 vol. The series concludes with the following supplementary volumes, all on kindred topics, but which could not be embodied in the history proper; namely, "California Pastoral," being life and society under the missionaries from Mexico, 1 vol.; "California very sincerely

Hubert H. Bancroft

Inter Pocula," or times during the gold-mining epoch, 1 vol.; "Popular Tribunals," 2 vols., containing the doings of Vigilance Committees; "Essays and Miscellany;" and "Literary Industries," or the history of Mr. Bancroft's literary labors. All these, with the exception of the last two (forming respectively volumes 38 and 39 of the complete work), have now been published. Volume 38, "Essays and Miscellany," will be published in October of this year, and the last volume, "Literary Industries," will be issued in January, 1891.

Mr. Bancroft had been collecting some ten years before he fully made up his mind thus to place his priceless information within the reach of all, in the form of thoroughly condensed and well-written history. Once determined on this course, he set about its accomplishment with all the energy of his nature. He had spent thus far, not counting his own time or travelling expenses, some $300,000, and the writing and putting in type of his proposed series would involve an outlay, in addition to many long years of the severest toil and self-denial, of over $400,000 more. The cost of manufacturing the books from the stereotype plates must be added to these amounts. It was the severest labor of the kind ever undertaken by a private individual.

After due consideration, having resolved on the undertaking, Mr. Bancroft turned over to his brother, Mr. A. L. Bancroft, the active management of a large and successful business which had been built up, still retaining his interest in the same, however. He then engaged a score of competent assistants and went to work. First the entire library of over 50,000 volumes was indexed as one would index a single book. This occupied on an average six persons for ten years, and cost over $80,000. It was the only means possible by which the several topics required could be reached, and all that the several authors had said on each incident or subject brought together. Another set of men would take the references thus made by the indexers and abstract the information, which was called rough material. Still other and more competent assistants arranged and revised this rough material, sometimes dividing it into chapters; sometimes writing chapters from it; so that by every and all means the work might be placed in the hands of the author in as advanced a state as possible. Mr. Bancroft then rewrote, and revised until the work was finished. Many of the more important volumes and parts of volumes he worked out with the greatest toil, alone, not trusting any one even to take out the material in the rough. It is impossible fully to explain all the means and experiments, the failures and successes, by which the results were reached. The difficulty of obtaining competent assistants was a serious drawback, as out of every hundred tested not more than one was secured who could work to the general plan, evolved after years of labor from the necessities of the case.

There were maps to be made, and the incoming works of new authors to be examined and compared with what had been written, often involving months of revision even of matter already in type. Some further idea may be gained of the thoroughness of the work, however, when it is borne in mind that the entire series, notes and text, was compared with the original authorities by still other men, after the work had been put into type, but before the pages were stereotyped. In a word, the means for the accomplishment of the purpose had to be devised as the emergencies arose; and it is safe to say that only by the employment of this or a like method could the work ever have been accomplished. It was a heavy strain upon his health, which several times gave away; but an iron constitution carried him through, until the completion of the herculean task was placed beyond a contingency.

On the 30th of April, 1886, a sudden fire consumed the publishing house of A. L. Bancroft & Co., and their entire stock of goods, in which were included about nine volumes of plates of Bancroft's Works and a great number of printed volumes. The loss to Mr. Bancroft, the historian, in the destruction of property indispensable to the carrying on of his work, was enormous; the shock was sufficient to have paralyzed any one but a man of his unparalleled devotion to a life-task. Without hesitation or wavering, he met the emergency with a strength and a spirit peculiar to him all through his enterprise. His first thought was to re-establish the department which is occupied with the publication of Bancroft's Works; that this might be done, no sacrifice was considered too great. The remnants of a vast publishing house were brought together and piled upon the altar of the history. The rehabilitation of this department first of all, after the disastrous conflagration, ought, and we believe will, commend Mr. Bancroft's labors more closely than ever to the attention of his fellow-citizens.

And now comes the question, Was the work of research, which has cost so many years of labor and so large a sum of money, worth doing? and if so, has it been well done? Of the first there will be no question. The history is a monument of painstaking research, of great value to all future workers in the history of the archæology of the Pacific Coast. A special student may find in the list of authorities and in the notes of any of Bancroft's histories a fine index to material which will supply him with work for years. How well the labor of the historian has been done—the sifting and digesting of statements, the narration of events, the judgment of men—competent critics the world over have already declared.

The reader of any of Bancroft's works will at once, and above all, be impressed with his fairness and impartiality. As one of his critics has said: "Throughout his works there are no instances of special pleading, and none of evidence suppressed or garbled to strengthen an argument. One may question Bancroft's judgment of men or events, but never his honesty of purpose."

In person Mr. Bancroft is tall and stalwart. His face is noticeable for the strong Roman nose, indicative of character and resolution, and the full dark eye. His black hair is tinged with gray, but he shows no other signs of age. He speaks with great deliberation, evidently weighing his words carefully. He has a judicial mind. When he has carefully studied a subject his decision is swift, and never revised without the strongest proof. His tastes are extremely simple—his one passion being books. He is most at home in his great library, in the suburbs of San Francisco, remote from the noise of the city. He is a believer in work, and is said to have Brougham's faculty of spending hours at his desk without apparent fatigue. He is in the prime of life, and bids fair to live many years after the completion of his great historical work.

OBITUARY.

JOHN HENRY NEWMAN.

CARDINAL NEWMAN died on Monday, August 11, at Birmingham, England, from an attack of pneumonia, in his 90th year. His death completes a career of vast intellectual and moral power. For many years Cardinal Newman has been the foremost figure in the Roman Catholic Church in England, and before that the leader in the famous Tractarian movement in the Established Church of England. In his religious opinions he has swung from one extreme to the other, always in the earnest search for truth. In his youth he was greatly impressed with the rationalistic writings of Hume and Voltaire; he entered the ministry later with Calvinistic bias. In his strong manhood he was leader in the Oxford movement, from which he emerged a Roman priest. It was at first feared that his secession from his own communion would be the signal for a secession which would divide the English Church. But the result was a great accession of intellectual force, a general awakening on the part of the English clergy to the responsibilities of their calling, and an increase of working power, especially among the poor. The Oxford movement proved an invigorating tonic. At first Dr. Newman's step led to bitter controversy. He was attacked by Kingsley in Macmillan's Magazine, and to that attack we are indebted for his greatest literary effort, the "Apologia Pro Vita Sua," published in 1864. He published a collection of poems in 1868, "The Grammar of Assent" in 1870, and "A Letter Addressed to His Grace, the Duke of Norfolk, on the Occasion of Mr. Gladstone's Recent Expostulation" in 1875. Among his earlier works are "The Ariens of the Fourth Century: their doctrines, temper and Conduct" (1833), and "An Essay on the Development of Christian Doctrine." On the death of R. H. Froude, Dr. Newman edited his "Remains"—a work largely of love. No complete list of Dr. Newman's fugitive pieces of controversial writing can be given here. Nor is there any need of it. Perhaps the best-known of all the things that came from his pen is the little hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," written while on a voyage in the Mediterranean. This has come into a wide devotional use, and is, indeed, a rare addition to English hymn literature.

The body of Cardinal Newman will lie in state in the Oratory of St. Philip Neri at Edgebaston until the funeral, which will take place on Tuesday next.

JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY.

In literature, journalism, athletics and philanthropy John Boyle O'Reilly held a prominent place. His sudden death in Boston on Sunday, August 10, causes universal grief. Born in 1844, at Dowth Castle, County Meath, Ireland, young O'Reilly was carefully educated by his father, a well-known mathematician. He learned the printer's trade and worked on several English papers. From boyhood the cause of Irish freedom was dear to his heart. In May, 1863, he enlisted in the Prince of Wales' Own Dragoons and worked zealously to spread republican principles. He was arrested for high treason and sentenced to be shot, but his sentence was commuted to twenty years' penal servitude. He was transported to Australia, and in 1869 absconded from a road party with the help of a Roman Catholic priest. After endless adventures he landed in Philadelphia in 1869, penniless and friendless. He went to Boston and obtained a place on The Pilot, at a small salary. Here at last he met with success, and in 1874 obtained the ownership of the paper with which his name is identified. In 1873 he published his first volume of poems, "Songs of the Southern Seas." His best known works are "Songs, Legends and Ballads," "Moondyne," "Statues in the Block," "In Bohemia," etc. He was justly regarded as the greatest leader and most brilliant mind among the Irish race in America. He was a member of all the leading literary and artistic clubs of Boston. The cause of death was heart failure. He was buried from St. Mary's Church on Wednesday morning.

CHARLES LORING BRACE.

REV. CHARLES LORING BRACE, best known as the founder and from its organization the Secretary of the Children's Aid Society, died at Campfer, Switzerland, on Monday, August 11. Mr. Brace was born in Litchfield, Connecticut, in 1826. On his mother's side he was related to the Beechers. At the age of twenty-four he had graduated from the Union Theological Seminary and was in Europe on a pedestrian tour when his attention was first attracted to the sufferings of the masses and he then chose his life-work, the amelioration of the condition of the poor. For many years a great part of his time was devoted to writing for journals, chiefly with the design of educating the charitable in his policy of making charity self-supporting. He also published several books. The most important are: "Hungary in 1851," "Home Life in Germany," "Norse Folk," "Races of the Old World," "The New West," "Short Sermons for Newsboys," "The Dangerous Classes of New York," "Free Trade as a Promoter of Peace and Good-Will Among Men," and "Gestæ Christi, a History of Humane Progress Under Christianity," which at once commanded wide attention. His last book, published this year, "The Unknown God," tracing the history of the different forms of religion, was equally fortunate in the impression it made as a valuable compendium of sacred history. Mr. Brace had gone to Switzerland in search of health, but for some time it was feared that he would not return.

THE "KREUTZER SONATA" IN COURT.

A new chapter was added on Friday last (the 8th) to the history of the "Kreutzer Sonata." Following its seizure, vendors appeared upon the streets with push-carts loaded with Tolstoi's now famous work, to which they called the attention of passers-by with conspicuous signs of "Suppressed." Capt. McLaughlin, of the First Precinct, attracted by the crowd, had a number of the vendors captured, taking them with their wares to the Tombs Police Court. The prisoners said in court that the publishers, "The Pollard Publishing Company," from whom the books were purchased, told them that the edition they offered for sale was not the true translation of Tolstoi's original work, and that it contained nothing that was offensive. The men were paroled in the custody of their counsel until Saturday morning. On Saturday Mr. Walter Pollard, of the Pollard Publishing Co., was present at the Tombs Police Court with his lawyer and a number of witnesses ready to swear there was nothing immoral in their edition of Tolstoi's "Kreutzer Sonata." Justice White said that while he did not consider the book strictly moral he did not think there was anything liable to hurt any one's morals in it. He thought, however, that the signs displayed by the vendors, that the book had been suppressed by the Czar of Russia and the Postmaster-General of the United States, should be destroyed, as they were meant to insinuate that there was something shocking in the book and thus make purchasers among the curious. Mr. Pollard said that the signs should be destroyed, and the court discharged all the prisoners and ordered that the 240 copies of the book confiscated by the police be returned to them.

NOT IMMORAL, ONLY TRASH.

THE Grand Jury, on Tuesday, we learn from the New York Times, refused to indict Manager Patrick Farrelly and two clerks of the American News Company, charged with selling obscene books. Acting District Attorney Bedford and Assistant District Attorney Lindsay sat down one day and read the books—"L'Afrique Clémentine," "An Actor's Wife," "The Devil's Daughter," "Speaking of Ellen" and "Thou Shalt Not." They marked several passages for the instruction of the Grand Jury, and said the books were nothing but trash. The Grand Jury could not find anything in them that would be considered obscene or lascivious.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE AMERICAN NEWS CO.'S SEIZURE.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY,
MANAGER'S OFFICE, NEW YORK AUG. 13, 1890.
To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly

DEAR SIR: In relation to the seizure in our place of business of certain books under the authority of a search warrant, issued as we understand on the complaint of the Society for the Enforcement of Criminal Law, and the arrest of three of our employés, I desire to say that we received the books in the usual course of business from the publishers. G. W. Dillingham, New York; Eytinge Publishing Co., New York; Laird & Lee, Chicago; Benjamin R. Tucker, Boston, and that we did not know that any of the works were in any way objectionable. We never have knowingly sold, and we never will knowingly sell an immoral or obscene publication.

PATRICK FARRELLY, Manager.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

D. VAN NOSTRAND & Co. call attention to the fact that their catalogue, which appears in "The Trade List Annual" this year, contains for the first time a complete list of Weale's "Rudimentary Series of Scientific Books," of which they carry large stocks.

Catalogues of new and second hand books.—John H. W. Cadby, Springfield, Mass., Books relating to America, genealogy, old trials, Indians, local pamphlets, etc. (No. 2, 695 + titles).—E. Dufossé, 27 Rue Guénégaud, Paris, Livres sur le tabac, le café le chocolat, le thé, le sucre, le coton, l'indigo, et les cultures tropicales. (7th ser., no. 3, 22 p.).—S. B. Luyster, 98 Nassau St., N. Y., miscellaneous. (No. 173, 347 titles).—M. Morris (the Bookshop), 73 E. Madison St., Chicago, miscellaneous. (No. 8, 4 p. 8").—J. W. Randolph & English, 1302 Main St., Richmond, Va., 4900 second-hand and new books. (No. 12).—Henry Sotherton & Co., 136 Strand, London, Sotherton's Price Current of Literature. (No. 496.)

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

BLISS PERRY, the author of a clever summer novel, "The Broughton House," published recently by Charles Scribners Sons, is professor of English literature in Williams College, and the son of Prof. A. L. Perry, the political economist. This novel is his first book, but he has occasionally written for the newspapers, particularly the Springfield Republican.

A MELANCHOLY author went to Dumas and moaned that if he did not raise 300 francs he was afraid that he would have to charcoal-smoke himself and his two children. Dumas rummaged his coffers at once, but could find only 200 francs. "But I must have three, or I and the little loves are lost," said the author. "Suppose you only suffocate yourself and one of them, then," said Dumas.

MISS BLANCHE WILLIS HOWARD, the famous novelist, was married a few weeks ago in Stuttgart, Germany, to Dr. Teufel of that city. The bridegroom is one of the most eminent practitioners in Germany, the court physician, and a man of wealth and leading social position. It was a brilliant match on either side, and the American acquaintances of Miss Howard will extend their warmest congratulations. Dr. and Mrs. Teufel will reside in Stuttgart in the future.

"We are asked to say," remarks the Athenaeum, "that the 'Sin of Joost Avelingh,' which we lately praised and which has passed through several editions, is not a translation from the Dutch, but was originally written in English by the author, a Dutchman. A number of journals, both in England and America, have asserted the contrary, and 'in consequence,' the author writes to us, 'I am credited with a literary fame in my own country to which I have absolutely no claim.'"

"THE little red house near Lenox, Massachusetts, where Hawthorne lived forty years ago, and wrote some of his best-known works, has been burned. Hawthorne," says Harper's Weekly, "was visited here by Longfellow, his classmate at Bowdoin College, Herman Melville, G. P. R. James, and Fannie Kemble, who lived in the vicinity. There are residents of Lenox who remember the novelist well, and are able to tell of the rambles which he and his literary friends used to take over the country. Hawthorne loved Lenox in the summer, but grew tired of the boisterous Berkshire winters, and soon after returned to the eastern part of the State."

J. BRECK PERKINS, of Rochester, the author of "France under Richelieu and Mazarin," is about to visit Paris, where he proposes to remain two years to pursue his investigations for farther works on French history. "I intend," he writes, "to treat of the period preceding the French Revolution, beginning, perhaps, about the death of Louis XIV. in 1715, and then going over the period which gradually led up to the French Revolution. That, among other things, will involve some of the relations of France with this country, and the effect the American Revolution had at that time. I think I shall treat this period somewhat in epochs, that is, publish one book that would cover a certain portion of the period, so that one could, if he desired, read one volume without getting the others. The books will be distinct, though there will be a certain connection between them."

BUSINESS NOTES.

BRAUMONT, TEX.—J. B. Farley, bookseller, has been succeeded by Devant & Farley.

BEDFORD, IND.—Charles M. Lemon has sold his stock of books and stationery.

CHEBOYGAN, MICH.—D. D. McDonald, bookseller, has gone out of business.

CLEVELAND, O.—Ingham, Clarke & Co. have been succeeded by W. A. Ingham, who has removed the business to 138 Superior Street.

COLUMBUS, O.—Halliday & Higgins, booksellers and stationers, are selling out.

HERON LAKE, MINN.—Herman J. Arnold bookseller, has sold out.

NEVADA, IA.—W. E. Dunkleberger, bookseller, has sold out.

NEW YORK CITY.—A. S. Barnes & Co. have now settled down to business at their new quarters, 751 Broadway (not in the American Book Company's building, as noted before), on the block with Scribner's and Dodd, Mead & Co. They will devote themselves exclusively to the general publishing business and to the sale of the stationery specialties of which they are the sole proprietors—as Barnes' National Inks, Barnes' National Mucilage, and Barnes' National Pens, as well as the P., D. & S. Pen, so long and favorably known throughout the country. They are now closing out their stationery department. Their jobbing business, as has already been noted, has been transferred to the Baker & Taylor Co.

NORFOLK, VA.—Messrs. Hume & Parker, booksellers, etc., have decided to continue in business. Mr. Parker retires from the old firm to take charge of the piano and organ department. Mr. Hume and Mr. Bilisoly, formerly of R. G. Hume & Bro., will take charge of the book and stationery department, under the firm-name of Hume & Bilisoly.

OMAHA, NEB.—James Connolly, bookseller and stationer, has gone out of business.

PERHAM, MINN.—H. Kemper, bookseller, has sold out.

SAN DIEGO, CAL.—A. Stephens, of the firm of Stephens & Packard, booksellers, is dead.

SENECA FALLS, N. Y.—Robert C. Wayne, bookseller, had his stock damaged by fire.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

WARD & DRUMMOND will publish, Sept. 1, a new book by Col. Thos. W. Knox, entitled "Trotlar Dick."

ISAAC PITMAN & SONS, 3 East 14th St., N. Y., will issue, September 1, the "Complete Bible in Phonography." It is now 20 years since the last edition was published.

THE AMERICAN NEWS Co. will shortly issue a paper-covered edition of "Viera," Count Zubof's "romance 'twixt the real and ideal," with a portrait and life of the much-talked-of author.

THE WAVERLY Co., New York and St. Louis, have just issued another English translation of Georges Ohnet's L'Ami de Pierre, under the title of "Pierre's Soul." Also a translation of Albert Delpit's "Struggle for Existence."

THE Lew Vanderpoole Publishing Co. have just published what they rightly denominate "a literary wonder"—a story by a thirteen-year-old child, Jessie Agnes Andrews. Its name is "Eteocles, a Tale of Antioch," and it is said to be "a picture of the stirring times of persecution."

PURCHASERS of the first edition of Jean Ingelow's book, "Quite Another Story," published by the John W. Lovell Co., will find an error in the paging. Instead of reading consecutive pages from 40 to 47, read as follows: 40, 43, 42, 41, 45, 44, 47. So far as possible the edition has been called in for correction.

THE JOHN W. LOVELL Co. have made arrangements with T. Y. Crowell & Co. by which all the stock on hand of their various editions of the poets are now the property of T. Y. Crowell, who will also hereafter publish what is known as Lovell's "Cambridge edition of 12mos," of which the stock has also been transferred to them. Unprofitable competition is thus removed.

D. VAN NOSTRAND Co. have just published "Electric Light Fitting," by John W. Urquhart, an excellent handbook for electrical engineers; "The Naval Annual for 1890," edited by Thomas A. Brassey; and, in their Science Series, Frederick Walker's "Practical Dynamo Building for Amateurs." This is the first American edition of the work, revised thoroughly from the second English edition.

WARD, LOCK & Co. have just issued "A Dead Man's Diary," by a writer who prefers to remain anonymous, but who is said already to have published essays and stories "that have been received with high appreciation on both sides of the Atlantic." This record of experience during a lengthened absence from the body, during which he was believed to be dead, is written with a serious moral purpose, and the author's teaching, if put into practice, would conduce greatly to the happiness of the world.

NOVELS dealing with outdoor life are welcome at this season, and a special interest will be felt in the graphic sketches of yachting and of a Canadian athletic contest which appear in the new novel, "Geoffrey Hampstead," just published in the Town and Country Library by D. Appleton & Co. The author, Thomas Stinson Jarvis, a barrister of Toronto, evidently knows from actual experience the excitement and the perils which he describes so vividly that he should have a sympathetic audience even among those whose interest in outdoor life is indirect.

C. S. PRATT, 155 Sixth Avenue, reports that his bookstore opened a short time ago is proving a successful enterprise. Mr. Pratt firmly believes that the book business can still be made to pay if a bookseller knows his business and is not afraid of hard work. He has little patience with those who sell everything else along with books, and is determined to make his bookstore pay without doing any catering except to the literary tastes of his patrons. We heartily wish him success, and hope his capital of hope and energy will not be too severely drawn upon.

LEE & SHEPARD have just published "Stories of the Civil War," by Albert F. Blaisdell, aimed to arouse in the younger generation a lively interest in the brave men who fought in the war for the Union; "The Taking of Louisburg, 1745," by Samuel Adams Drake, a new volume in their excellent series, Decisive Events in American History; and in very attractive style, a new book for young housekeepers, by Lucia Gray Swett, called "New England Breakfast Breads, Luncheon and Tea Biscuits." Many of the recipes embraced in the book have been in one New England family for half a century.

THE HARRISBURG PUBLISHING CO., of Harrisburg, Pa., announce a number of important works relating to the early history of Pennsylvania, of which they will print limited editions for the author, Dr. William Henry Egle, in the early autumn, if sufficient subscriptions are received to encourage the proposed enterprise. The subject is one to which Dr. Egle has devoted years of research and study, his works having more than a local interest. The most extensive work is "Landmarks of Scotch-Irish Settlement in Pennsylvania," in two octavo volumes, a history of the Scotch-Irish immigration into Pennsylvania; the others are "Early Settlers in the Cumberland Valley," full of genealogical and biographical facts; "The Paxtang Boys," an episode in Pennsylvania provincial history, and a series of records of old Scotch-Irish and German families under the title of "Pennsylvania Genealogies."

MACMILLAN & CO. have just issued in their Adventure Series the "Memoirs of the Extraordinary Military Career of John Shipp," who was born in Suffolk, March 16, 1784, and as soon as he was able became a soldier. The book now reprinted was published in 1829, and went through several editions, with various modifications of the original text. A few explanatory foot-notes have been added to this edition, and some illustrations have been introduced. An introduction by H. Manners Chichester adds to the interest of the book. They have also ready Sidney Lee's volume describing "Stratford-on-Avon" and an arrangement of telling scenes from "Alice in Wonderland," with enlarged colored pictures, intended specially for the youngest children in the nursery, and called "The Nursery Alice."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

A Literary Wonder!

"ETEOCLES: A TALE OF ANTIOCH."

By JESSIE AGNES ANDREWS.
(A thirteen-year-old child.)

Opinions expressed on the first private edition:

"In elegance of diction, in fertility of imagination, in its almost classic style, it shows a mind of rare clearness, purity and strength."—Rev. Dr. E. Guernsey.

"As a picture of the stirring times of persecution, it is admirably executed. The story has great dignity, the language is clear and choice."—Rev. Dr. Joseph Carey.

"A marvellous production for one so young. It shows a wonderful genius."—Ex-Governor Bedle.

In elegant cloth cover, $1.00.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY'S NEW BOOKS.

U. S.: Curious Facts in United States History.

By MALCOLM TOWNSEND. 12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; paper, 75 cents, net.

Five hundred closely printed pages, made accessible by model indexes and supplemented by an invaluable bibliography. A collection of all the curious facts about the United States, historical, geographical, political, and miscellaneous, that every one wants to know, yet can never tell just where to find. A book that should be in the hands of every American—unique, instructive, entertaining, fascinating.

"It has no rival in its peculiar field. It will be found of especial value in meeting the inquiries of precocious boys and girls."—Kansas City Times.

"If a person wants to find out any of those thousand and one things that nobody knows for sure, just let him refer to Mr. Townsend's book."—New York Star.

Out of Doors with Tennyson. Edited, with introduction, by ELBRIDGE S. BROOKS. Fully illustrated with views of the localities of the poems. 4to, $2.50.

Such poems and portions of poems written by the Laureate as have to do with outdoor life in any way—"The Brook," of course, and the "Garden Song" in Maud, and many others. The rich and varied beauty of this bouquet of poetic flowers, culled from the abundant bloom of garden, field and woodland, will be everywhere appreciated. The introduction is especially sympathetic and appropriate.

The Poets' Year. Edited by OSCAR FAY

ADAMS. Oblong 4to, 120 illustrations, of which 25 are from original drawings by Chalonier. Gold cloth, $6.00; morocco, $10.00.

"The Poets' Year" is the happy execution of an admirable and original idea. It is a volume of selected poetry of the seasons, embracing the choicest examples in contemporary and periodical literature, as well as the classic and familiar lines of the older poets. It aims to embody the spirit of every season, and to express the manifold human feelings that are produced by them.

Our Early Presidents, Their Wives and Children. From Washington to Jackson. By Mrs. HARRIET TAYLOR UPTON. With 150 portraits, pictures and autograph letters. Quarto, gold cloth, $4.00; half calf, $6.00; full morocco, $8.00.

The only work of the kind in which any attempt has been made to trace the history of the descendants of the American Presidents, or to give any picture of the fireside life in the White House. The six Presidents in the present volume are known as the "historic Presidents," and were those concerned in the early making of our Republic; the book therefore covers a most exciting and interesting period of our existence as a nation. The book also forms a great museum of historical portraits, and in nearly every instance they have been reproduced direct from the family canvases and miniatures.

Stories of Famous Precious Stones. By Mrs. GODDARD ORPEN. 12mo, $1.25.

A book on precious stones from which the dry details of the mineralogical treatise and the lapidary's catalogue have both been excluded is a good deal of a treat. Mrs. Orpen has not only chosen representative jewels, but she has given them an appropriate and fascinating setting. Here is an abundance of the tragedy and romance of high life.

On the Hills. By Professor FREDERICK STARR. 12mo, $1.25.

A series of "geological talks" by one who knows his subject and knows how to make it fascinating. Young people who read the book will learn the great lessons of geology, without finding them tedious or difficult.

Great Cities of the World. Edited by ELBRIDGE S. BROOKS. Large quarto, cloth, full gilt, extra calendered paper, $3.50; cheaper edition, $2.50. Fully illustrated.

The origin, growth, peculiar characteristics and interesting features of every city of over 200,000 inhabitants on the globe are here given in a bright crisp style of narrative. The romantic, the picturesque have not been excluded, but find a place with the historical and statistical, and the book is one which will have a value and an interest in every home.

Five Little Peppers Midway. By MARGARET SIDNEY. Illustrations by W. L. Taylor. 12mo, 512 pages, $1.50.

"It is seldom one finds so much simplicity and naturalness combined with so much interest in a child's story."—Chicago Times.

"A singularly sweet, sympathetic and helpful spirit always pervades Margaret Sidney's work, and her young readers are not only amused and interested, but insensibly influenced to pure and fine ideals of life."—Boston Budget.

The Lion City of Africa. By WILLIS BOYD ALLEN. Illus. by Bridgman and others. 8vo, cloth, $2.25.

The marvellous adventures of two young men marooned on the coast of Africa. The story combines the imaginative charm of Rider Haggard with the probability of one of Stanley's recitals.

Round the World with the Blue Jackets. By Lieut. H. E. RHOADES, U.S.A. Original illustrations by Bridgman and others. 4to, cloth, $2.25; boards, $1.75.

A vivid, varied, undeviating narrative of a voyage taken just after the war by the good ship Iroquois, for the purpose of showing the triumphant "Stars and Stripes" to the world. Instinct with the realism which only personal experience can give. These dashing "Blue Jackets" do have some "jolly good times."

How New England Was Made. By FRANCES A. HUMPHREY. Fully illustrated. 4to, cloth, $1.50; boards, $1.25.

A child's history of New England up to the beginning of the Revolution. It differs from most New England histories in that it succeeds in making very real the home-life of our sturdy forefathers.

Cooking in the Public Schools. By Mrs. SALLIE JOY WHITE. 12mo, 75 cents.

The practice of teaching cooking in the schools of the larger cities is becoming more and more prevalent, as its good results are realized. Mrs. White's book not only gives a sketch of the origin and growth of the movement, showing its value in the industrial education of girls, but also a whole course of cooking lessons as practised in the Boston schools—a course that will be invaluable to learners, and not without interest to experienced housekeepers, who will gain many new ideas from its bright, attractive pages.

Three Little Maids. By MARY BATHURST DEANE. Illustrated by F. O. Small. New edition. Cloth, $1.50.

"A bright, witty tale of English life that, in its originality and naivete, reminds one forcibly of Mrs. Burnett's best."—American Hebrew.

"The three little maids are as wholesome companions as a mother could wish to secure to keep her little folk company. The humor is delicate and abounding, the moral atmosphere clear and high."—Commonwealth.

IMPORTANT NEW BOOKS.

At the Dawning.

A Charming New American Novel, by a New American Author.

Ready September 10.

This is No. 1 of our new Series of American Novels, in which young American authors shall be given a chance to prove the truth of our belief, viz.: That there is enough latent talent in America to give our country a literature of its own that shall surpass that of foreign lands.

"At the Dawning" contains a merciless dissection of the character of the average society man; and, as one critic says: "More than one society favorite will wince under the stinging lash." It is deep in plot, powerful in character-drawing, rich in epigram, touching and realistic in love-dialogue, pathetic in sequel.

Prices: Paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00; half levant, $1.25.

DO NOT MISS IT.

Curious Questions.

An Encyclopædia of all that is Rare. Nothing Like it on Earth!

"Curious Questions" fills a niche wholly its own. Hundreds of queries and answers bearing upon Art, Literature, History and Social Life. It is a work designed to enlarge the scope of Polite Conversation, to correct common errors and erroneous ideas, and to lead to fresh study and research in all channels of thought.

It is recommended by the greatest scholars of the country. Rev. Dr. Andrew Preston Peabody, of Harvard University, says: "It is a work of inestimable value to any person, young or old." Bishop Vincent says: "It has an immense amount of useful knowledge packed into its pages."

It creates wonder and admiration in every social circle when introduced.

Complete in two large octavo volumes, boxed. Prices, per set: in silk cloth binding, $3.00; in half levant, gold-marbled paper sides, $4.00. Send for descriptive circulars.

 TO THE TRADE.

The Greatest Thing in the World

By Henry Drummond

J.R.S.C., J.G.S.

Author's only edition. Leatherette, gilt top. Price, 35 cents.

 This is the AUTHOR'S ONLY EDITION, and the one which he has specially prepared by additions and revisions of the stenographic reports taken at the time this famous address was given, and from the sale of which he has a royalty. The title is of his own choice, and for his edition ONLY.

 This edition varies materially from a rival publication under another name, using the above title conspicuously as a subtitle.

 We appeal to the trade to respect the interests of the author, their customers and themselves by a continued use of our edition exclusively—and so avoid the necessity of our issuing a very cheap edition, whereby the quality of the book and profits to the author would be much reduced.

THE J. G. CUPPLES CO., Boston, announce a new novel, entitled "Eastward, or, a Buddhist lover." It deals with the love-romance of a young Buddhist studying in this country, and contains much well-put information regarding Buddhism, the study of which is so popular now.

OUR RACE PUB. CO., New Haven, Conn., will publish on the 22d inst. No. 2 of their Our Race Series, entitled "The Voice of History—Joshua's Long Day and The Dial of Ahaz—A Scientific Vindication and A Midnight Cry," by Prof. C. A. L. Totten, Yale University.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. will issue September 27: "The Narration of Captain Colignet, Soldier of the Empire," a genuine autobiographical account of one of Napoleon's body-guard, translated from the French by Mrs M. Carey, and handsomely illustrated; "The Portable Commentary," by Jamieson, Faussett and Brown, two volumes; "The Robber Count," translated from the German of Julius Wolff, by W. Henry and Elizabeth R. Winslow; "Famous European Artists," by Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton; "Real Happenings," by Mrs. William Claflin; "Family Manners," by Elizabeth Glover; also a special limited edition of Bourrienne's "Memoirs of Napoleon," in five volumes, with over 100 illustrations.

FLEMING H. REVELL announces for immediate publication "Moral Muscle, and how to use it," a chat with young men, by Frederick A. Atkins, with an introduction by Dr. Thain Davidson. Also, the following publications of the Religious Tract Society, to be issued immediately: new and revised edition of "Biblical Atlas and Scripture Gazetteer," with maps by Henry Courcier; "No Choice," a story of the unforeseen, by the Rev. T. S. Millington; "Not By Bread Alone," by the author of "The Occupations of a Retired Life;" "A Young Oxford Maid in the Days of the King and Parliament," by Sarah Tytler; "A Marked Man," by E. A. D. B., author of "Constable 42 Z;" "Harold's Friends, or, the new rector of Greythorpe" by C. A. Burnaby; "Cottage Politics," by Mary E. Ropes; "Sarah, a Princess," by Miss J. E. Slade; and "The Mysterious House," by Mrs. O. F. Walton.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day "Aztec Land," by Maturin M. Ballou, a timely work (as Mexico is just now attracting much interest by the richness of its mines), which tells the story of Mexico from the Toltec period to the present day, exposing many popular fallacies relating to Cortez and his followers; "Civil Government," by John Fiske, who sets forth very clearly the principles and methods of civil government as exemplified in the United States and in the several States; "Aids to Scripture Study," by Frederic Gardiner, intended primarily for theological students, for whom it is admirably adapted by its wise suggestions and excellent sense; a new edition of "Alfred the Great," by Thomas Hughes, a delightful biography of a notable English hero; a Riverside Classic edition of "Rab and His Friends," containing besides a memoir of Dr. John Brown, Our Dogs, Marjorie Fleming, Queen Mary's Child Garden, Jeems the Doorkeeper, and other papers; "Lighter Hours," by Wm. M. Thackeray, in the Modern Classics, containing "Dr. Birch and His Young Friends," two papers from "The Book of Snobs," eleven of the charming "Roundabout Papers," and "The Curate's Walk;" "Lilliput Classics," a series of ten tasteful little volumes, including Dickens' Christmas Carol, Shakespeare's Sonnets, Goldsmith's Deserted Village, and Traveller, Carlyle's Choice of Books, Fouqué's Undine, Dr. Brown's Rab and His Friends, Whittier's Tent on the Beach, Lowell's Vision of Sir Launfal, Hawthorne's Tales of the White Hills, and Tennyson's Enoch Arden; also a new issue of S. H. Scudder's "Butterflies of the Eastern United States and Canada," hitherto published by the author on the subscription plan.

France, Anatole. Abeille; ed. by C: P. Lebon, Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1890. c. 3+90 p. D. pap., 30 c.

Abeille, a little girl, and her little companion, Georges, wander away from home and into the kingdom of the dwarfs. Anatole France is a poet, in whom is combined the humorist, the historian and the philosopher, and with the exception of Victor Hugo, no writer has described children more delightfully. The little book is full of adventure and bright conversations. By the author of "The Crime of Sylvester Bonnard," and edited by the junior master of the English High School in Boston.

Franzos, Karl Emil. The chief justice. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] c. 2+272 p. D. (Lovell's ser. of foreign literature, no. 5.) pap., 50 c.

By the author of "For the right," "The Jews of Bar-naw," etc. A high ethical purpose pervades all this writer's novels. He is the son of a Polish Jew, of Galicia, and was b. in 1848. "The chief justice" of this story finds himself called upon to preside in a case of child-murder. In learning the details of the case he discovers to his horror that the woman to be tried is his own daughter, the offspring of an illicit love affair of his youth. As he had ruined and deserted the mother, another had ruined and deserted his child, who to hide her shame had strangled her infant. The moral is that one cannot escape even in this world the punishment for one's sins. A powerful picture is drawn of the judge's remorse and atonement. The scene is laid in Vienna about forty years ago.

Large-pap. ed., $4. This edition comprises all of Mr. Lowell's writings up to date which he wishes to preserve, and includes several addresses and papers not contained in his volumes hitherto published. Mr. Lowell has carefully revised the whole. To "The B. & G. papers," which owed their great effectiveness, at the time of their publication, to their many personal and political allusions as much as to their wit, full explanatory notes are added which will render these remarkable poems more intelligible to readers of this and future generations. The edition contains three hundred poems, a full index to the prose writings, and the last volume of poetry gives a table of first lines of all the poems. Uniform with the Riverside ed. of Longfellow.

- McPherson, E. A handbook of politics for 1890; being a record of important political action, legislative, executive and judicial, national and state, from Aug. 31, 1888, to July 31, 1890. Wash., D. C., James J. Chapman, 1890. c. 6+280 p. O. cl., $2. During the period covered by this volume, six States have been admitted into the Union, and there has been additional legislation on the Chinese question, the pension question and the silver question. The questions of international copyright and of bankruptcy have had consideration and action. The controversy over the forfeiture of unearned land grants by railroad corporations, which has been pending in some form since 1884, has been definitely settled by affirmative legislation. Besides these measures, one house has sent to the other bills which touch the regulation of national elections, the American merchant marine, the American mail service, the disposition of escheated Mormon Church funds, the refunding of the direct tax paid into the Treasury of the United States in 1861, and a variety of public measures of inferior importance. This volume gives the full particulars of this entire action. It is the 15th volume of a continuous series, the first being issued in 1864.

"Dumps" is the nickname of a little lame boy, who is the heir to a title and a large estate, but whose rights have been sacrificed for family reasons. He comes to live in a small country town, in a comfortable home belonging to Mr. Carleton, a lawyer, who is a widower with one child, Sylvia. "Dumps'" story is evolved here; his rights are made clear, and he is brought in contact with his titled relatives, but to the end he is self-sacrificing, holding fast to the wishes of his dead father.

Passion play (The) as it is played to-day, at Ober-Ammergau in 1890; by W. T. Stead; German and English text of Passion play in parallel columns; il. from original photographs by special permission. N. Y., C. E. Merrill & Co., [1890.] 4-130 p. O. cl., $1.

On Mr. Stead's arrival at Ober-Ammergau, he found that all the versions of the Passion Play on sale described the play as it was presented ten years ago; and that in all the mass of Ober-Ammergau literature there was not a single German-English edition with the German text printed in parallel columns to the English translation, and that none of the published books about the play contained any illustrations either of the play as it is played, or of the performers as they appear. All these needs are supplied in this compilation, which is said to be as accurate and complete a version of the play as it is possible to obtain. The numerous illustrations taken from photographs recently made of the players and the tableaux add greatly to the interest of the book.

In a comparatively few words, and with a simple and direct style, the writer has told of the growth, conversion and wide influence of a Japanese boy who is now living and occupying a high official position in Japan.

Reed, Edwin. Brief for plaintiff: Bacon vs. Shakespeare. 2d ed. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1890. c. 2-27 p. D. (Popular topics, no 1.) pap., 25 c.

An able argument supporting the theory, which is gaining many advocates, that Bacon wrote the plays attributed to Shakespeare. Facts generally agreed upon by both parties are quoted as corroborating proofs.

Sangster, Margaret E. Maidie's problem; [also,] One of themselves: two stories. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1890. c. 4-149 p. il. D. cl., 75 c.

Maidie's problem is how she can find active work to do as a "King's Daughter" in the sleepy little place where she lives. A summer boarder, also a "King's Daughter," rouses her ambition and starts a Sunday-school for her. She afterwards leaves home and teaches successfully. Dorothy, one of themselves, not specially talented, proves a good influence among a lot of average girls, and they all stir each other up to do great, helpful work in their own homes.

Bohemia, a province of Austria, is the scene of the story. The incidents mostly relate to love and marriage. The story is a purely domestic one, abounding in details of German home life in an old castle, whose proprietor is an ex-officer.

Rudolph, the son of a titled family, became a Protestant. Catholic emissaries were bent on making him recant or die. He was taken from his father's castle to suffer torture, which he escaped only by the intervention of a monk who was not what he seemed. He was separated from his betrothed and the engagement declared void. Thrilling adventures keep the reader upon the alert, and there is a mystery which comes into the story early, and is not solved until the close.

Prof. Starr describes tramps taken by himself and companions in various parts of the country in search of fossil remains, and the results. In the opening chapter are described the formation of glaciers and the moraines that mark their paths. In a talk called "A queer bundle of sticks," the story is told of some curious fossil discoveries near Jamestown, New York. Following chapters treat of extinct fish and reptilian forms, earthquakes, mountain-making, erosion, extinct birds, coal formations, etc.

A story of the difficulties which surrounded a Vermont family who took up land in the west and forsook New England for what seemed to them a golden opportunity. They had to experience many a bitter disappointment and failure. The father is overcome by drink, and loses his life in a blizzard. Harry Marston, his son, grows up in the new country, and by his persistent courage and Christian faith finally compels success, and is the means of starting a frontier town.

Mr. Weeden, of Providence, the well-known manufacturer and writer on economic subjects, has here produced a work of unusual value. It covers a new field of inquiry, one which now possesses a greater degree of interest than ever before for students of social and industrial questions. It is not a general history of New England, and touches its political history only as this affects or is affected by its social and economic interests. But the peculiar elements in the settlement, colonization and development of New England give a somewhat unique character to these interests.

Wells, Kate Gannett. Two modern women: a novel. Phil., J: B. Lippincott Co., 1890. c. 3-291 p. D. cl., $1.25.
Mrs. Stanton started life full of aspirations and original thought; found no response in her easy-going, well-to-do husband; set all her hopes upon her son, who disappointed her, and, instead of shining in social life, devoted himself wholly to philanthropy. Ruth Aston, a girl gifted with beauty, talent and energy, studies for the ministry and leads a wholly unselfish life, doing a vast amount of good. These two modern women are thrown together and their qualities ably contrasted. Theories on the labor question, the sufferings of the poor, socialism and kindred themes are exhaustively discussed.

Wilson, Mrs. E. C. A royal hunt: a story of Huguenot emigration. Bost., Congregational S. S. and Pub. Soc., [1890.] c. 7+394 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.
The tale centres in a large family of children, among whom the little girl Nannette is the most lovable, though all are interesting. The book gives us a glimpse of the cruel dragonnade system, when squads of dragoons were quartered on Huguenot families for the purpose of compelling them to recant their faith. Nannette's fearlessness of the captain of these dragoons, and her influence over him, is a most charming feature of the story.

A murder committed in a cheap lodging-house near Seven Dials, London, on the 3d of June, is the motive. The murdered man was evidently well-born—his aristocratic appearance having gained him the sobriquet of "H. R. H." from the inmates of the house. A great deal of clever detective work is shown, and some startling family secrets brought to light in the course of the narrative.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 13, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

PROFITABLE SELLING.

THE success or failure of almost any manufacturing concern can as a rule be traced to three sources: the economy with which it produces, the judgment with which it directs its business and the wisdom with which it makes sales.

The first impulse of every manufacturer, of course, is to make sales. And yet this desire indulged in without reason has become the source of much of the commercial depression from which in late years our country, and the book trade in particular, has suffered. Time and again the necessity of covering increased expense accounts by making larger sales has been the standing excuse; but this means nothing unless these sales show some kind of a profit. Large sales are a curse if it costs more to make them than the "margin" on which they are made, for they delude the short-sighted business man into the belief that he is doing well when in reality he is making straight or bankruptcy.

A sale cannot be considered a profitable one unless it pays sufficient profit to cover cost and expenses, and, most important of all, unless it is one that will be paid for. Too often this last point is overlooked. Again and again it has come under our notice, in the failure of houses with little or no reputation, that large firms, who were well aware of the shaky condition of their customers, were found among the heaviest creditors of the defunct concerns. The desire to "keep the ball a-rolling" got the better of their judgment; they took chances against the odds—and "got left."

One of the hardest things to learn, and one of the most profitable when acquired, is to let an undesirable customer go. The desire to make and keep customers at any hazard has been a real stumbling-block in the way of a prosperous book trade. If a customer, be he reader, retailer or jobber, threatens to go elsewhere, don't let him have your books below cost rather than lose the customer. Such customers are good ones to lose, and the loss of such sales is a gain. Let them go! Don't let any man browbeat you into throwing your money into the street, because he threatens to throw his if you don't. Let him.

CONGRESSMAN SIMONDS is in doubt whether it will be wise to call up the copyright bill again at this session. The Committee on Patents is entitled to the next morning hour, which may come any day. The question with Mr. Simonds is, whether the House is in the humor to consider the bill on its merits, owing to the fatigue of the long session. Mr. Simonds feels confident that if the matter goes over until the next session he will be able to secure a special order from the Committee on Rules, fixing a day for the consideration of the bill.

SENATOR EDMUNDS takes the ground in reference to the duty on lithographic work referred to in our last issue, that "the paragraph is directed specifically to commodities—not books—and in order to guard against any possible misconstruction of it, the exception named in respect of lithographic illustrations of books was inserted."

THE INTERNATIONAL "CONFERENCE DU LIVRE" AT ANTWERP.

Condensed from the London Academy.

AFTER an address from the president, M. C. Ruelens, librarian of the Royal Library of Brussels, and a cordial welcome to the good city of Antwerp given by the burgomaster, the congress divided into three sections for the despatch of business. The first section was to discuss questions relating to what was called upon the programme the "objectivity" of books, namely, the adoption of general rules and recommendations as to printing, binding, illustrating and indexing; and this section, as might have been expected, was chiefly attended by the printers and bibliophiles. To the second section, which was joined by many publishers, were allotted subjects relating to the postage of books, to custom-house duties on them, to the relations between authors and publishers, etc. The third section was chiefly intended for librarians, and devoted itself to questions concerning the organization of libraries, catalogues, and the relations of libraries in different countries to each other. It will be seen that the great question of international copyright was omitted from the programme by the organizers of the congress, probably because it was thought better to leave it to the International Society of Authors. It will be most convenient to notice the discussions and recommendations of the three sections separately, though their deliberations were spread over three days, August 7, 8 and 9, and their conclusions were, on each afternoon, laid before the congress at its general meeting, and voted on afresh.

The first section was presided over by Herr Busse, of Berlin, with MM. Hayez and Jouaust, leading printers of Brussels and Paris, as vice-presidents, and first M. Auguste Aulit, "homme de lettres" of Antwerp, and then M. Brockmann, printer, of Antwerp, as secretary and reporter. The first question considered was the much debated one of formats, or size notation, and it was decided to recommend that the terms folio, quarto, octavo, etc., should be considered in future to designate, not the mode in which the sheets were made up, but the size of the pages. A scale was propounded by which all books should be called folios, quartos, octavos, etc., in proportion to their length and breadth, which was severely and wittily criticised by M. Eugène Plon on behalf of the publishers. . . . The obvious idea of using the terms folio, quarto, octavo to designate the format of a book and of adding figures in centimetres to define its size seems to have escaped the notice of the section, though it occurred to some of the other members of the congress. The second recommendation of the section was that all governments should be requested to issue their official publications, parliamentary debates, etc., in a uniform and handy shape, a recommendation which all who use English Blue-books will readily endorse. These questions occupied most of the time of the section, but it also agreed to many other important resolutions, such as the recommendations, that it was expedient to form professional schools of engraving, and that an agreement ought to be come to between the printers of all nations as to the classification of type. On the motion of the Marquis de Granges de Surgères, a rather vague recommendation was adopted as to the uniformity of pagination in different editions of the same book, and the section at last, we suppose for lack of better subjects, actually descended to the puerility of deciding that a good alphabetical index, made by the author himself, added greatly to the value of the book. On the whole the deliberations of the first section of the congress had a distinct value; it is eminently expedient that some international agreement should be come to between the printers of all civilized nations as to format and type, and we only wish that some practical paper-maker had been present to insist on the necessity of using sound paper instead of the flimsy stuff which is now, alas, only too much used all over Europe.

The second section had as its chairman M. Armand Tampier, of Hachette et C^{ie}, President of the Cercle de la Librairie of Paris, with MM. Thieme and Bruylant-Christophe, publishers at Amsterdam and Brussels respectively, as vice-presidents, and M. Charles Dumercy, of Antwerp, as reporter. This section, which consisted largely of publishers, carried on its discussions in a more business-like and less heated fashion than either of the others. It expressed a hope that the publishers of different countries should be urged to form associations resembling the Cercle de la Librairie of Paris, and that these associations should enter into relations with each other, and act in harmony in every civilized country on questions of importance to the trade. It next decided that it is inexpedient to interfere with the relations between authors and publishers by legislation, as has been done in Hungary and Switzerland, and that all such legislation does harm to the general prosperity of literature. It unanimously resolved that custom-house duties on books ought to be entirely abolished, and that representations should be made to the governments of all countries maintaining these duties, condemning them and urging their abolition. The question of uniformity of postage gave rise to much animated debate, and it was eventually resolved that it is desirable that the maximum weight to be sent by book post should be raised to 5 kilogrammes or about 11 lbs. in the countries belonging to the postal union, and to 3 kilogrammes in countries not in connection with the union. All these recommendations and resolutions are eminently practical; the section avoided the temptation of encouraging the pernicious doctrine of state interference in the relations between authors and publishers, and couched its recommendations in a modest tone, remembering that its members had only power to advise, and not to compel. It is particularly to be regretted that no English or American publishers were present at the debates.

The third section discussed library affairs exclusively.

On the whole the labors of the first congress have not produced—and are not likely to produce—any important practical results at present. Yet the idea is a good one; many subjects were discussed of infinite importance to all persons interested in the production or circulation of books, and the earnestness of spirit and genuine desire to come to an international agreement on many most important questions, which was universally displayed, argue well for the future. At the close of the congress it was resolved that it should meet yearly; M. Max Rooses was appointed perpetual secretary, a post which will necessarily entail upon him an immense amount of labor, and it was left to the committee to decide upon the time and place of the next meeting. It is to be hoped that it will then be attended by more representatives from England, Germany and the United States, and that this first session may be followed by others, which, after the experience gained, will have a better programme and aim at more practical results.

FREE TEXT-BOOKS IN MAINE.

THE new law providing for free text-books in Maine has been put in force with the opening of the fall term. The State Superintendent has issued circulars giving the average price of books and other necessary instructions concerning the change. One plan is to buy all the old books of the pupils, issuing new ones in their places, and the other to make a gradual change, giving out new books as fast as the old ones wear out.

ALL AUTHORS LIKE A LITTLE.—First American: What! You are a believer in royalty, and yet, admitting this, you claim to be an American and a patriot? What sort of a man are you, anyway? Second American: I'm an author, and if I did not receive a royalty on my books I wouldn't amount to much.—Lawrence American.

PRINTERS FAVOR COPYRIGHT:

AT the convention of the United Typothetae held last week in Boston, delegate Theodore L. De Vinne, of New York, read a report on "Will International Copyright Increase the Price of Books?" He said the discussion on copyright seems to move from a new point of departure. The right of the foreign author to some payment for his work is not so vigorously contested as it has been. The decision of the question seems to turn not on the right but on the policy of the measure. Will international copyright make books higher in price? Will it prevent the diffusion of knowledge? Will it create a monopoly in publishing? A majority in Congress answered these questions with "yes," and voted for no copyright. It is unfortunate for those who advocate copyright that they have now to do it, not on the ground of justice, but that of policy. It will be admitted that the proposed measure can have no effect on the price of books by American authors already protected by domestic copyright. The price of many a new work is determined largely by its cost. If the price of the book is too high, it will not be bought; if too low, it will not pay the expenses of making and selling. It is not at all probable that any American publisher will put up the price of any copyrighted book beyond the ability or the limit of the bookbuyer. The competition which determines our prices determines his prices. The ultimate tendency of copyright, domestic or international, will be to make books cheaper. It will favor the printing of two or more editions of many popular books to meet the purse of every class of buyers. Domestic copyright has not made popular books dearer in Germany and France, where good books are as cheap as they are here. If our laws allowed any printer to reprint any American publications, would we, after ten years, have more work, or the public be more cheaply served? I think not. In the communistic chaos that would follow no class would suffer more than that of printers. That international copyright will prevent the diffusion of knowledge by limiting the printing of books is a proposition entirely untenable. The best books are beyond the operation of the copyright laws. Any printer can, even after the proposed law is enforced, reprint all the poetry, fiction, science and philosophy in the world. More than this, he can reprint any American copyrighted book that is more than forty-two years old, and many that are but twenty-eight years old. It must be repeated that international copyright has no effect on foreign books that have been written and printed; it deals only with those that are yet to be written. The international copyright will not make a monopoly of publishing, as has been asserted. He who believes that the publishing trade of the country can be confined to the seaboard cities, or that a trust will ever dominate the business has a very contemptible opinion of the activity and ability of American printers and publishers.

Mr. H. O. Houghton, of Boston, followed with a strong plea in favor of such a bill. "We do not ask for a copyright," said the speaker, "on ideas; they are as free as the wind; but we want it on the forms which these ideas take."

Mr. Slauson, of St. Louis, said that he as well as Mr. Ennis, of the same city, were not opposed to a copyright bill, as some of the delegates seemed to think. What they were decidedly opposed to was the Chase Copyright Bill, the provisions of which were objectionable to them.

Edwin Freegard thought that the present bill was more of a protection to English writers than to American writers. Mr. De Vinne said that the bill which has recently been before Congress was not essentially the Chase bill, nor will it be when again brought up at the next session of Congress.

Mr. Ennis, of St. Louis, wanted the prevalent idea corrected, that he was opposed to a copyright law. He believed in equal privileges for all. He was in favor of a fair, judicious bill, but was opposed to the Chase bill. He thought that the matter of copyright was safe in the hands of Mr. De Vinne, and with his aid the Copyright League could frame a suitable bill. A unanimous vote retained Mr. De Vinne as a delegate to the League.

INDECENT PERIODICALS.

ACCORDING to a special despatch to the Evening Post, Representative Wickham, of Ohio, has introduced a bill prohibiting the transmission through the mail of two New York weekly illustrated papers printed on pink paper, which cater to lovers of police news of a doubtful variety.

Mr. Wickham has come to the conclusion that this sort of literature is unfit for the rising generation, and he desires the aid of Congress in squelching it. In speaking of the matter, he said that the growth of obscene literature during the past ten years has been surprising. He takes great exception to these two papers, because of the way in which they magnify crime in all its forms. "Scandals, as they appear in the columns of the average newspaper," said he, "are bad enough, but when vice is pictured in such glowing colors as to make it appear honorable, it is time for something to be done."

It is proposed to subject the transmission of these weeklies through the mails to the same stringent regulations as will be adopted concerning the Louisiana Lottery Company.

OBITUARY.

ALEXANDRE CHATRIAN.

ALEXANDRE CHATRIAN, the well-known French novelist, who wrote in collaboration with Emile Erckmann over the pen name of Erckmann-Chatrian, died at Paris on the 4th inst. He was born at the hamlet of Soldatenthal in the Department of Meurthe, December 18, 1826. He belonged to an old family of glass-blowers and worked at the trade himself in his youth. He was sent to a Belgium glass factory, but tired of trade, he returned to his college to be an usher. There the Professor of Rhetoric, M. Perrot, introduced him to Emile Erckmann, a law student. Their collaboration began with their friendship. Erckmann was dreamy, fantastic, philosophic; Chatrian active, laborious, ambitious. In 1848 the playhouse at Strassburg produced a drama entitled "L'Alsace en 1814," "by two young men of the city." It was patriotic, full of action, inflammatory; the Prefect forbade a second performance. They wrote two other dramas, "Georges" and "Schinderhannes," which were not played; then, short stories, published in the country journal, the Démocrate du Rhin. In 1857 and 1858 some of these were reprinted in Paris in L'Artiste; one was signed by Erckmann, another, "Le Bourgmestre en bouteille," by Pierre Chatrian. Their initial novel, "Les Brigands des Vosges," appeared in the Journal des Faits, though they were not paid for it except by promises. They might have died of starvation had not Erckmann had some small means of his own, and had not Chatrian earned by hard work in the office of the Railway of the East 1500f. a year. It was only in 1859 that one of their stories, the "L'Illustre Docteur Matheus," drew much attention to the joint name, Erckmann-Chatrian. They had then been writing twelve years. One of them was thirty-seven and the other thirty-three. "Matheus" was their lucky hit. Since then they have published one or two novels a year, and have made a good deal of money. The "Fou Yegof," one of a series of novels, the subjects taken from their national history, describes the invasion of 1814. The "Conscrit de 1813" and "Waterloo" are fragments in autobiographic form, supposed to be the recollections of a common soldier, and bear upon the disastrous campaigns of 1813 and 1814. These are among the best known and best liked of their works, many of which are exact pictures of humble life in village and country, and very different from the typical French novel. The "Joueur de Clarinette" and the "Amoureux de Catherine" are among the best of these simple tales, and have been very widely read. The "Homme du Peuple" depicts the experience of a modern French workman, but is less esteemed than some others of their books. For the stage they wrote "Juif Polonais," which has been produced in England and America. It had a great success, and has been translated and adapted in four or five languages. Chatrian continued in the service of the Railway of the East and enjoyed a handsome salary. He was at his post daily, having his residence in the suburbs, a pretty house, with three healthy children and a wife, with whom he seemed to be very happy. His tastes were domestic, and he looked the embodiment of satisfaction when writing or reading at home in the midst of his family.

Like Sainte-Beuve, they were recently made the victims of an indiscreet secretary. Erckmann lives in the Vosges, Chatrian had kept his office with the railway company. They had disputed about their money affairs, after the wealth that came to them from "Les Rantzau." Their correspondence appeared in the Figaro, followed by charges that Erckmann had been naturalized a German and that his son was in the German Army. When Erckmann sued the Figaro for defamation, he found Chatrian blameless. The journal and its reporter were fined and made to publish a retraction. The two friends were reconciled. Besides the works already mentioned, they also wrote: "Contes Fantasques," 1860; "Contes de la Montagne," 1860; "Maître Daniel Roche," 1861; "Contes des Bords du Rhin," 1862; "La Taverne du Jambon de Mayence," 1863; "Madame Thérèse ou les Volontaires de '92," 1863; "L'Ami Fritz," 1864; "Histoire d'un Homme du Peuple," 1865; "La Maison Forestière," 1866; "La Guerre," 1865; "Le Blocus," 1867; "The Story of the Plébiscite," "Brigadier Frederica," 1875; "Maître Gaspard Fix," "Histoire d'un Conservateur," "L'Isthme de Suez" and "Souvenirs d'un Ancien Chef de Chantier," 1876. Their three-act comedy, "L'Ami Fritz," was brought out successfully at the Théâtre Français December 4, 1876. Their novel, "Les Vieux de la Vielle," was published in 1882, and "Les Rantzau" in 1884.

CANON HENRY P. LIDDON.

REV. HENRY PARRY LIDDON, D.D., Canon of St. Paul's Cathedral, died suddenly of heart disease on the 9th inst., at Weston-Super-Mare. He was born in 1829, and was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he graduated in 1850. He was regarded as the leader of the ritualistic party of the English Church, and was also characterized by no less an authority than Dean Stanley as being the "greatest preacher of the age." After taking holy orders he went to Cuddesdon Theological College as Vice-Principal in 1854. In 1864 he was appointed prebendary of Salisbury Cathedral, having previously been the Bishop's examining Chaplain. He was select preacher at Oxford University in 1863, 1870, 1877 and 1884. In 1866 he delivered his celebrated Bampton Lectures "On the Divinity of Jesus Christ." In 1870 he was made Canon Residentiary of St. Paul's Cathedral, an office which he had ever since retained. He was also, shortly afterward, made Ireland Professor of the Exegesis of the Holy Scripture in Oxford University. The degree of D.D. was conferred upon him at this time also. The professorship Canon Liddon was obliged to resign on account of ill-health in 1882. It is understood, also, that for the same reason he was obliged to refuse a bishopric more than once. Besides the Bampton Lectures, of which six editions have been printed in England, Canon Liddon was the author of "Walter Kerr Hamilton, Bishop of Salisbury," a sketch, reprinted, with additions and corrections, from the Guardian (1869); "Some Elements of Religion, Lent Lectures" (1870), of which there have been two editions, and "Sermons Preached Before the University of Oxford," the fifth edition of which was published in 1873. He also wrote a preface to an English translation of the German "Report of the Proceedings at the Reunion Conference held at Bonn, between the 10th and 16th of August, 1875." He edited, besides, Bishop Andrews' "Manual for the Sick," of which there were editions in 1869, 1870 and 1874, and in conjunction with Dr. William Bright, "English Church Defence Tracts" (1872).

WILLIAM N. SAGE, of Rochester, N. Y., died suddenly of heart disease at Cottage City, Mass., August 16, aged 71. Mr. Sage was at one time in the book and stationery business in Rochester. He was one of the trustees and President of the Safe Deposit Company, which was subsequently succeeded by the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Company; President of the Monroe County Savings Bank, and a trustee of the Hubbell Park Orphan Asylum. He served one term as County Clerk of Monroe County, from 1855 to 1858.

J. HOWARD RAIGUEL died at Milwaukee, Wis., August 15, of Bright's disease. He was originally from Philadelphia, but for eighteen years had been a resident of Milwaukee, and was for nine years connected with the bookselling and stationery firm of Des Forges & Co., of that city. He was highly thought of by those who knew him. The remains were taken to Philadelphia for interment.

MAJOR NATHAN C. KOUNS, author of the well-known books, "Arius the Libyan" and "Dorcas, the Daughter of Faustina," died September 2. He was 60 years of age, a lawyer, and served through the war as a Confederate soldier, rising to the rank of major.

GEORGE E. FRENCH, of Alexandria, Va., died August 18, aged sixty-seven. Since 1848 he had been one of the leading booksellers and stationers in Virginia.

WILMER JACKSON ENTWISLE died at Alexandria, Va., August 14, in the sixty-first year of his age. He was for many years in the book and stationery trade.

FRED WACHTER, of the firm of Wachter Bros., booksellers and stationers, Toledo, Ohio, died last month.

W. F. HUSEMAN, bookseller and stationer, Pittsburg, Ill., is dead.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

IBSEN's son, Dr. Sigurd Ibsen, is writing a book on the relations between Norway and Sweden.

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS expects to see the first volume of her life of her husband published about October 1. The subscribers for the work are said now to number more than 45,000.

THE biography of the late John Boyle O'Reilly will be written by James Jeffrey Roche, who has received the sanction of the family. Mr. Roche was for several years associated with Mr. O'Reilly as assistant in the conduct of the Boston Pilot, and has written verse himself.

MARY AGNES TINCKER, the novelist, is a Maine woman. She was born in 1833, and for some years was a teacher at Ellsworth. She finally became a Roman Catholic. At the age of about 35 she went to Rome, and has since that time made the Eternal City her home. She is the author of "Signor Monaldini's Niece," "By the Tiber," "The Jewel in the Lotus" and "Two Coronets."

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS chooses the titles of his novels from Shakespeare. "A Hazard of New Fortunes" comes from "King John," and "The Shadow of a Dream" from "Hamlet;" it was in "Hamlet," also, that he found his two titles, "The Undiscovered Country" and "A Counterfeit Presentment;" "Othello" gave him "A Foregone Conclusion;" Jaques in "As You Like It" gave "A Modern Instance," and "Two Gentlemen of Verona" supplied "A Woman's Reason."

IN October will be published two final volumes of Mr. Lecky's "History of England in the Eighteenth Century." As Mr. Lecky announced in his sixth volume, he has devoted the concluding portion of his work to a careful examination of one of the most critical and contested periods of Irish history. The recall of Lord Fitzwilliams, the extension of Irish conspiracy and its relations with France, the rise and influence of the Orange Association, the rebellion of 1798, the Legislative Union, and the failure of the measures of Catholic relief which Pitt intended to be the immediate sequel of the Union, are the chief subjects dealt with in these volumes. Mr. Lecky has had access to important manuscript materials—often of a most confidential character—which no previous historian has used, and which throw much new light on some portions of his subject.

A MAGNIFICENT tribute to the memory of John Boyle O'Reilly, poet and Irish patriot, found expression in a memorial meeting at the New York Metropolitan Opera House, on the evening of the 8th inst. The great auditorium was filled from the orchestra rail to the rear row of gallery seats, and the stage, set at its deepest, was also crowded. The assemblage was a distinguished one. In the main it was of Irish nativity or descent. The boxes were occupied largely by the clergy, though in many could be seen men prominent in business and the professions. Gov. Hill presided over the meeting. After music and singing, and the reading of an original poem on John Boyle O'Reilly by Joseph I. C. Clark, Judge James Fitzgerald delivered the eulogy. Gov. Leon Abbett also delivered a brief eulogy, and James R. O'Beirne offered an appropriate set of resolutions, which were adopted with loud acclamation.

MISS M. E. BRADDON writes to the Athenaeum of August 30: "Mr. William Cauldwell is the alleged editor and proprietor of the New York Mercury. Upo him therefore must fall the disgrace of knowingly attributing to my pen a book which I never wrote, and which he knows I never wrote. He has before now put my name to a story, well knowing at the time that I had nothing whatever to do with that story. I have patiently seen fifty novels of my writing reprinted in America without the slightest pecuniary advantage to me, but I feel constrained to protest against frittering away my name as a writer by giving it to stories I am known not to have written. I have just seen in the New York Mercury of August 10, 1890, the opening chapters of 'Tiger Head, or, the ghost of an avalanche. A romance of love and peril in Switzerland. By Miss M. E. Braddon.' Some years ago I produced a melodrama, entitled 'The Missing Witness,' which met with considerable favor from a Liverpool audience. A few copies of this play were printed for private circulation only, and it is doubtless from one of these copies, misappropriated by a literary hack, that the groundwork of Mr. Cauldwell's new and original copyright romance, 'by Miss M. E. Braddon,' has been stolen. The dishonesty of this method of fabricating literature is so glaring an example of the evil caused by the want of an international copyright that I feel myself justified in making this appeal to the English and American press." Mr. Cauldwell, in reply, says the novel was purchased from Henry L. Williams, then if not now in the employ of Mr. Maxwell, husband of 'Miss Braddon.' "Tiger Head," he adds, was based upon "The Missing Witness," but he believed that from certain circumstances and the internal evidence of the lady's literary style, which Mr. Williams adopted, as well as from the fact that he closely followed the language of the play, that he had Miss Braddon's permission to use the material, and that there would be no objection to presenting her name in connection with it. Mr. Cauldwell regrets that the line "Founded on the Drama of 'The Missing Witness'" was accidentally omitted.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

W: M. GRISWOLD, Cambridge, Mass., has issued "A Descriptive List of Novels and Tales dealing with American Country Life." It is the first of a series which is calculated to direct readers, "such as would enjoy the kind of books described, to a number of novels, easily obtainable, but which in many cases have been forgotten within a year or two after publication." It will be continued in a list descriptive of American city life, and with lists of "International" and romantic novels. Mr. Griswold's plan is to give title, author, publisher and year of publication, and to follow these data with a carefully selected critique from some literary review in good standing. The scene of the story is emphasized in bold type, and an index takes the searcher right to the desired locality. In families having access to a public library, this list ought to afford an answer to many troublesome questions about reading. Of all Mr. Griswold's valuable work this promises to be most useful to the general public.

F. VAN CROMBRUGGHE, Amsterdam, has just issued a limited edition of 100 copies on Holland paper and 900 on vellum of E. Crottet's "Supplément à la 5. édition du guide de l'amateur de livres à figures du xviii. siècle." This is practically a continuation of Cohen's work on so-called "livres à gravures." The author has added over 1000 corrections and new articles to Cohen's invaluable work for librarians, collectors and antiquarians. An author-index adds to the usefulness of the work, but the valuable index to artists, engravers, etchers, etc., which is one of the features of Cohen's "guide," has unfortunately been omitted.

THE "Guide-Book to Books," which Mr. Henry Frowde, London, will shortly publish is intended to give "the general reader" sound advice upon the best books in every department of knowledge. The total number of books recommended will be between five and six thousand. The compilers are Mr. E. B. Sargent and Mr. Bernhard Whishaw, who have secured the co-operation of a number of experts in various branches of knowledge.

JOHN EDMANDS, librarian of the Mercantile Library of Philadelphia, began in his July bulletin a noteworthy Junius bibliography, in two divisions. Editions of the letters; Publications about Junius. In both these classes, says Mr. Edmands, the Mercantile Library's collection is the largest in the country; but his indications are also for other American libraries and for the British Museum.

The Paper and Printing Trades Journal, published by The Leadenhall Press, London, in its issue for June, 1890, just received, prints an excellent list of "The Best Books on Printing and Journalism." The young book-maker will find the collection on the former subject of considerable help.

THE Duke of Connaught has accepted the dedication of Capt. C. A. Thimm's forthcoming work, entitled "A Complete Bibliography of the Art of Fence," already noticed in these columns.

WALDRON, MICH.—W. G. Boyde, bookseller, has been burned out. Loss covered by insurance.

PERSONAL NOTES.

We regret to hear that our old friend F. W. Robinson, of P. Blakiston, Son & Co., Philadelphia, is obliged, on account of ill health, to retire from the book business and to take up his permanent residence in California. Mr. Robinson, though still a young man, has given the best part of his life to the book trade, as a clerk and principal. He was a conscientious worker and deeply in love with the profession. We hope the change will fully restore his health.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. announce that owing to some difficulty that has arisen as to the appraisement the invoice of Underwood's "Korean Dictionary and Grammar" is detained at the Custom House.

MRS. MARAH ELLIS RYAN's novel, "In Love's Domain," recently published by Rand, McNally & Co., is meeting with remarkable success. The first edition is completely exhausted, although the book has been issued barely three weeks.

THOMAS WHITTAKER, N. Y., has just published The Bishop Paddock Lectures for this year, which were delivered by the Bishop-coadjutor of Fredrickton, New Brunswick. He has nearly ready "The Voices of the Psalms," by the Rt. Rev. W. Pakenham Walsh, D.D., author of "Heroes of the Mission Field."

THE HALL PHONOGRAPHIC COLLEGE CO. has just ready a new revised edition of Hall's "Mulum in Parvo" system of phonography, far more complete than the first edition, containing new principles and practical expedients, together with specimens of debates, law reports, etc., and specially designed for rapid and accurate work.

THE economical works of Professor Richard T. Ely are continuing to attract much attention, not only in this country, but abroad. Messrs. T. Y. Crowell & Co. announce that his "Labor Movement in America" has been brought out in England and that his "Taxation in American States and Cities" is being translated into German, while there is some talk of an edition in Italian.

STREET & SMITH, N. Y., have just ready No. 57 of their Select Series, entitled "Stepping-Stones," an affecting story by Marion Harland. In the same volume are also some delightful short stories by Virginia F. Townsend and Louise Chandler Moulton. No. 9 of their Manual Library, entitled "The Young Gymnast," contains many valuable hints in regard to physical training and the development of muscular strength.

JOEL MUNSELL'S SONS, Albany, N. Y., have nearly ready journals kept by Washington while on a surveying expedition for Lord Fairfax (1748), while conveying a letter from Gov. Dinwiddie to the commandant of the French forces at Fort Le Boeuf, near Lake Erie (1753), and while on a visit to Barbadoes (1751). They have been carefully edited, annotated and indexed by J. M. Toner, M.D. The volume is entitled "My Journey Over the Mountains," and is accompanied with fac-similes of Washington's drawings.

THE Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle will begin its fourteenth year of reading this fall, the course including English language, history and literature, geology and reading from French literature. Among the writers who will contribute the required readings are the historian Freeman, Profs. George P. Fisher, A. S. Hill, Alexander Winchell and H. A. Beers, Harriet P. Spofford and Methodist Bishop John F. Hurst. John Habberton is President of the new class, and one of the Vice-Presidents is Mrs. Helen Campbell.

GINN & Co. will publish this month "A Hygienic Physiology for the Use of Grammar and Common Schools," by B. F. Lincoln, M.D., late Secretary Medical Department of American Social Science Association, author of "School and Industrial Hygiene," etc. The chief object of this book is to present the laws of health as fully as pupils fourteen or fifteen years old can be expected to understand, appreciate and apply them. The distinctive feature of the work is thus its putting hygiene first and making anatomy and physiology tributary, instead of making anatomy and physiology the main things and introducing hygiene incidentally.

METHUEN & Co., London, will publish shortly "John Ruskin: his life and work," by W. G. Collingwood.

CASELL & Co. will publish at once a work on "London Street Arabs," by Mrs. H. M. Stanley (Dorothy Tennant).

DEAN & SON, London, have in preparation an English translation of the Duc de Morny's "Souvenirs of the Second Empire," which are expected to disclose much curious gossip.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. announce, as already in the press, "The Letters and Correspondence of John Henry Newman During His Life in the English Church," with a brief autobiographical memoir, arranged and edited, at Cardinal Newman's request, by the editor of the Letters of the Rev. J. B. Mozley.

MACMILLAN & Co. have in press a complete edition of the poems of Matthew Arnold in one volume, similar to their single-volume editions of Wordsworth and Tennyson, except that the text will not be printed in double columns. It will contain everything that is in the three-volume edition of 1885, together with the poem on "Kaiser," which subsequently appeared in the Fortnightly; and an "Horatian Echo," which, though written in 1847, was first published in the Hobby Horse in 1887.

MR. B. F. STEVENS, No. 4 Trafalgar Square, London, issues a supplemental prospectus of the "Fac-similes of Manuscripts Relating to America, from 1763 to 1783, in the Archives of England, France, Holland and Spain," of which the fifth volume, closing the first series, is now ready for delivery. The next five, it is announced, "will open the important correspondence from 1776 of the American Deputies in Paris, the diplomatic relations of France with the American, French, Dutch and Spanish officials, and much commercial and political intelligence from merchants and private parties concerning America and American affairs."

W. & R. CHAMBERS will publish next month "Josiah Mason: a biography, with sketches of the history of the steel pen and electro-plating trades," by Mr. J. Thackray Bunce, editor of the Birmingham Post. This memoir of the founder of the Mason Science College, and of the orphanage and almshouses at Erdington, was originally prepared at the request of Sir Josiah Mason's executors, for whom a small number of copies was privately printed. The materials were in a large degree obtained from Sir Josiah Mason himself, consisting partly of his own memoranda, and partly of notes, made by the author, of conversations held with him. It will now be given to the public for the first time, revised, partly rewritten and considerably expanded, the account of the steel pen and electro-plating trades having been added.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis, will find it to their advantage to put after their firm name the word [Cash.]

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

THE Stereotype Plates and Books, bound and unbound, of the firm of ROBERT CARTER & BROTHERS, are to be sold at auction by Bangs & Co., 739 Broadway, New York, commencing Tuesday, September 23, 1890, at 10 A.M.

To prepare for the sale, the business will be suspended from this date. The store will be kept open till near the time of the sale, that intending purchasers may have an opportunity to examine the books.

Among other plates to be sold are those of the celebrated A. L. O. E. books, 80 vols.; the works of Dr. Cuyler; Mrs. Drinkwater Conklin, 17 vols.; Jonathan Edwards, Miss Giberne, Dr. Guthrie, Dr. Hodge, Dr. McCosh, Dr. Green, Dr. Macduff, Dr. Newton, Ryle, Spurgeon, Miss Warner, as well as the "Bessie Books," the "Win and Wear" books, and many others. The Catalogue is now ready and can be had on application to the auctioneers.

The bound stock is unusually full and fresh, much of it having just come from the binder.

Among other items of bound stock there are:

130 Progress of Doctrine.
250 Ministering Children.
800 Light on Dark Clouds.
100 Empty Crib.
1355 Volumes Drinkwater Books.

WILL PUBLISH SATURDAY, SEPT. 20 :

OUR OLD HOME.

By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Large-paper edition, illustrated. Containing thirty-one photogravures of English scenery, country houses, churches, etc., with an etched portrait of Hawthorne for the frontispiece. Two volumes. Crown 8vo, bound in vellum, stamped in gold, $10.00, net.

"Our Old Home" is one of the most delightful of Hawthorne's works. He spoke of it as "representing to the American reader a few of the external aspects of English scenery and life, especially those that are touched with the antique charm to which our countrymen are more susceptible than are the people among whom it is of native growth." In this edition his charming descriptions are supplemented by excellent photogravures of persons, places and famous structures described, also by passages from his "English Note-Books."

The full-page plates are printed on India paper.

COME FORTH.

An Historical Novel by ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS and HERBERT D. WARD, authors of "The Master of the Magicians." $1.25.

This is a story of the time of Christ. Lazarus is the hero; several other New Testament characters are introduced; and the story, while true in spirit to the life and thought of the time and place and entirely reverent, is a striking love-story, likely to be widely popular.

THE LIFE OF DOROTHEA LYNDE DIX.

By FRANCIS TIFFANY. With a steel portrait. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

As the founder of vast and enduring institutions of mercy in America and in Europe, Miss Dix has no peer in the history of Protestantism. Mr. Tiffany tells her remarkable story with excellent judgment and skill.

- IV. A GOOD START; A Book for Young Men. Uniform with same author's "Talks with Young Men," etc., etc. 12mo, $1.25.

"These talks are direct, practical and pungent, such as young men like to hear. They will be invaluable to any young man, and all so plainly and forcibly told and so fully illustrated, that one can but pursue the reading of them to the end."—SPURGEON.

THE NEW (11th) VOLUME OF THE BOOK-LOVERS' LIBRARY.

- V. NEWSPAPER REPORTING IN OLDEN TIME AND TO-DAY. By JOHN PENDLETON. 12mo, cloth, uncut edges, $1.25.

This volume should be specially attractive to the book-lover, for it contains many references to ancient mss., to the literature of the past, to literary effort long before the time of the daily newspaper, and mentions the men who have been eminent in these departments of literature.

REV. DR. WM. M. TAYLOR'S NEW WORK ON THE MIRACLES.

In press. Uniform with same Author's "Parables of Our Saviour."

- VI. THE MIRACLES OF OUR SAVIOUR. Expounded and Illustrated. One volume, crown 8vo, cloth, about 500 pages, $1.75.

The success of Dr. Taylor's work on the parables, now in its 4th thousand, has led him to accede to the publishers' request to prepare this companion volume.

PORTER & COATES' NEW BOOKS.

The Handsomest Gift-Books of the Year.

PORTER & COATES' FLORENTINE EDITION.

ROMOLA.

By GEORGE ELLIOT.

From entirely new plates. Beautifully illustrated with sixty photogravures of views in Florence, sculpture, paintings, etc., with a portrait of George Elliot. In two volumes, small 8vo, gilt top. With slip covers in the Italian style, in cloth box, $6.00; half-crushed levant, gilt top, $12.00.

The large-paper edition of "Romola" is all sold, having received orders for the entire edition before publication.

GRACE AND PHILIP WHARTON'S WORKS.

QUEENS OF SOCIETY.

By GRACE AND PHILIP WHARTON.

New Library Edition. Beautifully illustrated with 18 photogravures. Tastefully bound in two volumes, cloth extra, $5.00; half calf, gilt top, $8.00. Large-paper edition of "Wits and Beaux" and "Queens," limited to 250 copies, in sets of 4 vols., $20.00.

This entertaining volume presents a gossiping biography of several of the celebrated women who have held a conspicuous place in society, either on account of intellectual endowments, personal attractions, peculiar culture and accomplishments, political connections or force of character. Among the distinguished names which are thus brought into fresh notice are those of the Duchess of Marlborough, Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, Lady Morgan, Lady Caroline Lamb, Miss Landon (the unfortunate L. E. L.), Madame de Staël, Madame Roland, Madame Récamier, and others, both of England and France.

WITS AND BEAUX OF SOCIETY.

By GRACE AND PHILIP WHARTON.

New Library Edition. Beautifully illustrated with 20 photogravures. Tastefully bound in two volumes. Small 8vo, cloth extra, $5.00; half calf, gilt top, $8.00.

This gossipy and pleasant book gives sketches of such men as George Villiers, the second Duke of Buckingham, with numerous anecdotes of his adventures; the celebrated Grammont and Rochester, wherein the author introduces some incidents in the lives of such people as Hortense Mancini, the little Jermyn, La Belle Hamilton, and other noted beauties of France and England; Beau Nash; Lord Hervey; Scarron, and here again of his wife; and so on of numerous worthies or unworthies, each and all of whom are more or less known to fame. The authors have a happy faculty of making their sketches light and pleasant, interspersing history and anecdote, personalities and public events; so that the book is much more interesting than a novel, and much better worth reading than any fiction.

Large-paper edition of "Wits and Beaux" and "Queens," limited to 250 copies, in sets of 4 vols., $20.00. Printed from entirely new plates; on paper made expressly for this book. Illustrated on India paper, mounted.

WORTHINGTON COMPANY'S

NEW AND STANDARD PUBLICATIONS.

FLIRT. By Paul Hervieu. Translated by Hugh Craig. With thirty-seven photogravure plates, after the original water-colors of Madeleine Lemaire. Nineteen head and tail pieces printed in color, and eighteen full-page illustrations. 1 vol., 4to, in portfolio, $6.00; or in cloth extra, $6.00. Mme. Madeleine Lemaire has surpassed herself in the designs she has prepared for "Flirt," the exquisite novel of Parisian life by Paul Hervieu, a singularly attractive story and very entertaining, of which the witty and wonderfully bright dialogues are especially delightful.

Wharton. (Grace and Philip). Wits and Beaus of Society. Ed. by Justin H. McCarthy, and illustrations by H. K. Browne and Godwin. In 2 vols., demy 8vo., English edition, 1890, $5.00; same in half morocco extra, $10.00.

Entertaining volumes on English and French society; a perfectly inexhaustible mine of anecdotes about Count Gramont, Rochester, Chesterfield, Abbé Scarron, Rochefoucault, St. Simon, Walpole, Selwyn, Beau Brummell, Duke of Buckingham, and others.

Wharton's The Queens of Society. Ed. by Justin H. McCarthy, and illustrations by G. A. Doyle. In 2 vols., demy 8vo., English edition, 1890, $5.00; same in half morocco extra, $10.00.

Delightful anecdotes and gossip about Duchesse of Marlborough, Mme. Roland, Lady Montague, Mme. de Sévigné, Mme. de Camille, Mme. de Staël, de Maintenon, and others.

Wilson's Nectes Ambrosianæ. By Prof. Wilson. Lockhart, Hogg, and Dr. Magin. With steel portraits and memoirs, annotated by R. S. Mackenzie. 8 vols., crown 8vo., including "Christopher North," a memoir of Prof. Wilson. By his daughter, Mrs. Gordon. Cloth, $9; half calf, $15.

One of the most curious works in the English language; a most singular and delightful outpouring of criticism, politics and descriptions of feeling, character and scenery, of verse and prose, of eloquence, and especially of wild fun. Professor Wilson is a writer of the most ardent and enthusiastic genius, whose eloquence is as the rush of mighty waters.

Napoleon. Memoirs of the Life, Exile and Conversations of the Emperor Napoleon. By the Count de Las Cases, with eight steel portraits, maps and illustrations. 4 vols., 12mo., cloth, $6.00; half calf extra, $12.00.

With his son the Count devoted himself at St. Helena to the care of the Emperor, and passed his evenings in recording his remarks.

Napoleon in Exile; or, A Voice from St. Helena. By Barry E. O'Meara, his late surgeon. Portrait of Napoleon, after Delacroix, and a view of St. Helena, both on steel. 2 vols., 12mo., cloth, $5.00; half calf extra, $6.00.

Mr. O'Meara's work contains a body of the most interesting and valuable information—information the accuracy of which stands unimpaired by any attacks made against its author.

Gray. The Works of Thomas Gray. In Prose and verse. Ed. by Edmund Gosse. With portraits, facsimiles, etc. 4 vols., crown 8vo., cloth, gilt top, $6.00; half calf, $12.00.

"Every lover of English literature will welcome the works of Gray, the author of the immortal 'Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard,' from the hands of an editor so accomplished as Mr. Gosse."—London Athenæum.

Browning, Elizabeth Barrett. Poems. With essay by Henry T. Tuckerman. 3 vols., 8vo., gilt tops, $6.35; half calf extra, $10.50. (Large type.)

Taine (H. A.) History of English Literature. Translated by H. Van Laun, with essay by R. H. Stoddard, and steel and photogravure portraits. Four handsome octavo volumes. Green or blue cloth, white labels, $7.50; or in half calf extra, $15.00. (Large type.) Same in two volumes, cloth, white label, $6.75; or in half calf extra, $7.50.

Picturesque Ireland. Descriptive and Historical. With fifty full-page engravings on steel from drawings by W. H. Bartlett, and an account of its cities, towns, mountains, waters, ancient monuments, and modern structures, by Markfield Addey. 2 vols., 4to, cloth extra, gilt edges, $10.00; or in half morocco extra, gilt edges, $20.00.

Only by a combination of both pen and pencil was it possible to give an idea of the beauty of Ireland, its marvellous lakes, mountains and valleys, romantic streams, mysterious round towers, Giant's Causeway, waterfalls, stately castles, magnificent religious and public edifices, etc.

Napier's Peninsular War. By W. F. P. Napier. With fifty-five maps, plans of battles, and five portraits on steel. 5 vols., 8vo., $7.50; half calf, $15.00. Acknowledged to be the most valuable record of that war which England waged against the power of Napoleon.

Cyclopedia of the Arts and Sciences. Botany, Zoology, Mineralogy, Geology, Astronomy, Geography, Mathematics, Mechanics, Electricity, Chemistry, etc. Illustrated with over 2000 wood-engravings. 1 vol., 4to, cloth extra, $6.00; sheep, $7.50; or in half morocco extra, $10.00.

A first-class book of reference; a library of popular scientific treatises, each one complete in itself, which places into the hands of the reader the means to procure for himself a thorough technical self education. The several topics are handled with a view to thorough instruction of these particular branches of knowledge, and all statements are precise and scientifically accurate.

"Handy in form, they are well printed from clear type, and are got up with much elegance; the etchings are full of humor and force. The reading public have reason to congratulate themselves that so neat, compact and well-arranged an edition of romances that can never die is put within their reach. The publishers have spared no pains with them."—Scotsman.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., Oct. 30, '80, [459.] This new edition is printed from new plates.

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud., now Mrs. Hungerford.] April's lady. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] 1+327 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 90.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Joyce Kavanagh was like an April day, "half tears, half smiles." She was a charming Irish girl, as witty as she was pretty. Her love affairs are told at length, and with all the Duchess' usual brightness.

Argles, Mrs. Marg., ["The Duchess," pseud., now Mrs. Hungerford.] April's lady. N. Y., G: Munro, [United States Book Co., 1890.] 2-327 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1363.) pap., 20 c.

Atherton, Gertrude Franklin. Los Cerritos: a romance of the modern time. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] c. 2-304 p. D. (American authors' ser., no. 12.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Los Cerritos is a tract of land, an abandoned ranch in southern California, upon which a number of poor white people and Mexican half-breeds have squatted, believing it to be government property. The crisis in the story comes when the owner, a wealthy Californian, endeavors to eject the squatters. Carmelita, the daughter of a bandit, is the heroine. She has been taught to read by the "padre," but is a child of nature absolutely ignorant of the world. She stirs up an intense hatred for the owner of the ranch, who comes among the people in disguise and wins Carmelita's heart before she finds out his true character. The story is idyllic in some parts, though exciting incidents are not wanting.

Ballard, Julia P. Among the moths and butterflies; a rev. and enl. ed. of "Insect lives; or, born in prison." N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1890. c. 31+237 p. il. O. cl., $1.50.

Ballou, Maturin M. Aztec land. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1890. c. 10+355 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Describes what the author saw in one of Raymond & Whitcomb's 10,000-mile excursions through Mexico. Mr. Ballou is an accomplished traveller, and on the alert for all that is novel. His views of the history of the country and his descriptions are extremely interesting. He found a great resemblance between Mexico and Egypt, and relates some plain truths about the exaggerations of the Spanish chronicles upon which Prescott so closely relied for his information, and shows how cruel, extortionate and debasing was the Spanish rule in Mexico for three hundred years. The book tells the story of Mexico from the Toltec period to the present day, exposing many popular fallacies relating to Cortez and his followers.

Africa returns to England and settles down with his twenty-year old daughter on a property an agent buys for him. His servants, his dinners, his entertainments are all planned by Allchere & Co., and all his domestic arrangements work automatically. He announces at once that he will give nothing in charity. His daughter tries to help a woman who has invented a machine which makes it possible to carry any weight without feeling it, and some fine descriptions of character are the outcome. At an election meeting it is discovered how Mr. Rapham made his money, and then follows the "parting of the ways."

Fenn, G. Manville. Eli's children: the chronicles of an unhappy family. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] 12+478 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 88.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Lawford, an out-of-the way village in Lincolnshire, is the scene. The story dates back some forty years. The incidents relate to the rector's family, the members of which all come to an unhappy ending. The rector is a pleasure-loving man, a type of clergyman now almost passed away.

Fiske, J. Civil government in the United States considered with some reference to its origins. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1890. c. 28+360 p. D. cl., net, $1.

Mr. Fiske aims to set forth the principles and methods of civil government as exemplified in the United States and in the several States. The book is primarily designed for school use, and its object is to give pupils a clear idea of the form and character of the government under which they live, its historical development, its mode of operation, and its political significance; and to inspire them with the intelligent loyalty and the sense of personal responsibility which will make them good citizens.

Gardiner, F. Aids to scripture study. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1890. c. 10+284 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author was professor in the Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Ct. His work is intended primarily for theological students. It is divided into two parts. Pt. 1, called "The preparation of the interpreter," contains chapters on General knowledge of the Scriptures, Geography and physical geography of Bible lands, General history of Scripture times, Archaeology and antiquities, Knowledge of natural science, The religious preparation of the interpreter, Knowledge of the original languages, Apparatus for textual criticism of the Old and New Testaments, Personal qualifications of the interpreter. Willingness to take trouble and judicial habit of mind, Common sense and sagacity, Reverence. Pt. 2, "The art of interpreting," contains The use of the general knowledge of the Bible, Knowledge of particular books, Geography, History, general and particular, Archaeology and antiquities, National science, The original languages and their immediate connection, Textual criticism, The interpreter at work.

Guyot, Arnold. The earth and man: lectures on comparative physical geography in its relation to the history of mankind, from the French, by C. C. Felton. New rev. ed. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1890. c. tr. 16+334 p. maps, il. D. cl., $1.75.

The present edition of this standard work is printed from new plates, and contains new maps and appendices, bringing in the most recent scientific data.

Hawthorne, Julian. Kildurms' oak; [also,] A strange friend. N. Y., Street & Smith, [1890.] c. 4-219 p. D. (Select ser., no. 58.) pap., 25 c.

Kildurms' oak grew from a bunch of acorns planted by a warrior's wife in the time of Elizabeth. All the traditions of the Kildurms tell of this oak as a banchee in the family. After nearly a thousand years its long history of buried treasure, secret alliance, murder and plot and counterplot is told by old Lady Mainwaring, eighty-nine years old, and of abnormal powers in comprehending spiritual phenomena. The second story, "A strange friend," is of the mysteries surrounding an adept in Indian mysticism.

House and pet dogs; their selection, care and training; with portraits of prize-winning specimens of all principal breeds. N. Y., Forest and Stream Pub. Co., 1890. c. 4-115 p. S. pap., 50 c.

The purpose is to supply hints and instruction concerning the care and management of house and pet dogs. What is written is the fruit of practical and extended experience with these classes of dogs. Several of the chapters have been written by a feminine pen, and will be especially valued by ladies.

Hughes, T. Alfred the Great. [New ed.] Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1890. 4-324 p. map, 1 il. D. cl., $1.

Jerome, Jerome K. Three men in a boat (to say nothing of the dog). N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1890.] 3-220 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1517.) pap., 20 c.

King, C. Campaigning with Crook, and stories of army life. N. Y., Harper, 1890. c. '80, '90. 6+295 p. por. il. D. cl., $1.25.

Captain King's record of personal reminiscences of the "Big Horn and Yellowstone expedition," under General Crook in 1876, is a story of stirring adventure and of much hard service. The narrative is related in a terse, straightforward style, and is a worthy addition to the literature of border warfare. The same volume contains also three short stories by Captain King, viz: "Captain Santa Claus," "The mystery of Mahbin Mill" and "Plodder's promotion."

Kipling, Rudyard. The story of the Gadsbys. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1890.] 2-173 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1499.) pap., n. p.

Korolenko, Vladimir. The blind musician; from the Russian, by W. Westall and Sergius Stepniak. N. Y., G. Munro, [United States Book Co., 1890.] 2-161 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1515.) pap., 20 c.

Lanza, Clara. (Marguire.) A modern marriage: a novel. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] c. 2-344 p. D. (American authors' ser., no. 8.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The author calls this "a study of contemporary manners." It tells of a wife apparently happily married who falls a victim to the wiles of a popular poet, who is both unprincipled and heartless. The scene is laid in New York. The ending carries its own moral.

Lawless, Emily. With Essex in Ireland: being extracts from a diary kept in Ireland during the year 1599 by H. Harvey, with a preface by J. Oliver Maddox, introd. and ed. by the Hon. Emily Lawless. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] 3-270 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 97.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

The author of "Hurrish" writes her story in admirable imitation of the elegant English of three centuries ago. The book has but a slight thread of romance connecting the accurate historical account of the unfortunate campaign of Lord Essex in Ireland. Gives a vivid sketch of Dublin Castle, and pictures of savage Irish warfare. The treatment of the supernatural is striking in its truth to the spirit of the time and its rare poetic beauty. W. E. H. Lecky in the Nineteenth Century has declared that the author is capable of doing for Irish history what Walter Scott did for his own country.

Norris, W. E. The baffled conspirators: a novel. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] 2+278 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 93.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Six English society men establish one evening a "Ba he ore" Mutual Aid and Protection Society. It is chiefly aimed against a rich and beautiful widow, the Lady Belvoir, who is also a heartless coquette. If any of the members feels inclined to propose to her, or any other woman, he agrees to place the matter before the society for consideration. If the society disapproves of the lady, he agrees to abstain from speaking or writing to her for six months. Many amusing complications arise from these restrictions, Lady Belvoir winning in the end.

Payn, Ja. The word and the will. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] 2-240 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 121.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Nachett-on-Sea, a little watering-place in the west of England, containing no men but the fishermen, the parson and the doctor, is the scene of this story of scheming and intrigue to keep a fortune from heirs who have the word but not the will to insure their rights. Four young girls are the chief characters, of which Hetty, a chronic invalid, always bright, interested and witty, is an original study. The possessor of the money is a hard, miserly man, who dies a horrible death. There is much true love that runs most uncomfortably.

Prudden, T. Mitchell, M.D. Dust and its dangers. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1890. c. 5+111 p. il. D. cl., 75 c.

Written with the purpose of informing people, in simple language, what the real danger is of acquiring serious disease, especially consumption, by means of dust-laden air, and how this danger may be avoided.

Reddall, H. F., comp. A pocket handbook of biography. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1890. c. 5-263 p. S. cl., 75 c.

Containing more than ten thousand names of celebrities in every sphere of human action, showing their nationality, rank or condition, profession or occupation, the dates of their birth and death, and effectually answering the frequent query, "Who was he?"

Richmond, Mrs. E. J. Aunt Chloe and her young friends. N. Y., Hunt & Eaton, 1890. c. 2-255 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Charles Phillips' father was an infidel; his mother a weak woman who feared to oppose him and teach her son even the elements of religion. During her last illness, Aunt Chloe, a warm-hearted, helpful Christian colored woman, is called in to help about the house, and she proves a source of blessing to all who come in contact with her.

Riddell, Mrs. J. H. Princess Sunshine; [also,] a terrible vengeance, etc. N. Y., J. W. Lovell Co., [United States Book Co., 1890.] 2+342 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 16.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

Ropes, Arthur Reed. A sketch of the history of Europe, chiefly international: from the beginning of the Roman empire to the present day. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., [1890.] 2+200 p. S. cl., $1.

A general sketch of the history of Europe as a system of states, from the time when the Roman Empire gave that history unity down to the present day. The author, from want of space, has confined himself chiefly to writing of transactions either international, in themselves, or having an important bearing on international affairs.

Schreber, D. G. R., M.D. Home exercise for health and cure; from the 23d German ed., by C. Russell Bardeen. Syracuse, N. Y., C. W. Bardeen, 1890. c. 4-91 p. S. (School bulletin pub.) cl., 50 c.

Whitby, Beatrice. Part of the property. N. Y., Appleton, 1890. 2-312 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 59.) cl. 75 c.; pap., 50 c.
The heroine is an orphan who has lived entirely, during the first eighteen years of her life, with her governess in a small English town. On her nineteenth birthday her grandfather, who has always provided for her, but never visited her, sends for her, to become an inmate of his elegant home. His right-hand man is his step-son Jocelyn, and it soon becomes apparent that he has plans for Margaret, his grandchild, in which Jocelyn is concerned. There is a love-story, which does not always run smoothly, misunderstandings and a tragedy.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 20-27, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE FALL TRADE.

THE Fall Announcement Number again foreshadows a brisk fall trade—the inevitable result of the energetic preparations of the publishers. These announcements tell of new books in all departments of literature. Perhaps the scales are a little more evenly balanced than last year, for while there does not appear to be so large a preponderance of new juvenile and gift-books and booklets, there is, on the other hand, a perceptible increase in special and general works on all live topics. The children and holiday buyers, however, will by no means suffer, for the reissues of the successful books of last season and the new books of this will keep the stock fully up to the needs of purchasers.

In buying stock, especially for the holiday trade, the bookseller needs to strike the happy medium between faith and fear. He should have on his shelves, when the holiday trade begins, full lines and a good supply of such books as his particular constituency is likely to buy, and yet he should use caution and not lay in stock of an ephemeral kind to such an extent that he will have to carry it over into next year. The interests of publishers and jobbers are at one with the bookseller's in holding him back from buying holiday stock that he cannot turn over this year, for it simply "balls" up his business, and locks up his capital, and so prevents sales next year, or worse still, drives him into insolvency. Therefore the holiday buyer should discriminate carefully, and look rather at the character of the goods than at the amount of the discount offered.

Nevertheless, we believe the enterprising retailer who buys carefully may lay in much larger stocks than usual this year, and make money. If his field is well cultivated, his customers' tastes studied and reasonably provided for, his store made attractive and well organized both for showing and selling goods, he should be in a position this year to come nearer making a living profit than he has been for some time past. Many elements that have militated against this consummation have been removed by the restriction of ruinous competition among the publishers of the cheaper lines of books, etc., so that if the bookseller will make the most of his field and his advantages, neither he nor the publisher will have need to complain of a dull fall season.

PRINTING is allowable on the wrappers of second-class matter, according to a decision of Attorney-General Miller, so far as to provide for a secondary delivery or other disposal of sample copies of the publication enclosed, if the party primarily addressed cannot be reached. The question arose in the case of a journal published at New York, and the decision holds that it is not unmailable as a second-class publication on account of having printed upon the wrappers of its "sample copies" an instruction to postmasters that "not called for by the party to whom addressed, postmaster please deliver to some local teacher." The Attorney-General holds that this superscription is fully warranted by the law, which provides that in all cases directions for transmitting, delivery, and forwarding or return, shall be deemed part of the address.

THE movement against the "discount system" in England is progressing. On the one hand, Mr. Stoot, of London, is active in strengthening the Booksellers' Union in its determination to discourage underselling. On the other hand, the publishers are beginning to issue books at net prices. Two instances were mentioned in the Pall Mall Gazette recently. Messrs. Longman have since followed suit by issuing their new and cheaper edition of Mrs. Jameson's works at 10s. per volume net.

SALESMEN are the most important of all young clerks, says a well known merchant. A good one will always increase your business, add to your profits, and be of the same service as a partner would have been. A poor salesman will drive away trade, and may ruin your prospects. Let "fancy" men severely alone. Avoid all "loud" fellows.

A NEW WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY.

NEARLY half a century ago the Merriam brothers (George and Charles), of Springfield, Mass., took up and carried forward the great work of Noah Webster. The son-in-law of Dr. Webster, Professor Chauncey A. Goodrich, who had previously superintended the preparation of an abridged edition of the original two quarto volumes, was entrusted with the work of revising and enlarging the last edition, issued three years before Dr. Webster's death—that is, in 1840—and the result was the publication, in 1847, of the first Unabridged Edition of Webster's Dictionary issued in one quarto volume. The work was the marvel of bookmaking in its day as well as of cheapness—Webster's Dictionary having before that sold at $15 to $20, while this was issued at $6—and was received with general favor.

While every subsequent issue came forth with some improvement, it was not until 1864 that the enterprising firm of G. & C. Merriam & Co. (which in the meantime had grown, as well as their book) put forth a dictionary in which the more scientific principles of modern lexicography were applied, and a large store of additional matter, partly gleaned from old authorities and partly afforded by the world's advance, was included. Since that time supplements of new words, and other material of substantial value, have been added, greatly increasing the usefulness of the work.

This is now about to be superseded by a work which will embody substantially the amplification and enrichment of the language during the past quarter of a century, as it has been noted by a wide and close scrutiny, and registered by scientific methods, with scholarly conscientiousness and vast labor. This new work is entitled, "Webster's International Dictionary of the English Language." It was considered pertinent in making the modification of the original title, by omitting the old form "An American Dictionary," to recognize the fact that the language of the mother country now encircles the globe; that the literature of all of its branches is the common possession of all, and that any complete dictionary of this language must be so comprehensive in its scope, and at the same time so true to those canons of the best usage which are everywhere acknowledged, that it shall be serviceable to the inhabitants of Great Britain, of the United States, of Canada, of Australia and to the English-speaking population of India and of Africa.

Though retaining in general the features of the former issues, "Webster's International Dictionary" is essentially a new book. For ten years Prof. Noah Porter, of Yale College, in collaboration with a large corps of experts and scholars, has been busy in compiling and preparing the material for this book. A close comparison has been made with a whole library of the most recent authoritative works (aggregating two thousand authors) in philology and in all branches of knowledge that include new usages of speech. Upon technical subjects eminent specialists have been employed, and their contributions have been carefully harmonized in form with the general principles of the revision. Great care has been devoted to the pictorial illustrations; the number has been increased from three thousand to nearly four thousand, and about two-thirds of them are entirely new. There have been eliminations of many errors, large amplification and enriching by new material, and a judicious conservatism toward those excellent definitions of standard words which were Dr. Webster's especial merit. Some increase of the amount of matter in the book was inevitable; it is partly represented by the slightly enlarged page and the greater number of pages. But increase of size, the publishers assert, has not been sought, and the difference in bulk between the forthcoming volume and its predecessor hardly begins to measure the difference in value. A comparison of the two in any part, page by page, will reveal how frequent are the changes, and how great is the improvement, better than can be done by an article of so restricted scope as the present.

As a comprehensive popular dictionary we are confident that "Webster's International" is worthy to retain that pre-eminence which has so long been held by "Webster's Unabridged." It embodies the ripest results of modern philology, in the degree and form appropriate to a work of its class. It is neither a library nor an encyclopædia, but it is a dictionary, designed to meet the every-day needs of all who write or speak the English tongue. It retains that excellence in definitions which has made Webster's one of the popular and familiar authorities for reference. In etymology, pronunciation, citation, pictorial illustrations, it carries to greater perfection the merits of its predecessor. It adequately represents the vast and various advances in all the departments of thought and knowledge in recent years.

With what liberal expenditure of time and toil and money this duty to scholarship and to the public has been performed, partly appears in the following statements made by the publishers:

"Work having direct specific reference to the publication of this Dictionary has been in progress for over ten years.

"The staff of paid editorial laborers has numbered not less than one hundred persons. Besides these, a large number of interested scholars have freely contributed in important ways to its completeness and value.

"Within the ten years that the work has been in progress, and before the first copy was printed, more than three hundred thousand dollars was expended in editing, illustrating, typesetting, and electrotyping." Curiously enough this figure represents about the sum the Merriams have paid up to the present time to the heirs of the founder of this magnificent work.

JAMES R. OSGOOD, McILVAINE & CO.

From Harper's Weekly, Sept. 27.

THE recent publishing relations between England and the United States are more intimate than ever. The familiar names of English publishing houses are seen in New York, and American houses are extending their domain beyond the sea. In England this movement began really with the publication of the American illustrated popular magazines, which was both a surprise and delight to the English public. Ten years ago Harper's Magazine gave the English reader a new literary pleasure, as thirty years before it had given the same pleasure to Americans. The Magazine is coeval with the astonishing growth and development of the modern art of wood-engraving, and its steady prosperity in England as well as in America is a signal tribute to its essentially popular character.

Among the significant signs of this situation is the appearance of the new publishing firm of James R. Osgood, McIlvaine & Co., which will shortly be established in Albemarle Street, London. It will represent Messrs. Harper & Brothers, and will have charge of the interests of the house in England, but not to the exclusion of the most amicable relations with other American publishing houses, while, of course, it will cultivate the friendship of English and American authors. For nearly half a century the eminent house of Sampson Low, Marston & Co. was the English intermediary of the house of Harper, and their name will continue for awhile to be identified with the London issue of the Magazine. But the changes of later years have made different but perfectly amicable arrangements desirable, and the Magazine will therefore in a few months pass over to the new house, which has been established with this end in view, as well as to meet the growing requirements of the situation.

James R. Osgood, the head of the new firm, is a name of the pleasantest association in the publishing world, with which he has long been identified. His personal and business relations have brought him into close and most agreeable connection with many of the foremost American and English authors of this generation—Emerson, Dickens, Hawthorne, Tennyson, Longfellow, Thackeray, Bryant, Browning, Whittier, Holmes, Lowell, Mrs. Stowe, Charles Kingsley, Bayard Taylor, Bret Harte, Howells, Charles Reade, Aldrich, Warner. For four years Mr. Osgood has resided in London as the representative of the Harpers, and we but repeat the universal verdict in saying that he has made the happiest impression in all business and social relations. It would be difficult to find a man more singularly adapted for the headship of the new house than Mr. Osgood, or one more admirably qualified to be his active associate than Mr. Clarence W. McIlvaine, a gentleman who has been for several years in the employment of Harper & Brothers and who is amply possessed of those literary tastes, accomplishments and experience which are now characteristic of eminent publishers. The convenience of such an arrangement, by which authors on both sides of the Atlantic can deal immediately with publishing principals, is obvious, and we trust that the establishment of the firm of James R. Osgood, McIlvaine & Co. will tend to promote still closer and more friendly connections between authors and publishers both in England and America.

It may be added that the English edition of the popular American juvenile periodical, Harper's Young People, which Mr. Gladstone recently so emphatically endorsed, will remain in the hands of Messrs. Sampson Low & Co.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE.

From the Nation.

"THE new volume of the 'American Catalogue' will cover the period July 1, 1884, to June 30, 1890. The edition will be 1250 copies only, and there will be no reissue. . . . This work is indispensable to the bookstore or library. About 100 copies each remain of the Subject Catalogue of 1876 . . . and of the Catalogue of 1876-84." So reads the advertisement of this enterprise, whose publication office is 330 Pearl Street, N. Y., in the new issue of the "Publishers' Trade-List Annual." Nothing is more sure than that the "American Catalogue" will become a scarce work, and that many a library, public and private, will deplore the lack of it when too late. If its deserts as a national work of which we should be proud, or as a useful book of reference in any cultivated home, were understood, an edition three times as large would be in request. Of the "Trade-List Annual" we need say nothing further than that for the eighteenth time the publishers of the United States bind their catalogues together and sell the collection for a sum which hardly exceeds the cost of binding.

REPORTING—AS SHE IS DONE.

STOLE A RELIGIOUS BOOK.

Then the Thieves Walked Along Broadway Reading It.

It took seven witnesses in Judge Fitzgerald's court yesterday to tell the tale of the stealing of a book worth $1.50 from the Truth Seeker Company, at No. 78 Lafayette Place, on Aug. 15. Henry Clinton and James Smith were on trial for the larceny of the book. According to the evidence, Clinton came into the store and asked for "Pequid's Life of Christ." While the clerk was industriously searching for this book, which is a rare English publication, Clinton became interested in another religious book, "Gibbon's History of Christianity and Missions," and while the back of the clerk was turned walked out with it under his arm.

Outside Smith joined him, and while they were walking along Broadway, and Clinton was reading a portion of the book to Mr. Smith, showing him how to lead a simple Christian life, Policemen Sullivan arrested them. During the trial it was shown by a Mr. Bowden, a brother bookseller, that the two defendants were hovering around his religious bookstore on Astor Place, and, suspecting them of felonious designs, he had them arrested.

The prisoners did not take the witness-stand and the jury promptly convicted them. Judge Fitzgerald sentenced Clinton to a year in the Penitentiary and remanded Smith until he could learn something about him. —New York World Report, Sept. 5, 1890.

To an outsider, the above report of a case recently tried at General Sessions, in New York, appears all right. To a bookseller, however, or to a person who was at the trial, it presents a picture of mingled ignorance, carelessness and sheer invention that reflects little credit upon the journal which printed the item. In the first place, but four witnesses were called, and but three examined. Clinton did not ask for "Pequid's," but "Fleetwood's Life of Christ." It is by no means a "rare" English publication. The two prisoners did not, during the whole time the books were in their possession, read any portion of them, nor was any evidence given to show that they did. Mr. Bowden does not keep a "religious" bookstore on Astor Place; nor did he, or other witnesses, give that character to his place. We think the reporter stands in as much need as Messrs. Clinton and Smith of some instruction whereby he, avoiding such garbled reports, may be induced to lead "a simple Christian life." Clinton, by the way, has been previously convicted of stealing books.

A RISING AUTHOR.—"Skimble complains that he doesn't sleep well in the mornings now." "Yes, I know; it's his book." "His book! What do you mean?" "He's just published a book, you know; and now he's practising waking in the morning and finding himself famous."—N. Y. Sun.

COMMUNICATIONS.

CHEAP EDITIONS OF DICKENS AND THACKERAY.

NEW YORK, September 10, 1890.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: In your issue of August 30, you state that the New York Tribune pertinently asks why some American publisher does not bring out the works of Thackeray and Dickens in large type and paper covers in cheap form.

This has been done for several years by the John W. Lovell Co. It is possible to obtain any work of Dickens or Thackeray at prices ranging from ten to twenty cents per volume. For instance: "Oliver Twist," a book of four hundred and nine pages, retails for twenty cents. It is set in long primer, which is certainly a sufficiently large type for even old eyes, and is carefully printed on a good quality of paper.

Twenty pages of Dickens for one cent it seems to us, is about as cheap reading as even the poor man could ask for. Thirty-two volumes of Dickens are available at these nominal prices, and thirty-one of Thackeray, being the complete works of these authors.

Yours very truly,

UNITED STATES BOOK CO.

KIPLING'S "BOOK OF THE FORTY-FIVE MORNINGS"

EMBANKMENT CHAMBERS, September. 9.

To Messrs. Macmillan & Co.

DEAR SIR: With reference to the statement contained in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of Aug. 23, I write to say that the only arrangements I have made or shall make for the publication of my "Book of the Forty-five Mornings" are with your House.

I have not given my sanction to any edition of the book to be "published" by Messrs. John W. Lovell Co., nor has that firm paid me any royalties on account of that work.

Sincerely,

(Signed) RUDYARD KIPLING.

NEW YORK, September 25, 1890.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Several months before Kipling's "Plain Tales from the Hills" appeared in England, from the presses of Messrs. Macmillan & Co., the work was issued by us in this country from the original copy printed in India, and supplied to us by Mr. Kipling personally, to whom we paid a sum which was mutually agreed upon.

The results were satisfactory, and we again made arrangements for the publication of "Soldiers Three, and other stories," which was also printed from copy supplied by Mr. Kipling, and which contained his authorization and acknowledgment of moneys received.

"Soldiers Three" was followed by "The Phantom Rickshaw," and this in turn by "The Story of the Gadsbys."

Our English representative was given to understand that the amicable and remunerative relations of the past would continue in regard to "The Book of the Forty-five Mornings." We quote from his letter to us, under date of June 23 last, as follows:

"I have Mr. Kipling's authorization for the issue of 'The Gadsbys,' and am cabling you to that effect in order that you may get it out immediately. I have secured his 'Book of the Forty-five Mornings,' to issue in September, as you will see from the list."

This seemed to us quite sufficient authority for the advance notices which we published. By this time, however, Mr. Kipling's English publishers evidently had awakened to the fact that the young writer's popularity in America probably exceeded that in England, and, although it had been due to our efforts that the whole country had been supplied promptly with the works of this popular writer at popular prices, his last collection of stories was demanded for America by them.

The authorization, therefore, for the works of Kipling which have been issued heretofore in America belongs by right and by agreement to the John W. Lovell Co., and to ourselves as their successors, alone; and whatever may be the claims of others upon the English market, the American market certainly belongs to us, as the preceding statements and the fact that we have Mr. Kipling's personal copy of his works plainly shows.

It was a great surprise to our English representative, as well as to ourselves, when it was discovered that Mr. Kipling's literary agent, in making contract for the English publication of his last work, included the American rights, which certainly belonged to us by courtesy of the prior publication of previous works, if not in justice to our efforts to make the American market remunerative to Mr. Kipling.

UNITED STATES BOOK COMPANY,

by JOHN W. LOVELL, Vice-President.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

EDWARD E. HALE and Frederick E. Goodrich have taken editorial charge of the Boston Commonwealth.

PROF. G. H. DARWIN, of Cambridge, England, one of the great Darwin's very able sons, will print in the October Century what is said to be one of the most important scientific papers that has appeared of late years. The subject is "Meteorites and the History of Stellar Systems," and in this essay Prof. Darwin attempts, in an original and novel manner, to reconcile the nebular hypothesis and the meteoric theory. Though dealing with a subject both abstruse and highly speculative, Prof. Darwin expresses himself with great simplicity and clearness.

The Monist is the title of a new quarterly magazine to be published next month by "The Open Court" Publishing Company of Chicago. The magazine will be devoted to the establishment and illustration of the principles of Monism in Philosophy, Exact Science, Religion and Sociology. So far as the fulfilment of this aim will allow, it will bear a popular character; publishing articles of general interest as well as those of a more special character. Among the contributors will be Professor Joseph Le Conte, W. James, Charles S. Pierce, G. L. Romanes, E. D. Cope, Max Müller, Ernst Hæckel, Th. Ribot and others.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

PROFESSOR A. S. HARDY has returned from Japan, where he went to collect material for a biography of the late Joseph Neesima, founder of Neesima University.

RICHARD MANSFIELD, the well-known actor, has also made his mark as a musician; he is about to publish a large volume of songs written and composed by himself.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

JOHN WILEY & SONS have just published Ingalls' "Problems in Direct Fire," which is, we understand, the first book of its kind ever published in any language.

N. D. C. HODGES, 47 Lafayette Place, N. Y., has just issued "Races and Peoples," by Dr. Daniel G. Brinton; and next month he will publish "The Time Relations of Mental Phenomena," by Prof. Joseph Jastrow.

"THE PAINTER POETS," edited by Kineton Parkes, is now ready in the Conterbury Poets Series, published in this country by A. Lovell. It consists of selections from the poems of notable painters and sculptors on artistic themes.

CHARLES H. SERGEL & Co. announce for immediate publication a new book by Count Leo Tolstoi, entitled "Toil." The eminent author has joined with himself as collaborator an obscure and unlettered Russian peasant, Timothee Boudareff.

THE Regular Fall Parcel Sale will be held at Bangs & Co.'s auction rooms, 739 Broadway, N. Y., on Tuesday, October 23, and following days. Invoices should be sent by October 11 at the latest, at which time the catalogue must go to press.

THE PATRIOTIC PUB. CO., 334 Dearborn St., Chicago, will publish early next month an account by Rev. Calvin Fairbank, one of the old anti-slavery heroes, of some of the incidents in his career during the exciting years preceding the war. Mr. Fairbank is still living at Angelica, N. Y.

M. HEROLD, Artist Penman, Cincinnati, O., will publish early in November "Calligraphic Mementoes of Shakespeare," a work which he has been engaged upon for some years. It has been done entirely with a pen, and will be reproduced by photo-lithography. The book will contain 25 leaves 10 x 15 inches.

JOHN P. MORTON & Co., Louisville, Ky., will shortly publish, by subscription, a limited edition of a collection of the poems of the late Mrs. Clara L. McIlvain, a talented writer, whose initials "C. L. M." will be remembered as being connected with some remarkably fine contributions to the press of this country. The volume has been prepared by Mrs. L. M. Moore, and will be entitled "Echoes of the Past."

CALLAGHAN & Co., Chicago, Ill., have just issued a new and complete American treatise on the law of Defamation, Slander and Libel in civil and criminal cases, as administered in the courts of the United States, prepared by Martin L. Newell. The law is stated in sections, with the authorities cited placed in foot-notes. Following these sections are other sections in which are given illustrations of the text, first from American cases and second from English cases.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. announce that Professor Richard T. Ely, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, is engaged in the preparation of a work on Socialism to be published by them during the coming year. It will show the nature of Socialism, its strength and weakness, and contain also a discussion of Nationalism. All who follow the trend of modern thought in relation to these subjects will await Professor Ely's book with much interest.

SARGENT'S "Reading for the Young" has just been brought out by the Publishing Section of the American Library Association in a neat octavo volume of 121 pages. It is to be sold in single copies for $1 in cloth, or 75 cents in paper. Descriptive circulars, with specimen pages and wholesale prices, will be sent to any address on application to the Library Bureau, 146 Franklin St., Boston. The wholesale prices are very liberal, the price for one hundred copies being only 25 cents per copy. This will no doubt prove a useful book to bookellers as well as a profitable one to handle.

THE HAHNEMANN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Philadelphia, will publish in October "A Characteristic Materia Medica of the Urine and Urinary Organs," by Dr. Wm. D. Gentry, which will form the first part of "The Rubrical and Regional Text-Book of the Homoeopathic Materia Medica," prepared by Dr. Gentry. In November they will publish an enlarged edition of "Boenninghausen's Therapeutic Pocket-Book," revised by Dr. T. F. Allen. They have just ready an American edition of Dr. E. B. Shuddham's work on "The Health of the Skin," with a chapter on the chief skin remedies, a little work admirably adapted for the laity.

FUNK & WAGNALLS have arranged for the authorized publication of Edwin Arnold's long-heralded new poem, "The Light of the World." They print it from the manuscript, and will issue it in this country before its publication in England or elsewhere. In the poem Christ is presented as the Light of the World, as Arnold, in his previous poem, presented Buddha as the Light of Asia. To better fit him for his work, the author made the Orient his home for many months, studying the philosophies, habits of thought and the religious temperament of the people in the East. Mr. Arnold regards this poem as his most elaborate and best work. The American edition will be issued the latter part of October.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready the seventh edition of "Da Costa's Medical Diagnosis." The work has undergone a thorough revision at the hands of its author, and many chapters have been entirely rewritten. A number of wood-cuts are included, especially of such micro-organisms as have proved to be of practical significance in diagnosis. All the illustrations are original, and many are from sketches, or based on sketches, taken directly from cases of interest. Another valuable book just issued by J. B. Lippincott Company is Prof. Garretson's "Treatise on the Diseases and Surgery of the Mouth, Jaws, Face, Teeth and associate parts." Upon the appearance of the first edition, many years ago, it became one of the leading text-books on the subject. Much important matter has been added to the new edition, together with numerous illustrations, which greatly increase its value to dentists, surgeons and physicians.

FREDERICK KEPPEL & Co., 30 E. 16th St., N. Y., have just published the "Chandos" portrait of Shakespeare, etched by Léopold Flameng. The etching is the same size as the celebrated painting formerly owned by the Duke of Chandos, but now the property of the British nation. It represents the head and bust of the poet in life-size, and enclosed in an oval. As to the quality of the etching, it is sufficient to say that every line of it is the work of Léopold Flameng. The importance of the subject seems to have inspired him, so that this plate is quite as masterly as the one which recently won for him that highest distinction within the reach of artists, the Grande Médaille d'honneur of the Paris Salon. It is in four editions: 150 signed "remarque" proofs on vellum with portraits of David Garrick and Edwin Booth; 100 signed "remarque" proofs on Japan paper; 250 signed artist's proofs on Holland paper; and lettered prints on India paper. The prices range from $75 to $12.

THE Dutch Booksellers' Association will, in 1892, celebrate the seventy-fifth year of their existence by holding an exhibition of books, printing, lithography, binding and other appurtenances of the trade. Foreign exhibitors will be invited to contribute.

MR. GLADSTONE's new book, entitled "Landmarks of Homeric Study," will be issued immediately by Macmillan & Co. The author says in a recent letter: "Please to bear in mind that this little book was planned for America. The form of it seemed to me more suited for an American public."

LONGMANS & Co. are to publish shortly a small volume by the late Dr. Edersheim, containing a collection of aphorisms and criticisms, something after the manner of "Guesses at Truth." The volume will appear under the name by which Dr. Edersheim himself always used to refer to it, Toku-sa Foku ("Without Form and Void").

LIBRARIANS may be interested to hear that Petzholdt's well-known "Katechismus der Bibliothekskunde" will shortly be published at Leipzig in a revised and enlarged edition, under the title of "Grundzüge der Bibliothekskunde mit Bibliographischen und Erläuternden Anmerkungen," by Dr. A. Gräsel, the Custos of the University Library of Halle-on-the-Saale.

SWAN SONNENSCHN & Co., London, have in preparation a translation of Professor Seyffert's well-known "Dictionary of Classical Mythology, Religion, Literature, Art and Archaeology," edited by Professor Nettleship, of Oxford, and Professor Sandys, of Cambridge. The English edition will contain more than 100 new cuts, and it is expected to be ready early in November.

QUEEN VICTORIA is on the eve of publishing another book. It consists of letters written by her husband, the late Prince Consort, to the late Emperor William (then Prince Regent of Prussia) and to the Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha. The Prince Consort wrote so confidentially to these two personages that his letters would require considerable revision, as his strictures upon public men were often very severe.

THE first volume of the famous Talleyrand Memoirs, about which so much curiosity is felt, will be published, it is now expected, some time in January. The other four volumes will follow as rapidly as they can be edited. The Century Magazine of New York has secured the right to publish extracts from the manuscripts to be embraced in each volume in advance of the publication here in book form. The extracts will be selected and edited for the Century by the Hon. Whitelaw Reid, Minister to France.

THE inaugural dinner of the recently formed London Booksellers' Society will take place on October 2 at the Holborn Restaurant, London. In the "rules" of the Society the most important item states that the main object is to restrict the discount to purchasers of books to 25 per cent.; so the long discussed question of 3d. in the shilling is practically settled. "It is difficult to see," says the Athenaeum, "how more than this allowance could be given, as in many cases by this concession the bookseller is actually out of pocket."

BERNARD QUARITCH, London, proposes to publish "The Saga Library," edited by William Morris in conjunction with Eirikr Magnusson. It will consist of a series of translations of Icelandic works of the thirteenth and first part of the fourteenth centuries. He also announces "The First Half-Century of the Latin Bible," a bibliography for the period 1450-1500, by W. A. Copinger; and a volume entitled "Smokiana," to be made up of fifty sketches, printed in colors, of the pipes and styles of smoking of all civilized and uncivilized nations, the text of which has been prepared by Mr. R. T. Prichett.

G. HEDELER, Leipzig, has just issued the first part of "Gesetze über das Urheberrecht im In- und Ausland, nebst den Internationalen Literaturverträgen und den Bestimmungen über das Verlagsrecht" (a collection of all the existing copyright laws and treaties). The part now ready contains the laws of Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States. This collection contains the exact text of the German, and in the case of other countries a literal translation, so far as practicable, of the enactments, and excludes all obsolete matter. It will be found useful for countries other than America and England, for which countries adequate works on the subject already exist.

THE Pure Literature Association, whose object is to translate light, wholesome literature into the vernaculars of India and to sell it at low rates to the natives, proposes to put upon the market an edition of Dickens, beginning with "Pickwick." The Athenaeum feels that the society is contemplating an almost impossible task in too light-hearted a spirit. "Imagine the poor Indian ryot brooding over the vagaries of Daniel Quilp or Sarah Gamp! Does the society accept the responsibility of intruding on Hindu mythology new and eccentric incarnations of Vishnu and of the goddess Kali?" There are one or two Non-conformist ministers on the committee who are dismayed at the idea of introducing a Mr. Stiggins to the Indian public.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, will publish this fall "Gypsy Sorcery and Fortune Telling," by Charles Godfrey Leland ("Hans Breitmann"). This volume is one of the most important contributions of late years to the study of folk-lore, and is drawn from the most interesting and curious sources, setting forth the magical practices of the Romany in different countries, and their strange beliefs. It discusses fully the puzzling question of their relationship to Shamanism, and deals with the many problems of occultism and the origin of supernatural belief. He will issue in his Adventure Series published in this country by Macmillan & Co., "The Buccaneers and Marooners of America," an account of famous adventures by freebooters on the Spanish Main, edited by Howard Pyle, the well-known author and artist.

DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARY OF THE FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

THE descriptive summary which here follows presents as usual, in its alphabetical arrangement by publishers, a survey of the entire field, so far as the necessary information is at hand. Other books, not yet fully determined upon, will find mention in subsequent issues. In our announcement lists proper, the books will be found arranged by classes, while the advertising pages will afford further detailed information as to prices, sizes, styles, etc.

THE AMERICAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION announce a new edition of the late Dr. Newton's "Illustrated Rambles in Bible Lands;" "Aimée's Marriage," by an author shrouded by the initials P. H. C., in telling an exciting story of the difficulties and intrigues arising from the marriage of a Protestant to a Roman Catholic, and the efforts of priests and their devotees to make converts; "Rudolph of Rosenfeldt; or, the Leaven of the Reformation," by John W. Spear, picturing the horrors of the Inquisition; and short stories in paper covers to be sold in sets to Sunday-schools, of which "It was the Cat," now ready, teaches the folly of blaming others for our faults; and "Golden Bells and Pomegranates" inculcates the duty of Christians to be amiable and cheerful. The Golden Text-Book for 1891 will be ready to be studied in connection with the "International Sunday-School Lessons;" and there will be many volumes for Sunday-school libraries, titles of which are classified in this issue, under the heading of Juvenile Literature.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY have in press "The Pastor Amidst His Flock," by Prof. G. B. Willcox, of the Chicago Theological Seminary, a volume of practical suggestions on the whole range of pastoral duties; "Prayer as a Theory and a Fact," by Rev. D. W. Faunce, a treatise which received the Dartmouth premium for 1889; "Seven Years in Ceylon," stories of mission life by Mary and Margaret W. Leitch, with portraits and illustrations; and "Social and Religious Life in the Orient," by K. H. Bauman, a native artist of Turkey and Armenia, who will give pictures of social, political and religious life in the part of the East he has chosen to describe. A class-book for students by an experienced teacher will be "Biblical History and Geography," by H. S. Osborn; "God's Jewels," by Rev. W. Y. Fullerton, will give facts concerning the principal known gems, which are applied to illustrate Christian character; and a translation of the "Bible Dictionary" published by this firm into the Spanish language will be an important addition to Spanish theological works. For the young there will also be several books, full titles of which appear in the classified list preceding this department under the heading of Juvenile Literature. There are also several little novelties and souvenirs planned for the holidays, of which the titles appear in same list under the heading of Birthday-Books, Bible Text-Books, Souvenirs, Calendars, etc.

D. APPLETON & CO. have under way and well advanced the third volume of McMaster's "History of the People of the United States," which is now promised for this winter. This part of the great work will cover the history from the Louisiana purchase to a consideration of the political and economic effects of the War of 1812. The 7th and 8th or concluding volumes of W. E. H. Lecky's "History of England in the Eighteenth Century" will also be out, covering the period from the Irish Parliament of 1793 to the close of the century. History and biography will meet in "Blumarch in Private Life," the work of a fellow-student, dealing with the great man's school-days and home life, his life on his estate, and his experience in campaigns and with his admirers. No attempt is made to estimate Blumarch the statesman or his work for German unity. Several portraits will illustrate the text. An important work of fiction will be a translation of Phillip Gaspé's "Les Anciens Canadiens," translated by Charles G. D. Roberts, an historical romance of Canada which is said to be written by a writer gifted with the spirit of Fenimore Cooper; and "The Life of an Artist" by Jules Breton, will be translated by Mary J. Serrano. The house this year intends to make a feature of fiction for young people, and is making preparations to bring out books designed for readers between the ages of twelve and seventeen, and made attractive by lavish illustration. The first announcement for this series is William O. Stoddard's "Crowded Out o' Crofield," illustrated by C. T. Hill, the story which has been a great attraction to the young readers of St. Nicholas, who have breathlessly followed the many incidents in the life of the country boy who made his way in the face of much opposition. This will be followed by "We All," by Octave Thanet, a stirring tale of hunting and adventure in a wild country; and "King Tom and the Runaways," in which Louis Pendleton tells the strange experiences of two boys in the forests and swamps of Georgia, and E. W. Kemble illustrates the inspiring text. There is also to be a series of stories of brave deeds of midshipmen and junior officers in our naval wars, which will be called Young Heroes of Our Navy, and must appeal to the patriotism of every American boy and girl. The first volume will be "Little Jarvis," by Mollie Elliott Seawell; another of "Throckmorton," the second of the Youth's Companion prize stories, telling of the heroic midshipman of the frigate Constellation, which will be illustrated by J. O. Davidson and Alfred Brennan. This will be followed by stories of Captains Lawrence, Captain Paulding and other heroes of our navy whose historic deeds began in early youth.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON announce several new works in their special field of theological publications. They will issue immediately the fifth and sixth volumes of The Expositor's Bible, devoted to "The Gospel of St. Luke," by Rev. H. Burton, and "The Prophecies of Isaiah, vol. 2," by Rev. G. A. Smith, and volume v. of the Sermon Bible, beginning the New Testament with "The Gospel of St. Matthew, chap. i.-xii." They have in press "The Miracles of Our Saviour," expounded and illustrated by Dr. Wm. M. Taylor; the first volume of "The Institutes of Christian Religion," by Prof. Emil V. Gerhart, which will be complete in two volumes and is planned to be a systematic theology, embracing all branches of Christian doctrine, specially adapted to the needs of thoughtful laymen; a new and revised edition at reduced price of Rev. Dr. Henry B. Smith's "System of Christian Theology;" another of his helpful books for young men by Thain Davidson, entitled "A Good Start;" and "Life in Christ and for Christ," by Rev. H. C. Moule. The publishers call special attention to a new volume, "Through Abyssinia," in which F. Harrison Smith, of the English navy, will describe an envoy's ride to the King of Zion, whose court at Lake Ashangi is said to be minutely pictured in a jolly sailor's language as well as by the many illustrations which will add greatly to the intrinsic value of this new volume of exploration.

HENRY CAREY BAIRD & Co. make several announcements, of which full titles are recorded under the heading of Arts and Sciences, in classified list in this issue.

BAKER, VOORHIS & Co.'s list of spring announcements will be found under the heading of Law, Government, etc., in classified list in this issue.

C. W. BARDEEN, Syracuse, N. Y., makes several important announcements. For complete titles refer to classified list in this issue, under the heading of Education, Language, etc.

P. BLAKISTON, SON & Co.'s announcements for the fall comprise several new and valuable works, of which the titles will be found under the heading of Medical Science in the classified list preceding this department.

ROBERT BONNER'S SONS will publish in October Herbert Ward's "Five Years with the Congo Cannibals," of which the publication was delayed by request, but which will now be issued, illustrated with many full-page engravings after original drawings made on the spot by the author. Mr. Ward's travels in Africa commenced in 1884, when he received an appointment in the service of the Congo Free State. He was a member of the Emin Bey Relief Expedition, and while in the service of Mr. H. M. Stanley made his memorable canoe journey of eleven hundred miles on the Congo. Henry M. Grady's "The New South" will also be issued, with a portrait of the lamented author and a character sketch by Oliver Dyer; a picture of the overthrow of the Christians in Japan in the seventeenth century, by W. C. Kitchen, will be entitled, "Paoli, the Last of the Missionaries," and there will be several new novels and new editions of established favorites, among the most notable of which are "A Matter of Millions," by Anna Katherine Green, illustrated by Victor Perard; "Parted by Fate," by Laura Jane Libbey; "Ottillie Aster's Silence," translated from the German by Mrs. D. M. Lowrey, who has also translated "The Baroness Blank," a novel of the new German Empire. Reddall's "Life of Henry M. Stanley," and Balzac's "Cesar Birotteau" will also bear the imprint of this house.

BRADLEY & WOODRUFF announce a new unabridged American reprint of Farrar's "Life of Christ," with an appendix giving translations of foreign phrases used throughout the work, prepared by Prof. George B. Jewett, of Salem, Mass., and an introduction by Prof. Tayler Lewis, of Union College; "The Life and Labors of Charles H. Spurgeon," by George C. Needham, with preface by Rev. D. A. J. Gordon, illustrated with forty engravings prepared expressly for the work; and "Christ and the Song," by Rev. Dr. James Kennedy—a series of lectures on the Song of Solomon, taking the ground that the "Beloved" in the text is Christ, and the "Spouse" his redeemed Church. They also announce a long list of Sunday-school books, full titles of which are given under the heading Juvenile Literature in classified list in this issue.

BRENTANO'S, New York, announce several volumes which already foreshadow the fast-approaching holidays. An edition of "Charles Dickens' Complete Works" will be in fifteen volumes, with 375 of the best-known illustrations of Seymour, "Phiz," Cruikshank, Browne and others; and there will be an edition limited to 250 copies of "The Christmas Carol" in fac-simile of the original manuscripts from title-page to finis, with introductory notes by Frederick G. Kittan. John Ernest McCann's "Songs from an Attic," a collection of the best poems Mr. McCann has written for Once a Week, Chatter and other periodicals, will be put into permanent shape in a tasteful volume bound in a vellum and gold cover of original design; and the Terrible Tales, translated from the literature of France, Italy, Germany and Spain, now numbering four volumes, will be issued in brown buckram cloth or in half polished morocco, and will make a handsome holiday gift. The house also announces supplies of the Edinburgh editions of "The Poetical Works of Robert Burns," in three volumes, and "The Poetical Works of Walter Scott," in four volumes; and also of the Rosslyn Edition of "The Waverley Novels," in twenty five volumes. Among books for young people there will be a set to be known as the Young Hopeful Series, intended specially for boys, of which three volumes will be ready this season: "The Slave Prince," by the Ven. Archdeacon Chiswell, a story of Madagascar, where the author has spent the greater portion of his life, with illustrations by A. W. Cooper; "In the Enemy's Country," by Anna H. Drury, a story of Germany in 1813, illustrated by Horace Petherick; and "Cutlass and Cudgel," by G. Manville Fenn, a tale of the south coast of England in the reign of George II., illustrated by H. Schonberg. There will also be three volumes in a Girlhood Series, entitled "The Miller's Daughter," by Annie Beale, illustrated by Marcella Walker; "Crooked S," by Austin Clare, the story of a square peg in a round hole, illustrated by John Leighton; and "Poor and Plain," by the author of "Dethroned," illustrated by A. Hitchcock. Two books which will be useful in all seasons are announced in H. Swan's "Travellers' Colloquial French," giving general information and analysis of the French language, specially intended for English travellers in France, a volume in The Phonetic Series; and Dr. John Dewar's reference book for young, inexperienced mothers, forming the first volume of The Red Cross Series of Health Handbooks, to be issued under the catching title of "What Ails the Baby?"

THE BURROWS BROTHERS CO. announce a special limited edition, in two volumes, of Blackmore's "Lorna Doone," bound in three-quarter levant morocco, with portfolio containing an extra proof set of all the full-page illustrations mounted on cardboard and a photogravure reproduction of a charming picture of the heroine, prepared for this edition only, and not included in the edition which was the great holiday success of last season. There will be but 250 sets, which will certainly not go begging. There will also be an edition limited to 150 copies of "Certain Sonnets of Sir Philip Sidney," with photogravure reproductions of illustrations drawn for the work by Mr. George Wharton Edwards, besides the regular edition of the work. Another peculiarly appropriate gift-book will be "Teachings of Jesus," compiled by President Cady Staley, of Case School of Applied Sciences, a volume containing the teachings of Jesus arranged in chronological order without comment, printed on fine paper and bound in various styles, showing dainty taste. In books of educational value may be expected "The Pocket Gem Pronouncing Dictionary," by Lilla M. Tenney, a work showing years of study and research, practical in plan and artistic in manufacture, containing over 11,000 words; in the 1001 Questions and Answers Series, the volume on "Botany;" and an entire new edition of Whympers' "Scrambles Among the Alps," with twelve additional full-page illustrations. The house also makes some announcements of books for children, full titles of which will be found in classified list under the heading of Juvenile Literature.

A. L. BURT makes announcements of many additions to his Burt's Library of the World's Best Books, which is meeting with well-deserved success. It is placing within the reach of all a complete, rich and uniform library of the classics of the literature of all languages, all reliable and unabridged, and translations of acknowledged merit. Indexes, biographical sketches and explanatory notes are given whenever necessary. The volumes now under way are: Emerson's "Essays," first and second series; Charles Lamb's "Essays of Elia;" Charles Darwin's "Origin of Species;" Herbert Spencer's "Data of Ethics;" Thomas Carlyle's "Past and Present;" Guizot's "Civilization of Europe;" Kingsley's "Hypatia;" Thackeray's "Vanity Fair;" Scott's "Ivanhoe;" George Eliot's "Romola;" and Blackmore's "Lorna Doone."

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING Co. have prepared for an active publishing season, and already announce a list of forthcoming literature bewildering in number and variety of subject. The publishers themselves announce as the book of the year Ward McAllister's long-expected "Society as I Have Found It," with portrait of the author taken specially for this purpose. An édition de luxe of the same in gorgeous binding, vellum and gold, limited to 400 copies, will be printed on fine paper and sold at first at $10, but the price will be raised after the sale of the first 200 copies, so early orders are recommended. Special attention will be given to handsome editions of books which may now be said to rank as classics in almost all spoken languages, some already on their list, some entirely new. Among these we mention Chateaubriand's "Atala," translated by James Spence Harry, illustrated by Doré, with introduction by Edward J. Harding; Walter Scott's "Christmas in the Olden Time," illustrated by Fenn, Garrett, Davis, Sandham, Hassam, and others, and engraved under George T. Andrew; Balzac's "The Chouans," newly translated into English by George Saintsbury and illustrated with 100 engravings on wood by Léviellé, from drawings by Julien Le Blant; Prosper Mérimée's "Chronicle of the Reign of Charles IX.," also translated by George Saintsbury and illustrated by engravings on wood from drawings by Edward Toudouse; "La Fontaine's Fables," with the Doré illustrations; Shakespeare's "King Henry VIII.," illustrated by Sir J. Linton, and editions in lithographic covers, done in nine colors, of "Robinson Crusoe;" "Swiss Family Robinson;" "Gulliver's Travels;" "Æsop's Fables;" "Vicar of Wakefield;" "Pilgrim's Progress;" "Holy War;" "Baron Munchausen," and Keble's "Christian Year." Other works of interest for artistic subject and fine book-making will be a new edition of "American Art," with text by S. R. Koehler, illustrated by twenty-five plates by the best American etchers and wood engravers; "Gems of Art," with hundreds of choice engravings, including photogravure, lithographs, tint-plates, etc.; "Memories of Home," poems and pictures of life and nature by Mrs. Mary D. Brine, with many illustrations, and the volume for 1890 of "The Magazine of Art," with a special department for American art and upwards of 500 illustrations, showing every style of conception and execution. In biography there will be new editions of the great success of the year, "The Journal of Marie Bashkirtseff," which can now be had in five different forms, the latest of which are the edition in two volumes at $4, and the edition in the Rainbow Series at 25c.; and Rose E. Selfe's "Dr. Arnold of Rugby;" "The Art of Cooking by Gas," by Mrs. Shugg; "The Making of the Home," by Mrs. Samuel A. Barnett, and "Cremation and Urn Burial of the Cemeteries of the Future," by W. Robinson, will be books of domestic and social interest. A long list of educational books will be found under the heading of Education, Language, etc., in the classified list in this issue. "A Man of the Name of John," by Florence King; "Not of Her Father's Race," by W. T. Meredith; "Vengeance is Mine," by Daniel Dane, and "The Anglomaniacs," will be the next issues in fiction. Volume 5 in Morley's "English Writers," and "Dramatic and Musical Copyright," by Fred Weatherby and E. Cutler, will be of literary interest, and natural history will be represented by "Birds' Nests, Eggs and Egg Collecting," by R. Kearton, illustrated with sixteen colored plates; "Curious Creatures in Zoology," by John Ashton, with 130 illustrations; and new editions of Emma Homan Thayer's "Wild Flowers of the Pacific Coast" and "Wild Flowers of the Rocky Mountains," which are to be gotten out even more handsomely than heretofore. "Lectures on Socialism," by Bishop Barry, promises to be an important addition to the literature on many of the burning questions of the hour. In juvenile literature the manager of this house takes an enduring and, if possible, growing interest. The list of books that will be appropriate Christmas presents is long and tempting. It will be found complete as far as reported under its heading in the classified list. There are to be new editions of all the old favorites, and new books by almost every author who has become a favorite in former years. The illustrations, bindings and general manufacture will represent an endless amount of thoughtful planning and skilled labor. Jules Verne's new work, to be entitled "Cæsar Casca-bel," will be a stout octavo, profusely illustrated, describing a travelling show consisting of the hero, an acrobat and his family, together with horses, dogs, parrots and monkeys, who traverse the American Continent and go back to France by land and ice via American Russia. Cassell's Almanac for 1891 will also be ready on time.

THE CATHOLIC PUB. SOC. Co. will have ready for the fall trade an "Intermediate English Grammar and Analysis," by William Davidson and Joseph Crosby Alcock; "The Great Sacrifice of the New Law Expounded by the Figures of the Old," by James Dymock; "Peter's Rock in Mahommed's Flood," by T. W. Allies; Kathleen O'Meara's two stories, "The Blind Apostle" and "The Heroine of Charity;" and W. J. Amherst's "Valentine Riant."

THE CENTURY CO.'s most important announcement is "The Autobiography of Joseph Jefferson," which will be issued in book form early in the season. Thousands of delighted readers have followed in the Century Magazine the recollections of the actor whose personality is so dear to American theatre-goers. His eventful life could not fail to be full of interesting scenes and incidents, but Mr. Jefferson's bewitching style of narration was a surprise to many, and the literary quality of his work makes it worthy of permanent book form. The Century Co. will, of course, make the volume just what the contents require. Two beautiful juveniles are also under way. "Another Brownie Book," by Palmer Cox, a collection of the poems and pictures that have appeared in St. Nicholas and other children's magazines since the issue of his first volume, and "Santa Claus on a Lark," by Washington Gladden, a book of Christmas stories, many of which have already appeared in St. Nicholas, sure to be one of the most attractive of Christmas books.

THE CONGREGATIONAL S. S. AND PUB. SOC. will have ready, shortly, a new series of six stories, to be known as The Beacon Series, the material for which has been selected principally from the large number of manuscripts sent during the recent prize competition for the books in The Pilgrim Series. The separate books will be, "The Knights of Sandy Hollow," by Mary P. Sleight, who writes of a band of eight or ten boys in a dull fishing village, who, fired by the exaggerated and sensational adventures in dime novels, enlisted for mischief of all kinds, until finally directed to higher aims by a devoted young girl who comes to live among them; "Faith on the Frontier," by Edmund March Vittum, a story of the far West and of its early settlers, dealing with the experiences of a family who, after overwhelming discouragements, reap the fruits of Christian fortitude, foresight and patient waiting. "A Royal Hunt," by Mrs. E. C. Wilson, a story of the Huguenots, "One Little Maid," by Elizabeth Preston Allan, the history of a little Japanese girl in an American boarding-school; and the two volumes already issued, "Transplanted," by Fannie E. Newberry, and "Freshman and Senior," by Elvertin Wright. Among other volumes suitable for half grown girls and boys, there will be, "Asaph's Ten Thousand," by Mary E. Bennett, a dramatic story, laid in a manufacturing village, dealing in a graphic manner with the discontent of the mill hands, the consequent strike, and the final adjustment of the difficulties between the employers and the employees upon a reasonable Christian basis; "By a Strange Path," by Margaret H. Echerson, a story of life in a German village; "Little Pilgrims at Plymouth," by Frances A. Humphrey, an historically accurate account of the Pilgrim Fathers, given to modern "little pilgrims" summing at the old landing place of the fathers of American freedom; "The Choir Boy of York Cathedral," by Rev. A. S. Twombly, and "Little Miss Boston," a Christmas story, by Mrs. Harriet A. Cheever. The new volume of sermons on the International Sunday-school Lessons for the coming year will be ready shortly, in the "Monday Club Sermons for 1891."

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. announce several important translations and many instructive juveniles, besides one or two holiday gift-books of special interest. "The Founding of the German Empire by William I.," will be a large work in five volumes, translated from the German of Heinrich von Sybel, by Professor Marshall Livingstone Perrin, of the Boston University, a brilliant picture of the most portentous political creation of modern times. "The Narrative of Captain Colignet, Soldier of the Empire, 1776-1850," will be an autobiographical account of one of Napoleon's body-guard, marked by quaint frankness and thoroughly Gallic boastfulness, and full of shrewd original comment upon the power that made Europe tremble one hundred years ago. "The Robber Count" and "Fifty Years, Two Months and Three Days" will be the English titles of two of the strong novels of Julius Wolff, whose "Saltmaster of Lüneburg" showed his remarkable talent of painting to the life the historical and social details of the period and country he selects as the background for his carefully executed romances. Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton, who has the knack of teaching biography in attractive form, will have ready two more of her pleasant volumes: "Famous European Artists" and "Famous English Authors of the Nineteenth Century," both fully illustrated with portraits of the celebrities she introduces to the young people. Annie Chapin Ray will furnish a genuine story of boy life in "Half a Dozen Boys," in which she will describe six capital little heroes and the incidents and amusements of their village home. Editions de luxe will be ready for the holidays of "Jane Eyre," with fine press-work and paper and forty eight illustrations of plain, independent Jane and her erratic employer and lover, Rochester, and all the harrowing scenes of Lowood, etc.; also of "Tom Brown's School-Days," with fifty-three illustrations engraved by Andrew. Both these editions will be limited to two hundred and fifty copies. An original autograph book will be "Gold Nails to Hang Memories On," a rhyming review under their Christian names of old acquaintances in history, literature and friendship, compiled by Elizabeth A. Allen, with space left for autographs of friends. "Real Happenings," by Mrs. Mary B. Claflin, will be a little booklet containing five simple short stories full of love and sympathy for humanity. Mrs. Claflin will also have ready "Brampton Sketches of Old New England Life," describing her native town of Hopkinton in a peculiarly interesting way. Of religious interest will be "Gospel Stories," translated by Nathan Haskell Dole, from Tolstoy's sketches of Russian life; and "The Portable Commentary," the world-renowned manual in two volumes, compiled by Jamieson, Faussett and Brown. "Family Manners," by Elizabeth Glover, is announced as an etiquette book of peculiar charm.

J. G. CUPPLES CO. will have, in "Eastward, or, a Buddhist lover," a novel of the life of a young Buddhist studying in this country; in "Penelope's Web," by Owen Innsly, a novel of life in Sorrento; and, in "Joe Cummings," the story of the son of a squaw in search of his mother, which will be written in the form of an autobiography. N. P. Langford will tell in "Vigilance Days and Ways" the story of the pioneers of the Rockies, and of the making and makers of Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming, which will be in two volumes, with many portraits and other illustrations; and H. M. Hervey will furnish "Glimpses of Norseland," which will be very fully illustrated. "The World Moves, all goes well," will be a reprint of a theological work now making a great stir in England. The author's name is not given to the public.

F. A. DAVIS, Philadelphia, announces several new publications, full titles of which will be found under the heading Medical Science, in classified list in this issue.

DE WOLFE, FISKE & Co. will have ready a new uniform edition of "Charles Reade's Complete Works" in sixteen volumes, printed from new type on fine paper, with a full-page etching in every volume by C. A. Walker. "The Cyclopaedia of Poetical Quotations" and "The Cyclopaedia of Sacred Poetical Quotations," edited by H. G. Adams, will be issued in durable shape; "The Life and Times of Frederick Douglass," written as an autobiography, will be edited by George L. Ruffin; and there will be new editions of several works formerly published by Cassino, and also by Cupples, Upham & Co. Among the latter the works of W. H. H. Murray are the most important. Interesting juveniles will be "Miss Muff and Her Friends," by Mary Lee Etheridge; and "In Poppy Land, and other tales," by Marie Louise Fuller. Sally Pratt McLean will have a new work of fiction, entitled "Leon Pontifex." The titles of the holiday publications formerly on the list of other firms will be found in the classified list under the headings of Illustrated Gift-Books, or of Birthday-Books, Bible Text-Books, Souvenirs, Calendars, Almanacs, etc.

DICK & FITZGERALD announce many handbooks relating to various games, etc., full titles of which are given in the classified list in this issue, under the heading of Sports, Games, Amusements, etc.; also several handbooks of useful arts, of which the titles are classified under the heading of Arts and Sciences. They also promise Ogden's "Skeleton Essays, or, authorship in outline," consisting of condensed treatises on popular subjects with copious references to sources of information and directions how to enlarge the skeletons into essays, lectures, compositions, etc., new editions of the humorous stories "The Mott Street Poker Club" and "The Thompson Street Poker Club," and two volumes for the entertainment of the young: "Dick's Little Speeches for Little Speakers" and "Dick's Little Dialogues for Little People."

DODD, MEAD & Co.'s announcements include almost every department of literature, and promise many works of great importance. In the department of art works and illustrated gift-books they will have "A history of Modern Architecture," by James Fergusson, thoroughly revised and brought down to the present time by Robert Kerr, Professor of Architecture at King's College, London, with a supplementary volume devoted entirely to modern architecture in America, by Montgomery Schuyler, which will be ready early in 1891; a limited édition de luxe of "A Memoir of Horace Walpole," by Austin Dobson, a volume written specially for Dodd, Mead & Co., printed at the De Vinne Press from type on hand-made linen and Japan paper, and illustrated with eleven etchings by Percy Moran; Austin Dobson's "The Sun Dial," illustrated with many designs reproduced in photography, and with drawings in pen and ink by George Wharton Edwards, of which an édition de luxe, limited to fifty copies, will be printed on Japan paper, with an additional design signed by the artist; "The Devil's Picture-Books," a history of playing cards, by M. K. Van Rensselaer, with sixteen full-page plates in color, and numerous illustrations in black and white; an édition de luxe of Halévy's "A Marriage for Love" illustrated by Wilson de Meza, uniform with the "The Abbé Constantin" published by this house; and George Sand's "The Haunted Pool" (La Mare au Diable), translated by Frank Hunter Potter, will be illustrated with fourteen etchings by Rudaux, and richly bound. In biography the publishers announce the first volumes of a new series, to be known as Makers of America, to consist of biographies of moderate compass exact as to fact, including discoverers, colonizers, statesmen, men of war, of letters, theologians, inventors, etc., men who in their special walk of life have won success and national reputation, thus giving to each book local color and making it a picture of a certain episode of American history. The volumes thus far definitely announced are on "Alexander Hamilton," "George and Cecilus Calvert," "Peter Stuyvesant," "Robert Morris," "James Edward Oglethorpe," and "Father Juniper Serra." Volumes will also be added during the winter to the series of Great Explorers and Explorations. "Four Frenchwomen," by Austin Dobson, embracing sketches of Charlotte Corday, Madame Roland, Madame de Genlis and the Princess de Lamballe; "The Journal of Maurice de Guérin," translated by Miss Jessie Frothingham; and a translation of Baron Hochschild's "Desirée, Queen of Sweden and Norway," by Mrs. M. Carey, will also be notable biographical works. In fiction there is a long list of announcements, of which full titles will be found under that heading in the classified list in this issue. Of educational interest will be "Our Mother Tongue," by Theodore H. Mead, written with a view of enabling the reader, without the aid of any other instruction, to correct defects and imperfections in his manner of speaking English, defects in the quality of voice, modulation, articulation and pronunciation to which English-speaking persons are addicted to a degree surprising to the educated foreigner. History will be represented by "Battlefields and Campfires," another of Willis J. Abbot's entertaining descriptions of the War for the Union; and "Wanneta the Sioux," by Warren K. Morehead, of the Smithsonian Institution; "My Study Fire," a volume of essays by Hamilton Wright Mable, will contain some of the best work of the editor of the Christian Union; and incredible as it may appear there will be a new volume in the Elsie Series, to which Martha Finley has perhaps not yet found a title, for we are not informed whether Elsie will inhabit this world or another.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have begun far ahead of former years in point of time, and have planned for a variety of publications for the gift season of which the bare names convey no inspiring idea; but an inspection of their samples will convince the most pessimistic and often "stuck" dealer that these things must please his most exacting customers. From the rich fine art book to the little five-cent novelty almost all this infinite variety of temptation has been planned in America and executed at the celebrated factory of E. Nister, Nuremberg, two facts which are guarantees of fresh, live ideas and almost perfect workmanship. In illustrated gift-books the most important are "Golden Treasury of Art and Song," containing thirty-four pages of type and eighteen pages of monotint illustration, bound in every imaginable style of cloth, and also in Japanese calf; "Familiar London," twelve views of the best-known sites of London in full color; "Shakespeare's Home;" "John Bunyan's Home;" "The Beautiful World," etc., all as handsome as good taste and abundant means can make them. A special feature introduced into the art-books this year is the binding of the plates on linen bands, which makes every book lie open like a portfolio, and adds greatly to the artistic appearance of the pages. A book specially suitable as a gift is "Time's Footsteps," a family record book with beautifully decorated leaves, in which all the events that make family history are to be inscribed by the owner. "A Christmas Carol," by Phillips Brooks, and Dr. Sears' well loved hymn, "It Came upon the Midnight Clear," are made into charming booklets with six color pages and ten pages of decorated type. The authors bear names to conjure with, and relying upon a vast demand, the artists have been allowed to do their part most generously. A 50-cent line of souvenirs, birthday-books and text books is exquisitely gotten up, and 25-cent and 15-cent lines of shape booklets contain a bewildering variety of ideas and pictures in shapes of flowers, leaves, shells and animals of every kind, among which a sedate old owl, a weary looking camel, a rationalistic chicken and many more are quite irresistible to any one of any age blessed with humor and human sympathy. Miss Bennett has prepared a companion to her great successes, "When All Is Young" and "All Around the Clock," in "Old Father Time," which is fully up to her best work in the past. There are innumerable five-cent shape booklets to be used as school rewards, Sunday-school testimonials, or in any other well-known way to encourage little children. This year the house has made a special feature of calendars and shows no less than forty entirely new designs for these popular souvenirs that are gradually crowding out the old Christmas card. They range in price from five cents to $1.50. Many of them are also furnished with brass stands. On these calendars some of Nister's finest work is seen. We briefly mention "Through the Year," "The Shakespearian Year," "The Circling Year," "The Fan Calendar," and "Times and Seasons" as specially notable. Any omitted announcements of these holiday novelties may be found in the classified list under the headings of Art Works, Birthday-Books, Calendars, etc., and Juveniles. This house also has in press "The Record of the Life of Stephen H. Tyng, with the History of St. George's Parish, New York;" "Inspiration and the Bible," an inquiry by Robert P. Horton; "Christian Socialism, What and Why," by the Rev. Philo Sprague, Rector of St. John's Church, Charlestown, Mass.; "The Relation of Confirmation to Baptism," by the Rev. Arthur James Mason; "Modern Criticism Considered in Its Relation to the Fourth Gospel," the Bampton Lectures for 1890; and a volume of sermons by the Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington, under the title of "The Causes of the Soul." A new story by W. M. L. J., the author of "Shiloh," will be ready, entitled "Bellevue, or, the story of Rolf," containing some of the characters introduced in "Shiloh."

JAMES H. EARLE, Boston, announces four volumes of Earle's Wide World Series, a line of fully illustrated octavos, entitled "The Drummer-Boy," "Through Weal and Woe," "Roy the Silent," and "The California Nugget;" and "Gold and Dross," a Sunday-school story, by Mrs. S. A. Southworth. Among books of strictly religious tendency he will have ready "The Child Jesus," by Mrs. E. A. Bass; "The Sunday Question," by Prof. S. E. Warren; and "Light on the Pathway," by Mrs. L. B. Earle.

ESTES & LAURIAT's preparations for the autumn trade are as usual chiefly confined to fine art books and juveniles. Their édition de luxe of "Romola" to be known as the Florentine Edition will be in two volumes, bound in fine white and gray vellum, containing sixty photogravures from photographs of the most important paintings and objects of interest in Florence delicately tinted in green, purple, brown and other colors. A small quarto édition de luxe of this book will also be issued in two volumes, bound in full vellum, embossed with red and gold. Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii" will also be brought out uniform with "Romola." There will also be an édition de luxe of Victor Hugo's "Hans of Iceland," limited to 500 copies and bound in half roxburgh. Flammarion's astronomical romance of "Urania" will be brought out in a finely illustrated edition with numerous half-tone plates from the drawings of the celebrated French artists De Bieler, Gambord and Myrbach. "Our Great Actors" will be a series of six fine water-color portraits by Charles S. Abbé; Alfred Tennyson's "Sea Fairies, and other poems;" "The Beauties of Shakespeare," by Rev. William Dodd; "Night Song," by Charles Reineick, illustrated by Harry Sandham; "Recent European Art;" "The Goupil Gallery for 1890;" "Goupil's Paris Salon for 1890;" "Dreams of the Sea;" "The Eve of St. Agnes" in illuminated missal style; and Drake's "The Pine Tree Coast," are a goodly number of art works for one house to undertake in one season. In juvenile literature there will be the annual volumes in the noted series of travel books, "Zigzag Journeys in the Northwest," "The Knockabout Club in North Africa," and "Three Vassar Girls in Switzerland" will go through much new country in the usual instructive and entertaining way, and the four great annuals will also mark the flight of another year and come out with new matter under the old titles, "Oliver Optic's Annual," "The Nursery—S," "Chatterbox for 1890," and "Little Ones' Annual." Besides these there will be "Through Thick and Thin," and "Captain January," by Laura E. Richards, and many more, for titles of which see the classified list, under the heading of Juvenile Literature. Specially noteworthy is the announcement of the Handy Volume edition of Thackeray in twenty volumes, and a "Popular Natural History," by Prof. J. S. Kingsley, in two royal octavo volumes.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT will issue, in October, "Millionaires of a Day," by Theodore S. Van Dyke, which will give an inside history of the Great Southern California boom, and is said to be fully up to his "The Still-Hunter," and "Southern California in Wit and Shrewd Observation." In November they promise a new novel by Judge Tourgee, of which the title is not yet announced, but which is said to deal with Christian socialism, labor troubles and other questions of the hour; a new volume of Henry Ward Beecher's "Sermons," and a new popular edition of "Face to Face with the Mexicans."

They have just issued a gossipy, easy-going yarn of gold-hunting days, under the title of "The Argonauts of California," by C. W. Haskins, and have made preparations for new editions of all the old favorites on their list, including Bryant's "Poetry and Song," McCook's "Tenants of an Old Farm," the works of Henry Ward Beecher, of Judge Tourgee, etc., etc.

THE FOWLER & WELLS CO. have become the publishers of the series of the popular works of the late Dr. Dio Lewis, of which they are to bring out new editions this season, with a fresh and brief biography of the author. These works have long been popular in the trade. They have just brought out the "New Model Anatomical Manikin," a very comprehensive publication, containing over 100 views of the human body, so arranged as to overlay each other and open up for dissection. They have in press "Looking Forward for Young Men," by the Rev. Geo. S. Weaver, considering fully their interests, a work which is likely to be very popular. They have just published "Serial Lessons in Isaac Pitman Phonography," a complete self-instructor and practical guide to shorthand reporting, compiled by W. L. Mason from Isaac Pitman's standard works, presenting the matter in a clear, concise and consecutive manner. The same author is preparing a "Business Form and Dictation Book," containing business letters printed in typewriter type, and counted off for speeding work in shorthand. "Human Magnetism," by Dr. H. S. Drayton, editor of the Phrenological Journal, is a fresh contribution on the subject; and "Heads and Faces," of which 85,000 copies have been sold, is to be somewhat revised and a new edition brought out, which, judging by its past popularity, will be likely to reach the 100,000 mark during the season.

FUNK & WAGNALLS announce an important work in "The True Historic Episcopate," by Rev. Mason Gallagher, formerly a High-Church Episcopal clergyman, designed to show, by an appeal to sound historical documents, that the Ancient Church of Alexandria, while episcopal in government for two hundred years, had no episcopal succession in the modern sense, and that the laying on of hands of a third order in the ministry as essential to a valid ordination was unknown to the Primitive Church, is repudiated by all Protestant churches, including the Protestant Episcopal Church, whose early and better writers and Articles are shown to be opposed to such exclusive claims. "Divine Rod and Staff in the Valley of the Shadow of Death," by Rev. J. M. Anspach, will be a volume of consolatory thoughts for the dying and for the bereaved; "The World Lighted" will be a study of the Apocalypse by Charles Edward Smith; and the "Selected Sermons of Schleiermacher," translated by Mary F. Wilson, will be an addition to the Foreign Biblical Library. A temperance story, by George W. Gallagher, will be entitled "One Man's Struggle," and will tell of a young clergyman's hard work in a manufacturing city wholly given over to saloons. The house will also begin a series of American Reformers, to be edited by Rev. Dr. Carlos Martyn, with a volume on "Wendell Phillips" by the editor, and one on "Horace Greeley," by Frances Nicoll Zabriskie. They will also get out what will be known as the Funk & Wagnalls' Revised Edition of Webster's Dictionary, based on the Webster of 1847-1859, with the addition of thousands of new words. A Bible supplement, prepared for this edition, will be a special feature. They also announce "The Economics of Prohibition," by Rev. J. C. Fernald, a book for the people, written in bright, popular style, full of facts and illustrations, making its arguments plausible, and made a practical tool for temperance lecturers by a full index; and mention as nearly ready "The Cyclopedia of Temperance and Prohibition," said to cover all phases of the question from the most elementary to the most advanced, consisting chiefly of the material that has appeared in The Voice during the past six years, and furnished with statistical tables, sketches of organizations, biographical data, etc., printed on good paper and substantially bound. The work is alphabetically arranged, and has a good index.

GARRICK & Co. announce an authentic narrative of travels and excavations at the site of Susa, the ancient capital of the kings of Persia, based upon a journey through Western Persia in 1884-1886 by Mme. Jane Dieulafoy, translated from the French by Frank Lingston White, and illustrated with a map and 121 engravings drawn by Barclay, Bida, Girardet, Myrbach, Taylor and others, after photographs taken by the Dieulafoy expedition; a fine art edition of "The Complete Poetical Works of John Milton," with biography and notes by Bishop Newton, printed from new large type made specially for the edition, which will be in two volumes; and "The Cabinet Shakespeare Gallery," consisting of 51 exquisite photogravure illustrations, printed in various color tints, of various Shakespearian scenes, and character portraits of many of the most popular actors and actresses of the day, issued in a handsome volume, interleaved with the compendium and index of characters to "Shakespeare's Complete Works." They also have just ready "The Blue Ribbon of the Turf," an account of all the famous horses that have won the English Derby from 1780 to 1890, and particular narratives of the famous jockeys and owners of horses, gathered from many sources by Louis Henry Curzon; and a new color-book for the young called "Story-Land," a series of charming short stories, illustrated with thirty-two pictures by Robert Barnes, printed in colors by Edmund Evans. A new edition of Charles Lamb's "Adventures of Ulysses," with an introduction by Andrew Lang-explanatory notes and index of proper names, is also promised.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co., Chicago, announce for publication early in October "A Digest of English and American Literature," being the last work completed previous to the death of its author, Prof. A. H. Welsh, whose "Development of English Literature and Language" has passed through ten editions, a volume peculiarly adapted to those who desire to follow the contemporaneous political and social development of the world while making a special study of England's literature. About October 15 they will bring out in two volumes "Civilization: an historical review of its elements," by Charles Morris, of Philadelphia, who will set forth the evolutionary steps by which the human race has passed upward from primitive savagery to modern enlightenment in a manner differing from that usually pursued by historians of his subject. By the end of November may be expected "Hindu Literature, or, the ancient books of India," by Elizabeth A. Reed, treating of the earliest songs of the Aryan race and of the medieval days of Hindu literature, a work which is said to have been highly praised by Max Müller and Sir Monier Williams, Professor of Sanskrit in Oxford University, who has done the author the high honor of revising the chapter of "Krishna;" and by the end of the year "Hegel's Logic," a critical exposition by William T. Harris, will be issued as the eighth volume in Griggs' Philosophical Classics. Besides the above are promised several new editions of important books, of which full titles will be found under their respective subject headings in the classified list in this issue.

HARPER & BROS. will publish, before the close of the year, several books of artistic and literary value, some books of description, several volumes of translations from foreign literature, and a few well-selected books for young people, to whom this firm is specially partial. "Christmas in Song, Sketch and Story," will be a selection of nearly three hundred Christmas songs, hymns and carols, from Beecher, Wallace, Auerbach, Abbot, Warren and Dickens, with illustrations by Raphael, Murillo, Bouguereau, Hofmann, Defregger, Story, Shepherd, Darley, Meade, Nast, and others, prepared by J. P. McCaskey, compiler of the "Franklin Square Song Collection." "A Selection from the Sonnets of William Wordsworth" will have numerous illustrations by Alfred Parsons, and be made into a handsome volume, bound in full leather. "Strolls by Starlight and Sunshine," written and illustrated by William Hamilton Gibson, will also make a handsome royal octavo gift-book, bound ornamentally and appropriately; and "Shakespeare's Poems" will include Venus and Adonis, Lucrece, Sonnets, etc., and be edited, with notes, by William J. Rolfe, illustrated with engravings of merit; and "Curiosities of the American Stage," by Laurence Hutton, with copious and characteristic illustrations, will be a volume that will not fail to have many admirers. The ever popular Capt. Charles King will have a new book on his favorite topic of Western warfare, entitled "Campaigning with Crook, and Stories of Army Life;" "The Tsar and His People, or, social life in Russia," will be a descriptive volume, profusely illustrated; "Port Tarascon," Alphonse Daudet's brilliant account of the last adventures of his favorite hero, which has been pleasing so many readers during its appearance in Harper's Magazine from month to month, in Henry James' almost perfect English version, will be issued in book form, with the rich illustrations from the magazine, and will make a most sumptuous and attractive volume; and in "Modern Ghosts," selections from Maupassant, Kompert, Auerbach, Becquet, Kielland, Pedro Antonio de Alarcón and G. Magherini Graziani, with introduction to the poetic and fantastic work of those skilled literary men by our American artist, in words, George William Curtis, the exquisite Odd Number Series will receive a very dainty addition. Thomas W. Knox will have ready his usual Christmas offering in "The Boy Travelers in Great Britain and Ireland," in which he will teach all wide-awake boys all that is interesting in one of the most interesting parts of the civilized world; "A Boy's Town," written for Harper's Young People by W. D. Howells, will be brought out in book form; "Freedom Triumphant" will be the fourth and concluding volume in Charles Carleton Coffin's history of the Civil War, for young people; and Number 7 of the "Franklin Square Song Collection" will again furnish homes and schools with upwards of 200 favorite songs and hymns, happily selected by the experienced choice of J. P. McCaskey. Charles and Mary Lamb's classic "Tales from Shakespeare" are to be edited by William J. Rolfe, and brought out in two illustrated volumes in Rolfe's English Classics for School Reading, to be entitled "Tales from Shakspeare's Comedies," and "Tales from Shakespeare's Tragedies."

D. C. HEATH & Co.'s announcements will be found in the classified list preceding this department, under the heading of Education, Language, etc.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have in preparation a long list of books for schools and colleges, embracing almost every department of knowledge, full titles of which appear in the classified list in this issue under the heading of Education, Language, etc. They also have in press "Woman's Work in America," an important contribution to the subject, edited by Annie Nathan Meyer, with an introduction by Julia Ward Howe. The various fields of woman's work are respectively treated as follows: "Woman in Education," by Mary F. Eastman, Mary Wright Sewall, and Christine Ladd Franklin; "Woman in Literature," by Helen Grey Cone; "Woman in Journalism," by Susan E. Dickinson; "Woman in Industry," by Alice Hyneman Rhine; "Woman in Law," by Ada M. Bittenbender; "Woman in Medicine," by Mary Putnam Jacobi; "Woman in Philanthropy, including care of poor, sick, criminals, Indians, White Cross, Red Cross and Anti-slavery movements," by the seven women who are most distinguished in those fields; and "Woman in Politics," by Mary A. Livermore. As nearly ready are announced "Peru: Incidents of Travel and Exploration in the Land of the Incas," by E. G. Squier, and "Our Dictionaries and Other English Language Topics," by R. O. Williams. A third "Young Folks' Encyclopædia" has been compiled by John D. Champlin and Arthur E. Bostwick, devoted to "Games and Sports" and intended to be a compendium of all kinds of recreations, including indoor and outdoor games, athletic sports, simple chemical and mechanical amusements, and everything that can interest a wide-awake boy or girl, all to be made clear by innumerable illustrations.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish this autumn several important works in the various departments of literature which their catalogue contains. In fiction perhaps the most promising story is Mrs. Deland's "Sidney," which has attracted unusual attention while appearing in the Atlantic Monthly, and which, although not likely to excite as much discussion as "John Ward," raises several very interesting questions which cannot fail to engage attention. Another story sure to be popular is Mrs. Whitney's "Ascutney Street," devoted, as most of Mrs. Whitney's stories are, to showing how much better than sham and pretence are sincerity, simplicity and a constant effort to do one's best. Mrs. Kirk, who is so widely and favorably known as the author of "The Story of Margaret Kent" and other novels, will have a new story entitled "Walford," the scene of which is laid in Connecticut. The incidents and characters are not strikingly original, but they are described with such vigor and felicity that the novel is sure to be one of the best read of the season. The recent success of "The Master of the Magicians" gives a peculiar interest to a historical novel by Mrs. Phelps and Mr. Ward, entitled "Come Forth," of which Lazarus is the leading character; other New Testament figures are introduced, some of which would perhaps at first seem of doubtful propriety, but the whole is said to be managed with such skill, and is pervaded with so reverent a spirit, that the story will commend itself even to the most scrupulous readers, and there is no question that it will be interesting. Bret Harte offers a new story of California entitled "A Ward of the Golden Gate," which is pronounced by English critics to be quite in his best style. Mrs. Wiggin, whose "Birds' Christmas Carol" and "Story of Patsy" have endeared her to a host of readers, will have a new story, somewhat similar in character, entitled "Timothy's Quest," and in connection with her sister, Miss Nora A. Smith, a book of short stories entitled "The Story Hour," intended for kindergartens and for young children in families. In biography will probably appear Charles Francis Adams' "Life of H. R. Dana," an interesting subject by a very interesting writer; a book on "Columbus," by Justin Winsor, the eminent historian; a "Life of Dorothea L. Dix," the famous philanthropist, by Rev. Francis Tiffany; a sketch of the illustrious artist, Chester Harding, written by himself and edited by his daughter, Mrs. Margaret E. White, of Brookline; a new edition of Thomas Hughes' very interesting book on "Alfred the Great;" and a new and enlarged edition of Gen. Cullum's "Biographical Register of West Point Graduates," in three volumes, including all who have graduated from that institution from its foundation in 1802 until the present year. Three important works in history are announced: Brown's "Genesis of the United States," which was included in last year's announcement, but was too large a work to be hastened through the press, a work describing the struggle between Spain and England for the control of North America; an important work by W. B. Weedon, entitled "Economic and Social History of New England," in two volumes; and the "Discovery and Spanish Occupation of America," by John Fiske, whose name is sufficient guarantee of its value and interest. The department of poetry will include "The Inverted Torch," a volume similar in character to Tennyson's "In Memoriam," by Miss Edith M. Thomas; a new book by Mrs. Mary E. Blake, entitled "Verses Along the Way;" "Lyrics for a Lute," a little volume of charming short poems by Frank Dempster Sherman; "Piero da Castiglione," an Italian story, by Stuart Sterne, which may well be as popular as her "Angelo;" two collections of sonnets, one by Chas. H. Crandall, a crown octavo entitled "Representative Sonnets by American Authors," with valuable introductory essays, and "American Sonnets," a small, dainty book by Col. T. W. Higginson and Mrs. E. H. Bigelow. New editions are promised of Lowell's poems in the Riverside Edition; a Family Edition of Owen Meredith's "Lucile;" a new and attractive edition of "The Bird and the Bell," by C. P. Cranch; a new edition of Nora Perry's poems in one volume; a new and enlarged edition of "Songs of Three Centuries," edited by Mr. Whittier; "Songs of Life," a new edition of the poems of Miss Edna Dean Proctor; a popular edition of Lowell's famous "Biglow Papers" in one volume; Whittier's "Legends and Lyrics" and Wordsworth's "Pastorals, Lyrics and Sonnets," in the tasteful White and Gold Series; and most important of all, a translation of Dante's "Divine Comedy" and "New Life" by Chas. Eliot Norton, which is logically included in poetry, although Mr. Norton's rendering of the poet's thought will not be metrical, but in prose of that high and noble quality which Charles Eliot Norton has contributed to English literature. The holiday publications of the house will include an edition of "Hiawatha," which promises to be of unusual interest and value. It will contain twenty-two full-page illustrations and about four hundred text illustrations by Frederic Remington, who knows Indians and all about them, and can portray them more skilfully and truthfully than any other living artist. The larger pictures will be reproduced from his paintings in photogravures; the book will be in all its mechanical details in the best style of the Riverside Press. The binding, in order that it may correspond with the character of the work, will be in buckskin, stamped with an appropriate design by Mrs. Whitman. Hawthorne's English sketches, "Our Old Home," supplemented with such extracts from his "English Note-Books" as add completeness to the work, will be brought out in two tasteful volumes, which will be embellished with a fine portrait of Hawthorne, and about thirty photogravures of the best English portraits and views, that have special relation to the places and the persons described. This will not only be an available gift-book, but will have especial value for persons who visit England, or as a souvenir for those who have been in England. Other holiday books are a new edition of the "Vision of Sir Launfal"—not on a large scale like that published three or four years ago, but duodecimo, containing a few appropriate illustrations by Edmund H. Garrett; also Lowell's "Fable for Critics," an entirely new edition, with the quaint original title-page in rhyme, and containing small portraits of twenty or more authors criticised in the book. In the department of essays nothing will be more notable than the new edition of Lowell's prose works, in the Riverside Edition, uniform with the Riverside Edition of Longfellow and Whittier. Dr. Holmes' "Professor at the Breakfast Table" and "Poet at the Breakfast Table," each in two volumes, will be brought out in a style uniform with the exquisite Birthday Edition of the "Autocrat," published last year; and the quite remarkable series of papers by Dr. Holmes, "Over the Teacups," now appearing in the Atlantic, will be brought out in a volume, and will certainly be one of the most welcome and delightful of the season. George E. Woodberry, who has long been known to those acquainted with the interior facts of the best magazine and periodical writing of this country as one of the wisest and most competent literary essayists in America, has collected from the Atlantic Monthly, the Nation and other periodicals a volume of critical and literary papers which he entitles "Studies in Letters and Life," and its value, both as regards thought and style, commends it to a wide circle of readers. Prof. William Knight, of Scotland, has collected a volume of valuable papers, "Essays in Philosophy, Old and New." They discuss important subjects in a strong and independent style. A Popular Edition in one volume of Emerson's "Nature" and "Representative Men" will be issued uniform in style with the Popular Edition of the "Essays" by Emerson published a few months since. A new volume in the Gentleman's Magazine Library devoted to "Architectural Antiquities," will be issued at an early day; also a new edition of Miss Edna Dean Proctor's "Russian Journey," with an additional chapter, and a "Browning Dictionary," containing such historical, biographical and other information as will be acceptable to readers of Browning's poems, prepared by Mr. George Willis Cooke, whose books on Emerson, George Eliot, etc., have shown his special fitness for this kind of work. The first volume of a very important work on the "Silva of North America," by Charles S. Sargent, of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard University, will appear the coming season. This work, which is to contain twelve quarto volumes, will give much fuller descriptions and will include a greater number of specimens than have ever been given in any previous similar work. The illustrations are engraved upon copper by the two famous French artists Philibert and Eugène Picart, and the work when complete will be not only the standard work of its class for America, but one of the most complete and perfect of its kind in the world. Prof. Hennequin, of the University of Michigan, has written a book on the "Art of Playwriting," intended for that numerous class of our fellow-citizens who are sure that they can write good dramas. This, if anything, will enable them to do it. John Fiske has prepared, with special reference to use in schools and colleges, a book on "Civil Government," devoted to the theory and practice of republican government in this country. His full information, and his remarkably clear and strong style guarantee a book of unusual value, which will be found no less interesting to the general reader than to scholars. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. add to their list of specialties a work in three large volumes, by Samuel H. Scudder, on the "Butterflies of New England," which includes descriptions and very numerous illustrations. Mr. M. M. Ballou, who has travelled over nearly all the globe, has recently visited Mexico, and written of his observations and experiences there, making a volume of no little interest, which he calls "Aztec Land." Among books of selections is an additional volume in the Riverside Classics, including "Rab and His Friends, and other dogs and men," by Dr. John Brown; a little book entitled "Thackeray's Lighter Hours," for the series of Modern Classics; selections from Thoreau in a tasteful little volume; Calendar Books, containing selections from Browning and Mrs. Whitney; and a series of ten volumes, entitled Little Classics, including Dickens' "Christmas Carol;" Shakespeare's "Sonnets;" Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" and "Traveller;" Carlyle's "Choice of Books;" Fouqué's "Undine;" Dr. Brown's "Rab and His Friends;" Whittier's "Tent on the Beach;" Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal;" Hawthorne's "Tales of the White Hills;" and Tennyson's "Enoch Arden."

WILLIAM R. JENKINS announces the following books, in editions suitable for school use. "Sans Famille," by Hector Malot, arranged by Prof. Paul Bercy; "Les Travailleurs de la Mer," by Victor Hugo; and "L'Homme à l'Oreille Casée," to be the new volume in the popular Romans Choisis. In their other specialty of Veterinary Literature there will also be some publications, but the titles have not as yet been sent for record.

JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY, through its publication agency, has just issued the "Description of the Johns Hopkins Hospital," by Dr. J. S. Billings, illustrated with fifty-six plates; also, "Progress of the Negro in Maryland Since the War," by I. R. Brachett. Among the preliminary autumn announcements are a "Report on the Work in Gynecology in the Johns Hopkins Hospital," by Howard A. Kelly; "The United States National Museum in Washington," by O. T. Mason; "History of the United States Supreme Court," by W. W. Willoughby; "Notes on the Government and Administration of the United States," by W. W. and W. F. Willoughby; "Development of Municipal Unity in the Lombard Communes," by W. K. Williams; "The Study of History in Belgium and Holland," by Paul Fredericq; Part 2 of "Contributions to Assyriology," by F. Delitzsch and Paul Haupt; and "Notes on Historical Literature," by H. B. Adams and others.

P. J. KENEDY announces several books for the young, of which the titles are entered in the classified list under the heading of Juvenile Literature; in fiction: "Nanette's Marriage," translated from the French; "Solitary Island," a novel, by Rev. John Talbot Smith; and in drama "The Green Shores of Erin;" "Waiting for the Train;" "Monsieur le Curé;" "The Rival Mail Carriers;" and "The Young Poachers," all by Prof. Wilton.

CHARLES H. KERR & CO., Chicago, will shortly issue a fifth volume of sermons by James Villa Blake under the title of "A Grateful Spirit, and other sermons," and a third edition of "The Evolution of Immortality," by C. T. Stockwell, with the new feature of an extensive appendix. They also announce two new volumes of speculative fiction: "The Auroraphone," by Cyrus Cole, which opens in Colorado and explains the establishment of telegraphic communication with the planet Saturn, and a knowledge gained of the institutions and philosophy of the inhabitants of that moon-encircled planet, which is intended to point a few moral, social and political lessons to our own little orb; and "The Genius of Galilee," by Anson Uriah Hancock, of Omaha, a picture of the life of Jesus as founded on history studied in the spirit of the editors of Unity.

LEA BROTHERS & CO.'s announcements for the fall will be found under the heading of Medical Science, in the classified list in this issue.

LEE & SHEPARD will have a holiday book by Margaret Macdonald Pullman, whose "Days Serene" proved such a success in 1888. The new volume will be entitled "Summerland" and will have sixty-three illustrations, engraved on wood by George T. Andrew, in which the artist shows hills studded with flowers, placid lakes, happy birds, bleating sheep all basking in calm serenity of midsummer. Miss Irene E. Jerome has also prepared the sixth of her pretty artworks, and in "An Old Love-Letter" will give a combination of text and delicate illumination, in which she has used her artistic talent to bring out tender religious sentiments quoted from the New Testament, all breathing of divine love. The covers will be printed on rich antique paper, tied with silk floss, which will be secured to the cover by a seal. The "All Round the Year" calendar for 1891 will surpass the former successes in designs and quality of workmanship, it is said; and the new edition of "Baby's Kingdom" will be practically a new work, the text having been redrawn and engraved, and a new and very elegant binding of turkey morocco provided for the biographical data of the nursery. All the well-known hymns, songs and poems are to be provided with new costumes, if possible more attractive than ever before. Of descriptive value will be Captain Charles A. J. Farrar's "From Lake to Lake" and "Camp Life in the Wilderness." In the Good Company Series, just inaugurated by the publication of "The Blind Men and the Devil," there will be brought out "A Summer Holiday in Europe," by Mary E. Blake, and "In Trust, or, Dr. Bertrando's household," by Amanda M. Douglas; and "Our Destiny," by Laurence Gronlund, will define the influence of nationalism upon religion and morals. A posthumous novel by David R. Locke ("Petroleum V. Nasby") will be entitled "The Demagogue;" a volume of short essays on education and culture by Dr. W. H. Venable will be called "Let Him First Be a Man;" the second part of "Five-Minute Declamations," selected by Walter H. Forbes, will be ready; "A Look Upward," by Susie C. Clark, will endeavor to make clear the problem of good and evil; and "A Pocket-Book of Private Devotion," by Rev. Hugh Hutton, will contain a prayer for every morning and evening of the week, with special prayers for occasions of sickness, death or "any other adversity." Among the announcements of books for the young, which will be found in full in classified list under the heading of Juvenile Literature, the most important are Oliver Optic's "On the Blockade" in The Blue and Gray Series; "Wonderful Deeds and Doings of Little Giant Boab and his Talking Raven Tabib," by Ingersoll Lockwood; J. T. Trowbridge's "The Kelp-Gatherers" in The Start in Life Series; "A Lost Jewel," by Harriet Prescott Spofford; "The Log of the Maryland," by Captain Douglas Frazer; "Dorothy's Experience," by Adeline Trafton Knox, etc. Among the forthcoming educational works are announced an authorized translation of Compayré's "Elements of Psychology;" a subscription edition of the "Life and Works of Horace Mann," edited by his son; and the second book of Picturesque Geographical Readers, entitled "This Continent of Ours."

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co.'s announcements include many holiday gift-books, fine editions of several standards and a long line of miscellaneous reading, much of which has a distinct literary value. The leading Christmas publication will be "A Mosaic," a rich table-book prepared by the Artists' Fund Society, of Philadelphia, containing twenty-two photogravure reproductions of pictures painted by the members, with appropriate text in poetry and prose edited by Harrison S. Morris. None of the pictures have ever before been shown, and the artists consider them representative examples of their best work. The book will be bound in white vellum cloth with antique ornamentation in color and bronze. Mrs. M. B. M. Toland has prepared another companion to her "Legend Laymone" and other successful holiday books in "Tisáyac of the Yo Semite," which will show artistic work by Dielman, Will H. Low, Bolton Jones, Henry Sandham and others, reproduced in photogravure, and the text will be brightened by floral pen-drawings printed in neutral tint. "Sheridan's Ride," by T. Buchanan Read, will be illustrated with eight full-page designs by noted artists, engraved by Andrew; "English Poems," with etchings by M. M. Taylor, will be an oblong folio bound in ornamented leatherette, in the style of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," published by this house; and there will be an illustrated edition of Scott's "Ivanhoe" with numerous choice steel plates. "Choice Pictures by American Artists," "Gems of American Art," and "Selected Pictures by American Artists" will all three be made up of selections from "American Figure Painters," the holiday book of 1886. The "Classical Picture Gallery" will consist of 144 plates of the choicest examples from the picture galleries and private collections of Europe, and will be edited by Prof. von Reber and Dr. Bayersdorfer. A volume which cannot fail to take its place among the most attractive books of the approaching season will be "In and Out of Book and Journal," selected and arranged by Dr. A. Sydney Roberts, with fifty spirited illustrations by S. W. Van Schaik. Dr. Roberts is a wide and judicious reader, and selects with taste, judgment and independence from classic and current authors, while the artist has thoroughly caught the spirit of the varied text, and brightened the pages with gleams of pictorial humor and sketches full of quiet pathos. A book full of important information will be "European Days and Ways," by Alfred E. Lee, late Consul-General, U. S. A., in which the travels through Germany, Spain, Italy, etc., will be illustrated with designs greatly increasing the historical value of this entertaining book. "Our English Villages," by Rev. P. H. Ditchfield, will tell delightfully the story of the antiquities and peculiarities of English historic spots from prehistoric times to the present day, and will be fully illustrated. Fiction always absorbs a great deal of the attention of this house, and this year many new volumes are promised, of which the titles appear in the classified list in this issue; and several important medical works will also be found in the classified list under the headings of Fiction and of Medical Science. Of historical importance will be a second edition of "The German Soldier in the Wars of the United States," by J. G. Rosengarten; "The Two Last Centuries of Britain," by William H. Babcock; "An Elementary History of the United States," by Charles Morris, author of "Half Hours with American History;" and "Hermetic Philosophy," by J. S. McDonald, including lessons, general discourses and explanations of fragments from the schools of Egypt, Chaldea, Greece, Italy, Scandanavia, etc. "The Distribution of Wealth," by Rufus Cope, is said to be a thoughtful treatise on poverty, wealth, interest, taxation, monopolies, protection, free trade and other kindred subjects. In fine editions of standard works these publishers will offer the Tavistock edition of "The Works of Charles Dickens," complete in thirty volumes, and to be sold only in sets; the "Works of William Prescott," just completed by the publication of volume twelve; and the "Diary of Samuel Pepys," in six volumes, which will appear in a large-paper edition, limited to 500 sets for England and America. For the young there will be "Roland Kalbris," a story for boys, by Hector Kalbris; "German Fairy Tales," translated by Mrs. Wister; a volume on "Engineering" in the Science Series for the Young, and many other attractive books, full titles of which appear in the classified list elsewhere, under the heading of Juvenile Literature.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co.'s most important announcement covers Alexander Dumas' "Marie Antoinette Romances," which will be com plete in twelve unabridged volumes, and will be brought out in the Library Edition of Dumas, uniform with the D'Artagnan Romances, published last season. These romances include the separate stories of "The Memoirs of a Physician," in three volumes; "The Queen's Necklace" and "Ange Pitou," each in two volumes; "La Comtesse de Charny," in four volumes, and "Chevalier de Maison Rouge," introducing the most celebrated men and women of their day. There will be twelve historical portraits and plates included in the series, picturing Louis XV. and XVI., Marie Antoinette, the Taking of the Bastille, Cagliostro, Mirabeau, etc., etc. This house also announces in preparation "The Autobiography of Anton Rubinstein, 1829-1889," translated by Aline Delano. On the 18th of November, 1889, Rubinstein celebrated his fiftieth birthday, and the idea having been often expressed that a brief biography of the great composer would be eagerly welcomed, his consent was asked and given, and a stenographer sent to take down, from his own lips, the story of his brilliant career. These facts were printed with a supplement consisting largely of musical criticisms and descriptions of the Jubilee, which was celebrated by all classes in the vast Russian Empire who know Rubinstein as composer, pianist, philanthropist and patriot. "The Discourses, Enchiridion and Fragments of Epictetus," edited by Thomas Wentworth Higginson, will be a new and revised edition in two handsome 12mo volumes, uniform with "The Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius Antoninus;" "Chess for Beginners" and "Beginnings of Chess," by R. B. Swinton, will have many illustrations, and a volume that will give great pleasure is Nora Perry's "Another Flock of Girls," to be published with illustrations by Reginald B. Birch and Charles Copeland, and to be made up of the separate stories, "May Bartlett's Stepmother," "Ju-Ju's Christmas Party," "A New Year's Call," "Jenny's Lark," and "Sally Green."

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. make announcements in almost every field of general literature. In religious biography they will bring out "The Life of Edward Bouverie Pusey," by Canon H. P. Liddon, whose death has just left a void in the Established Church of England; and "Lessons from the Lives of Three Great Fathers,"—St. Athanasius, St. Chrysostom and St. Augustine. In description and travel the works preparing are "The First Crossing of Greenland," a book describing the daring journey of Dr. Fridtz, of Nansen, and his little party of Norwegians and Lapps across the inland ice of Greenland, which is to be fully illustrated; and "Letters from Rome," by Rev. Thomas Mozley, in two volumes. Of domestic interest will be "Tempting Dishes for Small Incomes," by Mrs. De Salis. The works of fiction thus far announced as in press are "Voces Populi," by F. Anstey, the clever author of "Vice Versâ," reprinted from Punch, with illustrations by J. Bernard Partridge; and "Hurstleigh Dene," by Mrs. O'Reilly, also illustrated. There will be several text-books for schools, full titles of which will be found in the classified list of this issue, under the heading of Education, Language, etc. Two new volumes will be added to the series of Historic Towns: "York," by the Rev. Prebendary Raine; and "New York," by Theodore Roosevelt. From time to time a volume will be added to the Cabinet Edition of "Walpole's England," to be completed in six volumes; and there will be "A Prelude to Modern History," by J. E. Symes, giving a brief sketch of the world's history from the third to the ninth centuries. A little book of literary selections uniform with H. L. Sidney Lear's "Five Minutes" will be "The Steps of the Sun," selected by Agnes Mason; and there will be a new edition of "La Commedia di Dante," with text carefully revised with the aid of the most recent editions and collations. In works of religious tendency there will be "The Christ, the Son of God," by the Abbé Constant Fouard, translated with the author's sanction by Charles F. X. Griffith, and furnished with an introduction by Cardinal Manning; "The Practical Teaching of the Apocalypse," by G. V. Garland; and "The School of Calvary," pointing out the laws of Christian life revealed from the Cross, by George Body, the Canon of Durham. A record of the books for young people in preparation will be found in the classified list, under the heading of Juvenile Literature. We briefly mention as of special interest a companion to "The Blue Fairy Book" of last year, to be called "The Red Fairy Book," also edited by Andrew Lang and illustrated by H. J. Ford and Lancelot Speed; "The Story of a Spring Morning," by Mrs. Molesworth; "Very Young," by Jean Ingelow; "Nigel Browning," by Agnes Giberne; "The Beresford Prize," by L. T. Meade, etc. The first volume of H. D. Macleod's "Theory of Credit" is now ready, and the second volume will soon follow, giving a detailed account of the practical side of credit from an English business man's point of view, formulated with a clearness not often attained by a business man.

D. LOTHROP Co.'s fall announcements are, as usual, large in number and varied in class. Among their illustrated books the sumptuous edition of "The Poet's Year," edited by Oscar Fay Adams and profusely illustrated, easily leads. With it may be classed the illustrated selections from Tennyson's pastoral poems, "Out-of-Doors with Tennyson," and the panoramic "Great Cities of the World," the two latter edited by Elbridge S. Brooks; and the personal and descriptive account of the historic Presidents, from Washington to Jackson, which Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton has compiled and illustrated under the title, "Our Early Presidents, Their Wives and Children." In adult literature the additions to the entertaining Story of the States Series, Reuben G. Thwaite's "Story of Wisconsin" and Emma M. Connelly's "Story of Kentucky," will be found of general interest; Elizabeth Deering Hanscom's annotated edition of Lamb's "Essays," with an accompanying biographical study, will be of interest to all lovers of the gentle Elia; Helen Campbell's sketch of "The Life and Times of Anne Bradstreet," will prove a valuable contribution to American biography; and Theo. Stephenson Browne's talk on horseback practice for young ladies in the riding-school will be a help to all equestriennes. For young folks Lothrop's announcements are full of interest: Margaret Sydney's entertaining "An Adirondack Cabin;" Willis Boyd Allen's exciting "Lion City of Africa;" Lieut. H. E. Rhoades' graphic voyage of the Iroquois "Around the World with the Blue Jackets;" W. O. Stoddard's New York story, "Chuck Purdy;" Grant Allen's story of adventure, "Wednesday, the Tenth;" George W. Hamilton's life among the drovers, "Finding Blodgett," and the remarkable true story of adventure and desert island experiences. "A Real Robinson Crusoe," are among the most notable of the new books for the young. To these should also be added the two "Pansy" books "Aunt Hannah and Martha and John," written by "Pansy" herself, and "A Modern Exodus," by Faye Huntington. The younger readers have also been well considered in the Lothrop announcements. They may make choice of Francis Eaton's new story, "Dollikens and the Miser," which has all the charm of her former book, "A Queer Little Princess;" Grace Denio Litchfield's delightful "Little He and She;" Francis A. Humphrey's "How New England Was Made;" Rev. J. R. Simmons' "Sunday Album for Boys and Girls;" Miss A. W. Adams' new color book, "Rhymes for Little Readers;" a new collection of "Animal Stories;" a new "Baby's Annual," and the beautiful annual volumes of Wide Awake, Pansy, Our Little Men and Women and Baby Land.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. show taste and literary discrimination in their announcements for the fall season. Of biographical importance will be Henry Jaeger's "Critical Biography of Henrik Ibsen, 1828-1888," translated from the Norwegian by William Morton Payne, and illustrated with portraits chiefly; "Life and Times of Savonarola," by William Clark; "Best Letters of Lord Chesterfield," edited with introductory essay by Edward Gilpin Johnson; "Best Letters of Lady Mary Wortley Montagu, edited with critical and biographical introduction by Octave Thanet; "Best Letters of Horace Walpole," edited by Anna B. McMahon; and "Best Letters of Madame de Sévigné," with introductory essay by Prof. Melville B. Anderson. All these are finely printed and bound in half calf or half morocco, and make neat library editions of these Laurel Crowned Letters. Very tasteful editions will also be made of "The Essays of Francis Bacon," edited with notes and critical introduction by that indefatigable worker, Prof. Melville B. Anderson; "Odes from the Greek Dramatists;" "The Essays of St. Beuve," with memoir by William Sharp; "The Confessions of Jean Jacques Rousseau," in two volumes, with introduction and notes by Clement K. Shorter; and "Goethe's William Meister," by Thomas Carlyle, with introduction by Edward Dryden. "The Masterpieces of Foreign Authors" are being brought out in t6mo size, printed on good paper at 75 cents in cloth, and $1 in parchment. Pretty editions are also announced of such old favorites as Moore's "Epicurean;" "The Vicar of Wakefield;" "Dr. Antonio, by Ruffini;" and "Eric," the masterpiece of Canon Farrar, which will have 78 illustrations. Other works of fiction will be "Martha Corey," a tale of Salem witchcraft, by Constance Goddard Du Bois; "The Bride of the Gods," a romance of Indian Oregon, by F. H. Balch; "The Beverleys," by Mary Abbott, author of "Alexia;" and "Sweet William," by Margeret Bouvet.

DAVID MCKAY, Philadelphia, has made arrangements to issue the works of Dr. J. Doran, that scholarly compiler from the works of others who for many years has taken high rank among English collectors of ana, and was especially serviceable to literary criticism on account of his accurate knowledge of large subjects and the diversity of his out-of-the-way information. At the time of his death, in 1878, he was manager of Notes and Queries, the plan of which was in the line of the studies he had pursued for years, which he brought to bear upon its pages with remarkable success. The volumes to be issued this fall are "Habits and Men" (1854); "Table Traits" (1854); "Knights and Their Ways" (1856); "Queens of the House of Hanover" (1855); "Monarchs Retired from Business" (1857); and "Annals of the Stage," full of reminiscences of the days of triumph of John Kemble and Mrs. Siddons. These books are to be neatly bound in blue cloth and put up in pasteboard boxes. In his American Classic Series Mr. McKay will publish Longfellow's "Hyperion" and "Ouire-Mer."

MACMILLAN & Co. will have ready two new volumes in their Adventure Series: "The Adventures of Thomas Pellow, of Penryn," written by himself during a twenty-three years' captivity among the Moors, edited, with an introduction and notes, by Dr. Robert Brown, and illustrated from contemporaneous prints; and "The Buccaneers and Marooners of America," an account of the famous adventures and daring deeds of certain notorious freebooters in the Spanish Main, edited and illustrated by Howard Pyle. Other notable works of description will be "The Ruined Abbeys of Yorkshire," by A. Brunet Debaines, with numerous illustrations; "From Charing Cross to St. Paul's," with text by Justin McCarthy and twelve photogravure plates, besides many illustrations in the text by Joseph Pennell; "Edinburgh," by Mrs. Oliphant, with numerous illustrations by George Reid, of which there will also be an édition de luxe; and last, and most important, an authorized translation by Miss Eugénie Sellers of Dr. Carl Schuchhardt's Dr. Schillemann's "Excavations at Troy, Thyrus, etc.," presented in the light of recent knowledge, furnished with an introduction by Walter Leaf, and illustrated with maps, plans and 300 woodcuts. "Glimpses of English Homes," by Miss E. Balch, has a title promising delightful hours. Their leading work of fiction will be F. Marion Crawford's "A Cigarette-Maker's Romance;" and they have also in preparation Rudyard Kipling's "Book of the Forty-five Mornings," and an edition of Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield," with numerous illustrations by Hugh Thomson. Of literary interest will be "Selections from English Prose Writers," a series in five volumes, edited by Henry Craik; a one-volume edition of "The Essays of Elia," edited by Augustine Birrell; the second volume of Mahaffy's "History of Greek Literature;" and "Chronological Outlines of English Literature," by F. Ryland. "History of the Greek Tragedians," by Dr. Munk, translated by A. W. Verrall, will prove an acceptable addition to works on fine arts; history will be covered by "The Royal House of Stuart," illustrated by a series of forty plates in colors, drawn from relics of the Stuarts by William Gibb, with an introduction and notes by John Skelton; a cheaper edition of "Westminster Abbey," by the Rev. W. J. Loftie, with twelve page plates and many minor illustrations; and "The Greek World Under Roman Sway," by Rev. J. P. Mahaffy. Valuable publications for theological students will be "The Oxford Movement," by R. W. Church, Dean of St. Paul's; and "Church of the First Days," by Rev. Dr. C. J. Vaughan. There will be neat editions of the poems of Tennyson and Matthew Arnold, and several books for young people, of which the titles will be found in the classified list, under the heading of Juvenile Literature. The list of announcements of educational books is almost unlimited, and embraces every known branch of study.

JOEL MUNSELL'S SONS, Albany, will bring out a journal of George Washington's, which will be printed entire for the first time, under the title "My Journey Over the Mountains." This journal was begun in March, 1747, when Washington was but sixteen years of age, and will make a valuable addition to the history of the life and employments of the first President, before he began his great career. The journal preserves the names of nearly three hundred of the early settlers and first land owners in the great valley of Virginia, and contains the field notes made by Washington in surveying lands for Lord Thomas Fairfax. Time is slowly destroying the original manuscript, so that an authentic copy is greatly needed. It will be edited by Dr. J. M. Toner, a leading authority on the history of Washington, who will furnish many valuable notes. Fac-similes of Washington's drawings will also be given in the work.

THE NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOC. AND PUB. HOUSE have in press "Pen and Pencil," a volume of pictures, puzzles and short stories for boys and girls, by Edward Carswell, containing also nine shadow pictures, illustrated with sixty wood-engravings; "Frü Dagmar's Son," a Danish story, by Julia McNair Wright; and "Not the Coal-Miner's Boy," by Rev. T. L. Baily, all bearing upon the questions of intemperance and prohibition.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have made preparations for a long line of books for young people, full titles of which will be found in the classified list preceding this department under the head of Juvenile Literature. In works of general literature are announced "Classic Gems of English Literature" in two volumes, the first containing selections from Milton, Addison and Goldsmith, the second compiled from Cowper, Scott and Macaulay; "The Empire," a complete history from Roman times to the present day; "Great Waterfalls, Cataracts and Geysers," described and illustrated by John Gibson; "Lives of English Authors," a biographical history from Chaucer to Browning; and new editions of Rev. James Mackenzie's "History of Scotland" and of "Darwin's Journal" during the voyage of H. M. S. Beagle. There will also be a long line of illustrated monotint and color gift-books, many of them in shapes, made up of selections from all the poets and decorated by some of the best-known designers of flowers and landscapes. Titles of these are entered in the classified list in this issue under the heading of Birthday-Books, Souvenirs, Calendars, etc. The Oxford Bibles and Prayer-Books will of course be ready for the vast Christmas trade done in them every year. The dainty "Finger Prayer-Book" issued for the Easter season will have a companion in "The Marvellous Finger New Testament," a wonderful specimen of printing and binding, exhibiting the properties of the famous "Oxford India Paper," and weighing in limp binding about three-quarters of an ounce, only one inch in width, three and a half inches in length, and one-third of an inch in thickness, yet containing 552 pages (the whole of the New Testament), in a type which, though necessarily minute, is yet clear, distinct and perfectly legible.

NIMS & KNIGHT have been busy throughout the year, preparing an astonishing amount for the holiday season of rich gift-books, calendars and souvenirs. Their chief holiday publications this season will be "Gray's Elegy and Its Author," giving the text of Gray's classic poem, with an introductory essay by Dr. J. L. Williams, illustrated by twenty-five photogravures and half-tone illustrations, reproductions of photographs made on the spot by Dr. Williams, to give an artistic idea of the home and haunts of the poet; "Hawthorne's Legends of the Province House," giving the four stories of which the scene was laid in the famous old Province House—"Howe's Masquerade," "Edward Randolph's Portrait," "Lady Eleanor's Mantle" and "Old Esther Dudley"—for which Frank T. Merrill has made many full-page plates and illustrations in the text; Mrs. Alexander's poem of "The Burial of Moses," illustrated by A. S. Cox, which will make a very handsome gift-book, showing elaborate and careful work; "The Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens, illustrated by I. M. Gaugengigl and T. V. Chominski; and Irving's "Rip Van Winkle," with forty or fifty photogravures from illustrations by Frank T. Merrill. Slightly smaller and equally pretty will be "Song Birds and Seasons," by André Theuriet, with Giacomelli's charming illustrations; "Gems from Emerson," with six full-page illustrations of landscape and flowers; "Her Garden," a memorial poem to Helen Jackson, illustrated by Alice Stewart Hill, who also illustrates "Rocky Mountain Wild Flowers" with dainty hand-painted flowers. "Gems of Art from the Metropolitan Museum" and "Gems of American Art" are illustrated with photogravures from some of the most celebrated foreign and American artists. There are many more of these combinations of classic text and bright illustrations, full titles of which appear elsewhere in the classified list, under the heading of Works of Art and Illustrated Gift-Books. "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground" will be the new volume in the Small Quarto Illustrated Gift-Books which have proved so successful. Charles Copeland makes the illustrations from nature and Frank Myrich furnishes the ornaments, all drawn and printed under the supervision of A. V. S. Anthony. There will be eleven lithographed calendars and six etched calendars for 1891, full titles of which appear in classified list, under Birthday-Books, Calendars, etc. All are pretty, and many show originality of device and lavish generosity in manufacture.

THE OPEN COURT PUBLISHING Co. announce "Three Lectures on the Science of Language," by Max Müller, with a supplement, entitled "My Predecessors," an essay on the genesis of "The Science of Thought;" "Diseases of Personality," an authorized translation of the theories of Th. Ribot; "The Soul of Man," by Dr. Paul Carus, a popular exposition of important psychological theories profusely illustrated with physiological diagrams; and a translation of Gustav Freytag's "The Lost Manuscript," in three volumes. Almost all the publications of this society have first appeared in the pages of The Open Court, their weekly periodical of philosophy, science and ethical religion.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. announce several new novels and cheaper editions of old favorites. Zola and Mrs. Southworth are to be published in a 25 cent edition, at the rate of two volumes a month. For full titles of other forthcoming volumes see the classified list in this issue, under heading of Fiction.

PORTER & COATES will have ready for the holiday trade their long-talked-of Florentine Edition of "Romola," illustrated with sixty photogravures from celebrated paintings and sculptures and bound in two volumes with slip covers in Italian style, or in half crushed levant. A large-paper edition, limited to 250 copies, will also be put on the market. There are to be new Library Editions of Grace and Philip Wharton's "Wits and Beaux of Society" and "Queens of Society," both illustrated with photogravures, and both also to have limited editions on large paper. Boys will be remembered by their favorite writers who publish annually through this house. Harry Castlemon's book will be "Rodney, the Partisan," Horatio Alger's will be "Struggling Upward," and Edward S. Ellis will write of "The Cabin in the Clearing." The "Sea Tales" of Fenimore Cooper will be issued uniform with the Osage Edition of "The Leatherstocking Tales," also in five volumes; and there will be a new and fine edition of Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

JAMES POTT & Co. announce a new 16° "Bagster's Bible" in four volumes the text being printed across the page, bound in Persian morocco, French seal, or limp Syrian levant, and put up in neat boxes, also a "Bourgeois Bible" in 8vo, printed from new plates on thin paper and bound in many styles. They will have a new holiday edition, beautifully bound, of Prof. Henry Drummond's "The Greatest Thing in the World," with sketches for headings of chapters, initial letters and special decorations; and "The Old Documents and the New Bible," by J. Paterson Smyth, which will be an easy lesson in Biblical criticism designed for average readers. "The Good Shepherd Prayer-Book" will have five full-page illustrations and will be gotten up in many styles, varying according to price. "The Preacher Prepared," by William Hardman, will be a collection of suggestions for sermons for the Christian Year; the 4th volume of R. W. Dixon's "History of the English Church" is in press; and there will be a cheaper edition of Thomas Lewin's "The Life and Epistles of St. Paul" in two volumes. Miss Susan Dabney Smede's story, "A Southern Planter," will be ready, and will contain a letter of enthusiastic praise of her work received by the author from Mr. Gladstone. This house always makes a specialty of books suitable for Sunday-schools, and this year has fully two dozen in preparation, of which the titles may be found in the classified list under the heading of Juvenile Literature.

L. PRANG & Co. call the attention of the trade to their sumptuous preparations for Christmas and New Year publications of distinctively American character. Cards, novelties and booklets in profusion will show the literary and artistic work of old favorites, including the familiar names of Ida Waugh, Rosina Emmet Sherwood, Elizabeth B. Comins, Maud Humphrey, Fidelia Bridges, Celia Thaxter, Louis K. Harlow, F. Schuyler Mathews, Edith M. Thomas, Margaret Deland, Edward Everett Hale, Richard Henry Stoddard, Louis Carroll, and many others who in time past have added pretty things to their publishers' ever-growing store. "The Golden Flower—Chrysanthemum" will be the title of a rich collection of poems and pictures devoted to this gorgeous flower, the latter amounting to sixteen full-page illustrations, and eighteen original borders of artistic novelty and merit by F. Schuyler Mathews, a book destined to be among the most popular gift-books of the coming season. Another exquisite volume will be made of Robert Browning's poem of "Saul," illustrated by photogravure from original drawings by Frank O. Small, with a portrait of Robert Browning added to its many attractions. "The Spirit of the Pine" will be a Christmas masque by Esther B. Tiffany, illustrated in monochrome by William S. Tiffany; "The Day Dawneth" will be a poem by Albert Watson, a companion to last year's success, "The Night Cometh;" "Mary's Vision" and "A Christmas Song for the Sorrowing" will be charming little souvenirs, arranged by Elizabeth B. Comins; "The Halo, and other selections," illustrated by Elizabeth B. Gilman; "A Christmas Morning" and "The Winds of the Season," by Frank T. Robinson, illustrated by Louis K. Harlow; "A Driftwood Fire," by Geo. A. Buffum, illustrated by Schuyler Mathews; and many, many more will all be worthy of their publishers. Their new shape-books will include "The Story of a Dory," by Edward Everett Hale, illustrated in color and monochrome by F. Schuyler Mathews and garnished with silk cord, silver rings and anchor; and "A Christmas Plum Pudding with Comments by Jack Horner," will be artistically gotten up by the same artist. In Christmas pictures there will be "The Intruder" (mouse and chickens), by A. F. Tait; "School In" (a basketful of kittens being instructed by a wise old cat); "I'm a Daisy" (A Prize Baby); "Playing School" and "Right or Left" (companions to the inimitable "Prize Babies' Walking Match," which has made Ida Waugh so popular). There will also be a collection of calendars for the pocket, desk, mantel and wall, and three long mantel panels picturing "Water Lilies," "Roses," and "Chrysanthemums," besides numerous smaller studies of flowers by well-known artists.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION announce half a dozen books, the titles of which will be found in our classified list under the heading of Juvenile Literature.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce a letterpress edition of "The Venetian Printing-Press," an historical study based upon documents for the most part unpublished, by Horatio F. Brown, giving an account of first books and their printers, guilds of printers and booksellers, the Venetian press in the sixteenth century, the Inquisition, press legislation during three centuries, and other kindred topics illustrated with wood-block. The Vandyke Edition of Amicis' "Holland and Its People" will be ready in new and revised edition, printed from new plates; "The Diary and Letters of Madame d'Arblay" (Frances Burney), edited with notes by W. C. Ward, and with an essay by Macaulay, will be brought out in three volumes; and there will also be a three-volume edition of Blackmore's "Lorna Doone," to be known as the Exmoor Edition, which will contain a preface by the author, in which he says: "This Lorna visits you not thus, by force of savage ravishers; but under escort of gentle men, fair knights of the order of Copyright. And if you ask her how it is—when so many better tales are told, and die upon the fitful wind—that her simple story still has life and buoyancy on the lips of men, she answers not, but drops her eyes, and wonders more than you do. For neither has she skill of style, nor knowledge of the world, nor scheme of arduous humanity. Nothing but meek love of nature, and plain ungarnished words, and tongue that trembles when the heart is touched." There will be a second series of Literary Gems, so successful last season, presented in six separate volumes bound in full leather, sold separately or in a neat box, the titles of which show the catholicity of taste of the editor: "The Niebelungen Lied," by Thomas Carlyle; "The King of the Golden River," by John Ruskin; "The Science of History," by James Anthony Froude; "Sonnets from the Portuguese," by Elizabeth Barrett Browning; "The School for Scandal," by Richard B. Sheridan; and "Nothing to Wear," by William Allen Butler. The additions to the Knickerbocker Nuggets will be "Representative Irish Stories," compiled, with introduction and notes, by W. B. Yeats; "Love Poems of Three Centuries," compiled by Jessie F. O'Donnell, in two volumes; "French Ballads," printed in the original text, edited by Prof. T. F. Crane; and "Stories from the Arabian Nights." A very pretty volume will be made of a new novel by Margaret Vere Farrington, entitled "Fra Lippo Lippi," a romance of Florence in the 15th century, illustrated with fourteen full-page photographs from well-known Italian masters. Of literary importance will be a second edition of Swan Sonnenschein's "The Best Books;" "A Literary Manual of Foreign Quotations," by John Devoe Belton; and "English Prose," by John Earle, Professor of Anglo-Saxon in the University of Oxford. A new edition of Washington Irving's more popular works will be known as the Sleepy Hollow Edition. It will include "Alhambra," "Bracebridge Hall, or, the humorist," "Crayon Miscellany;" "Knickerbocker;" "The Sketch-Book;" and "Wolfert's Roost." "Making the Best of Things, and other essays," by a new writer, and "Good Living," a practical cookery-book for town and country, by Sara Van Buren Brugière, will both be books calculated to increase home pleasures. The departments of nature and science will be represented by "The Trees of Northeastern America," by Charles S. Newhall, including the native trees of Canada and of the northern United States east of the Mississippi, a revised and enlarged edition of "Among the Moths and Butterflies," by Julia P. Ballard; and "Dust and Its Dangers," by T. M. Prudden, a book written to show the danger of contracting serious disease, especially consumption, by means of dust-laden air. "The Unwritten Constitution of the United States," a philosophical inquiry into the fundamentals of American constitutional law, by Christopher G. Tiedeman, and "The Writings and Correspondence of John Jay, first Chief-Justice of the United States," edited by Henry P. Johnson, will both be valuable additions to the history of the United States. The new volumes in the Story of the Nations Series will be "The Story of Scotland," by James Mackintosh, and "The Story of Switzerland," by R. Stead and Mrs. Arnold Hug; and there is also in press "Tabular Views of Universal History," a series of chronological tables, compiled by the late G. P. Putnam and kept up to date by Lynds E. Jones. The new volumes for the Heroes of the Nations Series will be "Gustavus Adolphus," showing the struggle of Protestantism for existence, by C. R. L. Fletcher; "Pericles, and the Golden Age of Athens," by Evelyn Abbott; and "Theodoric the Goth," the barbarian champion of civilization, described by Thomas Hodgkin. Books for the young will be found in classified list under heading of Juvenile Literature.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. announce a volume on "Honduras," by Mrs. Lily Tyner, the author of the valuable book on "Costa Rica" published last season and giving the same clear account of the people, trade, commerce and resources of the new island she has chosen to make known to her readers, of which the interest is enhanced by many illustrations. "The Complete Book of the Dog," by G. O. Shields, will be a volume of scientific value; "The Constitutional History of France," by Henry C. Lockwood, will be an exhaustive work on the subject, and "A Study of Genius," by N. K. Royce, promises to be full of new ideas. Arthur D. Hall has translated Théophile Gautier's "Sprite," which will be issued in an illustrated edition, as will also Balzac's "The Chouans;" and there will be several stories of actors and actresses, written by W. T. Hall, issued under the title of "The Turnover Club." In the Asalto Series will be issued several new works of fiction of which the titles may be found in the classified list preceding this department.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. will publish several books during the autumn, gotten up with the neatness and taste that distinguish all the issues of this house. "The Ministry and Sacraments of the Church," by Rev. H. J. Van Dyke, will be a collection of the lectures delivered at Princeton Theological Seminary in March, 1890, on the L. P. Stone foundation; the abridged edition of Alfred Edersheim's "Life and Times of Jesus, the Messiah," will be made into a large-paper edition with twenty-four photo-illustrations of scenes and incidents in the Holy Land; the two new volumes in the Biblical Illustrator will be "Genesis" and "Philipplans," the volume in the Pulpit Commentary will be "II. Chronicles;" and the Men of the Bible Series will have additions of "The Minor Prophets," "Isaac and Jacob," "Gideon and Judges," and "St. Paul." The Missionary Library will be composed of five volumes already in the catalogue of the house, which will be neatly boxed: "The Cross and the Dragon," by B. C. Henry; "Siam, or, the heart of Farther India," by Mary Lavinia Cort; "James Hannington," by E. C. Dawson; "Life in Hawaii," by Thos Coan; and the "Autobiography of William G. Schauffer," edited by his sons. A new devotional library will consist of six of Rose Porter's pretty books, bound in cardboard or ivory and sold separately or in a box. The titles are "Resting in His Love," "Looking Towards Sunrise," "In Quietness," "Open Windows," and "A Year of Blessings." About seventeen new illustrations have been added to Tissot's "Unknown Switzerland," which will be printed on Cumberland mill paper and bound in a new style as a special holiday gift-book; and there will also be a sumptuous large-paper edition of "Fifty Years of English Song" limited to fifty copies, which will be bound in half roxburgh, and have numerous photo-portraits of the poets. Several dainty little books for the young are also under way. Mrs. Margaret J. Preston, under the title of "Aunt Dorothy," will tell the story of an old Virginia plantation in the quaint style that made the fascination of "Fish-in' Jimmy;" and "Prince Dimple" will be a little story to be told by Mrs. Paull and elaborately illustrated.

FLEMING H. REVELL. Chicago and New York, announces a long list of booklets for all seasons illustrated in chromo-lithography, monotint and etchings, ranging in price from three to fifty cents, and some new calendars for 1891, of all of which titles will be found under the heading of Birthday-Books, Bible Text-Books, Souvenirs, Calendars, Almanacs, etc. They also have a bewildering array of forthcoming books in other departments. They call special attention to Matthew Henry's "Commentary" in six large octavo volumes, which will be sold at an unusually low price, bringing this standard help for all students of the Bible within the reach of many who have hitherto looked at it afar off. "Moral Muscle, and How to Use It," by Frederick A. Atkins, will be a brotherly chat with young men. "The Pilgrim's Progress" will be brought out in three styles, to be known as The Library Pilgrim's Progress, The Dollar Pilgrim's Progress, and The Half Dime Pilgrim's Progress. "Scripture Outlines by Books and Themes," by William G. Carr, will consist of author's notes on the books of the Bible and skeletons of Bible Readings; and "The Secret of Success," by John T. Dale, and Prof. Henry Drummond's "The Perfected Life" and "Love the Supreme Gift," will all be helpful works, brought out in neat handy shape, ready for daily use and reference. Rev. F. B. Meyer, whose writings have had wide sale in England, is as yet almost unknown here, but there will no doubt be a warm welcome for his popular books, "The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life," "Christian Living," and "Israel, a Prince with God." The poems of Frances Ridley Havergal on the list of this house will this year be issued in fine art covers, lithographed and printed by Ernest Nister. To their Missionary Biographies will be added "James Calvert" and "Henry Martin;" and there will be a new volume of "Twelve Sermons" by Spurgeon. A special edition will be made for the United States of "Revell's Imperial Globe Atlas of Modern and Ancient Geography;" and Arthur Montefiore's "David Livingstone" is to be added to the World's Benefactors Series. For young people there are many separate volumes and books in sets, varying from 12½ cents to $1.50 apiece, and covering almost every subject connected with the religious and moral training of children. For titles of the many little volumes planned for, look in the classified list, under the heading of Juvenile Literature. The illustrated annuals for the young form a special feature of the preparations for the holidays.

ROBERTS BROTHERS have made extensive preparations for publishing an unusual number of handsome books. "Our New England" will be described by Hamilton Wright Mabie, and many familiar scenes will be illustrated by photogravures from nature by A. W. Elson & Co., with remarques drawn by Frank T. Merrill representing homes of the Puritans, country roads, milking time, rocks, harbors and trees, and all the familiar aspects of quiet, pretty New England homes—a book that will be a most appropriate gift for some native of New England kept by duty in some foreign land. There will also be a holiday edition of Edwin Arnold's "Light of Asia," bound in Oriental colors, with a new portrait of the author by Damman, and with illustrations taken for the most part from photographs of Buddhist sculptures and frescoes found in the ancient ruins of India. They have in press the companion volume to Mr. F. A. Knight's "Idyls of the Field," in his "By Leafy Ways," dealing chiefly with bird life, illustrated by E. T. Compton; and "The Future of Science," by Ernest Renan. "The Day's Message" will be a brief selection of prose and verse for every day in the year, chosen by Susan Coolidge, with cover design by Mrs. Whitman, tending to impress a cheerful and helpful way of doing what the hands find to do; Emily Dickinson's "Poems," with introduction by Thomas Wentworth Higginson, telling of the earnest friendship existing for years between Miss Dickinson and Helen Hunt Jackson, will be daintily gotten up; "Her Great Ambition" will be a new novel by Anne Richardson Earle; and George Sand's "Nanon," translated by Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer, will be brought out uniform with her other works already issued by this house. Morris' "House of the Wolfings" has just been issued in a neat, cheap edition; Pascoe's "London" has also been revised to date, and a new edition is being made of "Days and Hours in a Garden," by E. V. B., which will have pictorial head and tail pieces taken from sketches of the nooks and corners of the garden described by the author. For children and young people the provision made will be generous as heretofore. "One Summer's Lessons in Practical Perspective" will be given in the form of a story by Christine Chaplin Brush; "The Winds, the Woods and the Wanderer" will be a fable for children, by Lily F. Wesselhoeft, author of that sparkling little story "Sparrow, the Tramp;" "Dear Daughter Dorothy" will be by Miss Plympton, and will have seven illustrations by the author; "In My Nursery" will be another of the rollicking books of Laura E. Richards, the writer of "The Joyous Story of Toto;" there will be a new edition of Davenport's "Page, Squire and Knight;" a sequel to Walter Wentworth's "Kibboo Ganey" will be called "The Drifting Island;" and "Thine, Not Mine," will be a boys' story, by William Everett, whose former stories, "Double Play" and "Changing Base," for some time out of print, will again be put in the market.

HAROLD ROORBACH, N. Y., announces that forty numbers are now issued in "Roorbach's American edition of Acting Plays," including copyright plays and reprints, handsomely printed and published at low cost. This edition is a favorite with the public, and is steadily receiving wisely selected additions.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, LIMITED, will add to their illustrated edition of Daudet's writings, "Kings in Exile," a book which easily ranks among the best half-dozen of "Tartarin's" author. Following the precedent already set by themselves in "Afloat" and "Pierre and Jean," they will also bring out in their Daudet style two other works from the French, "Sister Philomene" and "Disillusion." The first of these is by Edmond and Jules de Goncourt, with illustrations by Bieler. It is translated by Miss Laura Ensor, who has put into English most of their Daudet books (including "Kings in Exile"), and whose work has been uniformly received with satisfaction. "Disillusion" is the title which its translator, Mr. E. P. Robins, has chosen for Francois Coppée's "Toute Une Jeunesse," which appeared serially in the early part of this year in l'Illustration (Paris), and is probably the best substitute that could be found for the untranslatable French original. As an explanatory sub-title, "The Story of Amédée's Youth" is added. The illustrations in "Disillusion" are by Emile Bayard, and have all the cleverness which distinguishes the Paris school of to-day. "Savoy Ballads," by the author of "Pinafore" and the "Bab Ballads," which were promised for last year, but which had to be postponed, are again announced for this season. As they are to have original illustrations by Gilbert himself, their appearance will be looked for with interest. Randolph Caldecott, of whom art-lovers never tire, will be represented by a substantial oblong quarto, bound in cloth with gilt edges, containing a complete collection of his contributions to the London Graphic. The edition will be printed by Edmund Evans, the prince of color-printers, and will be a limited one, every copy being numbered. Another world-renowned color-printer, Ernest Nister, will supply full-page plates for editions of "Robinson Crusoe" and "The Swiss Family Robinson," similar in style to the Andersen, Grimm, "Arabian Nights" and "Leatherstocking Tales" previously published by this house. Other color work will be found in the "Grand Army Picture-Book," an oblong quarto in boards, of which the text is supplied by Mr. Hugh Craig; Miss Greenaway's "Almanack for 1891," the diminutive annual favorite, bound in various styles and printed by Evans; and in a variety of toy-books made by Van Leer and Evans, a number of which are ingeniously cut in the shape of their subjects, as "A Apple Pie," "The Frog Who Would A-wooling Go," etc. In the line of travel Mr. W. S. Caine, M.P., will have a volume on "Picturesque India," which he further characterizes as "an unconventional guide-book." It will have a couple of hundred of fresh illustrations, in addition to a number of maps. Perhaps Lieut. Low's "Great African Travellers" should also come under this class, as it is certainly more geographical than biographical. By special permission it is dedicated to Mr. Stanley, whose portrait opens the book and whose rescue of Emin concludes it. It is a good-sized octavo, freely illustrated, as is also their other African book, by Mr. Craig, which, by a curious coincidence (caused probably by manufacture on a different side of the Atlantic), bears the same title, "Great African Travellers." The two books, though both start with Mungo Park and close with Stanley's return from his latest journey, are, however, entirely different—Mr. Craig's being in quarto boards and suited to more popular taste than Lieut. Low's volume. Frank Kirchback, with others, contributes the illustrations to a new and fine edition of Bulwer's "Last Days of Pompeii," and R. Caton Woodville furnishes those for another book by Lieut. Low on "Battles of the British Army." New editions of Kingston's "Shipwrecks and Disasters at Sea" and Col. Routledge's "Discoveries and Inventions of the Nineteenth Century" will be copiously illustrated. As an instance of the recent revision of the latter, it may be mentioned that it contains descriptions of the Forth Bridge, the Eiffel Tower and the Manchester Ship Canal. The 13th edition of the standard authority, both in England and America, on contemporaneous biography, brought down to July, 1890, is also announced under a slightly altered title, "Men and Women of the Time." The shape of the book is also changed a little, so as to render it in its ever-increasing size more convenient to handle. This volume undoubtedly suggested the "Men of the Time Birthday-Book" which Mr. Boyes has prepared for the Routledges, and which is a neat 24mo, bound in cloth with gilt edges. In deference, presumably, to the general feminine feeling on the subject, the year of the birth of the women mentioned in the souvenir is omitted, though the month and day are given. No such allowance, however, is made for man's weakness. Though two numbers of the new quarterly of this house have already appeared (May and August), the enterprise deserves mention in these pages as being one of the novelties of the year; for the peculiarity of Subjects of the Day consists in the treatment of only one topic (or class of kindred topics) in each issue, this treatment comprising a series of articles by different hands touching various phases of one question. Thus the first number dealt exclusively with "State Education for the People," and the second with "Socialism, Labor and Capital." Mr. James Samuelson is the editor of the periodical. A new edition, greatly enlarged, of Nuttall's valuable "Dictionary of Statistics" should be noted here as one of their important reference-books. The next addition to their Carisbrooke Library will be "Gulliver's Travels" and other pieces by Dean Swift, edited, of course, like its predecessors, by Prof. Morley. Mr. Frith's translation of Gautier's "Chivalry" (illustrated) must not be passed by, and Prof. Hoffmann's new "Book of Card and Table Games" is sure of numerous buyers among the thousands who are always on the alert for something new in the way of amusing entertainment. "Out-Door Sports for Boys and Girls" is edited by L. E. Jones, who wrote the "History of the United States for Young People," published by this house last year, and like that volume is a board quarto, freely illustrated. Mrs. Barker's "Little Wide Awake" has been so long a favorite that to do anything more than to remind readers of it would be superfluous. This is its seventeenth year. In their 16mo series of juveniles Mrs. Herbert Martin will have a volume, "Little Great-Grandmother," which A. C. Corbould has illustrated; and Mrs. Adams-Acton (Jeanie Hering) will have another, "Rosebud," with illustrations by M. E. Edwards. The same hand (that of Edwards) has also made the illustrations for a new edition of Mrs. Molesworth's "Hermy," "Hoodie" and "The Boys and I," which range in size and price with "Rosebud," etc. "The Mother's Recompense" will be added to the uniform edition of Grace Aguilar's works which they are bringing out, and new editions are promised of Mrs. Jameson's "Characteristics of Women" and her "Celebrated Female Sovereigns" as well as of Miss Edgeworth's "Early Lessons" and "Parent's Assistant;" the latter two with illustrations by F. A. Fraser. A six-volume handsome library edition of Smollett's novels will be made, and will take rank with their recently published Fielding; and three of the favorite tales of Dumas "Three Musketeers," "Twenty Years After," and "Vicomte de Bragelonne," 2 vols., all illustrated, will be boxed and sold in sets (4 vols.), under the general title of "The Musketeer Romances." "Les Misérables" in 2 vols., with 50 illustrations, is another of their new editions. It will be bound in half cloth and cased. Of their smaller books only "Riding for Pupils," "A Thousand and One Riddles," Murray's "Encyclopædia" and "Atlas of the World" can be spoken of. They have many other new works, new editions and bindings, which there is left no room to mention.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' list of fall announcements includes an unusually large number of books in which the illustrations fairly divide the reader's interest with the text. Prominent among these is "In Scripture Lands: new views of sacred places," by Edward L. Wilson. Mr. Wilson's journey through Scripture lands is the first instance in which an artist photographer has visited the scenes made memorable by the Bible narratives, and has reproduced both by camera and by word-painting the people, the ruins and the famous spots of sacred history. Col. William C. Church, the editor of the Army and Navy Journal, has written a "Life of John Ericsson," which sets forth the romantically interesting career of the great inventor and engineer with the utmost picturesqueness and power. The author has had access to all of the family correspondence and documents, and has written a life that leaves nothing for any future biographer to do. The work is in two volumes, and has fifty illustrations which emphasize its popular character. The third volume of the "Cyclopedia of Music and Musicians," edited by John Denison Champlin, Jr., with William F. Apthorp as critical editor, completes an important work. The 36 full-page etched portraits and 1000 other illustrations, with the text covering every composer, singer and composition of any note, including Americans, make this an invaluable work of reference—a key and a guide to the whole personnel and literature of music. Henry T. Finck's new book, "The Pacific Coast Scenic Tour," is a patriotic demonstration of the superiority of American scenery. The field covered extends from the Mexican border of Southern California to Alaska; the Canadian Pacific Railway, Yellowstone Park, and the Grand Cañon of the Colorado being among the wonders described. The text is accompanied by twenty-four full-page illustrations of the points of special interest and the wonderful scenery described. "Electricity in Daily Life: a popular account of the science and application of electricity to every-day uses," consists of the series of electric articles which have attracted wide popular interest during their appearance in Scribner's Magazine. The ten writers of these papers were selected for their eminence as acknowledged authorities in various fields, both as theorists and practical electricians. Jacob A. Riis, for many years Police Headquarters reporter for the Associated Press, is the author of some extremely valuable and suggestive studies among the tenements of New York, entitled "How the Other Half Lives." Mr. Riis' daily and nightly work has made him thoroughly familiar with the seamy side of life in the metropolis, and this he paints in realistic and vivid colors. Benjamin Ellis Martin's "In the Footprints of Charles Lamb" fills a place curiously empty hitherto in Lamb literature. It follows Lamb in his numerous changes of residence and his customary walks in London, conveying at the same time an intimate and faithful portrait of the man. It has an exhaustive bibliography and many charming illustrations. Two new volumes are to be issued in the Cameo Edition—Mr. Cable's "Old Creole Days," with an etching by Percy Moran, and T. N. Page's "In Ole Virginia," with an etching by W. L. Sheppard. The books are printed from new plates, on heavy, wide-margined paper. Two books by Eugene Field, whose witty contributions to the Chicago press have made his name widely known, will attract attention. They are "A Little Book of Western Verse" and "A Little Book of Profitable Tales." The pathetic tenderness and graceful imagery of some of Mr. Field's poems are as moving as the mining dialect narratives are mirth-provoking. The "Tales" are equally varied in color—tender, fantastic and humorous. In "A Little Brother of the Rich, and other verses," Edward S. Martin reveals an easy, graceful style of versification and an abundance of gay spirits. He has been a contributor to Life for many years, and his oddly-humorous conceits are very clever. The success attending the publication last spring of three volumes, translated from the French of M. Imbert de Saint-Amand by Mr. T. S. Perry, relating to "Famous Women of the French Court," insures a hearty welcome for three more volumes that are forthcoming—"Citizeness Bonaparte," "Marie Louise and the Decadence of the Empire" and "The Court of the Empress Josephine," each containing a portrait. Although largely biographical and possessing the interest inseparable from personality, the volumes are equally pictures of the exciting and brilliant times they describe. A new novel, American to the core, is Harold Frederic's "In the Valley," with 20 beautiful full-page illustrations by Howard Pyle. In this story Mr. Frederic takes for a background the beautiful Mohawk Valley of Central New York, and reviews the romantic traditions of the French and Indian and Revolutionary wars. It is a love romance in an historical setting. A new uniform edition is announced of Edward Eggleston's two well-known novels of life on the Western Reserve in the early years of this century—"Roxy" and "The Circuit Rider," both illustrated. The new edition of E. T. W. Hoffmann's "Weird Tales," in two volumes, contains a portrait and 22 superb etchings by the celebrated French etcher, Ad. Lauze, who has used as his subjects some of the most picturesque scenes and startling incidents in these marvellous stories. Five more volumes, completing the work, will be published this fall of Henry Adams' "History of the United States." The two administrations of Jefferson having been the subject of the first four volumes, the next two will relate to the first administration of Madison, while the final three, making nine in all, will treat of Madison's second term. "A Short History of Anglo-Saxon Freedom" is the title of a volume in which Prof. Jas. K. Hosmer, of Washington University, St. Louis, explains the essential unity of the Anglo-Saxon race, and describes the steady development of its cardinal political principle—popular liberty—from its beginnings among the Teutonic invaders of Britain to its present expressions in the British and American constitutions. Prof. Lewis F. Stearns, of Bangor, just elected to succeed the Rev. Dr. Shedd, in Union Theological Seminary, gives, in "The Evidence of Christian Experience," an exhaustive and luminous statement of the new system of evidence that has replaced the traditional apologetics of the Butler and Paley school. Prof. J. G. Schurman, of Cornell, is the author of a new book, "Belief in God: its origin, nature and basis," which embodies a complete history of the growth and development of man's belief in God, with an examination of the attitude on this question of the present schools of philosophy. In "Talks with Athenian Youths," the translator of "A Day in Athens with Socrates" gives five dialogues from Plato for the purpose of illustrating, in the personalities of the leading characters, the typical Athenian youths of the time of Socrates. The "International Theological Library," which is undertaken by Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons in connection with Messrs. T. & T. Clark, of Edinburgh, is to be edited by Prof. Charles A. Briggs, D.D., of New York, and Prof. S. D. F. Salmond, D.D., of Aberdeen. This library is designed to cover the whole field of Christian Theology, each volume being complete in itself and yet part of an organic whole. It is to be a series of text-books for students of theology and yet a systematic exposition of the several departments of theological science for all intelligent persons. The library is international, interconfessional, catholic and scientific. The authors have been chosen for their eminent ability in the departments assigned them. Prof. George T. Ladd is the author of two forthcoming books—"Introduction to Philosophy," reviewing the whole field of philosophy and intended for advanced students; and "Outlines of Physiological Psychology," an abridgment intended for use in higher academies, etc., of the author's "Elements of Physiological Psychology." Another volume is forthcoming of Dr. Marvin R. Vincent's "Word Studies in the New Testament," the subject being The Epistles of Paul—Romans, Corinthians, Ephesians, Philipians, Colossians and Philemon. Several new editions of well-known books are in preparation—a revised and enlarged edition of Prof. Guyot's "Earth and Man," with new maps and appendices; Eugene Schuyler's great work, "Peter the Great, Emperor of Russia," which will appear in a cheaper form, retaining the 200 beautiful illustrations of the first edition; and Prof. N. S. Shaler's popular account of some familiar geological phenomena, "Aspects of the Earth," with the 100 illustrations of the earlier and more expensive edition. A new juvenile by Prof. H. H. Boyesen is "Against Heavy Odds: a tale of Norse heroism," with 13 full-page illustrations by W. L. Taylor. It is the narrative of how the indomitable pluck and perseverance of a Norwegian lad enabled him to win a great triumph, bringing honor and prosperity to himself and his native village. The story is brisk in movement and honest, hearty and healthful in tone. Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's new book, "Little Saint Elizabeth, and other stories," with R. B. Birch's 12 new full-page drawings, will interest every boy and girl who has read the author's "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Daniel C. Beard has added sixty new drawings to illustrate the new games, sports and mechanical contrivances which he has incorporated in a new edition of his popular "American Boy's Handy Book, or, what to do and how to do it." The volume now has 350 illustrations, and is a veritable vade mecum for every healthy boy. The Misses Beard's companion volume, "The American Girl's Handy Book, or, how to amuse yourself and others," with over 500 illustrations by the authors, is issued in a new and cheaper edition. A new and cheaper edition is also issued of Mrs. Burton Harrison's collection of entertaining fairy tales, "Bric-à-Brac Stories," which has twenty-four charming illustrations and a cover design by the famous English artist, Walter Crane.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD will bring out some valuable illustrated works during the holiday season of 1890-1891. "The Barbizon School of Painters," by David Croal Thomson, will be a complete biographical and critical account of the group of five celebrated French painters known as the Barbizon school—Rousseau, Millet, Diaz, Daubigny and Corot. Only one hundred copies of a large-paper edition will be printed, with illustrations on special paper, every copy numbered and signed by the author. John Ashton's new work, "Social England Under the Regency, 1811-1819," will be in two volumes, with upwards of ninety illustrations. "The Life of Marie de Medicis," by Miss Pardoe, will devote three volumes to the troubled life of Henry IV.'s unfortunate consort; and there will be a new and cheap edition of Linda Villari's translation of Prof. Pasquale Villari's "Life and Times of Giralmo Savonarola," in two volumes. The eighth and concluding volume of the Henry Irving Shakespeare will also be ready, containing "Hamlet," "Henry VIII.," "Pericles," "Sonnets and Poems," and the index to the complete work. Important descriptive works will be "Egyptian Sketches," by Jeremiah Lynch, formerly President of the San Francisco Geographical Society. "Quaint London," a souvenir describing a number of interesting relics of old London, with photographs and accounts of places of historical interest; and "Japan and the Pacific, and a Japanese View of the Eastern Question," by Manjiro Inagaki, which will have five excellent maps. Biographical works will be the third volume in the Illustrated Biographies of Great Artists, in which are to appear "William Mulready," "David Cox and Peter DeWint," "George Cruikshank," "Gavarni," "Van Eyck, Memlinc, Matsys," and other landscape artists of Holland; "From Handel to Halle," by Louis Engel, with autobiographies of Prof. Huxley and Prof. Herkomer, thirteen portraits and fac-simile of a manuscript by Beethoven; "Four Great Teachers," by Joseph Forster, dealing with Ruskin, Carlyle, Emerson and Browning; and "Richard Wagner's Letters" to his dearest friends, Theodore Uhlig, William Fischer and Ferdinand Heine, translated into English, with a preface, by J. S. Shedlock, and giving an etching of Wagner by C. W. Sherborn. Of literary importance will be "A Manual of Bibliography," by Walter Thomas Rogers, an introduction to the knowledge of books, library management and the art of cataloguing; an authorized translation of Ibsen's "Prose Dramas;" an unexpurgated edition of Thomas Middleton, edited by Havelock Ellis, the new volume in the Mermaid Series; and "Lyrics from Elizabethan Romances," edited by A. H. Bullen. "The Prehistoric Antiquities of the Aryan Peoples," a manual of comparative philology and the earliest culture, will be translated by F. B. Jevons from the second German edition of Dr. O. Schrader's great work; and there will be a new edition of William N. Lettsom's translation of "The Niebelungen Lied." The new volume in the Contemporary Science Series will be "Manual Training," by Dr. C. M. Woodward, of St. Louis. Many important and valuable theological works are announced, of which the full titles appear in the classified list preceding this department, under the heading Religion and Philosophy. Titles of many new books for the young and new editions of old favorites will also be found in this classified list, under the heading of Juvenile Literature.

THE FREDERICK A. STOKES Co. announce a largely increased line of publications and manufactures, including an unusual variety of handsome art books and gift volumes, besides many standard works in choice editions, and a fine array of artistic novelties. There will be a companion to the successful collection entitled "Fac-Similes of Aquarelles by American Artists," in "Some American Painters in Water-Colors," with text by Ripley Hitchcock, and reproductions of "A Late Arrival," by Wm. T. Smedley; "Girl with Flowers," by Rosina Emmet Sherwood; "A Truant on the Beach," by Mrs. J. Pauline Sunter; "Margaret," by Leon Moran; "Newly Fallen Snow," by Walter L. Palmer; "A Yale-Harvard Race," by James M. Barnsley; "The Pet Gazelle," by J. M. Gerome Ferris, and "Little Folk Wide-Awake," by Maud Humphrey, every picture well worthy of framing. Of this work there will be an édition de luxe, limited to 250 copies, all signed and numbered and bearing the signature of the artist in every case, and two other editions without the signatures, but very tastefully bound and ornamented. Twelve of the most meritorious "Art Gravures" published by this house in former years are now offered in colors, and fifteen new numbers are promised in their well-known series of "Photogravures" at astonishingly low prices. "The Pictures of Child Life," by Maud Humphrey, will this year include twelve new subjects, artistically executed in fourteen colors; and a decided novelty will be the "Humphrey Easels," with designs of children's heads, executed in this artist's inimitable manner. There will be copies made by hand in water-colors of Rose Emmet Sherwood's "Girl with Flowers," of the same size as the original; and important etchings by Robert E. Wisemann, of "The Harvard-Yale," giving many of the historical buildings so dear to Harvard men, besides innumerable reproductions of art works, all showing delicate finish of workmanship. "From Beginning to End" will be a volume of selections from the writings of John Hall, Joseph Cook, R. Heber Newton, T. De Witt Talmage, David Swing, William W. Boyd, Arthur T. Pierson, Hiram W. Thomas, George C. Lorimer and Bishop Newman, all bearing upon the life of Christ, for which the illustrations will be photogravure reproductions of celebrated pictures of Gérôme, Doré, Da Vinci, Scheffer, Hunt and others. A choice collection of marine scenes will be called "Sea Chimes" and will consist of sea poems by known authors, illustrated with etchings by H. R. Blaney, mounted in two styles of appropriate binding, of which the "marine" style is now also used for the Gondola Series and for the Land and Sea Series. The new volume in the Flowers from Hill and Dale Series will be "Friends from My Garden," with text by Anna M. Pratt, illustrated by Laura C. Hills, with twelve designs in colors representing personified or living flowers. "Flora's Kingdom" will be in the shape of a handsome portfolio, containing twelve sketches of living flowers, painted by hand in water-colors; the two new volumes in the Choice Photogravure Series will be "Bits of Modern Art" and "Recent Photogravures," each containing six prints tied together in leatherette cover. "Flower Folk" will have twenty-four full-page illustrations, by Laura C. Hills, of favorite flowers, again represented as living people; and "Baby Sweethearts," verses of child life, by Helen Gray Cone, will be illustrated with fac-similes of water-colors by Maud Humphrey. The text and illustrations of this latter work will also be divided into two books, and sold under the titles of "Bonny Little People" and "Tiny Toddlers." The edition of standard poets, known as the Vignette Series, so successfully begun with "Lucile," will have the additions of Tennyson's "Princess, and other poems," with illustrations by Charles Howard Johnson; Goethe's "Faust," in Anster's translation, illustrated by Frederick J. Boston; and "Lalla Rookh," illustrated by McIlvaine. These poems are put up in every style—the "orchid" and "plastic" bindings being novelties of this year that promise to be salable. The Bird Song Series and Flower Song Series will also be put into these, and other bindings of new design. The important Handy Volume edition of some of the best-known classics of literature will number 250 volumes, after receiving its addition this year of 67 new volumes, covering the complete works of Thackeray in 36 volumes, "Marryat's Famous Tales" in four volumes, "Select Works of Freeman" in two volumes, etc., etc. A unique edition of a quaint poem will be made of "Thus Think and Smoke Tobacco," illustrated by George Wharton Edwards, in a striking cover of reversed cloth, with brown leather thongs. Keble's "Christian Year" and à Kempis' "Imitation of Christ" will be brought out, printed on thin paper like that in use for Bibles, and bound in eight new styles. "The Puckle Club, or, a gray cap for a green head," will be an interesting reprint of an old London book, first published in 1723, which purports to be a dialogue between father and son on many topics, written with quaint humor by James Puckle. Several new volumes will be added to "The Manuals of Sports," and five new volumes to "The Manuals of Games," full titles of which will be found in classified list, under the heading of Sports and Amusements. The seventh series of "Good Things of Life" will be ready, and a book of American humor in its best form will be "Health Guyed," by Frank P. W. Bellew, with illustrations by "Chip." The Good Form Series will be enlarged by three new books on etiquette, relating to "Dinners," "Manners," and "Letter-Writing." After all these works of art and beauty designed for recreation chiefly, there is promised the twenty-first edition of a solid work, in a "Dictionary of the English and German Languages," by William James and C. Stoffel. The house has also made provision for many children's books, full titles of which will be found in the classified list, under the heading of Juvenile Literature. "Two Little Tots on Their Way through the Year," illustrated by Mrs. J. Pauline Sunter; "Maggie Bradford's School-Days," by Joanna H. Mathews; "Two Loyal Lovers," a story of war-times, by Elizabeth Winthrop Johnson; "A Loyal Little Red Coat," a story of child life in New York in 1783, illustrated by Harry A. Ogden, etc., are among the more important. No less than thirty-two "Calendars" are announced for 1891, at prices ranging from 25 cents to $2.50, of which all the titles thus far announced will be found under heading of Birthday-Books, Souvenirs, Calendars, etc., in the classified list in this issue.

E. & F. N. SPON have just ready some very valuable books, of which full titles will be found under the heading of Arts and Sciences, in the classified list preceding this department.

THE UNITED BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE (W. J. Shuey) will have ready for Christmas, 1890, "Festal Days, No. 1," by Rev. E. S. Lorenz, giving thirty-two pages of suggestions for tableaux, decorations, recitations, short exercises and dialogues, with music, bright carols, etc.; and "Christmas Voice," by the same compiler, giving a Christmas programme of great variety and attractiveness, with rich possibilities for spectacular and orchestral accompaniments. Special attention is called to "The People's Hymnal," also prepared by Rev. E. S. Lorenz, intended for church worship, college chapel exercises, prayer and revival services and Sunday-schools, containing standard hymns and the tunes most generally sung with them; also, later hymns often used in revival and prayer meetings, of which there will be a special edition with responsive readings from the Psalms and Gospels, and including the Ancient Litany and the Apostles' Creed. This "Hymnal" will be issued in half leather with lithograph slides and also in plain cloth. There will be new editions of Baltzell's successful "Gospel Tidings," issued last season, and also of his "Messiah's Star" of two years ago. "The Young Scholars Calendar for 1891" will make a most suitable gift for public or Sunday-schools, arranged for each page to cover one month and to give Bible texts on conduct, studies, history and other work of scholars.

THE UNITED STATES BOOK CO. (John W. Lovell Co.) announce the second volume of the "Prose Dramas of Herrick Ibsen," which will contain "The Lady of the Sea," "An Enemy of Society," "The Wild Duck" and "The Young Men's League;" "Paracelsus" and "Jacob Boehme," by Franz Hartmann; and editions of A. P. Sinnett's "The Occult World" and "Esoteric Buddhism." They will also have a long list of English novels, of which full titles appear in the classified list preceding this department under the heading of Fiction. Works by "Ouida," W. E. Morris, Rhoda Broughton, Annie Thomas, W. Clark Russell, Frank Barrett, Adeline Sergeant, etc., are in active preparation.

D. VAN NOSTRAND make several announcements of importance, of which full titles will be found under the heading of Arts and Sciences, in the classified list in this issue.

MARCUS WARD's illustrated books and booklets for Christmas, New Year, birthday and general greeting, in colors and monochrome, will be up to their well-known standard. All the old favorites will be on hand, and many new designs will make it hard to select from such embarrassment of riches. "The Courtship and Marriage of Cock Robin and Jennie Wren;" "Young Maids and Old China;" "Thistle down," a book of poems by Sarah Doudney; Keble's "Star of the East;" "The Messiah;" "Light on the Way," and many others, will be notable examples of illumination and fine printing. The young folks will delight in "Piggy Wiggy's Picture Book;" "Monsieur Pouf," the story of a jolly poodle dog; "A Fairy Ship," and other volumes made up of separate booklets published in former years; and will also be attracted by the shaped booklets, of which the most charming are "This Little Pig," "The Old Woman and Her Pig," "This is the House that Jack Built" and "The Frog He Would a-Wooling Go." The publications of this house are known throughout the trade. Names and designs vary from year to year, but the workmanship remains the same, and "novelties" bearing the imprint of this house are always in large demand and should be ordered well ahead.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. call special attention to their Bedford Handy-Volume Shakespeares, which they issue in eight distinct styles of binding, and which was one of the most successful holiday gifts last season. Their preparations this season are almost exclusively for young people, and for full titles of the long array of toy-books and story-books we refer to the classified list preceding this department, under the heading of Juvenile Literature. Among the very pretty and attractive novelties we mention "Fancies Prophecies, Poetical, Nonsensical!" a new birthday-book called "Fortune's Mirror Set in Gems," by M. Halford, with twelve original illustrations depicting the months, designed by Kate Crawford, artistically printed in tints by Edmund Evans; a new edition of "The Boy's Modern Playmate;" by Rev. J. G. Wood, revised to date, with over six hundred illustrations; "Heart of Gold," by L. T. Meade, a story for girls from thirteen to fifteen; and "Little Sir Nicholas," by C. A. Jones, with illustrations by C. Patterson. "Old, Old Fairy Tales," compiled from Charles Perrault, Mme. d'Aulnoy, the Princesse de Beaumont, etc., with sixteen colored plates and one hundred illustrations, will form the third book on Fairy Lore in the Presentation Series, and "Texts for Illuminating" will be the fourth of the Painting Books for Children. Harry Parks, the clever designer of "The Man Who Would Like to Marry," will have a new volume of his sketches illustrating nonsensical rhymes, which will be called "Random Rhymes."

THOMAS WHITTAKER's announcements for the fall season are many and interesting. He will publish immediately "The Makers of Modern English: a handbook to the greatest poets of the century," by W. J. Dawson; "History of the American Episcopal Church from the Planting of the Colonies to the End of the Civil War," by Rev. Dr. S. D. McConnell, who is in the forefront of prominent men in that church; Bishop Hugh Miller Thompson's "The World and the Man," being the "Baldwin Lectures" for this year delivered at Ann Arbor; "The Voices of the Psalms," by the Rt. Rev. W. Pakenham Walsh, author of "Heroes of the Mission Field;" "God Incarnate," etc., being "The Bishop Paddock Lectures" for 1890, by the Right Rev. Dr. Kingston, of Fredericton; "Veni Creator," by Rev. H. C. C. Moule; and "Christ in the New Testament," by Rev. Dr. Thomas A. Tiddball, with an introduction by Rev. Dr. S. D. McConnell. In fiction and kindred classes of literature, the same publisher has just ready a number of leading books, the titles of which will be found under the heading of Fiction and Juvenile Literature in the classified list elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Whittaker also issues a second series of select books, in twenty volumes, and a new wall roll, "Stepping-Stones," being selections on various topics from general literature instead of the Bible.

JOHN WILEY & Sons have in preparation several valuable works in their special line of books on applied science, full titles of which will be found in the preceding classified list under heading of Arts and Sciences.

THE WORTHINGTON Co. will bring out an édition de luxe of Paul Hervieu's "The Flirt," with thirty-seven photogravure plates after the original water-colors of Madeleine Lemaire, the celebrated illustrator of "L'Abbé Constantin." It will have nineteen head and tail pieces in colors, and eighteen full-page illustrations, and will be on hand in portfolio or in handsome cloth. This firm have become possessors of many plates of standard books and will this season issue with their imprint Wharton's "Wits and Beaux of Society" and "The Queens of Society," each in two volumes, with introduction by Justin McCarthy; Wilson's "Noctes Ambrosianæ," "Memoirs of Napoleon," by Las Cases; "Napoleon in Exile," by Barry E. O'Meara; Napier's "Peninsular War," and the "Works of Thomas Gray," with introduction by Edmund Gosse. "Picturesque Ireland" will be a descriptive and historical work by Markfield Addey, in two volumes, with fifty full-page engravings on steel, from drawings by G. H. Bartlett; "The Birds of North America," by Theodore Jasper, will have 119 full-page colored plates; and the "Cyclopedia of the Arts and Sciences" will be a useful compilation of information, with over 3000 wood-engravings. Books for the young always occupy a great share of the attention of this house. The great book of the year will be "Wee Tots," a new colored juvenile by Ida Waugh, a collection of poems with forty-eight original designs; and the same artist has prepared "Mamma's Baby," "The Butterfly," and "Bless It." "Worthington's Annual for 1891" will also be out shortly, and many more pretty rivals for the fickle affections of children, of which full titles appear in the classified list under heading of Juvenile Literature. The firm also have in preparation, in their International Library, "Children of the World," by Paul Heyse, a refined novel, dealing with artist life in Munich and Berlin; "A Sister's Love," by W. Helmburg, translated by Margaret Waterman and fully illustrated with photogravures; and a new edition of "Mosquito Shore," by E. G. Squier, a book on Central America, with many illustrations. In the Rose Library there will be published "Asbein," by Ossip Schubin, a musical novel said to represent the life of the great Russian pianist Rubinstein; and a "A Russian Country House," by Carl Detleff, describing the strange customs of Russian society, and drawing men and women boldly.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co. announce several important works in theology and general literature, a long line of juveniles and innumerable little calendars and booklets. Among the most important works of the first class will be a "Monumental History of the Early British Church," by Romilly Allen; "Home Work for Willing Hearts," by Mrs. Brightman; "Church Catechism with Notes," by Rev. E. McClure; "Diary of a Workingman in South Africa;" "Scandinavian Britain," by E. York Powell, the new volume in the Early Britain Series; new edition of George Herbert's "Poems;" "The Evidential Value of the Holy Eucharist," by George F. Maclear; and "Islam as a Missionary Religion," by the Rev. S. Beal, the new volume of the Non-Christian Religious Systems. The new volumes of Romance of Science will be "Soap Bubbles," by C. V. Boz; "The Birth and Growth of Worlds," by Prof. Green; "Coal," by Prof. Mendola; and "Color," by Captain Abney. "A Sketch of the History of Europe," by Rev. A. R. Ropes, will cover from the beginning of the Roman Empire to the present day, and be of international interest chiefly. The books for the young range from 10 cents to $1.50 in price and cover every known subject and place in matter. For titles see classified list under the heading of Juvenile Literature. The illustrated books in chromo-lithography, monochrome and engraving are ingenious in plan and execution. The shape-books include "Busybodies," "Milestones," "The Twigs," etc., also many calendars, among which are specially attractive "The Star Calendar," "The Palette Calendar," "The Komical Kalendar," etc. These publishers are the American agents for the English Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, which this year also has made extensive preparations for young and old readers.

THE YOUNG CHURCHMAN Co.'s announcements for the coming season will be found under the heading of Religion and Philosophy, in the classified list in this issue.

OBITUARY.

THOMAS H. PEASE.

THOMAS H. PEASE, the well-known bookseller and newsdealer, died at his residence, at New Haven, Conn., September 15, aged about seventy-five years. His health had been impaired for several years, and during the summer he was critically ill, but rallied and was considerably better. The difficulty, heart trouble, returned, however, and he gradually failed until the end. Mr. Pease had been prominent in New Haven as a bookseller and newsdealer for about half a century. He was born in Canaan, Conn., in 1815, of old Puritan stock. His father, Salmon Pease, was a prosperous farmer. His inclinations and tastes ran to bookselling, in which he was interested in New York City before he went to Connecticut.

Mr. Pease settled in New Haven early in 1842, and entered into the book business in the old Miles tavern, about where Ballerstein's store now is. He remained at this stand for thirty-seven years. When the old building in which the store was, was torn down twelve years ago, he removed to Church Street, where the Pease store now is, conducted by his son, Salmon G. Pease.

Mr. Pease's store long had a local importance, especially in the war times and succeeding years, as a centre for local news and the cursory discussion of events and battles of the war in a quiet way by leading scholars and professional men of the city. It was a recognized centre for the Republican element in particular, although Mr. Pease numbered among his patrons a large number of prominent and influential men irrespective of party affiliations. Mr. Pease's personality pervaded the place, and his store was ever congenial to men of quiet tastes and literary proclivities. Mr. Pease had the taste of the antiquarian and was well up in all matters of local history, even far back in colonial days. He also wrote interesting contributions frequently for the local press, on matters of local or historical interest. For several years past his health did not permit him to engage actively or continuously in business. Latterly he contributed occasional articles to the New York Evening Post. He was an estimable gentleman, whose death will cause regret in the community at large. His wife died a year ago, and four children survive, two sons and two daughters.

ARTHUR JEANNERETT.

A LARGE number of the trade will be pained to learn of the death of Mr. Arthur P. Jeannerett, which occurred Tuesday, Aug. 26, at his home in Mt. Vernon, N. Y. After a brief illness, and at a time when he was supposed to be convalescent, a complication arose, proving fatal. To those who knew Mr. Jeannerett personally, and valued his friendship, his death will be doubly sad. Occupying for many years a responsible position in the retail department of the publishing house of Anson D. F. Randolph & Co., those who came in contact with him—and his circle of friends and acquaintances was large—will always remember him by his courteous and gentle manners, his quiet and unobtrusive ways. Faithful in all that he undertook, earnest in his work, and loyal to those with whose interests he was confided, he will ever be remembered with esteem and regard. His death will, outside of his business career, be especially marked in the place in which he lived, for he had identified himself with many public enterprises, and was largely connected with church and charitable work. The funeral took place on Thursday, Aug. 28, at his home, and was largely attended by friends and acquaintances from the city and elsewhere.

NEWTON CASE, President of the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company, at Hartford, Conn., died September 14, in the eighty-fifth year of his age. Mr. Case started in the printing business in 1836. His firm for many years printed the "Cottage" Bible, and prior to the war were the publishers of Webster's Dictionary. He was a man of large wealth, and had given much to the Hartford Theological Seminary. He was a Director of many prosperous local concerns.

JAMES MONTEITH, the well-known geographer, died at his residence in New York City, September 11. He was born in Ireland in 1831 and came to this country when four years old, settling in New York. After passing through the public school he became a teacher in Public School No. 13, of which he in time became principal. About 1861 Mr. Monteith offered his first work to the publishers, A. S. Barnes & Co., who carefully looked through the book and considered it worthy of production. Since that time Mr. Monteith pursued an exhaustive study on geographical lines that led him to produce a number of important geographical works that are to be found throughout the country. He was the author of a history of the United States, several series of school geographies and several treatises on map drawing, has presented the study of geography through pictorial charts, and has given exceedingly truthful maps of the Biblical cities of Palestine and Canaan. He was first married to Miss Emma Palmer, of Philadelphia, who died several years ago, and two years ago he married a Boston lady, who, with their baby daughter, survives him.

By JOHN D. CHAMPLIN, Jr., and ARTHUR E. BOSTWICK, illustrated.

Forming a third volume of the well-known Young Folks' Cyclopædia series. A compendium of all kinds of recreations, including indoor and outdoor games, athletic sports, simple chemical and mechanical amusements, and every similar thing that can interest a wide-awake boy or girl. Where standard rules are accessible, they have been given, making a work of reference for adults, in case of dispute. Other features are the introduction of a brief historical sketch at the end of each article, the description of some foreign varieties of many of the games, and the attempt at a thorough system of etymology and derivation of all technical terms, as in the preceding volumes of the series.

Besides its cyclopædic style and arrangement, which is novel in a work of this kind, it combines advantages never before united in a single volume, and will be of use to children and youth of all ages. Many articles have been revised by competent experts.

Many modern American publications on sports and games are merely reprints of English books. This work has been written from the American standpoint, even such a game as Cricket being treated as it is played in this country. The illustrations are very full. It is believed that no picture has been inserted for its own sake, or otherwise than as an aid to the proper understanding of the text.

PERRY'S GREEK LITERATURE.

By THOMAS SERGEANT PERRY, author of "English Literature in the XVIII. Century," etc. Beautifully illustrated.

A philosophical account of the growth of Greek literature, and of its relations to the physical surroundings and political and social history of the people. In this setting appear the outlines of the great masterpieces, with English translations of their more interesting or representative passages.

The comparative method is followed, the English reader's familiarity with his own literature being made to help along his acquaintance with Greek authors. It is believed that the college-bred man who got from his study of these classics in the original but faint and distorted views of their beauties will here find assistance in extending and organizing his knowledge; and also that the man who knows little or no Greek may by this book put himself in closer contact with the spirit of Greek literature than most students of the language have attained.

The value of the work will be greatly increased by the free use of elaborate and beautiful illustrations from ancient works and restorations.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS'

FALL ANNOUNCEMENT

OF

In Scripture Lands. New Views of Sacred Places.

By EDWARD L. WILSON. With 150 original Illustrations engraved from photographs taken by the author. Large 8vo, $3.50.

CONTENTS: The Land of Goshen—Sinai and the Wilderness—From Mount Sinai to Mount Seir—A Visit to Petra—A Search for Kadesh—Three Jewish Kings—The South Country—Round about Jerusalem—Where was Calvary?—Judea to Samaria—Round about Galilee—Nazareth Old and New—Sea of Galilee—Lebanon to Damascus.

This is the first instance in which a fully equipped artist photographer has visited the Scripture lands, and has reproduced both by camera and by word painting the people, the ruins, and the famous spots which have become household words throughout Christendom. The 150 illustrations in this volume were selected from 2,000 negatives that Mr. Wilson brought home with him after his wanderings. They have been reproduced by eminent American artists, and make a gallery of absolutely accurate, graphic, and extremely interesting views. The narrative, moreover, is enlivened by the author's personal adventures, and is the work of a man whose study of the Scriptures is apparent throughout.

The Life of John Ericsson.

By WILLIAM C. CHURCH. With 50 Illustrations. 2 vols., 8vo, $6.00.

The competitor with Stephenson in 1829 for the first locomotive engine, and the inventor of the screw propeller, the hot-air engine, the Monitor, etc., John Ericsson's varied activity extended over sixty eventful years during the wonderful development of steam power in the thousand and one appliances of modern life. His intimate friend, Colonel William C. Church, has had access to all of the family correspondence and documents, and his biography is extraordinary in its interest. The many illustrations emphasize the popular character of the book.

Cyclopedia of Music and Musicians. Third Volume.

Edited by JOHN DENISON CHAMPLIN, JR. Critical Editor, WILLIAM F. AP-THORP. With over 1,000 Illustrations, including 36 full-page Etched Portraits. 3 vols., 4to, Decorated Parchment Binding, uniform with the "Cyclopedia of Painters and Paintings." This Edition limited to 500 Numbered Sets for this Country and 50 for Europe. $25.00 per Vol., net.

This volume completes an important work which founds its claim to a high place in the literature of its art upon the character and comprehensiveness of the information which, through its text and illustrations, it for the first time makes accessible; the new simplicity of its arrangement; and the bibliography, of a kind hitherto unattempted, through which it furnishes a key and guide to the whole literature of music.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Pacific Coast Scenic Tour.

From Southern California to Alaska. The Yosemite. The Canadian Pacific Railway. Yellowstone Park and the Grand Cañon. By HENRY T. FINCK, Author of "Romantic Love and Personal Beauty" and "Chopin, and Other Musical Studies." With 24 full-page Illustrations. 8vo. In Press.

This book is a patriotic demonstration of the superiority of American scenery.

Few persons realize the character and accessibility of the natural grandeurs of the Pacific Slope, and to most readers this work will prove a revelation, in spite of all that has been written on the subject. Nothing so elaborate and comprehensive has before been attempted, and the book not only furnishes a complete guide to the tourist, but is also an admirable picture of a remarkable country, whose acquaintance every one will be interested and instructed in making under the direction of so observant and experienced a traveller and so vivacious a writer as Mr. Finck. The text is accompanied by twenty-four illustrations of the points of special interest and the wonderful scenery described.

Electricity in Daily Life.

A Popular Account of the Science and Application of Electricity to Everyday Uses. With 120 Illustrations. 8vo, $3.50

CONTENTS: Electricity in the Service of Man—The Electric Motor—The Electric Railway—Lighting—The Telegraph—Cable Laying—Electricity in Warfare—In the Household—Applied to the Human Body.

The electric articles which have attracted wide popular interest during their appearance in SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE have been collected into a handsomely printed volume, which presents a clear and adequate account of the applications of electricity to the needs of modern life. The writers were selected for their eminence as acknowledged authorities in various fields, both as theorists and practical electricians. They include the Patent Attorney for the Western Union, Edison's Chief Electrician, the President of Stevens' Institute, the Professor of Physics at Princeton, the Editor of the Electrical Engineer, and other prominent experts—all of them men who possess the faculty of imparting information entertainingly. The volume is illustrated by the best artists and engravers.

How the Other Half Lives.

Studies among the Tenements of New York. By JACOB A. RIIS. With 40 Illustrations from Photographs taken by the Author. 8vo. In Press.

As Police Headquarters reporter for the Associated Press, Mr. Riis has long been familiar with the seamy side of the life of the metropolis; and he gives a vivid picture of it in this book. It is not merely a portrait of the New York underworld, but a helpful and critical consideration of the forces therein at work, and the best means of counteracting them. It is perhaps in the sociological suggestions of his work that its greatest value lies. The reader obtains a wholesomely quickened sense of the essential unity of such a community as New York, and of the vital importance to the one half of knowing how the other lives. The illustrations were nearly all made from instantaneous photographs, and form an interesting and valuable feature of the book.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

In the Footprints of Charles Lamb.

By BENJAMIN ELLIS MARTIN, author of "Old Chelsea," etc. Illustrated by HERBERT RAILTON and JOHN FULLEYLOVE. With bibliography by E. D. NORTH. 12mo. In Press.

Mr. Martin is not only a lover of Lamb, but a topographical enthusiast also, as readers of his "Old Chelsea" know. His present book fills a place hitherto lacking in Lamb literature. It follows Lamb in his numerous changes of residence and his customary walks in London, with whose streets no one was ever more closely identified. The author's portrait of Lamb is painted with an affectionate and sympathetic touch that adds a lively literary interest to an essay already remarkable for its data. The illustrations are particularly in harmony with the subject and spirit of the book, and its value is enhanced by a bibliography the most complete yet compiled.

Two New Volumes in the Cameo Edition.

OLD CREOLE DAYS.

IN OLE VIRGINIA.

By G. W. CABLE. With Etching by PERCY MORAN. 16mo, $1.25.

By T. N. PAGE. With Etching by W. L. SHEPPARD. 16mo, $1.25.

These two well-known volumes are enriched with etchings, and are printed from new plates, with wide margins. The popular demand for the first two volumes issued in the Cameo Edition last fall proved the truth of the Boston Traveller's prediction, that "in their dainty covers and fine paper they will be prime favorites for holiday gifts."

ALREADY ISSUED:

REVERIES OF A BACHELOR.

DREAM LIFE.

By DONALD G. MITCHELL. Each with Etching by PERCY MORAN. 16mo, $1.25.

Two Little Books by Eugene Field.

A LITTLE BOOK OF WESTERN VERSE. 16mo, $1.25.

A LITTLE BOOK OF PROFITABLE TALES. 16mo, $1.25.

Mr. Field is best known to the general public through his witty contributions to the Chicago press. These two volumes, however, in addition to their abundant wit and humor, reveal the pathetic tenderness and graceful imagery of the author's mind. Some of the poems are as moving as the mining dialect narratives are mirth-provoking, while many of the Western stories have the deep pathos and rich humor of the best of Bret Harte's work. The volumes are exquisitely printed, and are bound in blue and gold.

A Little Brother of the Rich, and other Verses.

By EDWARD SANDFORD MARTIN. 12mo, $1.25.

A few of these poems are serious in tone, but the majority are light and gay in spirit, deriving as much of their whimsical humor from the diction as from the oddity of the author's conceits. Many of the rhymes appeared first in Life, to which Mr. Martin has contributed for years. The ease and grace of the versification are as noteworthy as the author's wit is clever and entertaining.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Famous Women of the French Court.

Translated from the French of IMBERT DE SAINT-AMAND by THOMAS SERGEANT PERRY. Each with Portrait. 12mo, $1.25 per volume.

Already Published:

THE WIFE OF THE FIRST CONSUL.
THE HAPPY DAYS OF THE EMPRESS
MARIE LOUISE.
MARIE ANTOINETTE AND THE END OF THE OLD RÉGIME.

Forthcoming Volumes:

CITIZENESS BONAPARTE.
MARIE LOUISE AND THE DECADENCE
OF THE EMPIRE.
THE COURT OF THE EMPRESS JOSE-PHINE.

The popularity of the first of these volumes promises a favorable reception for those still forthcoming. Each has for its nucleus some portion of the life of one of the eminent women who have presided over or figured at the French court, either at Versailles or the Tuileries. But though thus largely biographical, the volumes are equally pictures of the brilliant and exciting times they describe. "These narratives of the French court give animated pictures, romantic in coloring, intimate in detail, and entertaining from beginning to end."—Boston Times.

In the Valley.

By HAROLD FREDERIC. With 16 full-page Illustrations by HOWARD PYLE. 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. Frederic takes for a background the beautiful Mohawk Valley of Central New York, and revives the romantic traditions of the French and Indian and Revolutionary wars. The tale is not an historical novel, but a love romance in an historical setting. The interest in Douw and Daisy as characters who appeal to one's sympathies is the chief element of its force. The strong man and gracious woman live in stirring times, and reflect the conditions which developed a vigorous national feeling from people of diverse characteristics. Mr. Pyle's illustrations are faithful reproductions of the colonial period.

Edward Eggleston's Two Western Novels. New Uniform Edition.

ROXY.

Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

THE CIRCUIT RIDER.

Illustrated. 12mo, $1.50.

Dr. Eggleston is one of the very few American writers who have succeeded in giving to their work a genuine savor of the soil, a distinctively American character. The scene of these two celebrated stories is the Western Reserve, and the characters are types of the early part of this century in the territory now comprised in Indiana and Ohio.

Weird Tales. New Edition with Etchings.

By E. T. W. HOFFMANN. Translated from the German (with a Biographical Memoir) by J. T. BEALBY. 2 vols., 12mo, with Portrait and 11 Etchings by AD. LALAUZE. $3.00.

This new edition of Hoffmann's famous Tales is enriched with eleven superb etchings made by Ad. Lalauze, picturing some of the most interesting and thrilling episodes of the stories. "All in search of a genuine literary sensation, or who care for the marvellous and supernatural, will find these volumes fascinating reading."—Christian Union.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

History of the United States, by Henry Adams.

THE FIRST ADMINISTRATION OF THOMAS JEFFERSON. With Maps. 2 vols., 12mo, $4.00

THE SECOND ADMINISTRATION OF THOMAS JEFFERSON. . . . 2 vols., 12mo, $4.00.

THE FIRST ADMINISTRATION OF JAMES MADISON. With Maps. 2 vols., 12mo, $4.00.

THE SECOND ADMINISTRATION OF JAMES MADISON. With Maps. 3 vols., 12mo, $6.00.

The first four volumes of this important work were received with such praise by the highest critical authorities that the remaining five volumes will be received with especial interest. They relate to a period crowded with significant events, and, like their predecessors, bring to light much hitherto unused but pertinent information from archives to which the author alone has had access. They are written in the same strong, trenchant, picturesque style that made the earlier volumes famous.

A Short History of Anglo-Saxon Freedom.

The Polity of the English-speaking Race Outlined in its Inception, Development, Diffusion, and Present Condition. By JAMES K. HOSMER, Professor of English and German Literature in Washington University, St. Louis. Crown 8vo, $2.00.

The essential unity of the Anglo-Saxon race, and the steady development of its cardinal political principle—popular liberty—from its beginnings among the Teutonic invaders of Britain to its present expressions in the British and American Constitutions, form the theme of Professor Hosmer's book. The treatment is in the highest degree popular, and the growth of Anglo-Saxon popular rights is vivaciously and luminously described. There is a valuable appendix, giving in full or summarizing the main documents of this historic evolution.

Aspects of the Earth.

A Popular Account of some Familiar Geological Phenomena. By N. S. SHALER, S.D., Professor of Geology in Harvard University. With 100 illustrations. New and Cheaper Edition. 8vo, $2.50.

"Rivers, storms, forests, volcanoes, and soils are subjects well chosen to attract curiosity and stimulate interest, and Professor Shaler treats them in a thoroughly engaging manner. The fulness of illustration adds a very serviceable trait, and completes the excellence of the work."—Boston Post.

Peter the Great, Emperor of Russia.

A Study of Historical Biography. By EUGENE SCHUYLER. With Portrait and 200 Illustrations. New and Cheaper Edition. 2 vols., 8vo, $6.00.

"No one could have done what Mr. Schuyler has accomplished without that familiar acquaintance with the Russian language and that free access to the masses of historical documents stored up in the Russian archives which his diplomatic position and experiences fortunately brought within his reach. By the help of these rare advantages he has been enabled to give us the rugged, passionate figure of Peter in its native unadorned simplicity and truth."—Quarterly Review. "Its profusely varied, highly characteristic, and charming illustrations will make it an attractive addition to every library."—The Nation.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Evidence of Christian Experience.

By LEWIS F. STEARNS, D.D., Professor in Union Theological Seminary.
12mo, $2.00.

While this book was in press the author was elected to succeed Professor W. G. T. Shedd in the Union Theological Seminary, at which institution these Lectures were delivered. In them is presented, with clearness of logic and brilliancy of style, the new system of evidence that has replaced the traditional apologetics of the Butler and Paley School.

Belief in God. Its Origin, Nature, and Basis.

By J. G. SCHURMAN, Professor of Philosophy in Cornell University. 12mo, $1.25.

A fresh and original examination of the character, origin and validity of our belief in God. The following table of contents indicates the scope of the work:

I. Agnosticism, or the Impossibility of Belief in God. II. The Logical Character of Belief in God. III. The Origin and Development of Belief in God. IV. Belief in God as Cause or Ground of the World. V. Belief in God as Realizing Purpose in the World. VI. Belief in God as Father of Spirits.

Talks with Athenian Youths.

Five Selected Dialogues translated from Plato. By the Author of "A Day in Athens with Socrates," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

To the popular translations of Plato's dialogues, which have won the warm commendation of the most eminent scholars for their vitality and their fidelity to the spirit of the originals, are now added five others—"Charmides," "Lysis," "Theætetus," "Laches," and "Euthydemus." These dialogues were selected to illustrate, in the personalities of the leading characters, the typical Athenian youth of the time.

Word Studies in the New Testament.

The Epistles of Paul—Romans, Corinthians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, Philemon. By MARVIN R. VINCENT, D.D. 8vo, $4.00.

The author's plan is here continued of explaining for the benefit of English readers the meaning of all the significant Greek words, and of tracing their history. Thousands of Bible students have found the work of inestimable value to a correct understanding of the text.

SYNOPTIC GOSPELS, ACTS OF APOSTLES, AND EPISTLES OF PETER, JAMES, AND JUDE. $4.00.

THE WRITINGS OF JOHN—THE GOSPEL, THE EPISTLES, THE APOCALYPSE. $4.00.

Earth and Man. Revised and Enlarged Edition.

Lectures on Comparative Physical Geography in its Relation to the History of Mankind. By ARNOLD GUYOT. With Maps and Charts. 12mo, $1.75.

Few works have met with such distinguished approval and such universal favor as Dr. Guyot's "Earth and Man." The present edition is printed from new plates and contains new maps and appendices, bringing in the most recent scientific data.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

International Theological Library.

Edited by Professor CHARLES A. BRIGGS, D.D., of Union Theological Seminary, New York, and Professor S. D. F. SALMOND, D.D., of Aberdeen, Scotland. Crown 8vo. In Press.

This Library, undertaken by Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons in connection with Messrs. T. & T. Clark, of Edinburgh, is designed to cover the whole field of Christian Theology, each volume being complete in itself, and yet part of an organic whole. It is to be a series of text-books for students of Theology and yet a systematic exposition of the several departments of theological science for all intelligent persons. The library is international, interconfessional, catholic and scientific, and the authors have been chosen for their eminent ability in the departments assigned them.

Introduction to Philosophy.

An Inquiry after a Rational System of Scientific Principles in their Relation to Ultimate Reality. By Professor GEORGE T. LADD, D.D., Yale University. 8vo, $3.00.

This work reviews the whole field of philosophy, and is addressed to the laity at large, as well as to those who are in processes of education. It comprehends every branch of the subject, showing the origin, nature, and content of each, and the relations of the various branches to each other. The author handles his broad subject in a masterly yet simple and lucid manner.

Outlines of Physiological Psychology.

By Professor GEORGE T. LADD, D.D., Yale University. With numerous Illustrations. 12mo. In Press.

The author's larger work, entitled "Elements of Physiological Psychology," published two years ago, was received with the utmost favor by students both of philosophy and science, and was promptly adopted as a class-book in the prominent universities both here and in England. This abridgment has been arranged so as to fit it especially for use in higher academies and institutions of secondary instruction.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Against Heavy Odds.

A Tale of Norse Heroism. By HJALMAR HJORTH BOYESEN. With 13 full-page Illustrations by W. L. TAYLOR. 12mo, $1.00.

The narrative of how the indomitable pluck and perseverance of Ingomar Vang, the young Norwegian inventor and whaler, enabled him to triumph against heavy odds, bringing honor and prosperity to himself and his native village, will stir the blood in every boy's veins. A healthy, honest, manly tone pervades this story of a young man's trials and final successes. The illustrations are full of character and color, and faultlessly drawn.

Mrs. Burnett's New Juvenile Story.

LITTLE SAINT ELIZABETH, AND OTHER STORIES. By MRS. F. H. BURNETT. With 12 new full-page drawings, and cover design by R. B. BIRCH. Square 8vo, $1.50.

"These charming stories are all of the same delightful quality that made 'Little Lord Fauntleroy' such fascinating reading. Little Saint Elizabeth is a child to be charmed with. All the stories are prettily illustrated by Reginald B. Birch."—Boston Transcript.

Two Books for Girls and Boys.

THE AMERICAN GIRL'S HANDY BOOK, OR, HOW TO AMUSE YOURSELF AND OTHERS. By LINA and ADELIA B. BEARD. With over 500 Illustrations. Square 8vo, $2.00.

THE AMERICAN BOY'S HANDY BOOK, OR, WHAT TO DO AND HOW TO DO IT. By DANIEL C. BEARD. With over 350 Illustrations. Enlarged Edition. Square 8vo, $2.00.

Mr. Beard has added sixty new drawings to his book to illustrate the new games, sports, and mechanical contrivances which he has incorporated in this latest edition. The Misses Beard's popular book is reduced in price, all the features being retained.

"I have put it in my list of good and useful books for young people, as I have many requests for advice from my little friends and their anxious mothers. I am most happy to commend your very ingenious and entertaining book."—LOUISA M. ALCOTT.

"The book has this great advantage over its predecessors, that most of the games, tricks, and other amusements described in it are new. It treats of sports adapted to all seasons of the year; it is practical, and it is well illustrated."—New York Tribune.

Mrs. Burton Harrison's Fairy Stories.

BRIC-A-BRAC STORIES. With 24 Illustrations by WALTER CRANE. New and Cheaper Edition. 12mo, $1.50.

The central personage in these stories is little Regi, who, immured in a grand Fifth Avenue mansion, listens to the wonderful stories of the bric-à-brac ornaments as they recount their strange adventures and conjure up thrilling memories of the lands and scenes and hands through which they have passed. Mr. Crane's illustrations are in remarkable harmony with the fanciful spirit of the stories.

For sale by all booksellers, or sent, post-paid, on receipt of price, by

PRESS OF

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY,

PHILADELPHIA.

HOLIDAY PUBLICATIONS.

A Mosaic.

By the Artists' Fund Society of Philadelphia. A beautiful table-book. Imperial octavo, containing 22 Photogravure reproductions of pictures painted by members of the Artists' Fund Society, with appropriate text in Poetry and Prose. Edited by HARRISON S. MORRIS. Bound in white vellum cloth, with antique ornamentation in color and bronze, $7.50; three-quarters levant morocco, $12.50.

The pictures shown have never before been published, and may be taken as representative examples of the best work of each artist contributing. The volume will be the leading Christmas publication from the Lippincott Press for 1890, appealing to a large class of book-buyers of cultured taste.

Sheridan's Ride.

By T. BUCHANAN READ. Illustrated with many fine Wood-Cuts drawn by some of the best artists, and engraved by Andrews. 1 volume. Thin 8vo. Cloth, gilt, $2.00; new style leather, $2.50.

This stirring poem, first published in 1865, is probably the most meritorious and undoubtedly the most popular of the author's poetical works. It has long been a prime favorite for recitation, and abounds in dashes of patriotic fervor. The illustrations are spirited and in keeping with the sentiment they express.

Tisáyac of the Yosemite.

By M. B. M. TOLAND, author of "Legend Laymone" and other handsomely illustrated books for the holidays. Square octavo, bound in illuminated cloth, gilt top, rough edges, $2.50; ivorine, $3.00; full morocco, gilt edges, $5.00.

The volume contains twelve full-page pictures by such eminent artists as Frederick Dielman, Will H. Low, H. Bolton Jones, Hermann Simon, Henry Sandham, John J. Boyle, etc., reproduced by photogravure, the text interspersed with floral pen drawings, printed in a neutral tint. The poem itself treats of the love of the young brave Tö-tö-kö-nú-lä for the spirit Tisáyac, and charms the reader with a romance founded on the legend of the origin of the Bridal Veil Falls of the Yosemite.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY'S NEW BOOKS AND NEW EDITIONS.

English Poems.

With Etchings by M. M. TAYLOR. Oblong folio. Bound in leatherette, ornamented, $2.50; leather, new style, $3.50.

This volume contains, among other poems, "Evening" and "Noon," by Cunningham; "Flock and Herds," by Thomson; "The Lazy Mist," by Burns; "Catharina," by Cowper; "Autumn," by Wordsworth; "Winter," by Barton. The etchings are in style like those made by the same artist for Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," etc.

Ivanhoe.

By SIR WALTER SCOTT, Bart. Illustrated Edition. 1 volume. Octavo. Large Print, with numerous Steel Plates. Cloth, gilt, $3.50; three-quarters calf or morocco, $5.00.

This edition is printed from the best Edinburgh plates, on fine paper, and contains the choice steel illustrations that appeared in the Abbotsford Edition. It makes a beautiful gift-book.

Classical Picture Gallery.

Containing One Hundred and Forty-four Plates of the Choicest Examples from the Picture Galleries and Private Collections of Europe. Edited by PROFESSOR VON REBER, the director of the famous Munich Galleries; assisted by DR. BAYERSDORFER. 1 volume. 4to. Cloth, gilt, $7.50.

This series of admirable reproductions includes the masterpieces in famous collections, from the Hermitage at St. Petersburg to the Prado at Madrid, together with those from the National Gallery at Munich. Each plate bears the artist's name, the date of his birth and death, the school to which he belonged, and the collection in which the picture is to be found.

Choice Pictures by American Artists.

Selected from American Figure Painters. Small folio. Neatly bound. Cloth, gilt top, $7.50.

This volume contains interesting pictures by the following American artists: Gilbert Gaul, John La Farge, T. Garf Melchers, F. A. Bridgeman, H. Siddons Mowbray, Carl Marr, Winslow Homer, Thomas Hovenden, and William T. Smedley, with appropriate text.

Gems of American Art.

Selected from American Figure Painters. Small folio. Neatly bound. Cloth, gilt top, $7.50.

This volume contains choice pictures by the following American artists: Edward E. Simmons, Dennis M. Bunker, Theodore Robinson, Edwin Howland Blashfield, Douglas Volk, Frederick Dielman, Frederic W. Freer, Walter Shirlaw, and William M. Chase; with appropriate text.

Selected Pictures by American Artists.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY'S NEW BOOKS AND NEW EDITIONS.

European Days and Ways.

By ALFRED E. LEE, Late Consul-General U.S.A. With Twelve Illustrations. Crown 8vo. Cloth, $2.00.

The superior advantages derived from the author's official position, his long residence abroad, and consequent acquaintance with the language and customs of the people, manifest themselves continually throughout this excellent book. He has something new and fresh to tell about Europe out of his own experience, and knows how to tell it. With the Germans he is always at home. A close observer of their social and political customs and development, he is familiar with their art and literature, and vies with them in appreciation of the beauties of their land. He also describes his journeys made as occasion permitted to the most interesting localities throughout Europe, some well known and others unfrequented and far away from the tracks of the ordinary tourist. The full-page illustrations add much to the interest and beauty of the volume, which will take its place beside the best books of travel.

In and Out of Book and Journal.

Selected and Arranged by A. SYDNEY ROBERTS, M.D., with Fifty Spirited Illustrations by S. W. VAN SCHAIK. 12mo. Cloth, $1.25.

Dr. Roberts is evidently a wide and judicious reader, and has the knack of selecting the best, brightest, and most pithy sayings wherever he happens to find them, whether in classic authors or the current literature of the day. He appears, moreover, to have largely avoided the footsteps of other compilers, and achieves the difficult task of regaling his readers with that which is fresh, original, and delicate in flavor, instead of nauseating with the old and hackneyed. The illustrations, likewise, are not to be relegated to the background, as all know who are acquainted with the artist's peculiar genius. He has brightened the pages with gleams of pictorial humor, of which he is so perfect a master, interspersed here and there with more serious drawings all in perfect unison with the text.

Gleanings for the Curious from the Harvest-

FIELDS OF LITERATURE. A Melange of Excerpts, collated by C. C.

BOMBAUGH, A.M., M.D. 12mo. Half morocco, gilt top, $3.50; half

Russia, $5.50; three-quarters calf and morocco, $6.00.

The present volume is an expedient for grouping together a variety which will be found in no other compilation. From the nonsense of literary trifling to the highest expression of intellectual force; from selections for the child to extracts for the philosopher, it will accommodate the widest diversity of taste, and furnish entertainment for all ages, sexes, and conditions.

Triumphs of Modern Engineering.

By HENRY FRITH, author of "The Opal Mountain," etc. Illustrated.

12mo. Cloth, $1.25.

A record of the latest and most interesting feats of our own and foreign engineers, showing the advances of modern engineering work—railways, bridges, tunnels, engines, docks, canals, etc.—from the popular point of view. Compiled from authentic records and notes, as well as from personal experiences.

Roland Kalbris.

A Story for Boys. By HECTOR MALOT, author of "Boy Wanderers," etc.

With 46 Illustrations. 12mo. Cloth, 75 cents.

In a recent competition for the best boys' book, offered by the French Society, the author of the present volume was awarded the highest prize. This story, which ranks among the best of Malot's works, relates the adventures of a fisherman's son in his search for a ship; how he ran away from home and went to sea, and his final return. The book is full of incident and adventure.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY'S NEW BOOKS AND NEW EDITIONS.

Hermetic Philosophy.

Including Lessons, General Discourses, and Explications of "Fragments" from the Schools of Egypt, Chaldea, Greece, Italy, Scandinavia, etc. Designed for Students of the Hermetic, Pythagorean, and Platonic Sciences and Western Occultism. By an Acolyte of the "H.B. of L." 12mo. Cloth, $1.00.

The German Soldier in the Wars of the UNITED STATES. By J. G. ROSENGARTEN. Second Edition, Revised and Enlarged. 12mo. Cloth.

The distinguished part borne by German officers in the Revolution and the war of the Rebellion is thoroughly treated by Mr. Rosengarten. His work shows careful research, and he has known how to arrange his matter in a singularly fascinating manner. How much this country of ours owes to German blood can be readily appreciated by the reading of this volume.

The Two Lost Centuries of Britain.

By WILLIAM H. BABCOCK. 12mo. Cloth, $1.25.

The author here gives us a trustworthy account of the period intervening between the evacuation by the Romans and the commencement of authentic history of modern England. He has earnestly and critically sought out the truth embodied in the various legends and traditions current concerning that time, and has woven them with the facts derived from various authoritative sources into a most interesting and reliable narrative, which will prove a valuable addition to historical literature.

The Distribution of Wealth.

By RUFUS COPE. $2.00.

An examination of the extent and sources of our wealth and its distribution in the different branches of industry and trade. The author discusses in a popular manner the various important economical problems now so generally agitated, and by his keen logic adds materially to their solution.

Captain Blake.

By CAPTAIN CHARLES KING, author of "Starlight Ranch," "Laramie," "Marion's Faith," etc. With Illustrations. 12mo. Cloth, $1.25.

Captain King's stories have a breeziness and go about them which have made them very popular. His new novel is fully equal to its predecessors in dash, brilliancy, and vivid portrayal of military life.

Her Brother Donnard.

A Novel. By EMILY E. VEEDER. 12mo. Cloth, $1.25.

This decidedly attractive story shows much originality, force, literary skill, and knowledge of the world, and moves in the midst of interesting scenes and people.

Patience.

By ANNA B. WARNER, author of "Dollars and Cents," "My Brother's Keeper," etc. 12mo. Cloth, $1.25.

The sale of thousands of Miss Warner's previous works attests their wide popularity. They are stories of unusual interest, elevated and natural in tone and sentiment, full of refined and healthy thought, and exhibit an intimate and accurate knowledge of human nature.

"This work, the cheapest of the larger encyclopædias, is being reissued in handsome style"—New York Herald

"Indispensable in almost any library, while its wonderful cheapness is a large point in its favor"—Boston Congregationalist.

"It is a fact well known that the Chambers's Encyclopædia is one of the best authorities in the world."—
Washington (D. C.) National Tribune

"Chambers's is acknowledged to be one of the very best of the world's standard encyclopædias."—Chicago Journal.

"In learning, accuracy, and scholarly character, the work stands on the highest plane and in the first rank."—
New York Independent

"Chambers's was always a favorite and trustworthy encyclopædia. The new edition is handsomer than ever"—Phila. Evening Bulletin

"Certainly it is a most attractive work. Chambers's Encyclopædia has always had a host of friends, and in this new edition they will be multiplied"—Boston Literary World

"The work is in every way indispensable to the library, the office, and the home. There can be no doubt that it is by all means the best one that has ever been published"—Boston Traveller

"We have had it on our editorial shelves for years, and, although others are near by, we hardly know how we could 'keep house' without it."—*New York School
Journal*

OFFER TO THE TRADE A LARGELY INCREASED LINE OF PUBLICATIONS AND MANUFACTURES, INCLUDING AN UNUSUAL VARIETY OF HANDSOME ART BOOKS AND CHOICE GIFT VOLUMES, TOGETHER WITH MANY STANDARD WORKS AND ATTRACTIVE ART NOVELTIES.

An edition of Standard Poets that deserves admiration.

VIGNETTE SERIES.

The publishers have spared neither pains nor expense to render the volumes in this remarkable series the most beautiful editions in existence of the works selected for publication.

So many new bindings for Lucile are now offered, that this successful volume is given here, together with three new volumes representing an outlay of many thousands of dollars.

Lucile. OWEN MEREDITH.

Illustrated by FRANK M. GREGORY.

The Princess, and Other Poems. TENNYSON.

Illustrated by CHARLES HOWARD JOHNSON.

Faust. GOETHE.

Auster's translation. Illustrated by FREDERICK J. BOSTON.

Lalla Rookh. MOORE.

Illustrated by THOMAS MCILVAINE.

Each is a remarkably beautiful 12mo volume most profusely illustrated by new half-tone engravings after original designs made especially for the work. Many of the illustrations are full-page, and the remainder are of various sizes and odd shapes, and are set in the text in the French style.

Each volume is printed in the best manner, and on the first quality of paper, with wide margins. The greatest care has been given to the numerous styles of binding offered:

1. Parchment-paper covers, with appropriate design in colors, uncut edges (Lucile only, in this binding), $1.50
2. New half cloth binding. Back and half sides in dull-finish cloth, outer half sides in illuminated patterns of rich effect, $1.50
3. New "orchid" binding, with backs and half sides of white vellum cloth, entirely covered with tracery of gold, and with outer half sides in an illuminated design of pale purple orchids with gold, heavily embossed, $2.50
4. Full dark cloth, with back and front side entirely covered with beautiful tracery in gold. With quatrefoil ornament of white cloth in centre of front side, $1.50
- Half calf, flat back, wide raised bands, gilt top, $3.00
- Half crushed levant, best quality, gilt top, $3.50
- Full limp, pocket-book calf, red-under-gold edges, in a box, $4.00
- Ooze calf, limp, gilt edges, in a box, $4.50
- Ooze calf, stiff covers, with attractive metal corners, gilt edges, in a box, $5.00
- Full crushed levant, best quality, gilt edges, in a box, $5.00
- Dark brown tree calf, gilt edges, in box, $5.00

A delightful Historical Story for Children.

A LOYAL LITTLE RED-COAT.

A Story of Child-life in New York in 1783 and 1784.

By RUTH OGDEN.

With more than sixty vignette illustrations after original designs by HARRY A. OGDEN, the well-known delineator of American life in colonial times.

The story is bright and interesting, and at the same time full of historical interest.

2 volume, 4to, in a most beautiful and unique binding; cloth, with frame enclosing white panel, on which appear the figures of the "Little Red-Coat" and a soldier in full uniform, $6.00

A choice collection of Etchings of Marine Scenes at a remarkably low price.

SEA CHIMES.

A beautiful collection of poems on the sea by the best authors. 1 volume, oblong 4to. Illustrated by six etchings by H. R. BLANEY.

1. "Marine" binding. Handsomely bound in navy blue duck, stamped in silver, and tied with a heavy silk cord. With a design of rope in gold, forming a frame within which is shown a small marine etching, $1.50

2. "Etching" binding. In covers of heavy etching paper, stamped with lettering in silver, and with frame in gold (design of rope) enclosing a small etching printed in dark blue. Tied with silk cord, $2.50 or, Debt and Credit in the Next World.

Translated from the German of Theobald Gross, by BLANCHE WILLIS HOWARD, author of "One Summer," "Guenn," etc.

A wholesome and bright description of the manner in which St. Peter balances accounts in the next world. Handsomely printed and bound, and profusely illustrated.

Thin 24mo, bound in dark cloth or white enamel, 30 cents in either style.

Two valuable and beautiful Art Works of the best class.

I. SOME AMERICAN PAINTERS IN WATER-COLORS.

A companion to the remarkably successful collection, entitled "Fac-similes of Aquarelles by American Artists."

Collections of water-color paintings by various prominent artists have been reproduced in almost perfect fac-simile.

Each one of the reproductions is well worthy of framing, and when framed could hardly be distinguished from a water-color.

The publishers feel that no reproductions of the originals could be executed in a manner surpassing that shown in this collection.

Text by RIPLEY HITCHCOCK, author of "Etching in America," "Madonnas by Old Masters," etc., etc.

Size of page, 15 x 20 inches.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.

WILL SHORTLY PUBLISH:

THE MARIE ANTOINETTE ROMANCES. By ALEXANDRE DUMAS.

[This remarkable series of novels comprises the following works by ALEXANDRE DUMAS, carefully edited, and now first published in English, complete and unabridged, uniform with the Library Editions of "The D'Artagnan Romances," and other works by the famous writer, which have proved so successful during the past two seasons :

- I. THE MEMOIRS OF A PHYSICIAN. 3 vols., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $4.50.
- II. THE QUEEN'S NECKLACE. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $3.00.
- III. ANGE PITU. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $3.00.

This romance includes the narrative of the taking of the Bastille.

- IV. LA COMTESSE DE CHARNY. 4 vols., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $6.00.

This work includes what has hitherto been published in English, under the title of "The Countess of Charny," and "Andrée de Taverney." It is now published just as Dumas wrote it, unabridged and correctly rendered.

- V. CHEVALIER DE MAISON-ROUGE. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.50.

The complete set, 12 vols., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $18.00; half calf extra, gilt top, $36.00; half morocco extra, gilt top, $36.00.

This may fairly be claimed to be one of the most important as well as most entertaining series of the famous romances of the elder Dumas. Beginning in "The Memoirs of a Physician" (Joseph Balsamo, afterwards known as Cagliostro), with the entrance of Marie Antoinette, the Dauphine, into France, the successive works trace her career through the last days of the reign of Louis XV., and throughout the French Revolution, closing with her death. The characters introduced are the most celebrated men and women of the time. The series is illustrated with twelve historical portraits and plates.

ANOTHER FLOCK OF GIRLS. By NORA PERRY, author of "The Youngest Miss Lorton," "A Flock of Girls and Their Friends," etc. With illustrations by Reginald B. Birch and Charles Copeland. Small 4to, cloth gilt, $1.75.

Miss Perry's new volume of girls' stories includes "May Bartlett's Stepmother," "Ju-Ju's Christmas Party," "A New Year's Call," "Jenny's Lark," and "Sally Green's Clambake Party." It is likely to be as great a favorite with young people as her earlier "Flock of Girls."

RUBINSTEIN'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY. Autobiography of Anton Rubinstein, 1829-1889.

Translated by Aline Delano. With photogravure portrait. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

Dictated by the famous musician last year, and now first translated.

THE WORKS OF EPICTETUS. Translated by T. W. Higginson. The Discourses, Enchiridion and Fragments of Epictetus. Translated by Thomas Wentworth Higginson. New and revised edition, uniform with the new Library Edition of "The Thoughts of Marcus Aurelius Antoninus." 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $2.50; half calf, $5.50; half morocco, $5.50.

This favorite edition of the works of Epictetus has long been out of print and eagerly sought for. Its present form, two handy volumes with new and beautiful type, will commend it to lovers of choicely printed books. The text has been carefully and thoroughly revised.

A NEW BOOK ON CHESS. CHESS FOR BEGINNERS AND BEGINNINGS OF CHESS. By R. B. SWINTON. With illustrations and diagrams of games. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

THE BLIND MUSICIAN. Translated from the Russian of VLADIMIR KOROLENKO, by Aline Delano, with an introduction by George Kennan, and illustrations by E. H. Garrett. 16mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

WITH FIRE AND SWORD. An Historical Novel of Poland and Russia. By HENRYK SIENKIEWICZ. Translated from the original by Jeremiah Curtin. Crown 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

"A capital story."—New York Tribune. "A great novel."—Phila. Inquirer. "Altogether uncommon."—The Pilot. "One of the most brilliant historical novels ever written."—Christian Union.

THE BEGUM'S DAUGHTER. By EDWIN L. BYNNER. Author of "Agnes Surriage." Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

DRAMATIC OPINIONS. By Mrs. KENDAL. 16mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, gilt top, with portrait, $1.00.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN AND CO.'S

AUTUMN ANNOUNCEMENT.

New Books and New Editions

In Preparation and to be Published during the Autumn of 1890.

Arranged Alphabetically by Names of Authors and Titles of Series.

Charles Francis Adams.

LIFE OF RICHARD H. DANA, JR. By CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS. With Portraits. 2 vols. crown 8vo.

Mr. Dana is best known to the world of readers as the author of "Two Years before the Mast," which has been read wherever the English language is known. But he was also one of the foremost members of the Boston bar, an authority in international law, a prominent political leader, a citizen zealous for the good name of his country, and intimately acquainted with a host of the most distinguished men of his time in this nation and in Europe. Mr. Adams has undertaken to write the Life of Mr. Dana, and his authorship guarantees a work of unusual interest, aside from the intrinsic attractions of his subject. It will give views of many illustrious persons, sketches of many important events, political and other, and will contain a large number of valuable letters.

American Men of Letters.

A series of Critical Biographies. Edited by CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER. WILLIAM GILMORE SIMMS. By W. P. TRENT, Professor of English Literature in the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee.

Professor Trent has the hearty coöperation of the family of Mr. Simms, so that he will have every facility for producing an adequate account of Mr. Simms, both in his personal and social relations and as an author. The position of Professor Trent, and the work already done by him, assure a volume of great value and interest.

Previously published in this Series:

WASHINGTON IRVING. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, author of "In the Levant," "My Summer in a Garden," etc.

NOAH WEBSTER. By HORACE E. SCUDLER, author of "Stories and Romances," "Men and Letters," etc.

HENRY D. THOREAU. By FRANK B. SANBORN.

GEORGE RIPLEY. By Rev. OCTAVIUS BROOKS FROTHINGHAM, author of "Transcendentalism in New England."

JAMES FENIMORE COOPER. By THOMAS R. LOUNSBURY, Professor of English in the Scientific School of Yale College.

MARGARET FULLER OSSOLI. By THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON, author of "Malbone," "Oldport Days," etc.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON. By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, author of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table," etc.

EDGAR ALLAN POE. By GEORGE E. WOODBERRY, author of "The North Shore, and Other Poems," "Studies in Letters and Life," etc.

NATHANIEL PARKER WILLIS. By HENRY A. BEERS, Professor of English Literature in Yale College, author of "The Thankless Muse."

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN. By JOHN BACH MCMASTER, author of a "History of the People of the United States."

WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT. By JOHN BIGELOW, author of "Molinos the Quietist," etc.

Each volume, with Portrait, 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

In Preparation.

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. By JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

American Religious Leaders.

A series of biographies of men who have exerted great influence on the religious thought and life of America.

FRANCIS WAYLAND. By Professor J. O. MURRAY, of Princeton.

CHARLES G. FINNEY. By GEORGE FREDERICK WRIGHT, Professor in Oberlin Theological Seminary, author of "The Ice Age in North America."

These two volumes cannot fail to be important members of a series, the plan of which has been very heartily approved by the most judicious critics. Professor Murray was a pupil of Dr. Wayland, and appreciates very fully the great qualities of that illustrious leader. Professor Wright will surely make an exceedingly interesting book on President Finney as one of the most original, eloquent, and irresistible leaders of American religious thought and activity.

Previously published in this Series.

JONATHAN EDWARDS. By Professor A. V. G. ALLEN, author of "The Continuity of Christian Thought."

WILBUR FISK. By Professor GEORGE PRENTICE, of Wesleyan University.

WILLIAM AUGUSTUS MUHLENBERG. By Rev. WILLIAM WILBERFORCE NEWTON, author of "Summer Sermons," etc.

Each volume, 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

In Preparation.

CHARLES HODGE. By President FRANCIS L. PATTON of Princeton.

THEODORE PARKER. By JOHN FISKE.

ARCHBISHOP JOHN HUGHES. By JOHN G. SHEA, LL. D., author of "The Catholic Authors of America," etc.

HENRY BOYNTON SMITH. By Professor LEWIS F. STEARNS, of Bangor Theological Seminary.

American Statesmen.

A series of biographies of men eminent in the political history of the United States. Edited by JOHN T. MORSE, Jr.

LEWIS CASS. By ANDREW C. McLAUGHLIN, Assistant Professor of History in the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

The long public career of General Cass and the eminent public services he rendered as military governor of Michigan, and later as a Cabinet minister, as minister to France, and as a United States Senator, will be fitly described by Professor McLaughlin, whose studies and connection with the State University of Michigan well qualify him for this special work.

Previously published in this Series :

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. By JOHN T. MORSE, Jr., author of "A Life of Alexander Hamilton," etc.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON. By HENRY CABOT LODGE, author of "Studies in History," etc.

JOHN C. CALHOUN. By Dr. H. VON HOLST, author of "Constitutional History of the United States."

ANDREW JACKSON. By Prof. WILLIAM G. SUMNER, author of "History of American Currency," etc.

JOHN RANDOLPH. By HENRY ADAMS, author of "New England Federalism," etc.

JAMES MONROE. By D. C. GILMAN, President of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

THOMAS JEFFERSON. By JOHN T. MORSE, Jr.

DANIEL WEBSTER. By HENRY CABOT LODGE.

ALBERT GALLATIN. By JOHN AUSTIN STEVENS.

JAMES MADISON. By SYDNEY HOWARD GAY.

JOHN ADAMS. By JOHN T. MORSE, Jr.

JOHN MARSHALL. By ALLAN B. MAGRUDER.

SAMUEL ADAMS. By JAMES K. HOSMER, author of "Young Sir Henry Vane," etc.

THOMAS HART BENTON. By THEODORE ROOSEVELT, author of "The Winning of the West," etc.

HENRY CLAY. By Hon. CARL SCHURZ. In two volumes.

PATRICK HENRY. By MOSES COIT TYLER, author of "History of American Literature," etc.

GOUVERNEUR MORRIS. By THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

MARTIN VAN BUREN. By EDWARD M. SHEPARD.

GEORGE WASHINGTON. By HENRY CABOT LODGE. In two volumes.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN. By JOHN T. MORSE, Jr.

JOHN JAY. By GEORGE PELLEW.

Professor Goldwin Smith, speaking of this series in The Nineteenth Century, says: "It seems to us a very valuable series. It furnishes a history of American politics in the attractive and impressive form of biography.

Some of the volumes, being the work of political experts, are full of experience and useful teaching. The editor has managed to form his staff so that while there is no appearance of concerted uniformity in the treatment of the different lives, there is a general harmony; and it is the general harmony of rational appreciation, judicial criticism, and sound morality."

Maturin M. Ballou.

AZTEC LAND. By MATURIN M. BALLOU, author of "Due West," "Due South," "Due North," "Under the Southern Cross," and "The New Eldorado," etc. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

Mr. Ballou, who is well known as one of the most intelligent and enterprising of modern travelers, has recently visited Mexico. The results of his observations will be embodied in a book entitled "Aztec Land." His work will be very timely, as Mexico is just now attracting much interest by the richness of its mines and the recent large investments of more than one English syndicate. Mr. Ballou will relate some plain truths about the exaggerations of the Spanish chronicles, upon which Prescott so closely relied for his information, and will show how cruel, extortionate, and debasing was the Spanish rule in Mexico for three hundred years. The book will tell the story of Mexico, from the Toltec period to the present day, exposing many popular fallacies relating to Cortez and his followers.

Mary E. Blake.

VERSES ALONG THE WAY. By MARY E. BLAKE. 16mo.

Like the volume of poems published by Mrs. Blake eight years ago, these "Verses" are distinguished by thoughtfulness, sympathy, and a genuine lyrical quality which entitles them to a high place in current poetry.

Alexander Brown.

THE GENESIS OF THE UNITED STATES. A Narrative of the Movement in England, 1605-1616, which resulted in the Plantation of North America by Englishmen, disclosing the contest between England and Spain for the possession of the Soil now occupied by the United States of America; the whole set forth through a Series of Historical Manuscripts now first printed, together with a Reissue of Rare Contemporaneous Tracts, accompanied by Bibliographical Memoranda, Notes, Plans, 100 Portraits, and a Comprehensive Biographical Index. Collected, arranged, and edited by ALEXANDER BROWN, Member of the Virginia Historical Society and of the American Historical Association, Fellow of the Royal Historical Society of England. With maps. 2 vols. 8vo, $15.00, net.

No historical work for many years has attracted such attention as is sure to be given to this. Its peculiar significance consists in the fact that it contains so much important matter never before printed in any language. Mr. Brown's researches, pursued through many years and at large expense, were rewarded by the discovery, in the secret archives of Spain, of numerous documents throwing light on the contest in Europe for the possession of this Continent. These documents, with rare tracts of that period (in all 365 papers, of which 294 are now for the first time made public), accompanied by bibliographical memoranda, notes, plans, portraits, and a comprehensive biographical Index, lend special value and importance to this work.

Calendar Books.

Selections from the Writings of BROWNING and Mrs. WHITNEY. Uniform with the Calendar Books of EMERSON, HAWTHORNE, HOLMES, LONGFELLOW, LOWELL, and WHITTIER, for Every Day of the Year. Each book of Selections is put up in a parchment-paper cover. Price of each, 25 cents; the eight in a box, $2.00.

Francis J. Child.

ENGLISH AND SCOTTISH POPULAR BALLADS. Edited by Prof. FRANCIS J. CHILD, of Harvard University. An Edition de Luxe, strictly limited to one thousand copies. In eight parts, each part containing about 250 pages. Imperial quarto, per part, $5.00, net. Parts I. to VI. now ready. Part VII. in press for early publication.

The Nation, of New York, remarks: "The work has fallen into hands the most capable, in the long line of editors, of doing it with the most absolute accuracy and completeness that are now within reach. . . . It is doing the simplest act of justice to say that, in his qualifications for this self-imposed and most laborious service to literature, he finds no superiors among the living or the dead; nor would it probably be doing any injustice to any belonging to either of these two classes to say, further, that he finds no equal. His zeal and industry have, moreover, brought to light treasures that but for him would probably have perished." The Saturday Review, of London, says: "Professor Child's books supply at once a joy to the bibliophile and an opulent treasure to the student of old customs and old songs. Mr. Child's learning, perseverance, sense, and good taste are all beyond praise."

George Willis Cooke.

A BROWNING DICTIONARY. By GEORGE WILLIS COOKE, author of works on "Ralph Waldo Emerson," "George Eliot," "Poets and Problems," etc.

Mr. Cooke's previous books have proved his ability to supply just such a volume as is needed more or less by all readers of Browning. His object is not to translate or simplify difficult passages, but to furnish historic and biographical information concerning such of the characters and incidents of Browning's plays and poems as require illumination; and, in general, to render his book useful in answering many of the legitimate questions which Browning's works suggest.

Christopher Pearse Cranch.

THE BIRD AND THE BELL, WITH OTHER POEMS. By CHRISTOPHER PEARSE CRANCH, author of "Ariel and Caliban," a Translation of the Æneid of Virgil, etc. New Edition. 16mo.

"The mature fruits of the author's poetical life which are preserved in this volume afford an ample illustration of his devotion to artistic culture, of the delicate beauty of his conceptions, and of his power of chaste and vigorous expression." — New York Tribune.

Charles H. Crandall.

REPRESENTATIVE SONNETS BY AMERICAN AUTHORS. Selected by CHARLES H. CRANDALL. Crown 8vo.

Mr. Crandall has carefully ranged over the whole field of American poetry and culled from the harvest of sonnets an ample and very attractive sheaf. The selection and editing are done with good judgment, the whole forming a valuable book for the library, comprehensive and scholarly. An excellent essay includes comparisons with English sonnets and studies in the literature of the sonnet.

George W. Cullum.

BIOGRAPHICAL REGISTER OF THE OFFICERS AND GRADUATES OF THE UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY, FROM ITS ESTABLISHMENT, MARCH 1802, TO JANUARY 1, 1890. By Brevet Major-General GEORGE W. CULLUM, Colonel of Engineers U. S. Army, retired. Third Edition. In three volumes, 8vo.

General Cullum has brought down to 1890 the careful and trustworthy Biographical Register of the officers and graduates of the United States Military Academy, which originally included only the record from 1802 to 1850. The present work is a painstaking, impartial account of the thousands of loyal men who have studied at West Point, and of their services to the nation.

Dante Alighieri.

THE DIVINA COMMEDIA OF DANTE, translated into English Prose by CHARLES ELIOT NORTON, Professor of the History of Art in Harvard University. With Notes. In three volumes. Also the VITA NUOVA OF DANTE, translated by Mr. NORTON. New Edition, uniform with the Divina Commedia.

If it be true, as has been said, that "the measure of honor paid to Dante is the measure of civilization and progress," this new translation of his works is a most auspicious omen. In this case it is peculiarly auspicious, since the translation is by one of the foremost of Dante scholars and one of the few masters of English prose. Professor Norton is recognized both in Europe and America as an authority on all matters relating to Dante and his works, and his translation will be welcomed by all students of Dante, and hardly less by all intelligent readers who appreciate the great qualities of his writings. Professor Norton adds to his masterly translation some explanatory notes.

Margaret Deland.

SIDNEY. A Novel, by MARGARET DELAND, author of "John Ward, Preacher," and "The Old Garden and Other Verses." 12mo.

"Sidney" will not produce so much commotion in the theological world as "John Ward" caused. But it raises questions of universal interest, and is likely to evoke no little discussion. The heroine has been taught from childhood that Love is the maddest folly in a world where Death is ; and the development and effect of this teaching are admirably described. The characters are various and distinctly defined ; the story abounds in dramatic incidents ; and the style is clear and picturesque. On the whole "Sidney" promises to be one of the noteworthy novels of the year.

Ralph Waldo Emerson.

REPRESENTATIVE MEN, and NATURE, ADDRESSES, AND LECTURES. By RALPH WALDO EMERSON. Popular Edition. 1 vol. crown 8vo, cloth, $1.00.

These two notable books will be brought out in a single volume, well printed and bound, uniform with the Popular Edition of Emerson's Essays.

John Fiske.

THE DISCOVERY AND SPANISH OCCUPATION OF AMERICA. By JOHN FISKE, author of "The Critical Period of American History," "The War of Independence," etc. Crown 8vo.

This book is based on the remarkable lectures delivered last winter by Mr. Fiske before the Lowell Institute in Boston. It describes the early history of America, including its discovery by Columbus and others, and the experiment of Spain in colonizing it. The facts of the history, its incidents, its objects, and the military, naval, and political leaders who figured in it, are grouped and portrayed with that mastery which marks all of Mr. Fiske's historical writing.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT. By JOHN FISKE.

Mr. Fiske aims to set forth the principles and methods of civil government as exemplified in the United States and in the several States. The book is primarily designed for school use, and its object is to give pupils a clear idea of the form and character of the government under which they live, its historical development, its mode of operation, and its political significance ; and to inspire them with the intelligent loyalty and the sense of personal responsibility which will make them good citizens. Mr. Fiske's profound understanding of the history of the nation and the organization of the government enables him to write with authority, and his perfect clearness and charm of style make this utterly unlike a dry text-book.

Frederic Gardiner.

AID TO SCRIPTURE STUDY. By FREDERIC GARDINER, late Professor in the Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Conn. 16mo, $1.25.

CONTENTS : — I. The Preparation of the Interpreter : General Knowledge of the Scriptures, Geography and Physical Geography of Bible Lands, General History of Scripture Times, Archæology and Antiquities, Knowledge of Natural Science, The Religious Preparation of the Interpreter, Knowledge of the Original Languages, Apparatus for Textual Criticism of the Old and New Testaments, Personal Qualifications of the Interpreter : Willingness to take Trouble and Judicial Habit of Mind, Commonsense and Sagacity, Reverence. II. The Art of Interpreting : The Use of the General Knowledge of the Bible, Knowledge of Particular Books, Geography, History, general and particular, Archæology and Antiquities, National Science, The Original Languages and their immediate Connection, Textual Criticism, The Interpreter at his work.

Dr. Gardiner intended this work primarily for theological students for whom it is admirably adapted by its wise suggestions and excellent sense.

The Gentleman's Magazine Library.

The chief Contents of the "Gentleman's Magazine," from 1731 to 1868.

Edited by G. LAURENCE GOMME, F. S. A. In fourteen volumes. Each volume, 8vo, $2.50; *Roxburgh, printed on hand-made paper, $3.50, net; *Large-Paper Edition, Roxburgh (50 copies), printed on hand-made paper, $6.00, net. Single volumes sold in cloth only; the Roxburgh style and Large-Paper Edition are sold only by subscription for the entire set. Nine volumes have already appeared.

Vol. 10. ARCHITECTURAL ANTIQUITIES. Part I.

The volumes already issued of the Gentleman's Magazine Library have more than met the high anticipations produced by the original announcement. They form a valuable and exceedingly interesting collection of facts in the departments of Manners and Customs; Dialect, Proverbs, and Word-Lore; Popular Superstitions; English Traditions and Foreign Customs; Archæology; Romano-British Remains; Literary Curiosities; and Bibliographical Notes.

Chester Harding.

A SKETCH OF CHESTER HARDING, DRAWN BY HIS OWN HAND. Edited by his Daughter, MARGARET E. WHITE. With Portraits. 16mo.

Soon after the death of Mr. Harding in 1866, this delightful piece of autobiography was printed for private circulation among his family and friends. The small edition was soon exhausted, but the remembrance of his romantic career still lingers in the minds of many, and inquiries for the book have never wholly ceased. It is now reprinted for wider circulation, with valuable additions from letters of Mr. Harding, which have recently come into the editor's possession. It will contain Photogravures of Mr. Harding and his wife, copied from his own paintings at different periods of his life.

Bret Harte.

A WARD OF THE GOLDEN GATE. By BRET HARTE.

The London Saturday Review says that Mr. Harte's latest story "is told with the old charm and freshness that marked the author's first Californian tales."

Nathaniel Hawthorne.

OUR OLD HOME. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Illustrated Edition, containing a new portrait of Hawthorne, etched by SCHOFF, and Thirty Photogravures of Portraits and Engravings of Views and Places described. Two volumes, 12mo, bound in Persian silk, $4.00. Limited Large-Paper Edition, crown 8vo, bound in vellum, tastefully stamped, $10.00.

"Our Old Home" is one of the most delightful of Hawthorne's works. He spoke of it as "representing to the American reader a few of the external aspects of English scenery and life, especially those that are touched with the antique charm to which our countrymen are more susceptible than are the people among whom it is of native growth." In this edition his charming descriptions are supplemented by excellent photogravures of places and famous structures described, also by passages from his "English Note-Books." The work is a beautiful gift, a vade mecum for tourists in England, and very welcome to those whose travels are mostly done in books.

Alfred Hennequin.

THE ART OF PLAYWRITING. By ALFRED HENNEQUIN, Ph. D., Professor in the University of Michigan. 16mo.

Mr. Hennequin is an enthusiastic student and advocate of dramatic art. His book is intended for the practical assistance of those who aspire to write plays for the stage, but it is so minute and withal so remarkable in dramatic scholarship that dramatic critics and students of the drama will find it extremely valuable. In the first part is given an encyclopædic description of the theatre staff, its officers and principal attachés, of the stage, scenery, plans, and directions; in the second part are treated the different kinds of plays, the parts of a play, different rôles, what constitutes a play, theoretical construction, theatrical conventionalities, and how to write a play. An illustrative specimen is given, with some diagrams. The book abounds in references to all varieties of dramas, from ancient Greek tragedy to modern American farce.

Thomas Wentworth Higginson and Mrs. S. A. Bigelow.

AMERICAN SONNETS. Edited by THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON and Mrs. E. H. BIGELOW. 16mo.

This choice selection goes far to prove Leigh Hunt's remark: "You can make love in a sonnet, you can laugh in a sonnet, you can lament in it, can narrate or describe, can rebuke, can admire, can pray." The excellence of the selection is certified by the judgment and taste of the editors, and the Riverside Press promises a peculiarly attractive and dainty volume.

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

OVER THE TEACUPS. By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. 12mo.

This book may be described as an evening supplement to the Breakfast-Table Series, and is entirely worthy to be associated with those world-famous books. It is naturally somewhat more grave in tone, but is no less vigorous and original, brilliant and pungent, humorous and pathetic, than those.

THE PROFESSOR AT THE BREAKFAST-TABLE. THE POET AT THE BREAKFAST-TABLE. By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. Birthday Edition. Each in 2 vols. 16mo, uniform with the Birthday Edition of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table" published last year, and received with so remarkable favor. Each, gilt top, $2.50.

The issue of these volumes completes the famous Breakfast-Table Series in very attractive form. •

Thomas Hughes.

ALFRED THE GREAT. By THOMAS HUGHES, author of "Tom Brown's School Days at Rugby," etc. New Edition. 16mo.

Alfred the Great is one of the few monarchs whose career attracts the interest and holds the affectionate respect of mankind. In this book Mr. Hughes tells his story with characteristic simplicity, with hearty admiration and sympathy, and gives at once a delightful biography and a notable chapter in English history.

Hymns of the Faith.

HYMNS OF THE FAITH. A Hymn and Tune Book. Edited by Professors GEORGE HARRIS and WILLIAM J. TUCKER, of Andover Theological Seminary, and Mr. E. K. GLEZEN, of Providence, R. I. Crown 8vo. A Special Edition for use in smaller congregations, in the weekday service of the church, and in the Sabbath School.

This Edition of "Hymns of the Faith" consists of 472 hymns, in place of 657 in the larger Edition. These have been carefully selected from those best adapted to the common uses of congregations and also for the development of the most effective congregational singing. The more popular tunes of the former Edition have been frequently repeated, and second tunes have been introduced where the first tune is at all unfamiliar. The book has been prepared with selections from the Psalms for responsive readings.

Sarah Orne Jewett.

STRANGERS AND WAYFARERS. By SARAH ORNE JEWETT, author of "A Country Doctor," "Old Friends and New," etc. 16mo.

Miss Jewett here adds another to her volumes of New England stories. To those who appreciate the marvelous fidelity with which she depicts New England scenes and characters, the imaginative sympathy with which she treats even the queerest of the queer men and women who figure in her stories, and the fine humor and indescribable charm which pervade every page, this new book will be one of the most welcome promises of the year.

Ellen Olney Kirk.

WALFORD. A Novel by ELLEN OLNEY KIRK, author of "The Story of Margaret Kent," "Queen Money," "Daughters of Eve," "A Lesson in Love," etc. 16mo.

Walford, a New England manufacturing town, is the scene of Mrs. Kirk's novel. The plot includes a mysterious disappearance, love of course, jealousy almost of course, a strike, and a tragedy. The story is full of incident and movement, and it has that vivacity and vigor of narration which characterize Mrs. Kirk's novels and make them so eminently readable.

William Knight.

ESSAYS IN PHILOSOPHY : OLD AND NEW. By WILLIAM KNIGHT, Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of St. Andrew's, Scotland. 16mo.

CONTENTS: Idealism and Experience, in Literature, Art, and Life; A Classification of the Sciences; Ethical Philosophy and Evolution; Eclecticism; Personality, and the Infinite; Immortality; Metempsychosis.

Professor Knight's reputation as a scholar and writer will commend this book to readers interested in the large themes to which it is devoted. It is rich in the fruits of careful scholarship, is independent in tone, and commands respect by its ability and the attractive form in which the vigorous thoughts are presented.

Lilliput Classics.

A series of ten tasteful little volumes, including some of the best and most widely popular Stories, Essays, and Poems, of ten famous authors. Carefully printed and bound in tasteful paper covers, 25 cents each; the set in a box, $2.50.

The series comprises:—

Dickens's Christmas Carol.

Shakespeare's Sonnets.

Goldsmith's Deserted Village, and Traveller.

Carlyle's Choice of Books.

Fouqué's Undine.

Dr. Brown's Rab and his Friends.

Whittier's Tent on the Beach.

Lowell's Vision of Sir Launfal.

Hawthorne's Tales of the White Hills.

Tennyson's Enoch Arden.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

THE SONG OF HIAWATHA. By HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. Illustrated with Twenty-Two Photogravures and about Four Hundred text Illustrations of Indians, Indian costumes, implements, arms, etc., animals and scenery, by FREDERIC REMINGTON. With a steel Portrait of Mr. Longfellow. Bound in full buckskin, with designs by Mrs. HENRY WHITMAN. 8vo, gilt top, $6.00. Limited Large-Paper Edition. Royal 8vo, full vellum, $15.00.

This is at once a superb and a peculiarly truthful edition of a remarkable poem. The illustrations are not merely decorative, but they represent with the utmost fidelity the Indian elements which the poem describes or assumes. These were drawn from life by Mr. Remington, — the various Indian faces in the book, the dress, arms, tools, ornaments, etc., and Mr. Remington's exhaustive knowledge of Indian life and his unequalled skill in portraying it lend to the pictorial features of "Hiawatha" a peculiar and enduring value. The mechanical details and the binding are managed with the greatest care, and the work promises to be unique in excellence and attractiveness.

James Russell Lowell.

A New and Complete Issue of the Works of JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL. Riverside Edition. Literary Essays, in four volumes; Political Essays, in one volume; Literary and Political Addresses, in one volume; Poems, in four volumes. With one Etched and two Steel Portraits. Crown 8vo, gilt top, uniform with the Riverside Editions of Longfellow's and Whittier's Works. $1.50 a volume.

Large-Paper Edition. In the same style with the Large-Paper Edition of Longfellow's Works. Edition limited to three hundred copies for America. Price, Four Dollars a volume.

This edition will comprise all of Mr. Lowell's writings up to date which he wishes to preserve, and will include several addresses and papers not contained in his volumes hitherto published.

Mr. Lowell has carefully revised the whole. To The Biglow Papers, which owed their great effectiveness, at the time of their publication, to their many personal and political allusions almost as much as to their wit, full explanatory notes are added which will render these remarkable poems more intelligible to readers of this and future generations.

Mr. Lowell's writings in this issue will bear the form which he regards as final, and which for the future will represent his definitive contribution to the world's literature. Of the variety and value of this contribution it is unnecessary to speak. Hardly any other American, hardly any other writer using the English language, holds a firmer title to the gratitude and admiration of mankind for the wisdom and charm of his works. Whether as essayist, critic, orator, humorist, or poet, he easily ranks among the wisest, most inspiring, and most enjoyable.

The edition contains three fine Portraits, a full index to the Prose Writings, and the last volume of Poetry gives a table of first lines of all the poems.

THE VISION OF SIR LAUNFAL. Illustrated with a Portrait of Mr. Lowell from the painting by Page, and Photogravures of designs by EDMUND H. GARRETT. 16mo, tastefully bound, $1.50.

An entirely new and very attractive edition of one of Lowell's noblest poems, with several illustrations which harmonize admirably with its rare beauty. Large-Paper Edition. Limited to 50 copies. Both text and illustrations printed on Japanese paper, 8vo, bound in full vellum.

A FABLE FOR CRITICS. A New Edition, with outline Portraits of the authors introduced, by JOSEPH LINDEN SMITH. Crown 8vo, $1.00.

A tasteful reissue of this famous poem, which criticised with great freedom and discrimination many American authors of forty years ago. A facsimile of the original rhymed title-page is given, and the portraits of the twenty-six authors criticised add an element of no small interest.

THE BIGLOW PAPERS. First and Second Series in one volume. 16mo.

A new and desirable edition of this work, which has won unbounded admiration for Mr. Lowell, especially in Great Britain.

The Yankee dialect has never been so accurately and effectively represented in literature as it is in the Biglow Papers, while certain aspects and principles of the Mexican War and the War for the Union are here set forth with inimitable force, humor, and skill.

Modern Classics.

A new volume in this collection of the best Essays, Sketches, and Poems in modern literature.

No. 34. LIGHTER HOURS. By W. M. THACKERAY. 32mo, orange edges, 75 cents; School Edition, 40 cents, net.

This delightful little book contains "Dr. Birch and his Young Friends," two papers from "The Book of Snobs," eleven of the charming "Round-about Papers," and "The Curate's Walk."

Nora Perry.

AFTER THE BALL, and HER LOVER'S FRIEND. Poems by NORA PERRY. New Edition, complete in one volume, 16mo.

A tasteful edition of Miss Perry's Poems, which Mrs. Harriet Prescott Spofford says "are natural as a bird's songs — the voice and breath of simple genius. With the music, there is to be felt in all her verse the spirit of purity, of innocence, of freshness and youth."

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps and Herbert D. Ward.

COME FORTH. An Historical Novel by ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS and HERBERT D. WARD, authors of "The Master of the Magicians." 16mo.

"Come Forth" is a story of the time of Christ. Lazarus is the hero, and Jerusalem, Bethany, and Capernaum are the scenes of its incidents. It is a purely fictitious narrative, boldly dealing with the possibilities of New Testament characters and introducing a striking love-tale. The setting is true to the times, but the historic element is subordinated to the movement of the story, which deals with Annas, the Great High Priest, the Temple, the social relations of the Pharisees and Sadducees, the Sisters of Bethany, and the customs of Palestinian home life. While the authors introduce Christ into the story, they have not intruded thoughtlessly upon his august character, but have treated it with a reverence that will commend itself to Christian readers. The spiritual tone of the book is firm, notwithstanding its interest and consistency as a novel.

Edna Dean Proctor.

SONGS OF LIFE. By EDNA DEAN PROCTOR. 16mo, $1.25.

Miss Proctor's "National Poems" express vividly the hopes and fears, the aspiration and resolution, of the nation during the War for the Union. Her "Miscellaneous Poems" are vigorous and graceful.

A RUSSIAN JOURNEY. By EDNA DEAN PROCTOR. New Edition, enlarged. 16mo, $1.25.

Miss Proctor's journey took in St. Petersburg, Moscow, the Nijni Fairs, the Gypsies, Kalmucks, Cossacks, Crimean Tartars, Sebastopol, Odessa, and a visit to the Czar. She has now added a fresh chapter to what the New York Tribune called "a singularly agreeable volume."

Riverside Classics.

Cabinet Editions of Favorite Books, in tasteful 16mo volumes. The Series includes The Vicar of Wakefield, Picciola, Mrs. Caudle's Curtain Lectures, Paradise Lost, Lalla Rookh, Paul and Virginia, The Lady of the Lake, and The Clockmaker. To these will be added

RAB AND HIS FRIENDS, AND OTHER DOGS AND MEN. By Dr. JOHN BROWN, author of "Spare Hours." 16mo, $1.00.

This promises to be one of the most interesting volumes in the series. It contains a memoir of Dr. John Brown, Rab and his Friends, Our Dogs, Marjorie Fleming, Queen Mary's Child Garden, Jeems the Doorkeeper, and other papers.

Riverside Paper Series.

THE RIVERSIDE PAPER SERIES. Consisting mostly of American copyright novels, by eminent writers.

No. 25. PRUDENCE PALFREY. By THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH.

26. THE GOLDEN JUSTICE. By W. H. BISHOP.

27. DOCTOR ZAY. By ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS.

28. ZURY: The Meanest Man in Spring County. By JOSEPH KIRKLAND.

29. CONFIDENCE. By HENRY JAMES.

In tasteful paper covers. 16mo, each 50 cents.

Charles Sprague Sargent.

THE SILVA OF NORTH AMERICA. A Description of the Trees which grow naturally in North America, exclusive of Mexico. By CHARLES SPRAGUE SARGENT, Director of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard University. Illustrated with Figures and Analyses drawn from Nature by CHARLES EDWARD FAXON, and engraved by PHILIBERT and EUGÈNE PICART. In twelve volumes, quarto, each containing Fifty Plates. Price, $25.00 each. Vol. I. ready in the Autumn of 1890.

The value of a carefully and amply illustrated Silva of North America to botanists, students of forestry, and lovers of science in general, is beyond question. No comprehensive description of the trees of North America like that contained in this work has ever been published, and indeed has not been possible before the explorations rendered practicable by the very recent opening up of all parts of our continent. Professor Sargent is recognized as the highest authority on this subject. His position as director of the Arnold Arboretum of Harvard University, his opportunities while in Government employ for exploring forests and studying trees in all parts of the country, specially qualify him for this work. His descriptive text will be supplemented by superb illustrations, drawn and engraved on copper by the best of artists. No pains or cost have been spared in gathering the materials and in the mechanical execution of this great work.

Samuel Hubbard Scudder.

THE BUTTERFLIES OF THE EASTERN UNITED STATES AND CANADA, WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO NEW ENGLAND. By SAMUEL HUBBARD SCUDDER. With Portraits and many Illustrations and Maps. 3 volumes, 8vo, half levant, gilt top, $75.00.

This important work covers 2000 pages, and includes 17 plates of butterflies, 6 of eggs, 11 of caterpillars, 2 of the nests of caterpillars, 3 of chrysalids, 2 of parasites, 33 of structural details in all stages of life, 19 maps and groups of maps to illustrate the geographical distribution of butterflies, and 3 portraits of early naturalists of this country ; in all about 2000 figures on 96 plates, of which 41 are colored. Careful descriptions are given and seventy-six essays discuss such special questions as arise in studying butterflies, and form a complete treatise on the life of these insects.

Frank Dempster Sherman.

LYRICS FOR A LUTE. By FRANK DEMPSTER SHERMAN, author of "Madrigals and Catches," etc. 18mo, parchment-paper cover.

Mr. Sherman is not a poet who is saddest when he sings, but his tone is cheerful. His previous volume, "Madrigals and Catches," has introduced him very favorably to the lovers of poetry, and these will gladly welcome this tasteful little book containing about sixty poems, grouped under the heads of Fancy, Love, Nature, and Books. Their fine imaginativeness, sunny spirit, and lyrical quality will win for them a hearty greeting.

Stuart Sterne.

PIERO DA CASTIGLIONE. A Poem by STUART STERNE, author of "Angelo," "Giorgio," and "Beyond the Shadow." 16mo.

Here is a story in verse, which may well be as popular as "Angelo." It is the story of a young Italian who comes under the influence of Savonarola, sacrifices his love, and becomes a priest. It is a very interesting story, told with unusual power and intensity.

Edith M. Thomas.

THE INVERTED TORCH. By EDITH M. THOMAS, author of "A New Year's Masque," "Lyrics and Sonnets," and "The Round Year." 16mo.

The inspiration of this volume is the same as that of Tennyson's "In Memoriam," the death of a very dear friend. The solemn, pathetic, mystical thoughts produced by this impressive experience are here transmuted into poetry by the fine genius of Miss Thomas. These elegiac poems will appeal to all who have passed through an experience like the author's.

Henry D. Thoreau.

SELECTIONS FROM THE WRITINGS OF HENRY D. THOREAU. Edited by H. G. O. BLAKE. With a full Bibliography of Thoreau's Writings. 18mo, tastefully printed and bound.

Thoreau's writings are unusually rich in quotable sentences which can stand alone. Mr. Blake has made a judicious selection of these, which form a delightful little volume that cannot fail to be welcome to lovers of Thoreau, and may attract to him others who are so unfortunate as not to know him.

Francis Tiffany.

THE LIFE OF DOROTHEA LYNDE DIX. By FRANCIS TIFFANY. With a Steel Portrait. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

As the founder of vast and enduring institutions of mercy in America and in Europe, Miss Dix has no peer in the history of Protestantism. The catalogue of her triumphs of pure humanity surpasses that of either John Howard or Elizabeth Fry. Considering the deplorable condition of the insane, especially of the pauper insane, in the United States, when she began her revolutionizing work, the marvelous series of legislative victories she won, in the way of establishing State Asylums all over the Union, presents one of the most dramatic pictures in the annals of philanthropy. Almost equally impressive is the record of her career in Europe. As well-nigh the pioneer in her own land among the remarkable women who have inaugurated a new epoch in the history of their sex, Miss Dix's life cannot fail to awaken widespread interest. For courage, persistence, ideal aim, and brilliancy of executive energy, it makes a distinct contribution to the question of woman's capacity and influence in this age of the world. Mr. Tiffany has told this remarkable story with excellent judgment and skill.

William B. Weedon.

ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL HISTORY OF NEW ENGLAND. 1620-1789. With an Appendix of Prices. By WILLIAM B. WEEDON. 2 vols. crown 8vo, $4.50.

Mr. Weedon of Providence, the well-known manufacturer and writer on economic subjects, has here produced a work of unusual value. It covers a new field of inquiry, one which now possesses a greater degree of interest than ever before for students of social and industrial questions. It is not a general history of New England, and touches its political history only as this affects or is affected by its social and economic interests. But the peculiar elements in the settlement, colonization, and development of New England give a somewhat unique character to these interests. Mr. Weedon has studied this subject very thoroughly, and has such a mastery of the principles involved in it that these two volumes are of great value, and they are written with notable vigor of narration and in an admirable style.

White and Gold Series.

LEGENDS AND LYRICS. Selected from the Poems of JOHN G. WHITTIER. PASTORALS, LYRICS, AND SONNETS. Selected from the Poems of WILLIAM WORDSWORTH.

Two excellent little volumes in the White and Gold Series, which already contains ROMANCES, LYRICS, AND SONNETS. By Mrs. BROWNING.

LYRICS, IDYLS, AND ROMANCES. By ROBERT BROWNING.

BALLADS, LYRICS, AND SONNETS. By H. W. LONGFELLOW.

INTERLUDES, LYRICS, AND IDYLS. By Lord TENNYSON.

Each volume 16mo, gilt top, $1.00; half levant, $3.00.

Adeline D. T. Whitney.

ASCUTNEY STREET. A Story by Mrs. A. D. T. WHITNEY, author of "Faith Gartney's Girlhood," etc. 12mo, $1.50.

Only Mrs. Whitney could have written "Ascutney Street," and her army of readers will find it peculiarly interesting and suggestive. Its characters and incidents teach the lesson which Mrs. Whitney (with every other sensible person) firmly believes the world needs to learn and practice, — that reality, sincerity, unselfishness, and noble aspiration make life not only worth living but infinitely more sane and beautiful than low aims and pretense can make it. The lesson, however, is not taught by preaching, but by a bright story, with people and events which enlist the reader's hearty interest.

John Greenleaf Whittier.

SONGS OF THREE CENTURIES. Selected, with an Introductory Essay, by JOHN G. WHITTIER. Household Edition, much enlarged. 12mo, $1.50; full gilt, $2.00; half calf, $3.00; morocco, or tree calf, $4.50.

Illustrated Library Edition. Enlarged. With Thirty-two full-page Illustrations. 8vo, full gilt, $3.00; half calf, $5.00; morocco, or tree calf, $7.50.

In the fifteen years since this excellent compilation was prepared, many poems have been published which should be included in such a work. This new edition contains a large number of these poems and the value of the collection is thereby much increased.

See White and Gold Series.

Kate Douglas Wiggin.

TIMOTHY'S QUEST. By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN, author of "The Birds' Christmas Carol," "The Story of Patsy," "A Summer in a Cañon."

The "quest" of Timothy, a boy of ten or twelve years, is for a mother for a little girl who has been his companion in the establishment of a wretched baby-farmer. They run away with a dog, and this book tells the story of their experiences and success. It is bright, humorous, and touching, and cannot fail to be read with eager interest.

Kate Douglas Wiggin and Nora A. Smith.

THE STORY HOUR. Short Stories for Young Children. By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN and her sister, NORA A. SMITH. With illustrations. Square 16mo.

Mrs. Wiggin has abundantly proved her skill in telling stories that enlist the hearty interest of readers of all ages. In this book she and her sister tell a number of short stories for very small children in kindergartens and households, and their freshness and brightness will make them very popular.

Justin Winsor.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS. By JUSTIN WINSOR, editor of the "Narrative and Critical History of America," etc. With Portrait and Maps.

The approaching quadricentennial of the discovery of America by Columbus attracts special attention to the man and to the record of his discoveries. Mr. Winsor, by the exhaustive study he has made of early American history, is exceptionally qualified to trace the growth of the idea that there was a Western passage to the Indies, and of the purpose to find it. He has made a very full presentation of this, and emphasized it by maps of the time. The career of Columbus and his character are portrayed very effectively. The work is at once biography, history, and historical geography.

George E. Woodberry.

STUDIES IN LETTERS AND LIFE. A book of Essays by GEORGE E. WOODBERRY, author of "The North Shore Watch and Other Poems," and "Edgar Allan Poe" in the Series of American Men of Letters.

CONTENTS: Landor; Crabbe; On the Promise of Keats; Aubrey de Vere on Poetry; Illustrations of Idealism; Remarks on Shelley; Some Actors' Criticisms of Othello, Iago, and Shylock; Sir George Beaumont, Coleridge, and Wordsworth; Three Men of Piety: Bunyan, Cowper, and Channing; Darwin's Life; Byron's Centenary; Browning's Death.

Excellent critical judgment, a fine sense of proportion, and an admirably strong and clear style mark these essays. Indeed, it would be difficult to name any recent book of similar scope more worthy of the attention of good readers, or more likely to hold a permanent place in literature.

ROBERTS BROTHERS'

NEW BOOKS FOR THE SEASON 1890-91.

OUR NEW ENGLAND.

Her Nature described by Hamilton Wright Mabie and some of His Familiar Scenes Illustrated. The illustrations are photogravures (Gravure-Gilbo) from nature, by A. W. Elson & Co., with Remarques drawn by Frank T. Merrill, oblong quarto, limp cover, with photogravure design on Japanese paper, gilt edges. Price, $4.00; cloth, illuminated design price, $5.00.

Picture Subjects.

A NEW ENGLAND HOME.
HOME OF THE PURITAN.
A FAMILY OF ROOKS.
HAPPY HOLLOW.
COUNTRY ROAD IN WINTER.
ON THE EXETER RIVER.
PAST MILKING TIME. "Why don't you come and get us?"
COUNTRY ROAD IN SUMMER.
MILKING TIME.
EASTERN POINT BEACH, GLOUCESTER HARBOR.
A WARM CORNER.
THROUGH THE PINES.

The picture subjects are charming bits of Nature, characteristic of New England, chosen from various localities by an expert photographer, and reproduced with special attention to details, by the photogravure process.

Mr. Mabie's summary of the picturesqueness and grandeur of New England scenery is a clever bit of essay writing. His description of the climatic changes, of boy life in the old homestead and on the farm, the varied aspects of Nature during the four seasons, its beauties so favorably compared with other countries, is unfolded with panoramic clearness, and is extremely fascinating.

To the New-Englander afar, the book will be a happy reminder of his early home life, while to the resident, it will be a source of pleasure and pride.

MESSRS. ROBERTS BROTHERS' ANNOUNCEMENTS.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION OF THE LIGHT OF ASIA;

The Great Renunciation. Being the Life and Teaching of Gautama, Prince of India and Founder of Buddhism. By Sir EDWIN ARNOLD, M. A., K. C. L. E., C. S. I. Holiday edition. Square 12mo. Bound in Oriental colors. With a new portrait of the author by Damman, and illustrative cover design. Gilt top, price $1.50; full gilt, gilt edges, price $2.00.

"THIS IS THE NIGHT THE AGES WAITED FOR."

The illustrations are taken, for the most part, from photographs of Buddhist sculptures and frescoes found in ancient ruins of India, averaging 2000 years old, many of them being certified by eminent archaeological authorities, both in India and at home, as actually illustrating scenes in the Life of Gautama Buddha, the founder of Buddhism, and the hero of Sir Arnold's poem.

The design on the cover illustrates the four principal events in the life of Buddha, the Birth, the Meditation, the Preaching, and the Nirvana. It is taken from a bas-relief found at Sarnath, near Benares, and now in the museum at Calcutta.

 NEW BOOKS FOR THE SEASON, 1890-91.

IDYLLS OF THE FIELD.

By F. A. KNIGHT, author of "By Leafy Ways." With illustrations by E. T. Compton. 12mo. Cloth. Price, $1.50.

The success which has attended the publication of Mr. Knight's recent volume, "By Leafy Ways," has induced him to issue another series of chapters in a uniform volume. These are now just published under the title of "Idylls of the Field," and are tastefully illustrated by Mr. E. T. Compton, whose drawings for the former volume added so much to its charm. The volume consists of a series of Sketches, containing exquisite pictures of country life and scenes, characterised by that charm of style which has rendered Mr. Knight's writing so popular.

BY LEAFY WAYS.

Brief Studies from the Book of Nature. By F. A. KNIGHT. With numerous beautiful illustrations and full-page plates, by E. T. Compton. 12mo. Cloth. Price, $1.50.

A book of delightful reading about out-of-door life. Dealing chiefly with bird life, the work also contains much information about the denizens of English lanes, woods, and meadows, written in a very pleasing and agreeable style. Mr. Knight has a happy touch in describing the ways of birds and the aspects of the fields, and a keenness of observation akin to the faculty that was so remarkably developed by Richard Jefferies in "The Gamekeeper at Home," and other books. Not the least important feature of these studies is to create a love for all the lower forms of life by showing their usefulness in one particular or another.

THE FUTURE OF SCIENCE.

By ERNEST RENAN, author of "History of the People of Israel." One volume. 8vo. Cloth. (In Press.)

MISS BROOKS.

A Boston Novel. By ELIZA O. WHITE, author of "A Browning Courtship."

THE HOUSE OF THE WOLFINGS.

A Tale of the House of the Wolfings and all the Kindreds of the Mark written in Prose and in Verse, by WILLIAM MORRIS, author of "The Earthly Paradise." 12mo. Oxford style. Price, $2.00.

This is one of those rare creations of genius which reproduce the life and manners of a remote past and of peoples of a grand kind that civilization cannot assimilate.

The story of the Wolfings, a branch of the Gothic people, in their picturesque life in the woods and their struggle with the Romans, has an epic force and significance; and the way in which Thiodolf, their leader and that of their brother Mark-men, was led to sacrifice his own life in order to insure the success of his people, has a noble pathos. He had been induced by the Wood-Sun, a daughter of the god, who was smitten with love for him, to wear a magic hauberk, or coat of mail, which he threw off on discovering that, while it was a sure protection for him, it would bring ruin on his folk. This was being proved by the success of the Romans, who had captured the sacred Wolfing Roof, when the Hall-Sun, the child of the two lovers, resolving to sacrifice her beloved father for his country, led him to her mother, who she made confess the deception which she had practised to save Thiodolf's life. That warrior, roused by the emergency, marched with his hosts to the Wolfing Roof, which he recaptured from the Romans, and died from his wounds in the great hall. His death saved his people.

THE DAY'S MESSAGE.

A Brief Selection of Prose and Verse for each day in the year. Chosen by Susan Coolidge. Cover design by Mrs. Whitman. 16mo. White and green cloth. Plain edition, price, $1.00; full gilt and gilt edges price, $1.25.

The busy days of life are not so busy but that there is time in each for the reading of one compact little sentence of wisdom or comfort and one bit of true poetry, and none need such little well-selected morsel so much as those who have no time to choose it for themselves.

LONDON OF TO-DAY.

An Illustrated Handbook of the Season, 1890. By CHARLES EYRE PASCO. The sixth annual edition, revised and in part rewritten, and comprising numerous additional illustrations. 12mo. Cloth. Price, $1.50.

A book of valuable information concerning Hotels, Restaurants, Places, Persons, and Firms, stated with fairness and discrimination. It will be of vast service to strangers in any city like London, being based as a rule on actual personal knowledge and experience.

NEW BOOKS FOR THE SEASON, 1890-91.

ONE SUMMER'S LESSONS IN PRACTICAL PERSPECTIVE.

Told in the Form of a Story for Young People. By CHRISTINE CHAPLIN BRUSH, author of "The Colonel's Opera Cloak," and "Inside Our Gate." With many illustrations. One volume. 16mo. Cloth. Price, 75 cents.

DAYS AND HOURS IN A GARDEN.

By E. V. B. A new edition, printed on antique paper, and adorned with pictorial head and tail pieces, composed of sketches taken from the nooks and corners in the garden described by the author. 12mo. White cloth, gilt top. Price, $2.00.

Days and Hours in a Garden illustrates, in a very happy manner, the many charms which surround the daily tending of a country garden. It is founded on the author's experience in the care of a garden of almost historic interest in the county of Buckingham, England. A new preface has been added, and several new illustrations from the pencil of E. V. B. will be found interspersed in its pages.

The book is full of suggestive thoughts on the works of Nature, and displays a deep sympathy with her teachings.

MESSRS. ROBERTS BROTHERS ANNOUNCEMENTS.

THE WINDS, THE WOODS, AND THE WANDERER.

A Fable for Children. By LILY F. WESSELHOEFT, author of "Sparrow, the Tramp," and "Flipwing the Spy." With Illustrations. 16mo. Cloth. Price, $1.25.

SPECIMEN CUT.

In the story of "The Winds, the Woods, and the Wanderer," the author has endeavored to depict an artistic temperament that is misunderstood by the practical natures by which it is surrounded,—one that hears the voice of the "dear Lord God," as the Germans have it, speaking through the rustling of the forest-trees. This same artistic temperament the untutored Indian youth possessed; and the two natures were drawn together by the love of the beautiful that was implanted in the soul of each, and that interpreted to them the voices of Nature which others are as a sealed book.

NEW BOOKS FOR THE SEASON, 1890-91.

DEAR DAUGHTER DOROTHY.

By Miss A. G. PLYMPTON. With seven illustrations by the author. Small 4to. Cloth. Price, $1.00.

and Binding, were Awarded to the Genuine "Oxford" Bibles.*

"THE OXFORD HELPS are exceedingly clear and equal. The information is accessible in form and admirable in quality.

"Perhaps the best I can say on behalf of the latter is, that those Teachers and Helpers who worked with me in ascertaining the capabilities of all the editions, the 'Oxford,' 'The Queen's Printer,' and 'The New Bagster Comprehensor,' have Unanimously chosen the 'Oxford' for their own use. This is no doubt partly owing to the superior beauty of the 'Oxford' binding and get-up, and still more perhaps to the superiority of the 'Oxford India Paper,' which is very great.

"The India Paper of the 'Oxford' is much more opaque, and the type much clearer than in the corresponding editions of either of its competitors."—The Workers' Monthly, Feb., 1890.

"Get the Best." The 'Oxford' is easily the best, therefore get the 'Oxford.' This is logic, and this is our advice to all who are seeking the best Bible for their own use or as a gift to a friend. . . . It is a whole library of Scriptural knowledge in a small compass."—The Christian Witness, Feb. 6, 1890.

Fall Announcement of New Books.

THE FOUNDING OF THE GERMAN EMPIRE BY WILLIAM I.

Translated from the German of HEINRICH VON SYBEL by Professor MARSHALL LIVINGSTONE PERRIN, of the Boston University. 5 volumes, 8vo, cloth, $10.00; half morocco, $15.00.

This work, on the publication of the first volume, was instantly recognized by the German critics as a masterpiece of historical writing; at the same time its genuine popularity was attested by the fact that an edition of fifty thousand copies was almost immediately exhausted. It is a calm, but at the same time brilliant and complete portrayal of the most portentous creation of modern times. The present edition is translated by Professor Perrin, whose scholarly accuracy and care are visible on every page. It is in five volumes, illustrated with portraits of Wilhelm I., Bismarck, Von Moltke, Friedrich, and the present Emperor.

JANE EYRE.

By CHARLOTTE BRONTË. With 48 illustrations engraved by Andrew. Carefully printed from beautiful type on superior calendered paper. 2 volumes, 12mo, cloth, gilt top, boxed, $5.00; half calf, $9.00. Édition de luxe, limited to 250 numbered copies, large paper, Japan proofs mounted, $10.00.

Jane Eyre is one of the books which seem destined to live. Its original and vivid style, its lifelike and powerful plot, its tremendous moral purport (once misunderstood, but now recognized) make it one of the most absorbing novels ever written. The present illustrated edition is as perfect as will ever be produced. Presswork, paper, illustrations and binding combine into a whole that is a delight to the eye and a cynosure for a library.

THE PORTABLE COMMENTARY.

By JAMIESON, FAUSSETT and BROWN. 2 volumes, crown 8vo, cloth, $4.00.

This convenient manual has a world-wide reputation as the best book of its kind in the English language. It is full, yet concise, easily understood, clear in type, convenient in size; a work that should be in the hands of every student of the Bible.

THE NARRATIVE OF CAPTAIN COIGNET, Soldier of the Empire, 1776-1850.

An autobiographical account of one of Napoleon's Body Guard. Fully illustrated. 12mo, half leather, $2.50; half calf, $5.00.

The Recollections of Captain Coignet, perfectly authenticated, come to us like a voice from those mighty masses who under Napoleon made Europe tremble almost a hundred years ago. It is the record of the daily doings of a private soldier, who fought in many great campaigns. They are marked by quaint frankness and naïveté, an honest boastfulness thoroughly Gallic and a keen sense of the picturesque value of truth. Nothing like these memoirs has ever been published. They are original, shrewd, clever, and they make the Napoleonic days live again.

BRAMPTON SKETCHES; or, Old New England Life.

By Mrs. WILLIAM CLAFLIN. Illustrated. 16mo, unique binding, $1.25.

The old New England life is rapidly fading, not only from existence, but even from the memory of people. It is therefore well that those who were in touch with the best elements of this quaint and homely life should put to paper and perpetuate its traditions and half-forgotten memories. This Mrs. Clafin has done for the town of Hopkinton, where her parents lived, and "Brampton Sketches" stand out as a truthful record of a peculiarly interesting provincial town.

GOLD NAILS to Hang Memories On.

A rhyming review, under their Christian names, of old acquaintances in history, literature and friendship. By ELIZABETH A. ALLEN. 8vo, gilt edges, $2.50.

This is the most original autograph book ever published. It aims to give a history and record of the more or less familiar Christian names, and at the same time to commemorate the most familiar and famous men and women who have borne them. The book, therefore, has not only an interest of its own, but is distinctively educational. Spaces are left on each page for autographs.

REAL HAPPENINGS.

My Mrs. WILLIAM CLAFLIN. 12mo, booklet style, 30 cents.

Under the above attractive title, Mrs. Clafin has collected, into a little volume of less than fifty pages, five simple, unaffected stories from actual life. They are all pleasantly told, and are filled with a warm feeling of love and humanity.

BOURRIENNE'S MEMOIRS OF NAPOLEON BONAPARTE.

SPECIAL LIMITED EDITION, with over 100 illustrations. 5 volumes, cloth, gilt top, half leather, $10.00.

T. Y. CROWELL & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.—Continued.

THE ROBBER COUNT.

By JULIUS WOLFF. Translated from the Twenty-third German Edition by W. HENRY WINSLOW and ELIZABETH R. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This masterpiece among Julius Wolff's prose romances is laid in mediæval times, and, as in "The Saltmaster," the author has caught the spirit of those days and transferred it to its pages. It will be a notable addition to our list of historical fiction.

ALSO IN PRESS, BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

"FIFTY YEARS, TWO MONTHS AND THREE DAYS."

From the Fifteenth German Edition. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

FAMILY MANNERS.

By ELIZABETH GLOVER, author of "Talks About a Fine Art," etc. Booklet, half cloth, 30 cents.

TOM BROWN'S SCHOOL-DAYS.

By THOMAS HUGHES. With 53 illustrations engraved by Andrew, carefully printed from beautiful type on calendered paper. 12mo, cloth, $2.00; full gilt, $2.50. Édition de luxe, limited to 250 numbered copies, large paper, Japan proofs mounted, $5.00.

Praise or comment on this classic would be a work of supererogation. Every parent sooner or later puts it in his children's hands. We can only say that the present edition is by all odds the best that has ever been offered to the American public. Printed from large type, well illustrated, and handsomely bound, it makes a book worthy of any library.

FAMOUS EUROPEAN ARTISTS.

By Mrs. SARAH K. BOLTON, author of "Poor Boys Who Became Famous," etc. With portraits of Raphael, Titian, Landseer, Reynolds, Rubens, Turner and others. 12mo, $1.50.

In this handsome volume, Mrs. Bolton relates sympathetically, and with her usual skill in seizing upon salient points, the lives of Sir Joshua Reynolds, Turner and other artists, whose names are household words. The sketches are accompanied by excellent portraits.

FAMOUS ENGLISH AUTHORS OF THE 19TH CENTURY.

By Mrs. SARAH K. BOLTON, author of "Poor Boys Who Became Famous," etc. With portraits of Scott, Burns, Carlyle, Dickens, Tennyson, Robert Browning, etc. 12mo, $1.50.

During a recent visit abroad, Mrs. Bolton had the opportunity of visiting many of the scenes made memorable by the residence or writings of the best known English authors, and the incidents which she was thus enabled to invest with a personal interest she has woven into the sketches of Tennyson, Ruskin, Browning and the other authors of whom she writes. These two companion volumes are among the best of the "Famous" Series.

GOSPEL STORIES.

Translated from the Russian of Count L. N. TOLSTOI by NATHAN HASKELL DOLE. 12mo, $1.25.

Count Tolstoi's short sketches of Russian life, inspired generally by some pregnant text of Scripture and written for the masses, perhaps even more than his longer works show the man's real greatness. Sixteen of these selected from various publications, are here presented in a neat and attractive volume.

PHILIP; or, What May Have Been.

A Story of the First Century. By MARY C. CUTLER. 12mo, $1.25.

An appreciative notice of this story contains the following words: "Reverence, accuracy, a chastened feeling of perfect sincerity, pervade this book. . . . We have read it through, and can confidently recommend it as in every way fitted to give the old familiar facts of the gospel history a new interest."

HALF A DOZEN BOYS.

By ANNIE CHAPIN RAY. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

This is a genuine story of boy life. The six heroes are capital fellows, such as any healthy lad, or girl either for that matter, will feel heart-warm toward. The simple incidents and amusements of the village where they live are invested with a peculiar charm through the hearty and sympathetic style in which the book is written. It is a book quite worthy of Miss Alcott's pen.

FOR SALE BY ALL BOOKSELLERS.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & CO., Publishers, New York.

A Partial List of the Announcements of DODD, MEAD & COMPANY For the Autumn of 1890.

A History of Modern Architecture.

By JAMES FERGUSON, D.C.L., F.R.S., M.R.A.S., etc. Thoroughly revised and brought down to the present time by Robert Kerr, Professor of Architecture at King's College, London, with many new illustrations added. 2 vols., 8vo.

This work is produced jointly by John Murray, London, and ourselves.

A supplementary volume devoted entirely to Modern Architecture in America, by Montgomery Schuyler, Esq., will appear in 1891.

A Memoir of Horace Walpole.

By AUSTIN DOBSON. A limited édition de luxe, printed at the De Vinne Press from type, on hand-made linen and Japan paper, and illustrated with eleven etchings by Percy Moran, by plates, etc.

This volume is not a reprint, but has been written especially for us, and we are its sole owners. Large octavo.

425 copies on Dickinson's hand-made paper. $45.00.

50 copies on Japan paper. $20.00.

4 copies on vellum. Prices on application.

These 479 copies embrace all that will be printed of this edition for both the United States and England.

The Devil's Picture-Books.

A History of Playing Cards. By Mrs. JOHN KING VAN RENSSALAER. Octavo, with 16 full-page plates in color, and numerous illustrations in black and white, $5.00.

Ardis Claverden.

A Novel. By FRANK R. STOCKTON, author of "Rudder Grange," "The Late Mrs. Noll," "The Great War Syndicate," "The Stories of the Three Beggars," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This novel is the longest and most important of the author's works. It is thoroughly American, the scenes being laid partly in the South and partly in New York, but there is introduced into it a type of English character which has not yet been used in fiction. This type is found among the well-to-do English people who have adopted certain portions of Virginia as their homes.

The story contains more incident than any other of the author's novels. The adventures are of a varied character, including a deadly encounter in the black darkness of a cave, the hanging of horse thieves, a duel and other scenes of dramatic action.

Friend Olivia.

By AMELIA E. BARR, author of "Jan Vedder's Wife," "The Bow of Orange Ribbon," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

This story, which is now running in The Century Magazine, will be offered in book form, uniform with Mrs. Barr's other stories.

The Gallant Lords of Bois Doree.

By GEORGE SAND. Translated from the French by Steven Clovis. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth, uniform with "Consuelo," $5.00.

In "The Gallant Lords of Bois Doree" George Sand has given a delightful picture of the manners, ideas and mode of life of the French nobility resident upon their estates in the first half of the 17th century. The scene is laid near Bourges, in the centre of France, where the authoress herself lived for so many years that the local and archaeological details have the accuracy and value of an historical work. The principal character is a high-minded and romantically chivalric old Huguenot warrior, whose life has been spent in the service of Henry of Navarre. The political, social and domestic relations of the times are so interwoven with the story of thrilling personal adventure that the tale commands the unbroken interest of the historical student as well as of the lover of romance and combat.

The Household of McNeil.

A Story of the Scotch Highlands. By AMELIA E. BARR, author of "A Daughter of Fife," "A Border Shepherdess," "The Squire of Sandal Side," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The Delight Makers.

A Novel of Pueblo Indian Life. By ADOLF F. BANDELLER. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Of this novel Dr. Francis Parkman writes: "Mr. Bandeller, whom I have known many years from his connection with the American Institute of Archaeology, is one of the leading ethnologists and archaeologists on this continent. In some departments, indeed, he has no equal. Aside from literary qualities, his novel, which I have carefully read, has a great scientific value, being by far the best picture of life in the Pueblo of New Mexico that has ever been made public. Mr. Bandeller has lived for years among these Indians, and their language, customs and ways of thinking and feeling are perfectly familiar to him. He has a vivid imagination and an excellent eye for the picturesque in life or scenery."

The Jew.

A Novel. By JOSEPH IGNATIUS KRASZEWSKI. Translated from the Polish by Linda de Kowalewski. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Kraszewski, the great Polish dramatist, archaeologist, historian, publicist, enriched the literature of his country with more than a hundred volumes. Born in 1812, he died, a political exile, in 1887, and was buried with great pomp at Cracow, where over fifty thousand people assembled at his obsequies. His heart rests in the Church of St. Croix at Warsaw, the place of his birth, where also reposes the heart of Chopin, the musician.

"The Jew" is a plea for Judaism in its higher spiritual and moral aspects. It is at the same time a remarkable picture of the various types of Jewish character, from lowest to highest, from the almost mediocrity orthodox to the modern materialistic, mercantile Jew. The story is laid amid the last uprising of the Poles in the time of Napoleon III. The novel is not unlike in tone some of the greatest of the Russian stories which have lately attracted such widespread attention. Indeed, Kraszewski may be said to be the literary father of Tolstol and the whole school of modern Russian literature, since he was their predecessor.

The Doctor's Dilemma.

A Novel. By HENNA STRETTON. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

At the same time a new edition of HENNA STRETTON'S stories, in new bindings. 12mo, cloth, $1.00, as follows:

SEDE'S CHARITY.	HESTER MORLEY'S
IN PRISON AND OUT.	PROMISE.
THROUGH A NEEDLE'S	CAROLA.
EYE.	COBBLEBS AND CA-
DAVID LLOYD'S LAST WILL.	BLES.

Our Mother Tongue.

By THEODORE H. MEAD. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Our Mother Tongue" is written with the view of enabling the reader, without the aid of any other instruction, to correct any defects and imperfections that may exist in his manner of speaking our common language. These defects are found, in the first place, in the quality of the voice itself, then in our manner of using the voice, then in modulation, in articulation and pronunciation. All these points are treated in a thoroughly practical manner, the cause of the various defects being made clear, and detailed instructions given by following which they may all be cured. The remarks on modulation and the "speech tunes" of conversation will probably be entirely new to the great majority of readers. A vocabulary is appended containing some thousands of words commonly mispronounced in one way or another, and the correct pronunciation is given without the use of arbitrary signs, but yet in a way to be quite unmistakable. Bishop Vincent, Chancellor of the University of Chautauque, writes to the author: "I have read your admirable little work with great interest, and shall recommend it to all Chautauquans."

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY'S FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS.—Continued.Battlefields and Campfires.

Being a sequel to "Battlefields of '61," and carrying forward the story of the War for the Union. By WILLIS J. ABBOT, author of "The Blue Jackets of '61," of 1812, of '76." Quarto, with many original illustrations by W. C. Jackson, cloth, $3.00.

Maroussia.

A Maid of Ukraine. From the French of P. J. Stahl, with ten illustrations. A most delightful story, crowned by the French Academy. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

The Sun Dial.

A Poem by AUSTIN DOBSON.

"'Tis an old dial dark with many a stain;
In summer crowned with drifting orchard bloom,
Tricked in the autumn with the yellow rain,
And white in winter like a marble tomb;

"And round about its gray, time-eaten brow
Lean letters speak—a worn and shattered row:
I am a Shade: a Shadowe too arte Thou:
I marke the Time: saye, Gossip, dost thou see?"

Etc. Illustrated with many designs reproduced in photogravure, and with drawings in pen and ink by George Wharton Edwards, and bound in unique fashion. Small quarto, $7.50.

An édition de luxe on Japan paper, limited to 50 copies, with an additional design signed by the artist, $20.00.

A Marriage for Love.

By LUDOVIC HALEVY, author of "The Abbé Constantin," etc. An édition de luxe with twenty-three full-page illustrations, reproduced in photogravure, by Wilson de Meza. Uniform in size with the quarto edition of "The Abbé Constantin." In silk portfolio, $10.00.

This charming story, rivalling "The Abbé Constantin" in its delicacy and purity, will, like it, be noted for the beauty and finish of its illustrations.

The Haunted Pool.

(La Mare au Diable.) From the French of George Sand, by Frank Hunter Potter. Illustrated with fourteen etchings by Rudaux. Quarto, beautifully bound, $4.00.

No greater contrast can be imagined than between "Consuelo" and "The Haunted Pool." Abandoning the busy haunts of men, with their strife and intrigues, George Sand here gives us a rustic picture. It is a simple tale of peasant life and love told with a tender sympathy.

My Study Fire.

A volume of essays by HAMILTON WRIGHT MABIE, editor of the Christian Union, author of "Norse Stories Retold from the Eddas." 12mo, boards, $1.25.

Three Years in Western China.

By ALEXANDER HOSIE. Octavo, illustrated, cloth, $5.00.

In the Series, Makers of America:

In announcing the first volumes of this series the publishers desire to call attention to the peculiar characteristics which distinguish it and make it of more than usual interest. It is to consist of biographies of moderate compass. These are to be exact as to fact, but the facts are to be presented in an interesting fashion. Each book is to have local color and atmosphere, so as to be a picture of the times, an Episode of American History. It is proposed to include in this series: Discoverers, Colonizers, Statesmen, Men of War, of Letters, Theologians, Inventors; in short, men who, in every walk of life, have won success and national reputation. For the other subjects so far arranged for, see prospectus. The books will be of 12mo size, and published at the uniform price of 75 cents per volume.

George and Cecilius Calvert, Barons Baltimore of Baltimore

Alexander Hamilton

(1757-1804), Statesman, Financier, Secretary of the Treasury. By Prof. WILLIAM G. SUMNER, of Yale University. 12mo, cloth, 75 cents.

James Edward Oglethorpe

(1687-1785), and the Founding of the Georgia Colony. By HENRY BRUCE, Esq. 12mo, cloth, 75 cents.

Father Juniper Serra

(1713-1784), and the Franciscan Missions in California. By JOHN GILMARY SHEA, LL.D. 12mo, cloth, 75 cents.

In the series, Great Explorers and Explorations.Mungo Park and the Niger.

By JOSEPH THOMSON, author of "Through Masa Land." 12mo, cloth, with numerous maps and illustrations, $1.25.

Other volumes in this series will be announced at intervals. Already published: JOHN DAVIS THE NAVIGATOR. By CLEMENTS R. MARKHAM. PALESTINE. By Major R. E. CONDER. Illustrated. Each 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The Giunta Series:

A new series intended to include the classics of literature in every department.

Named after the great Florentine printers of the 15th century, the father and son Giunta, the books will be made at the University Press, Cambridge, on type imported from France, and will be models of typographical excellence.

It is proposed to avoid as far as possible what may be called "hack classics"—books to be found in every popular series. The volumes under way are:

Four Frenchwomen.

By AUSTIN DOBSON. Small 12mo, cloth. This volume embraces sketches of Mademoiselle de Corday, Madame Roland, Madame de Genlis, and the Princesse de Lamballe. With a portrait of Mademoiselle de Corday etched by Thomas Johnson. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

Christie Johnstone.

A Novel. By CHARLES READE. With a frontispiece in photogravure, by Wilson de Meza. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

The Journal of Maurice de Guérin.

Translated from the French by Miss Jessie Frothingham. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

Peg Woffington.

A Novel. By CHARLES READE. With an etched portrait by Thomas Johnson. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

Desiree, Queen of Sweden and Norway.

From the French of Baron Hochschild by Mrs. M. Carey. 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

A memoir bringing to our attention one of the greatest romances of history. Désirée Clary, of Marseilles, at the age of fourteen is betrothed to Joseph Bonaparte; Napoleon, visiting her at his brother's request, is charmed with her, and, persuading Joseph to marry her sister, becomes betrothed in his stead. But this engagement falling through, by reason of his infatuation for Madame de Beauharnais, she is later on married to Bernadotte, and on his becoming King of Sweden is elevated to royal honors.

Wanneta the Sioux.

By WARREN K. MOOREHEAD, of the Smithsonian Institution. A story of Indian life by one who has lived in the tipis of the Sioux nation and writes from personal knowledge. With many illustrations of Indian life. Octavo, cloth, $2.00.

The Silver Caves.

By ERNEST INGERSOLL. A mining story. With illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

A New Volume in the Elsie Series.

By MARTHA FINLEY. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

THE FIRST VOLUME OF THE "RED CROSS" SERIES OF HEALTH HANDBOOKS.

"WHAT AILS THE BABY?" By Dr. John Dewar, physician for diseases of women and children in the principal hospitals of England and Scotland. Handy sized, 16mo, tastefully bound in cloth, 50 cents.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." We all acknowledge the wisdom of the old proverb, but are not so ready to apply its principles. Thus it is that the majority of mankind at some stage of their existence find themselves seized with an illness that might easily have been prevented. How to prevent preventable diseases? How to recognize disease at its very onset, so as to give the physician and his remedies a fair chance? What to do to relieve the patient until the physician arrives? To the answering of these and such-like important questions, the "Red Cross Series of Health Handbooks" will be devoted.

THE "PHONETIC" SERIES OF HANDBOOKS TO THE STUDY OF LANGUAGES.

No. 1. COLLOQUIAL FRENCH FOR TRAVELLERS AND STUDENTS. Handy sized 16mo, tastefully bound in cloth, 50 cents.

This is the first volume of a series of handbooks which has two aims—one to give a careful analysis, for students, of the sounds employed in speaking various languages, as compared with English, with an explanation of the differences in easily-understood terms; and the other to be thoroughly useful phrase-books for travellers. For example, under the head of

"USEFUL PHRASES: FOR THOSE WHO DO NOT SPEAK MUCH FRENCH," the arrangement is as follows, viz.:

ENGLISH FORM.	FRENCH FORM.	PRONOUNCED.
I do not speak French.	Je ne parle pas Français.	Zhen parri pah-Fronsae.
Do they speak English here?	Parle-t-on l'Anglais ici?	Parri-tohn—lon-glai-eecee?

CHARLES DICKENS' COMPLETE WORKS.

An edition prepared specially from the only really nice set of electrotypes plates in existence. No such attractive issue has been made of the writings of Charles Dickens, which, various as the forms of publication adapted to the demands of an ever widely increasing popularity may be, have never yet been worthily presented in a really handsome library form.

Complete in 15 volumes, with 375 illustrations by Seymour, Phiz, Cruikshank, Browne and others. Large 12mo, cloth, gilt tops, uncut, the set, $15.00. Same, in half polished morocco extra, gilt tops, uncut, $30.00.

THE "ROSSLYN" EDITION OF THE WAVERLEY NOVELS.

In convenient 12mo shape, 25 vols. Cloth extra, gilt tops, boxed, $18.75; handsomely bound in half polished morocco, gilt tops, $37.50.

. This edition is printed on good paper from entirely new plates. The type is remarkably clear and readable, and the set is handsomely and strongly bound.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED:

THE BANKSIDE SHAKESPEARE.

The great text freed from gossip, hearsay and the guesswork of Commentators.

THE BANKSIDE SHAKESPEARE is published by the NEW YORK SHAKESPEARE SOCIETY on an entirely novel plan. It contains the text of the earliest version of each play printed in the lifetime of Shakespeare, paralleled with the 1623 or First Folio Text, both texts being numbered line by line and scrupulously collated with both the Folio and Quarto texts. The edition reproduces all the antique and pedantic ornaments of the Quartos and Folios; numbers consecutively every line, whether speech, stage direction, exit or entrance; copies every typographical slip, misplaced punctuation, error in orthography or inverted letter in both texts, and even gives the precise "justification" of the lines of each version to the widths of the original pages.

THE BANKSIDE SHAKESPEARE will be complete in 20 volumes, of which 9 are ready. The remaining 11 volumes will be published at short intervals, insuring the early completion of the work.

Each play is printed separately, de luxe, in the best style of the Riverside Press, on laid paper, uncut, boards. Only 500 copies are printed from type, and hand numbered, under the Society's inspection. Each copy contains a certificate signed by a Committee of the Society pledging the Society's faith to this effect. Price on delivery, $2.50 per volume. We, of course, accept only purchasers who will take the series (20 in all). Subscribers are assigned and will receive an identically numbered copy of each volume. On completion of series, price uniformly $75.00 per set.

PARTIAL LIST OF Fleming H. Revell's New Publications.

Love, the Supreme Gift;

THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD.

The Perfected Life;

THE GREATEST NEED IN THE WORLD.

Both by Prof. Henry Drummond. Bound in chaste white vellum paper, each 20 cts.

These are not to be judged by the size, unless rubies are counted for the weight thereof. The first has been very largely circulated, the second is now only just published and deserves the same wide reading—both are gems such as are only found at rare intervals. If you have not read them, do so at once; you will be a better man or woman for the reading.

Scriptural Outlines by Books and Themes.

By W. G. Carr. 166 pages, cloth, 75 cts.

In this volume the author presents, first, an outline of each book of the Bible, giving in a peculiarly incisive and epigrammatic style the prominent features or teaching of each chapter, besides a brief but very suggestive summary of each book as a whole. The second part comprises a series of original outline Bible Readings.

The Gospel and Modern Substitutes.

By Rev. A. Scott, D.D. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Here we have a master hand directed by a loving heart. No uncertain sound and no mere platitudes. Agnosticism, Pessimism, Positivism, the law of Heredity and of Variation, and the position of Art, are each ably discussed.

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill.

12mo, cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as widespread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic.

Hints on Bible Study.

By Dr. Clifford, Prof. Elmslie, R. F. Horton, Revs. F. B. Meyer, C. H. Waller, H. C. G. Moull, C. A. Berry, W. J. Dawson, and Prof. Henry Drummond. 16mo, cloth, 50 cts.

"However small in size, it is packed full of sage reflections and suggestions. You will find enough to keep you sharply and profitably thinking for many a day."—The Standard.

Moral Muscle, and How to Use It.

By Frederick A. Atkins. Introduction by Rev. Thain Davidson, D.D. Cloth, 50 cts.

All interested in young men or boys will be glad to assist in the wide-spread circulation of this timely little volume. It ought to be read by every young man in the land.

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian Mission on the Congo. Maps, portraits, and numerous engravings. 557 pages, 12mo, cloth, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayals of the dark side of African history make one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Greek Pictures Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By Rev. J. P. Mahaffy, M.A., D.D., author of "Social Life in Greece." A volume of unusual interest. The "word pictures" from this acknowledged authority on Greece will be no less attractive than the high class illustrations which are peculiar to this series. Imperial 8vo, 224 pages, cloth, gilt edges, $3.20.

Christian Living.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. A devotional volume of exceeding power. All of Mr. Meyer's works meet with large favor. This is one of his best. 32mo, neat cloth, 50 cts.

Modern Ideas of Evolution

AS RELATED TO REVELATION AND SCIENCE.

By Sir William Dawson, LL.D., F.R.S., etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles of the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our time.

Twelve Striking Sermons.

By C. H. Spurgeon. Uniform with previous volumes. "Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons," etc. 8vo, 144 pages, cloth, 50 cts.

The Swiss Guide.

By Rev. C. H. Parkhurst, D.D. This choice gem has been beautifully printed on superfine paper. Fully illustrated by Mos-type engravings from original Swiss photographs. Leatherette cover, printed in sepia and gold, gilt top and uncut edges, small quarto, 32 pages, 50 cts.

Strength and Sunshine for Every Day.

A NEW WALL ROLL, 31 LEAVES ON ROLLERS, 75 CTS.

Combining Scripture texts, with the choicest devotional poems extant.

Power from on High.

WHAT IS IT? DO WE NEED IT? CAN WE GET IT? By Rev. B. Fay Mills. 32-page booklet, in white vellum-paper covers, 20 cts.

An address delivered at the recent annual convention of the Christian Endeavor Association, St. Louis.

Miss Havergal's Devotional Volumes.

AUTHOR'S EDITION.

These have been specially prepared for desirable holiday gifts, the illuminated board covers being lithographed and printed in his characteristic style by Ernest Nister, Nuremberg. They are full case boards, in imitation of half-binding.

The following are bound in elegant illuminated board covers:

Hans of Iceland. EDITION DE LUXE. Limited to 500 copies.

By VICTOR HUGO. A new translation by A. Langdon Alger. This work, which ranks among the best of the author's early writings, and is so esteemed in France, has singularly enough been neglected in some of the so-called "Works of Victor Hugo" published in this country. Second Year of English Text Edition.GOUPIL'S PARIS SALON Of 1890.TEXT IN FRENCH OR IN ENGLISH.

THE instantaneous and unqualified success which met the issue, last year, of an English text edition of this beautiful annual art volume, has induced the Paris publishers to continue the publication—no longer an experiment—and every effort is being made to have the volume for 1890 outdo in attractiveness and real art value even its exquisitely beautiful predecessor.

We shall continue, as heretofore, to be Sole Publishers of the English Text Edition and Sole Agents for the United States for the sale of the French Text Edition.

Both Editions will be printed, folded and collated at the Paris establishment of Messrs. Goupil et Cie.'s successors. The price will remain at the same low figure as last year.

Lovell's International Series of Modern Novels.

Consisting of authorized editions only of the latest and best English novels issued under agreement with the authors.

The new works published in this excellent series, weekly, are always the first issued in this country.

Every issue is printed from new, clear electrotypes plates, printed on fine paper, and bound in attractive paper covers of original design, also in fine vellum cloth.

Great care is exercised in selecting the best works of the best authors, and, so far as possible, the works are issued simultaneously with English publication.

Advance sheets are obtained, wherever it is possible, that American readers may feel that they are getting the best literary work at the earliest possible date.

Lovell's Westminster Series.

Published by special arrangement with the authors. Fourteen volumes.

These works are crisp, terse and somewhat condensed, as compared with the English three-volume novel, but are complete and perfect, intended for the readers who enjoy the rapid development of plot and counterplot.

Lovell's Series of Foreign Literature.

Edited by EDMUND GOSSE. Seven volumes.

This series is intended to include the masterpieces of fiction of Continental Europe. It is the endeavor of the editor to collect from all languages such books as combine the greatest literary value with the most curious and amusing qualities of manner and matter. The only limits of selection are that a book shall be on the one hand amusing, and on the other wholesome.

Lovell's Occult Series.

Eight volumes. Interesting works by authors well known in the Theosophic world.

The subjects of Occultism, Theosophy and Reincarnation are causing so much discussion and absorbing such widespread attention, that a demand has arisen for information such as this series alone can supply. Only the best books from the pens of the leading authorities of the world on these subjects will be published. While the direct aim of these books is to instruct, they will be found to have an unusual interest to the casual reader as well.

Lovell's Illustrated Series.

Three volumes. Interesting and instructive works of travel and fiction daintily illustrated.

A series of publications in which the pencil of the artist has joined with the pen of the author to enhance the attractive features of the works.

Lovell's American Novelists' Series.

Over fifty volumes.

A series of excellent novels in attractive form at twenty-five cents. Only a few works in this series are fifty cents, when the number of pages demands. Bright and clever novels by rising writers, some of which have appeared in other series, but the popularity of which seems to justify the reissue in this new form.

Lovell's Detective Series.

Eight volumes. Issued monthly.

Exciting works of fact and fiction, by authors of established reputation.

Lovell's Literature Series.

Nearly one hundred volumes. Issued weekly.

Desirable works of current and standard literature in a convenient and economical form.

Lovell's Leather-Clad Tales.

Issued weekly. Over twenty volumes now published, by special arrangement with the authors.

Handy volumes in durable covers by well-known and popular writers for young people.

Lovell's Political and Scientific Series.

Twenty volumes. By special arrangement with the authors. Issued monthly.

Interesting and instructive works by distinguished writers at home and abroad.

Seaside Library.

Lovell's Library.

Munro's Library.

In these three Libraries can be found almost every work of prominence which has been issued during the last decade. For the better convenience of the public, the three Libraries are gradually being merged into one, THE SEASIDE LIBRARY, which now comprises over 1500 numbers.

Nims & Knight's Fall Announcements, 1890.

Gray's Elegy and Its Author.

The text of Gray's Elegy in a Country Churchyard, and an introductory essay by Dr. J. L. Williams, illustrated by twenty-five photogravures and half-tone illustrations. This immortal poem is now for the first time presented with illustrations in photogravure and half-tone, which are exact representations of the identical scenes so vividly and truthfully described by the poet. The original photographs from which the reproductions are made were taken by Dr. J. L. Williams, who has chosen with true artistic instinct the scenes best calculated to illustrate the poem as well as the home and haunts of the poet. 1 vol., oblong quarto, fancy cloth, gilt edges, $5.00; full flexible seal, gilt edges, $8.00.

Hawthorne's Legends of the Province House.

The four tales by Hawthorne, the scenes of which are laid in the famous old Province House, entitled Howe's Masquerade, Edward Randolph's Portrait, Lady Eleanor's Mantle, Old Esther Dudley, have been selected by Mr. Frank T. Merrill for his most ambitious illustrations. The work is thoroughly illustrated with full-page plates and illustrations in the text. 1 vol., quarto, cloth, gilt edge, size 9 x 12, $6.00; full tree calf or morocco, $12.00.

The Burial of Moses.

By Mrs. Alexander. Illustrated by A. S. Cox. This grand poem has received very elaborate treatment at the hands of Mr. Cox, and makes an attractive gift-book. 1 vol., quarto, cloth, gilt edges, size 10 x 12, $6.00.

The Christmas Carol.

By Charles Dickens. Illustrated by the celebrated artists, I. M. Gauguin and T. V. Chominski. This most popular of all of Dickens' Christmas stories, with the superb illustrations and the unique binding, makes the finest and most appropriate present obtainable. 1 vol., quarto, cloth, gilt top, size 9½ x 11½, $6.00; full morocco or tree calf, $12.00.

Rip Van Winkle.

FUNK & WAGNALLS'

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

WENDELL PHILLIPS: THE AGITATOR.

By CARLOS MARTYN. Being Vol. 1 of "American Reformers," a series of Twelve Biographies, edited by Carlos Martyn. 12mo, cloth, 591 pp., $1.50.

Dr. Martyn, who knew the great orator personally, has given a complete analysis of his services to mankind, and of his style as a speaker, together with an intensely interesting mass of anecdotal and illustrative matter.

In an appendix is given in full three of Mr. Phillips' masterpieces of eloquence, viz.: the famous lectures on The Lost Arts, the lecture on Daniel O'Connell and the Phi Beta Kappa Oration at Harvard.

HORACE GREELEY: THE EDITOR.

By FRANCIS NICOLL ZABRISKIE (late editor of The Christian Intelligencer). Being Vol. 2 of "American Reformers," a Series of Twelve Biographies, edited by Carlos Martyn, D.D. 12mo, cloth, 398 pp., with portrait and copious index, $1.50.

The Chapters: The Hour and the Man—Early Days—Training and Tramping—Attempts at Life—Incipient Journalism—The Tribune—The Editor—Orator and Author—The Reformer—The Politician; As a Whig; The Free Soil Struggle; With the Republican Party; The Civil War; Reconstruction—The Candidate for Office—The Closing Scenes—Home Life and Travel—Friends and Collaborers—Personal Characteristics—Résumé and Estimate.

SONG STORIES FOR LITTLE PEOPLE.

Edited by W. H. LUCKENBACH, D.D. 12mo, cloth, beautiful and large print, superior paper, 300 pp., with index to first lines and table of contents, $1.00.

This book contains 218 pleasing stories in poetry and rhyme, selected from such authors as Phoebe Cary, Junia Stafford, Sophia E. Eastman, John G. Whittier, Susan Teall Perry, Ethel Lynn, Joanna Bailey, Mary E. Bradley, Rose Terry Cooke, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, etc., and are culled from The Congregationalist, The Youth's Companion, The Independent, Harper's Young People, Golden Days, Christian at Work, The Voice, St. Nicholas, The New York Evangelist, The Churchman and other papers of a high order.

"Many thousands of parents may find this book of use to them."—New York Herald.

"Do not think because it wears the title 'Song Stories' for little people that you are debarred from the delightful treat, which the reading of these poetic stories just from the presses of Funk & Wagnalls involves. Neither young nor old can read them without feeling better and happier; . . . and every good parent who desires his children to be good should put within their reach just such reading."—Buffalo Tidings.

CHURCH HISTORY.

By Professor JOHANN HEINRICH KURTZ. Translated from latest edition, with approval of the author, by Rev. John MacPherson, A.M. Complete in 3 vols. Cloth, 1525 pp., per vol., $2.00; the set, $6.00.

A complete Index and set of Chronological Tables are contained in the last volume.

Philip Schaff, D.D., says: "It is a shame that the English translation of Kurtz, which was made from the second edition, is still sold and used as a text-book in Scotland and America, although the author long since not only doubled its size, but so entirely reconstructed it, as to make the older editions useless and mischievous."

WHY FOUR GOSPELS.

OR, THE GOSPEL FOR ALL THE WORLD.

A Manual designed to aid in the Study of the Scriptures and to a better understanding of the Gospels. By D. S. GREGORY, D.D., late President of Lake Forest University; Prof. of The Mental Sciences in the University of Wooster, etc. New edition now ready. 12mo, cloth, 348 pp., $1.25.

This able work is given to show that infinite reason presided in the production of four Gospels; that a Divine plan is seen in each of them considered by itself, and a like plan in the whole of them taken together.

It presents and criticises the answers to the question: Why Four Gospels? which were given in past ages—by the Harmonists, the Allegorists, the Rationalists and others down to date, and shows where they fail to reach the truth or satisfy the understanding.

SELECTED SERMONS OF SCHLEIERMACHER.

Translated by MARY F. WILSON. 8vo, 451 pp., cloth, $2.00.

"These sermons," W. Robertson Nicol, M.A., LL.D., the editor of the volume, says in his prefatory pages, "have been selected with a view to as wide a range of subjects as possible, from the four volumes (in the original German) of Schleiermacher's published discourses." These have been translated with great care and will prove a valuable example of Schleiermacher's sermonic work. The volume contains twenty-seven of his sermons, besides thirty-seven pages giving an entertaining and instructive biographical sketch.
